TORONTO.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Feb. 9th.

The chair was taken at 3 10 p.m.

After routine several bills were read a third time, and others advanced a stage.

On motion to go into Committee of supply, Mr. Cameron after a long speech in which he recited the circumstances attending the taking of the Central Prison out of the hands of Elliott and giving it to Wagner, and granting a half holiday to the men employed at the prison to attend the nomination, giving them their pay. He moved that Hon. Mr. McKellar for his action deserved the censure and condemnation of the House.

Hon. Mr. McKellar was free to confess that he had permitted the men to attend the nomination, but he wished to add that no influence had been brought to bear upon the workmen. He thought no one could bring a charge of corrupt motives against him, so the only question to be decided was whether he was wrong in letting the men attend nomination and pay them for it. He had followed the precedent, in granting the holiday, of the Canada Car Company and Great Western Railway. They had granted their men a holiday and paid them, and he found from the Illustrated London News that men employed at the Woolwich arsenal had been allowed to attend Gladstone's election. From a telegram be had received to-day from London he learned they were paid the same as if they had worked. The honorable gentleman then resumed his seat amid great cheering.

Hon. Mr. Fraser said that it was usual for the English Government to give a holiday to workmen on election occasions. He did not intend saying anything further at present.

Mr. Bethune referred to several of the scandals which had disgraced the Conservative party from time to time. He commenced with the celebrated Foote scandal and was speaking when the House rose at six o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

A few private bills were advanced a stage.

Mr. Bethune resumed the debate on Mr. Cameron's motion. He referred to several jobs, such as the Point Edward jobs and the Pacific Scandal, to show the character of those who brought the charge against Mr. McKellar. He was prepared to censure the Commissioner for what at worst was an error of judgment. He moved in amendment to the effect that as the holiday had been granted impartially to the men of both sides of politics, and that in paying the men there was no improper motive, Hon. Mr. McKellar does not deserve censure.

A point of order having been raised by Mr. Cameron, that no amendment can be moved to the amendment of a motion to go into supply, the Speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Boulton could not believe that Mr. McKellar was so innocent as not to know the men were requested for political purposes.

Mr. Prince spoke against Mr. Cameron's resolution.

Mr. O'Donoghue said he, as a working man, was strongly opposed to workingmen being coerced or unduly influenced, but he did not believe the workingmen at the Central Prison had been influenced by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Mr. Cumberland said he would give the meeting the benefit of the doubt, and vote against the Hon. Mr. Cameron's motion.

Mr. Robertson would vote against the motion as he did not think the charge against the Commissioner was sustained.

Mr. Daly would vote against the precedent established by Mr. McKellar.

Mr. Paxton considered that Mr McKellar was right in granting the holiday.

Mr. Lauder strongly supported the charges against Hon. Mr. McKellar, and introduced the usual rigimarole about canoe couches and card tables.

The Attorney General ridiculed the charges of extravagance brought against the Government, when the whole force of the Opposition was pointed against the distribution of some $200 among as many men in granting them half a holiday to attend the nomination that they might learn political opinions, and therefore be able to vote aright.

Hon. Mr. Fraser opposed the motion.

The House adjourned at 11.10.

Yorkville Burglar—Indignation Meeting—Parry Sound Railway—Archbishop Lynch.

Jos. Dean, who was wounded by a burglar still lies in a semi-conscious state. He is not allowed to speak and his medical attendants cannot speak hopefully yet of his prospects of recovery.

A resolution was passed at the indignation meeting at Yorkville last night, calling upon the Reeve to offer $1,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the burglar who wounded Mr. Dean.

Mr. H. J. Hubertus, of Ottawa, is here getting a charter for a railway from Ottawa city by the Valley of the Madawaska River to Parry Sound. The scheme is viewed very favourably by all the members east and north of Toronto, as it will open up a trunk line through the heart of the unsettled parts of Ontario. It passed through the Committee on Railways yesterday.

The Archbishop of Toronto is expected to arrive from Rome on the 18th inst. Preparations are actively going forward to give him a reception and a triumphal arch is being erected at the entrance to the R. C. Cathedral.

It is understood application will be made to the Police Magistrate, to allow citizens to carry fire arms, as protection against burglars and foot pads.

HALIFAX.

Election—Marine—Freshet—Disturbance—Drowned.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 11.

Hon. A. J. White, Commissioner of Crown Lands, was re-elected for Cape Breton County yesterday by acclamation.

The boatswain of the bark 'M. Churchill' was lost overboard during a hurricane on the 4th of February, on the voyage from St. Margaret's Bay, N.S., to England.

Among the passengers by the 'Canadian,' from England, were a number of immigrant miners, engaged for the Spring Hill and Pictou collieries.

The freshet of Wednesday last did a great deal of damage in the eastern part of Halifax County and in Pictou County. Many bridges and mill dams were carried away and roads submerged.

There has been some trouble at the Acadia coal mines between the native and English, Scotch and French coal cutters. One of the latter fired at Thomas Johnston, a fireman, the other day, and is now in custody awaiting trial.

A boy named William Tracey fell through the ice on Little River, Musquodoboit, on Saturday, and was drowned.

Is the mind a ponderable or an imponderable substance; an essence, vapor, or an indescribable something which cannot be grasped, felt, or withheld? Man thinks, studies, invents, tires the brain by overwork, and loses his reason; rests his intellect, becomes calm, uses restoratives; and again thinks. When we reflect that the power of endurance can be imparted to the brain, and that weak minds have been restored to strength by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, we cannot but conclude that the subtle power is really ponderable matter, from the fact that the ingredients are supplied which render it support and give it vitality. Persons who study hard should preserve their balance of power by using the Syrup. 2305

ENGLAND.

The Liberal Leadership.

LONDON, March 11.—If his health will permit, Mr. Gladstone will resume the leadership of the Liberal Party in 1875. Members of the late Cabinet held a meeting to-day, at which, at the request of Mr. Gladstone, they agreed to accept the temporary leadership of the Marquis of Hartington. A section of the Liberals, however, propose to temporarily follow the lead of Vernon Harcourt or Robert Lowe.

SPAIN.

Confirmed!

MADRID, March 11.—The report that General Jose Concha is to be appointed Captain General of Cuba in place of Jovellar, is confirmed.

Resignation.

The New Commander.

UNITED STATES.

Interchange of Courtesies.

NEW YORK, March 11—An Havana letter of the 4th gives details of the courtesies and formalities between Admiral Case and the officials at Havana. The Admiral visited the Captain General's residence, and the latter paid an official visit to the frigate 'Wabash,' with his full staff in brilliantly decorated uniforms. The visit of the Captain General occasioned considerable comment as being unusual. Visits of courtesy were also exchanged between the Spanish Admiral on the 'Arapile' and Admiral Case.

Speculation.

The Cuban Cause.

An Havana letter says the death of President Cespedes will be no impediment to the Cuban cause.

Rumor.

Rumors are rife of a battle between Neuvita and Principe, in which Partillo and his Spanish troops were forced to retire to Principe with the loss of 800 men and three cannon. Over 2,000 troops have been sent to Neuvita.

Subs.

Substitutes in Havana command $1,000 in gold, and are scarce.

Late Ex-President Fillmore's Funeral.

Final arrangements for ex-President Fillmore's funeral have been completed to-night. The body will lay in state at St. Paul's Cathedral to-morrow from nine o'clock, a. m., till 1.30 p.m., to permit the general public to view the remains. The funeral procession and ceremonies will be of as grand and imposing a character as the feelings of the family will permit. The Senatorial Committee arrived to-night. The House Committee and State authorities will arrive to-morrow.

Elections.

BOSTON, March 11.—Olliver Ames was elected President, and G. H. Rollins, Secretary of the Union Pacific Railway to-day. J. Gould was present.

Death of Senator Sumner.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Senator Sumner died at three o'clock. At intervals before his decease he would awaken, at which times he was in great pain. He was perfectly conscious when awake and knew all his friends, occasionally rallying to the effort of saying a few words to them. He died apparently without a struggle.

His Last Moments.

During the last two hours of Sumner's illness his intellect seemed to be much clearer, and he was perfectly conscious to the last. His sufferings towards the last seemed to be intense, and he several times exclaimed: "I want quiet; I am tired." He recognized friends who came into the room, and one of the last to whom he spoke was ex-Attorney General Hoar, of Massachusetts, to whom he said: "Take care of my Civil Rights Bill." About a quarter before three o'clock he was attacked by a slight spasm, in which he died. The only relative that Senator Sumner has is a sister, the wife of a physician in San Francisco, and to her the sad news was telegraphed immediately after his death. Sumner's age at the time of death was precisely 63 years, 2 months and 5 days.

The local physicians who attended Sumner attribute his death to his old disease, angina pectoris, but Dr. Brown Seguard attributes it to the rupture of a blood-vessel at the heart. The body discolored soon after death, and will be embalmed to-night, and held to await the Massachusetts Legislative Committee. The last words of Sumner were addressed to E. R Hoar: "Tell Emerson I love him and revere him."

The Late Ex-President.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The sub-Treasury will be closed to-morrow out of respect to ex-President Fillmore, and the gold sale postponed till Friday.

Snow Blockade.

Extradition Case.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, March 11—The proper papers for the extradition of A. N. Hamilton, the defaulting Treasurer of New Jersey, have been served on the Mexican authorities of Matamoras, who absolutely refused to arrest the fugitive.

MARINE.

The Witness says:—

"Some sharp practice is reported in the election to the House of Commons for the County of Chicoutimi, the result of which seems to have caused surprise in some quarters. The two candidates, William Price, Conservative, and J. A. Gagne, Liberal, it seems, under the auspices of Grand Vicar Racine, signed a compromise whereby both retired from the contest and agreed that Mr. Arthur Hudon, advocate, should be the chosen candidate of both parties. Instead of honestly keeping to their agreement the Evenement accuses the Messrs. Price and their supporters of having openly intrigued for Mr. Cimon, whereby he succeeded in carrying the county by a majority over Mr. Hudon. The same paper says the clerks and shanty men in the employment of the Messrs. Price were guilty of violence at the nomination, seeking to drive away Mr. Hudon and his supporters from the hustings, while their employers looked immoveably on. From what the Journal de Quebec says, however, it would appear that Mr. Cimon in inclined to take a leaf from Messrs. Price's books. He has promised to give the present Government fair play, and the probability is that the last named gentlemen and their followers will be under the necessity, after having fought for him, to fight against him, as they did with Mr. Cleophe Cimon, his father, in Charlevoix, in 1861."

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil!—Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

CAPITAL . . £2,000,000 Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the ever changing phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilization—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially elucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $500 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

ST AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength re ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its Early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

In short the whole range of the Sciences and Practical Arts are embraced within the scope of the Scientific American. No person who desires to be intelligently informed can afford to be without this paper.

Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, Teachers, Clergymen, Lawyers, and People of all Professions, will find the 'Scientific American' to be of great value. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office, and Counting Room, in every Reading Room, College, Academy, or School.

Published weekly, splendidly illustrated, only $3 a year.

The yearly numbers of the "Scientific American" make two splendid volumes of nearly one thousand pages, equivalent in contents to Four Thousand ordinary Book Pages. An Official List of all Patents issued is published weekly. Specimen copies sent free. Address the publishers, MUNN & Co., 37 PARK ROW, New York.

PATENTS.—In connection with the "Scientific American," Messrs. MUNN & Co., are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had over 25 years experience, and have the largest establishment in the world. If you have made an invention, write them a letter and send a sketch; they will promptly inform you, free of charge, whether your device is new and patentable. They will also send you, free of charge, a copy of the Patent Laws in full, with instructions how to proceed to obtain a patent. Address, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York.

McALPINE'S DOMINION

CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell Montreal.

by the use of

Enamellene

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE

PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, ointments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the label on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,

F. BRAUN, Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT, Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines," shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

"Felt for Hats and Boots:"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,

R. S. M. BOUCHETTE, Commissioner of Customs.

The Iron Manufactures and the Tariff

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—As the subject of mooted or possible changes in the tariff on imported manufactures is occupying a good deal of attention at the present, and will be likely to also engage the careful consideration of the Government and the House, a few words on the subject from this section of the country may not be out of place. This town is, as you are aware, one of the largest iron manufacturing centres in the Dominion, and as there is a large interest here that is directly affected by any action that may be taken in the matter. You may be sure that considerable speculation and anxiety exists in reference to it. I wish to place before your readers briefly, the manner in which those interests are to be affected, and the views as I have been able to ascertain them of the iron manufacturers. It is almost needless for me to assert that those manufacturers are in favor of protection to their interests, but, at the same time, I will endeavor to prove that their views have been distorted, and their demands exaggerated by the political organs of the party in Opposition, which at the same time endeavor to prejudice the Government in the eyes of the manufacturers by promoting the belief that the policy of the Government will be to place them at a greater disadantage than they are at present in competing with foreign importations. In a few instances they have succeeded in awakening a certain degree of distrust, which I trust will be dispelled when the House meets, but as a general rule, the leading manufacturers have perfect confidence that the Government will deal fairly and justly by their interests, nor are they slow to perceive that the violent championship which political organs have suddenly assumed in their behalf is the result not of a desire to further their interests but is simply taken up in order if possible to embarass the Government, while I have frequently heard the complaint that these journals are really doing them serious injury in the estimation of the public, by representing them as grasping monopolists, desirous of excessive privileges, at the expense of the community. Nothing could really be further from the fact than to regard the great mass of the manufacturers in this light, and an enquiry into their wishes in regard to the tariff will show that they are not at all in favour of anything in the shape of a high-pressure tariff, but simply desire that a moderate ratio of protective duty which will place them in a position to battle on even terms with the powerful competition of the American manufacturers. The wants of the manufacturers may be briefly summed up under three heads. First, a permanent tariff, which shall not be subjected to sessional tinkering. Secondly, that raw material shall be imported free of duty. Thirdly, a protective tariff on all imported iron manufactures, of not more than 25 per cent, nor less than 20 per cent. This is I believe the sum and substance of all that the manufacturers consider necessary for the protection of their several industries, and I think examination will show that these propositions are such as ought reasonably to be expected at the hands of Parliament. It requires no discrimination to discern that there ought to be no difficulty in conceding the first of these requirements. It is patent to every-one, that constant shifting of rates of duties and incessant tinkering at the tariff, operate very injuriously on the manufacturing interest. The manufacturer has to look a good way ahead in his operations, and it is necessary to his safety that he should have some permanent and fixed basis on which to make his calculations, and when such is not the case, he is subjected to constant and harassing chances. The whole available capital of a manufacturer might for instance he embarked in the production of a certain class of article, which under present circumstances, he would be certain of a ready market and a fairly remunerative profit. If it should, however occur, that Parliament in its fickleness should decide to reduce the duties on that particular article by say five per cent., the manufacturer who has embarked in that particular enterprise is a ruined man, and not only is he the sole sufferer, but the large number of artizans and laborers, employed by him are equally the sufferers, The American manufacturer at once enters by the gap made by the reduction of duties, and bound even at a loss to undersell the native manufacturer, he completely drives the Canadian competitor out of business, because be it remembered a high pressure tariff of 35 to 45 per cent, effectually prevents Canadian manufacturers from obtaining access to the American market. This is not a fancy sketch; it is a contingency which has actually happened, and which is liable to occur at any moment, so long as there is no permanent rate of duties upon which the manufacturer can rely. It is clear, then, that the manufacturer ought to be guaranteed a permanent tariff. In regard to the importation of raw material free of duty. I believe that that principle is conceeded in all hands, but a fear has existed that an effort would be made by parties interested on Canadian iron mines to promote the development of their ores, by imposing a duty upon raw material imported, and so compel the Canadian manufactures to manufacture from Canadian iron. This, however, would be a manifest injustice. Iron smelted from Canadian ore is only fitted for certain purposes, and would be all but valueless for most of the industries carried on in our manufactories, and where it is available, we believe it is only used mixed with other iron of a better quality. If any duty is to promote the smelting of Canadian ore in Canada, it would be a duty imposed on all ore exported from this country. The principal reason why our ore is at present shipped to the United States, smelted there and returned in a manufactured form to the soil which produced it, lies in the fact that the Americans can do this with profit. An export duty on iron ore would compel them to abandon importing it in that form, and to erect smelting furnaces and make the iron here amongst us. Aside from this, however, it is clear that to impose a duty on raw material would be virtually an abandonment of the theory that it is advantageous to promote home manufactures by protection, and would destroy any benefit that might otherwise be derived by the country from a moderate protection of our own manufactures. I believe there is, however, so little danger of any attempt being made to cripple our manufacturing interests by such a duty, that it is scarcely necessary to discuss the question. Parliament would be certain to refuse to entertain a movement fraught with such evident destruction to the welfare of an interest which it is both the desire and the interest of the country to maintain and foster to as great an extent as may be consistent with the general welfare of the country. In reference to the exact rate of duty to be imposed on imported iron manufactures there are wide differences of opinion. It is claimed by many that the manufacturers are desirous of obtaining a protective duty of thirty-five per cent. I believe it will be stating the truth to assert that no such desire exists among the manufacturers. They ask for no exorbitant duties, nor for any monopoly of privileges. They are not seeking any opportunity of increasing their prices, but would rather by being guaranteed safety in their operations, be enabled to reduce the prices. All they ask is to be protected from ruinous competition at the hands of foreign manufacturers, and so enabled to place their business on a stable and secure foundation, and they claim, and I think justly, that it is to the interest of the country to so protect them. The general opinion among them is that protective duties should range from 20 to 25 per cent, but I am well assured that with a permanent tariff and no duty on raw material imported, they would consider a duty of 20 per cent fully adequate for all purposes. I believe that rate of duty, if it should be adopted by the Government, would be amply satisfactory and would meet with the general approbation of the manufacturers. This duty, it should be remembered, would be 15 per cent less than that collected by the American customs on all Canadian manufactures exported to the United States. It is the general impression that it would be almost impossible to decrease the revenue at present, indeed it is probable that the very large expenditure incurred on account of public works and for other matters, will render it necessary to increase the public revenues and in view of that probability, there will be a good opportunity to impose an additional revenue on imported iron manufacturies. The duty of 15 per cent. at present existing has been found insufficient for the purpose of protecting the native industries. It is proper to explain how the present duty is found insufficient. For the ordinary purposes of trade, it is true, that 15 per cent. might place Canadian and American manufactries on about an equal footing, but there are circumstances which almost entirely destroy its utility. American manufacturers had for a long time a monspoly of the Canadian trade, and they view with jealousy and dissatisfaction the rapid and sure growth of similar industries which have been established in Canada, and which, if properly fostered, will ultimately drive the foreign competition out of the country. The American trader has enormous profits secured at home by the high protection existing in the United States, they have a strength which enables them to place our younger and weaker manufacturers to disadvantage on even competition, and they have not only the ability, but the disposition, to sell their goods at cost, and even at a losing price, for the purpose, if possible, of crushing out the competition which has arisen in Canada. While our manufacturer is compelled, in order to sustain his business, to sell his goods at a moderate profit, he is undersold by the American, whose object is not to do legitimate business, but to injure and ruin his Canadian competitor. And not only is this undoubtedly the case, but circumstances arise sometimes which place our manufacturers at a still greater disadvantage, and in a still more dangerous and insecure position, as has been the case during the last year periods of financial depression and business stagnation occur in the United States, affecting to a less degree the Canadian trade. When such contingencies occur, the American manufacturer finds himself with a large stock on hand which he is unable to dispose of at home, and he has either to hold over the stock pending a more favorable market, or else ship them to Canada, and sell at an under cost, for the purpose of getting his money back. This latter course has been pursued during the past year, and the consequence is that the Canadian market is flooded with imported goods, the demand satisfied, and the Canadian manufacturer finds himself with the stock which he had manufactured for the season's trade on his hand, no sale for his goods, shut out from the American market by high duties, and no other course if he is not financially strong, but to shut out his workmen and close operations. This is an experience which several of our manufacturers have undergone during the past season, while all have suffered more or less from the same course. But, says one, the country gets the benefit; the people are enabled to buy goods cheaper. A little reflection will show the fallacy of such an argument. Take a case, where a factory is shut down, or its operations reduced. The result is that a large number of men are thrown out of employment, their families suffer, the local trade loses the benefit of the custom which formerly depended on their wages. The indirect revenue is proportionately decreased, the standing of the town or village is lowered, property is depreciated in value; in a word, just so much industry, with all its concurrent advantages is lost to the country. And not only this, but the proceeds of every dollar of goods sold by the American Agents is sent to the United States, and in the aggregate vast sums of money are taken directly out of the country, the circulation is reduced, and the value of money, i. e., the rates of interest proportionately increased, thus inflicting a direct injury upon every species of public and private interest. Is the small saving effected by the industrial purchasers of manufactures any compensation for all this loss? I think common sense will dictate an emphatically negative answer. On the other hand, if a protective duty sufficiently large to exclude too serious a competition of foreign manufactured articles, secures the control of the Canadian manufactures to native workshops, the converse of all this is the case. The money passed in the business is kept in constant circulation among us, industry stimulated, the revenue increased, business invigorated, and prosperity ensured.

Such are a few of the arguments of the manufacturer, and, I think, as they are founded on fact and experience, they should be entitled to reasonable consideration. An imposition of a moderate protection duty would secure to Canadian industry the control of native trade, it would increase the revenue of the country, and add to the general prosperity, without augmenting the price of a single article, or affecting injuriously any interest of any portion of the community.

Yours, &c.,

I. HARLEY BROCK.

Oshawa, March 9th, 1874.

M. Pouchet, in his great work, "The Universe," says that "Anatomically and physically speaking, the human mechanism is very rude and coarse compared to the exquisite delicacy revealed in the organism of certain animals. But in us, the intellect, the real sceptre of the universe, predominates over the apparent imperfection of matter. Through it man alone approaches the chosen creatures who shine near the throne of the Eternal, and form a bond of union between heaven and earth. If in his structure he belongs to our sphere, he seems already to elevate himself toward the Supreme Essence by the splendour of his genius." A grand and philosophic truth, and yet how comparatively small the number, and rare the genius, displayed in proportion to the number of the earth's inhabitants. Were man to conform more to the laws of health and of nature, and be less addicted to the gratification of his passions, it would not be necessary to advertise Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and restorative for the powers of the brain and nervous system, while the world's progress in enlightenment would then be marvelous. 2511

"THE PRIEST OF ST. ALBANS."

The Rev. Dr. Jones, "Priest of St. Albans," as he styles himself, solemnly protests against the admission of sacred topics into the columns of the secular press. Nay, he goes still farther and makes the astonishing assertions that people do not pay for newspapers to teach them religion; that he does not believe in an editorial priesthood; and that he protests against the penance of having to read as gospel the scurrilous sermonizing of an irresponsible and anonymous individual, who for aught he knows may be "a drunkard and an infidel." The solemn protest of the "Priest of St. Albans" may go for what it is worth. His belief is of as little consequence, and it is pitiable to learn from the Priest's own lips that an anonymous individual has compelled him to do penance. Nevertheless it is the practice and the duty of the Press to discuss and comment upon all matters of public interest. The Press of England has time and again commented upon and ridiculed the ritualistic mummeries introduced into the services of the Church of England by such men as Dr. Jones. The Press of the United States, at the present moment, is occupied with the discussion of the Cummins' movement; and when His Holiness the Pope conferred honours of a peculiar kind upon the Priesthood of the Romish Church in England, the whole Press of the Kingdom indignantly resented what was looked upon as an encroachment. More, when the disruption of the Church of Scotland took place, the Press of the whole Kingdom commented upon it. The Press is the palladium of the people's liberties; it is the foe of tyrants and the scourge of fools. The outward form of religion comes assuredly within the range of newspaper criticism, for religion cannot be dissociated from politics, or disconnected from civil liberty. Can Dr. Jones fancy that he may advertize a free lecture on Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, speak insultingly of another clergyman, and of a progressive movement in the church of which he is to be the pastor with contempt, and that his utterances will not be repeated in the secular press? If so he is very much mistaken, and he may rely upon it that an enlightened people do not now-a-days believe in a "Priest of St. Alban's" any more than that clergymen believes in an "editorial priesthood." The press everywhere in this age, notices and comments upon what is done in pulpits. In many instances clergymen expect and ask for notices of their sayings and doings in the public newspapers. Dr. Jones has done so himself repeatedly. We have devoted columns to the utterances of bishops and presbyters more than once, and even the religious teachings of Brigham Young, and the proceedings of an Anglican Agapemene have not been overlooked. As to the time chosen for protesting against error, that is entirely a matter of taste. In our judgment there is no time too solemn for that, and it matters not by whom the comments on such protest are made. Drunkard, infidel, or alien the commentator may or may not be. That is his business, not Dr. Jones'. "The Priest of St. Albans" can cry out, and he can defend himself from what is laid to his charge, and he will come out with flying colours if what is alleged against him be untrue. The press is open to him as to others, and he seeks it and flees to it. while declaring that the secular press is no place for the discussion of religious subjects. The "Priest of St. Albans" fails to see himself as others see him. The "Priest of St. Albans" says "unhappily there are editors, who are drunkards and infidels?" Let us ask this reverend gentleman if the clergy are not open to such a reproach—in their case the more shameful. Where were the Taylors, the learned author of the "Diegesis," for instance, (who died in Oakham jail where he was imprisoned for blasphemy), and where are the Colensos, who, like others, whom we could name, have disgraced that church of which they are and were ministers? With no desire to asperse the clerical order, we say that even they are not in a position to thank Heaven they are not as other men.

PROTECTION AND FREE TRADE.

The battle of Free Trade versus Protection is now fairly opened, the troops of the contestants receiving accessions every day. This question was much discussed during the recent elections in Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and other cities. In Hamilton, the controversy in regard to the new Government's intentions, and the proper policy for it, was particularly hot. Strenuous efforts were made to win votes. among the workingmen by the unfounded stories as to the Premier's design to sweep away the present protection, enjoyed by Canadian manufactures, in the interest of theoretical free traders, such as the Globe proprietors were described to be, and in that of the importing merchants. These charges were denied almost daily both on authority of Mr. Mackenzie's old speeches and recent utterances, with a view to the removal of misconception. Yet the well-known game of distortion and repetition went on to the last, but without avail, as the Opposition candidates, who were to be benefitted by it, were elected to stay at home. We gave it as our opinion even before Mr. Mackenzie's address to the electors of Lambton appeared, and without any authoritative information on the subject, that the present incidental or moderate protection to Canadian industries would not be interfered with. We had come to this conclusion from our recollection of the course pursued by the leaders of the Government when in opposition, in the discussion of the finance and tariff subjects year after year. All knew, also, that the necessities of the public service required duties at least as high as fifteen per cent. on the luxuries and necessaries now carrying them, if we were to continue without direct taxation which is unpopular in all countries. Certainly the Liberal Party did not and does not want this system. Moreover, it must have appeared patent to all that, as the expenditure of the Dominion is yearly increasing, and must continue to increase, more revenue would be wanted; and as the natural growth of the country is likely to be insufficient to meet the demands of the Finance Minister, with the present scale, there was no resource but raising it. Thus, whatever abstract theories or preferences may be entertained by the Ministers, they will have no choice, under the circumstances supposed, but must raise the import duties. The question remains—to what extent, and on what principle should they proceed? This is not to be answered in a general, off-hand way, as one would deal with an arithmetical problem. The meeting of the Dominion Board of Trade, here, recently, shows the difference of opinion by which the cleverest and most experienced business men of the country are divided. The friends and opponents of the present scale of duties, or amount of protection, were almost equal, the slight preponderance being with the advocates of further Protection. The moderateness of their demands and calmness in argument, however, proved them not very far removed, in views, from their opponents. Probably the dividing line does not exceed five per cent, the home manufacturing interest not having called for protection beyond 20 per cent. Now we believe that a new country like Canada, thinly settled and possessing infinitely more resources than means of their development, should do everything within reason to attract capital and population. No country can be as well off or as presperous without a variety of industries as with them. Look at England's experience. If when the cotton famine occurred, on the break-out of the late American War, and that great trade came to a stand-still, England had not possessed many others in a prosperous condition, wide spread popular suffering and national loss must have ensued. Other industries employed many of the idle, and their artisans were enabled to contribute to the relief of those in distress. A people like ours ought to be in a condition to produce most of the commodities, if not all used in the country. Having had to create everything, from the settlement of the virgin wilderness, they required some aid, and particularly in face of the vigorous competition of old lands, superior as to wealth, skill, cheap labour and other facilities. But immoderate protection is simply foolish pampering, injurious to the general community, who have to pay too dear for the whistle of domestic manufactures, and also to the parties concerned, thus relieved of the motive for exercising that ingenuity, economy, and energy which have done so much for the progress of all industries and arts, and which is desirable for a community, even from a moral point of view. The Government cannot adopt any hard and fast line. Fifteen per cent. is no doubt sufficient protection to some trades, but others might reasonably claim more, while a different set could get on even with ten, though we should not advise the experiment, in the face of the recent cheapening of products in the States, and the opportunity of swapping our markets, when hard money is sorely wanted. The circumstances of the respective industries can be carefully considered on the principle of justice to each and all, and due regard to the needs of the Exchequer. Some trades, such as the petroleum, may require relief, which might be given in a way to benefit both those concerned and the revenue. With regard to the present protection to our manufactures, we believe that the efforts of certain parties to create alarm are both foolish and unwarranted. The safest course in this as in many other matters of public interest, is that happy middle one, which the wise and patriotic strive, and are best fitted to follow.

In his speech delivered at the opening of the Nova Scotia Legislature, on Thursday, Lieutenant Governor Archibald announced it to be the intention of his Government to adopt the County Court system, and to introduce a bill for that purpose. Our neighbors would do well to go a little farther and imitate the municipal system of Ontario.

Whether the coming session of Parliament will be of long or short duration is a question that concerns a goodly number in Ottawa, and that is very often asked. We believe it is not the intention of those who will have the lead in the deliberations of the House that the session shall be a long one. The Government, it is not improbable, will have their measures in such a state of readiness that there will be no delay that can be avoided by prompt action on their part.

We have heard, we believe correctly, that the disposition of business by the Judges at Toronto fixes the time for the trial of the Controverted Election Petitions in June next. This is in accordance with what we have already stated upon this point. The sitting members on neither side, whose returns are contested, will be likely to find any fault with this arrangement; and the country can very well stand it since justice will be done even then much more speedily than under the old system

After all that we have heard of late from the Opposition press about the state of the Court of Appeals in the neighboring Province of Quebec, and the "wretched patchwork" of the Government in the recent reconstruction of that body, the grievance seems to be scarcely serious after all. The Bar of Montreal met a few days ago to consider the state of the Court of Appeals, and if we may judge by what the Opposition journals who have been the loudest fault-finders with the Government say of that meeting, it will be our impression that the evil was found to be not sufficiently great to deserve serious consideration. It is quite evident from the peculiar fault-finding of the Opposition press that they are grumbling because they have not the moral courage to appear satisfied with any act of the Government. The Court of Appeals as at present constituted will serve its purpose very well; and whether or not, it is scarcely becoming to those who justified the late Administration in their years of neglect of its condition to complain so loudly as of late they have been doing.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TIMES will not be held responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

Read, and be Made Wise.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,—If Dr. T. Bedford Jones will read Lord Chancellor King's "Enquiry into the Constitution," "Discipline, Unity and Worship of the Primitive Church," he will there see, and perhaps may have the candor to acknowledge, that he (and not Dr. Gallagher) is the ignoramus in the matter of the distinction between Bishop and Presbyter.

ANTI-RITUALIST.

Ottawa, March 13, 1874.

CITY AND VICINITY.

PERSONAL.—The Hon. R. J. Cartwright, Finance Minister, has leased from Mr. James Egleson, the late residence of the Hon. Mr. Tilley on Daly Street, to which he purposes shortly removing.

POLICE COURT.—Timothy Taffey, drunk, $2 and costs. Casey O'Meara, John Gleason, and John Shelton, three little boys, were fined $5 and costs each for a breach of the peace.

REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The Rev. Mason Gallagher, D. D., will (D. V.) hold Divine Service in the Court House, Daly Street, on Sunday, to-morrow, the 15th inst. Morning at 11 o'clock. Evening at 7 o'clock. Worshippers will bring with them the book of common prayer. Hymns will be provided.

MAN KILLED.—A man named Smith from Cumberland, was killed a few days ago in one of Bronsons & Weston's shanties. Full particulars are not yet known; the remains, however, will be down today. His friends from Cumberland are here waiting the arrival of the body, and feel much aggrieved over the melancholy accident.

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S FOOT GUARDS.—A favorite burlesque which had a long run in the Olympic Theatre in London is being rehearsed by some of our leading city amateurs for performance, for the benefit of No. 2 Company of the Guards. Present appearances indicate that the piece will be creditably produced and well played.

A PAINFUL STATEMENT.—The relatives of the late Mr. Halpenny, whose body was found in the bulkhead above the slides yesterday, are deeply wounded by the story of the evening papers that the deceased had evidently came to his death in consequence of over indulgence in liquor. They say he was not addicted to drink, and that he was perfectly sober when last seen, which can be proven by several persons.

THE BALL.—A meeting of the Executive Committee appointed to carry out the arrangements for a ball in honor of His Excellency the Governor General and the Countess of Dufferin, was held yesterday afternoon at the City Hall, and a considerable amount of business transacted. We are sorry to hear that Captain Lee has resigned the Secretaryship, which has been given to Mr. R. E. Kimber, and we have no doubt that the arrangements will be carried out to the satisfaction of every one.

Is the mind a ponderable or an imponderable substance; an essence, vapor, or an indescribable something which cannot be grasped, felt, or withheld? Man thinks, studies, invents, tires the brain by overwork, and loses his reason; rests his intellect, becomes calm, uses restoratives; and again thinks. When we reflect that a power of endurance can be imparted to the brain, and that weak minds have been restored to strength by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphities, we cannot but conclude that the subtle power is really ponderable matter, from the fact that the ingredients are supplied which render it support and give it vitality. Persons who study hard should preserve their balance of power by using the Syrup. 2505

Horses Saved.

The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co, is on each package. Northorp & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada, Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 2491

SAD TRAGEDY.

A Missing Man Found.

A considerable excitement was created in the city yesterday, by the report that a body had been found drowned at the head of the slides on the Chaudiere Island between 8 and 9 o'clock. It seems that some three men in the employ of Messrs. Bronsons and Weston, were sent to make some repairs at the bulkhead of the slides, with a view to damming back the water, and thereby increase the supply to their mill when it opened in the Spring. In their operations, one of the men with a pike pole pulled up the arm of what was apparently a corpse in the water. A closer examination revealed the fact, that another arm and the head of the body of a human being was penetrating through between the two upper timbers of the bulkhead. The men immediately communicated the facts to the police, who in turn notified Coroner VanCortlandt. Policeman Graves recognized the body as that of Mr. Halpenny, who has been missing since Christmas Eve last, and who was seen for the last time living on the Richmond Road, having been traced as far up as the tavern of one Patrick Kennedy thereon. A son of Mr. Halpenny was next sent for and recognized the body as that of his father. The body was then removed to a small wooden tenement adjoining the place of discovery, there to await the action of the Coroner. The body was placed in charge of Mr. T. Keir, who was commissioned by the Coroner to swear in a jury, which were accordingly empanelled and asked to meet at the above place at two p. m There are various surmises as to the causes leading to the untimely end of the unfortunate man. One is that he may have turned down Broad street, and having gone somewhat astray, fell into the river at the bay and was drowned. Others again are afraid of foul play, and that possibly he was waylaid, killed and thrown into the river to escape detection, a circumstance that would seem to gain some credence from the fearful appearance of the face and skull, which seems to have suffered terribly from contusions of some kind. At the appointed time, it seems that the Coroner postponed the inquest at the request of Dr. Hill, until to-day at one o'clock p. m, and orders were given to remove the body to the Protestant Hospital in the meantime. It is to be hoped this melancholy affair will receive at the hands of the Coroner a full and searching investigation.

OTTAWA, March 10, 1874.

Present—J. W. Peachy, Chairman.

Messrs. McCarron, Finlay, O'Connor, Coursolles, Larose, Chouinard, and Sims.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

A report of the Local Superintendent and several accounts and communications were read and laid on the table.

Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. O'Connor, that the several accounts and communications, just read, be referred to the Finance and Assessment Committees. Carried.

Moved by Mr. O'Connor, seconded by Mr. Finlay, that the report of the Local Superintendent just read be received and referred to the School Managing Committee.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Chouinard, seconded by Mr. Finly, that the Chairman be authorized to sign cheques in favor of the several house holders for one quarter's rent due 1st February last.—Carried.

Report No. 2 of the Finance and Assessment Committee.

To the Board of Roman Catholic Separate School Trustees of the city of Ottawa.

The Finance and Assessment Committee of your Board have the honor to submit the following report:—

That having examined the account presented by John Heney for fire wood, they have found it correct, and recommend that a cheque do issue for the amount claimed $130.

Your Committee would also beg to recommend that a cheque do issue for the sum of $5 in favor of each of the Returning Officers appointed as such by your Board to hold the last elections of Trustees.

Your Committee would also beg to recommend that the sum of one hundred dollars be paid to Mr. L. Tasse, as a compensation for his services for having acted as messenger to the Board, attended to the sale, distribution and collection of the rate bill tickets, and for sundry other duties performed by him in connection with your Board during the year 1873, and in order to enable your Board to know exactly what it may have to pay for all such services, together with the payments or salary already granted to Mr. Tasse for other work beside that of teacher, your Committee would respectfully recommend that an agreement be made with Mr. Tasse, providing for and in consideration of the sum of two hundred dollars, to be paid by quarterly payments of fifty dollars each, Mr. Tasse shall engage to discharge the duties of Secretary, distribute and collect the rate-bill tickets, act as messenger to the Board, prepare the Collector's Roll, collect the names of supporters whenever practicable, prepare monthly statements of all monies received and paid by the Treasurer, on account of the Board, and generally attend to the wants of the schools under the direction of the Chairman of your Board, or of the Chairman of the Standing Committee.

Your Committee would also recommend that an account book be opened and kept by Mr. Tasse, under the direction of the Finance Committee, in which shall be entered all the general accounts and transactions of your Board, in order that your Board, or its Finance Committee, may always be able to ascertain from its own records the position and state of its financial affairs.

The whole humbly submitted.

(Signed,)
T. S. COURSOLLES,
W. FINLAY,
R. A. SIMS,

Ottawa, March 3rd, 1874.

Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. Sims, that the Report of the Finance and Assessment Committee just read be received and adopted.—Carried.

On motion, the Board adjourned.

L. TASSE,
Secretary.

Board of Public School Trustees.

A special meeting of the Board of Public School Trustees was held in the City Hall yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Present, Messrs. Barber, Robertson, Iliffe, Taylor, Graham and Bronson.

In the absence of the chairman, it was moved by Mr. Barber, seconded by Mr. Graham, that Mr. Robertson take the chair. Carried.

Mr. Robertson took the chair accordingly and briefly explained the object of the meeting.

Moved by Mr. Barber, seconded by Mr. Young, that this Board learns with deep regret of the decease of Mr. William Stewart, who has been for such a lengthened period engaged in the service of the Board, and that in their affliction, his bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of this Board, and that as a mark of respect to his memory, this Board do attend his funeral in a body; and that the Secretary be directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to his family, Carried.

Messrs. Barber, Young and Bronson spoke in feeling terms of the deceased, and his long and valuable services to the Board for a period of over some twenty three years.

Moved by Mr. Young, seconded by Mr. Graham; that the Truant officer of this corporation do be, and is hereby instructed to procure sleighs for the accommodation of the members of this Board, the officers and teachers; and that they be requested to meet at the City Hall at 1:30 p. m., to-morrow, to attend the funeral of the late William Stewart. Carried.

The meeting then on motion of Mr. Bronson, seconded by Mr. Taylor adjourned.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting of persons interested in the promotion of the Y. M. C. A., was held last evening in Knox Church, City Hall Square. The church was filled by a large and respectable audience, a large proportion being ladies. The chair was occupied by Mr. Topley, President of the Association, and on the platform were the Rev. Messrs. Gallagher, Cameron, Sanderson, Moore, Pope and Mark; Mr. Robert Grey, Port Hope; and Mr. Wilkie, Toronto.

The meeting was opened by singing the 138th Hymn, after which the Rev. Mr. Cameron read the 20th chapter of Matthew.

Mr. Topley then addressed the meeting, he said that in attending a meeting of this kind, which was at once an Annual Conference and a special meeting, he should state what had been done by the Association during the past year. Those persons who had attended the meeting last year, would remember that the Union Sabbath School of Hull, which up to that period was the only Sabbath School in that place, had been divided. The reason for this was that one denomination was dissatisfied, and the result was that it was discontinued. In its place three Sabbath Schools were established in connection with the different churches. The charge worked satisfactorily, and was attended with great success, and the attendance had wonderfully increased. Last year the society had undertaken a great deal of visitation with success, though lately their efforts had abated, but they expected to revive it shortly. Whilst they had been successful in many ways he was sorry to say that they had not been successful in the object for which they were organized, that was, the benefit of the young men of the city. There was a class of young men whom they found it very difficult to reach, and unless they had more to attract in their rooms than at present, they would have a great difficulty in bringing young men there. He wished they had more attractions in the way of literary, debating, &c, entertainments, so that young men could be induced to visit their rooms, and when there, keep them. He would say that their Association was a benefit to the different churches, as there were young men connected with it, belonging to every congregation who could induce other young men to join them. They had found a number of situations for young men, and had also procured boarding houses for them. In this, there was as much room for work as ever, and there was also room for a great deal of mental improvement amongst young men. Before calling on the next speaker, he would say that they had been disappointed in the unavoidable absence of their Montreal friends.

The Rev. Dr. Gallagher being called upon, was received with much applause. He said he stood before them a very astonished individual, and was amazed at being called upon whilst so many able gentlemen were present who would speak. He, however, always made it a rule when called upon to do anything in behalf of his Master, to do it. He remembered hearing an address by Bishop Alonzo Porter, of Pennsylvania, in which he said to young men, "When in their experience through life they saw an opportunity of furthering the work of Christ, to put their oar in." This the Rev. Dr. always did. He always took an interest in the work of the Y. M. C. A., from the time of its organization. He had known their history and their experiences, their uprising and their progress. He was thankful that Christians were bound together in the merciful work of christianizing the continent. (Applause). There were no meetings held that had more influence than these annual meetings of the Y. M. C. Associations. In the United States there were two points connected with the organization and inception of the noble works of the United States Christianizing Commission. That was the work of C. Y. M. A., even if they never did anything but that single work, it would have justified all the labour and care that has been expended in their christian effort. No person could compute the good that has been done by this Commission, during the civil war, amongst the wounded and dying of both armies. There never was a greater need or a wider field for the Y.M.C.A. than the present. He believed that never was God's Holy Spirit so near the world as now. He had travelled through the Western States, and could say that the Spirit of the Lord was very powerful there. He referred to the revival movement in Scotland. Mr. Moodie, through the blessing of God, had stirred Scotland as she had not been stirred since the days of John Knox, even excepting the great revival movement of 1858. This was a motive to lead them to increased efforts on behalf of those who were rapidly going down to perdition. He said that this institution deserved the support of every man and woman in the city. It was the most important subject that could come before a Christian people. He thought that the Y. M. C. A. Room should be the most attractive room in the city. In the City of New York one of the finest rooms in the city belonged to the Young Men's Christian Association, and a deal of good was done by that society. When he attended a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. there was one point he always sought to impress upon the community, that was the removal of the vice of intemperance. He was glad that Christian women had come to their help, as it seemed impossible for men to overcome this lamentable vice. It was only Christian mothers and daughters who could take hold of it and call the blessing of God on their efforts. He knew that objections were made to women indulging in this work, but he assured them that in the States it was their best and most respectable women who took part in movement. He felt that the Y. M. C. Association could do a vast amount of good in that work. He trusted that the Association would receive the hearty help, sympathy and prayers of the Christian people of this city. There was a spirit of union in the binding of young men of all denominations in Y. M. C. Associations. He concluded by saying God bless it, and hoped that a spirit of unity, love and sympathy might dwell in this community forever.

Mr. Robert Gray, Secretary of the Port Hope Y. M. C. A., was next called upon. He recounted the good that had been done by the Y. M. C. A. in Port Hope, showing that they had been most successful in their efforts to Christianize the young men of that place, and concluded an excellent address by making a stirring appeal to the young men to reform.

After singing the 3rd and 4th verses of the 216th Hymn

Mr. Wilkie, Secretary of the Toronto Y. M. C. A. addressed the meeting. He referred to the growth of the societies since their first formation. He said that they were first started in the city of London by a Mr. Williams. He had come fresh from his mother's watchful care, and saw there was room for good work in that city. He was employed in a mercantile house and used during lunch time retire to a room to pray; some of his companions heard of him going there, and joined him, and were induced to remain likewise The young men throughout the country followed their example, and in a short time the movement extended. There are at present on this continent 929 organizations, with a membership of 109,000 There are 30 buildings belonging to these organizations worth $1,913,450. There are 100 general secretaries who devoted their lives and energies to this work. In the Province of Ontario there are 36 Y. M. C. Associations. He referred at length to the working of the Association in Toronto. They had a building valued at $50,000, and their annual expenses amounted to over $3,000, all of which was liberally contributed by the citizens of Toronto who recognised the benefits arising from having such a society in their midst. The business men supported it strongly, and he hoped that the business men of this city would give their Association a generous support. He referred to the necessity of a paid secretary being employed by each Association, and concluded by hoping that the meeting would subscribe liberally to the funds of the Association.

Mr. Topley explained that the Association was in debt and required the assistance of its Christian friends. The object of the meeting was to decide whether it should live or not.

Mr. Topley announced that there would a meeting of the Young Ladies at 3 o'clock p.m., to-day, in the Y. M. C. A. Rooms, and that in the evening a meeting of Young Men would be held in the same place at 8 o'clock. He also stated that there would be a meeting for prayer on the Sabbath at 9 o'clock a.m.

After singing the Doxology, the meeting closed.

ST. ANDREWS CHURCH.

Literary and Musical Entertainment.

A grand Literary and Musical Soiree took place last night in the basement of the new St. Andrew's Church, on Wellington street. There was a large and fashionable audience present.

Mr. A. Drummond occupied the chair, and along with him on the platform were the Rev. D. M. Gordon, Messrs. E. P. Jackson, of the Ladies' College; R. Sinclair and other gentlemen.

The Rev. Mr. Gordon opened the proceedings with prayer.

The Chairman, Mr. Drummond, said this was a novel feature as far as St. Andrew's Church was concerned. It was not, he said, a social, in the ordinary sense of the word, but a sort of literary and musical entertainment. The idea originated altogether with the Ladies Aid Society, and he believed that alone would have a tendency to make it a success. He then proceeded to take up the programme:

The first on the programme was a 'Duett' on the piano, by the Misses Orme, which was very prettily rendered, and received merited applause.

'Willie Baird,' a poem containing much pathos and humor, was next read by the Rev Mr Gordon. It was well received and rapturously applauded.

Mr. N. W. McLean, usually a popular singer at such entertainments, sang, in capital style, 'David Appearing before Saul.' Miss Orme accompanied on the piano.

Mr. McNeill then read a selection, but his elocutionary powers were not of such a character as to interest an audience much.

Mr. R. Sinclair was next called upon, and no sooner did he put in an appearance than he was greeted with loud applause, indicating him at once to be a favorite. He sung in his usual brilliant and happy manner that very beautiful Scottish ballad "Bonnie Charlie's Noo Awa'," which was received with a regular outburst of applause. In response to an encore, he gave another pretty Scottish ballad entitled, "Roy's Wife of Aldevalloch." He was accompanied on the piano by Mr. J. L. Orme.

Miss Drummond being next called upon sang sweetly a beautiful song. She was followed by Mrs. Howitt, of Toronto, who sang in a style rarely excelled, "I would my Love." She was without doubt the prima donna of the evening, and responded to an encore with another piece equally as well rendered. After which she retired amid deafening applause. Prof. Mills accompanied her on the piano.

The next, and perhaps to our mind the striking feature of the evening, was a reading by Mr. Brodie, from Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake." Mr. Brodie is truly a fine reader, and his elocutionary powers are such as to make him no mean rival of either a Bellew or Vadenhoff. He was most deservingly applauded.

A piano solo from Mr. Petrie, of Quebec, was very well received, and duly encored.

A song from Mrs. Percival Shepherd followed, and was also well received.

Mr. Sinclair again appeared singing a beautiful song, and to an encore, sang in the most happy mood "A Man's a Man for a' That." He was accompanied by Miss Orme.

Mr. Jackson, Principal of the Ladies College, then read in a very imitative style a piece from Edgar Poe, entitled, 'the bells.' His imitation was good, and the rendering of the chorus resembled very much the pealing of The Bells. It was received with hearty applause.

A 'duett' by Mrs. Howitt, of Toronto, and Mr. N. W. McLean next followed, the rendering of which displayed fine musical powers of both. Prof. Mills accompanied. All retired amid loud applause.

The National Anthem and the Benediction, brought to a close, one of the most pleasing entertainments that we have enjoyed for some time. The Ladies' Aid Society having done so well in their first endeavor will doubtless feel encouraged to repeat the entertainment at least once a month.

Teachers' Association.

At a special meeting of the Teachers' Association held yesterday, there were present Messrs. Smirl, Parlow, Tubman, J. C. Stewart, D. Robertson, J. Munro, Duncan, McDowall, and P. Leyden. Also the majority of the city lady teachers. The President explained the object of the meeting.

Moved by J. C. Stewart, seconded by E. D. Parlow, that the following be placed on the minutes of the Association:

"This Association learns with profound regret the death of Mr. Wm. Stewart, one of the staff of teachers for 1874. For twenty-three years, Mr. Stewart has acted as a teacher in Ottawa, and has been intimately associated with Public School matters. In this capacity he has gained for himself and leaves a record worthy of our emulation. Long will his name be remembered by his late pupils, grateful for many acts of kindness. His sincerity, zeal, and upright walk has gained for his memory, respect and esteem. As a valued member of this Association, taking a prominent part in its working, he will be remembered for his hearty support of all that tended to our welfare.

Be it resolved, that in Mr. Stewart's decease, we have lost an upright teacher, one distinguished for zeal and perseverance; that we earnestly sympathise with his family in their bereavement, and sincerely trust that our merciful Father will give strength to sustain them in this hour of trial and sorrow. Carried.

The secretary was instructed to send a copy to the family of Mr. Stewart, also to the local papers.

Messrs. Stewart, Parlow and Smirl spoke briefly expressing their sorrow for the loss of their late co-laborer.

Catholic Young Men's Society Banner.

The new and handsome banner which has just been completed for the above Society, came under our notice yesterday, and is, without doubt, one of the handsomest in this city. The banner is an excellent piece of workmanship, and reflects credit on the Grey Sisters of Boulton street Convent, who executed this fine piece of work. Its cost is estimated at fully $400. The necessary funds could not be furnished by the Society, which is, as yet, in its infancy, and depends almost entirely on outside support, however, through the indefatigable efforts of Messrs. Roach, Battle, and Goulden, the money was raised without difficulty. It consists of a double sheet of white silk, 5 ft. by 8 ft. 6, the material having been expressly brought from Boston for its manufacture. A handsome bullion braid runs round the whole flag, ornamented at various points with thirteen heavy bullion tassels, has a curtain at top with a bullion fringe three inches deep, and a five inch bullion fringe at the bottom. On one side stands a massive cross of gold, charged with sacred heart in scarlet, while on the "glory" about the cross the word "unitas" appears in raised letters of green velvet. The whole design is surrounded by a scroll work of the rose, thistle, shamrock, and maple leaves embined, in their proper colors. On the reverse side the banner bears the inscription, "Catholic Young Men's Society

TORONTO.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, 13th.

The Speaker took the chair at 3:10.

After routine, the Hon, Mr. Mowat moved that the House shall meet at 11 a. m. to-morrow and following days, and that on and after Monday, two sessions be held until prorogation.—Carried.

The debate on the motion to go into Committee of Supply, was resumed.

Mr. Haney paid a warm compliment to the Commissioner of Public Works, and could see no harm in his having allowed the men at the Central Prison to attend the nomination for the purpose of informing themselves on political question.

Mr. Clarke, Norfolk, accuses the Opposition of playing the game of pretence, and wasting the time of the House with bunkum motions. He opposed the amendment.

Mr. Ardagh believed that when Mr. McKellar granted the men a half holiday he was actuated by political feelings, and therefore, he would vote for the amendment.

Mr. Christie did not think there was any corrupt intent in Mr. McKellar's mind when he granted a half holiday.

Mr. Code condemned the conduct of the Commissioner of Public Works as setting a bad precedent.

Mr. McManus said it was usual to grant holidays, both on polling and nomination days in this part of the country. It was true that as a public man some blame might attach to the Commissioner, that a private individual was exempted from; still he would be sorry to see the Government turned out; therefore he would not vote for their censure.

Mr. Deacon thought the action of the Commissioner of Public Works was an improper interference.

Mr. Deroche defended the Commisioner of Public Works on the ground that his intention was pure.

Mr. Meredith thought the Government employees ought to be kept at their work during office hours and not to be allowed to vote for one candidate or another.

Mr. Hodgins defended the Commissioner, and thought he had done right in granting a holiday.

AFTER RECESS.

Several private Bills were advanced a stage.

The debate was then resumed on the Hon, Mr. Cameron's amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Hodgins concluded his speech in defence of the Commissioner of Public Works.

Mr. Rykert made a long speech, contending that in England men were given a holiday to exercise freedom of franchise, but not to take part in political demonstrations.

Mr. Hardy said the commissioner had never endeavored to influence the men of the central prison, but had given them a full holiday to vote as they pleased. He thought members from all parts of the House could unite in voting down the resolution of Mr. Cameron.

Mr. Boultbee believed that the conduct of Mr. McKellar was more manly than that of his followers, who only supported him against their consciences. He would vote for the amendment.

Mr. Wood said that finding no argument in Mr. Boultbee's speech, he would treat it as a mere blank. With reference to the charge against Mr. McKellar, it simply amounted to this, a letter was written granting half a holiday, but no corrupt motive was shown.

Mr. Craig would vote against the amendment, as he did not believe in a corrupt intent of the commissioner.

Mr. Bishop had every confidence in the Government, and would not be shaken by charges brought against the commissioner.

Mr. Gifford supported the amendment.

Hon. Mr. Currie defended the Commissioner of Public Works, and thought that his action could only be regarded as an indiscretion.

Hon. Mr. Cameron reviewed the evidence taken before the Public Accounts Commissioner at length, and contended that it bore out the charges made in his amendment.

The members were then called in and the amendment was lost. Yeas, 27; nays, 44

The direct motion was then carried.

It reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

The House adjourned at 2 o'clock a. m.

NOVA SCOTIA.

Opening of Legislature—Speech from Throne,

HALIFAX, March 12.

The third session of the Nova Scotia Legislature was opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Lieutenant Governor Archibald.

Guards of honor from the Volunteer Militia received His Honor, and the customary salute was fired by the Halifax Field Battery.

Gov. Archibald delivered the following speech:

"Mr. President and Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly;

"In meeting you on the present occasion, the first on which I have had the honour to address you from this place, it gives me great pleasure to be able to congratulate you, on the progress and prosperity of the Province, during the past year.

"The visit of His Excellency the Governor General to this Province forms one of the interesting events of the year. The hearty welcome extended by the entire community to the representative of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen gave expression to the attachment to the person and throne of the Sovereign which has always distinguished the people of Nova Scotia.

"In the fortnight which his Excellency spent among us, mingling freely in our provincial society, and ingratiating himself as he did with all classes of the community, His Excellency acquired much knowledge of the character and habits of our people, and the resources and capabilities of the province.

"I am happy to be able to assure you that the visit has left upon His Excellency's mind a most favorable impression of the present condition and future prospects of this portion of the Dominion.

"The wave of financial embarrassment which recently swept over the neighbouring States, and which has left evidence of its violence in the prostration of many industrial enterprises among our neighbours, and in the great suffering and destitution now prevailing in the larger cities of the American Union, although slightly felt by us, has fortunately, not seriously affected our prosperity.

"Every branch of provincial industry, thanks to Divine Providence, has during the past year been marked by a fair measure of success.

"A bountiful harvest has rewarded the labours of the husbandman. The fisherman has reaped a profitable return for his perilous toil; the shipbuilder has added greatly to a mercantile marine, which was already the largest in proportion to the population of any in the world, while the high rates of freight that have prevailed during the year have made a large addition to the income of our people, the beneficial effect of which has been felt on the general industry of the country.

"Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly;

"The public accounts for the last year, together with the estimates for the current year, which have been framed with a due regard to economy, will be submitted for your consideration at an ealry day.

"It having been determined by the Central Board of Agriculture to hold an exhibition at Halifax in October next, you will be asked to provide as liberal a sum in aid thereof as the circumstances of the Province will justify.

"Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council; Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly:

"In other Provinces of the Dominion, in which County Courts have been in operation for several years, experience has proved their value in facilitating the Administration of Justice. A measure, having for its object the organization of courts of a similar character in this Province, will be submitted for your consideration.

"Your attention will also be invited to the extension of our railways, with a view to the speedy construction of the important and works contemplated by the Act of 1872, to encourage the building of certain railways.

"The Dominion Government having, by an Act passed in May last, assumed the surplus debt of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, the allowance to this Province should have been increased in the same proportion upon the sum as fixed by the Dominion Act of 1869 respecting Nova Scotia, amounting to about $17,000 per annum; instead of which the additional subsidy was erroneously based on the British North American Act, 1867, involving a loss of about $10,000 a year to the Province, the claim for which has already been pressed upon the attention of the Dominion by two members of my Government, and is recommended to your earnest consideration.

"You will be gratified to learn that several sections of the Annapolis and Yarmouth Railway are under contract, upon which a large amount of work has been done, and measures are in progress that will, I trust, ensure the completion of that important undertaking at no distant day.

"I have particular pleasure in calling your attention to the very considerable increase in the coal prospect of the year, an increase which indicates the prominent part our mines are to occupy in the future of the Province and of the Dominion.

"Your attention will be invited to several valuable measures calculated to promote the public good, all of which I recommend to your consideration, with the confident assurance that your best exertions will be used to promote the interests of the country."

ENGLAND.

The Entry into London of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh.

LONDON, March 12.—The entire route of the procession of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, from Paddington Station to Buckingham Palace, via Oxford and Regent streets, is gaily decorated with flags, streamers, &c. The procession will begin to move at 11:50 a. m. Crowd has commenced.

Fraud upon Insurance Companies.

A prosecution has commenced in Limerick against a number of physicians and others for attempts to defraud the New York Life Insurance Co. by obtaining policies unknown to persons whose lives they sought to insure.

The Archbishop of Canterbury.

The Archbishop of Canterbury will soon retire.

The Royal Entry.

The weather this morning is very unfavorable for the day of entry into London of the Duke of Edinburgh and his bride. Blinding snow prevails, and the ground is covered to a depth of 3 inches; but despite these drawbacks, great crowds, fully equal to those which gathered to witness the procession on account of the thanksgiving services for the recovery of the Prince of Wales, have assembled along the route from Paddington Station to Buckingham Palace to greet the Royal couple. The Railway trains from the country are crowded with people. The city is nearly deserted, almost everyone having gone to the west end. Vehicles of all descriptions are excluded from the route and streets in the immediate vicinity.

LATER.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh made their entry into the metropolis today. The programme was strictly carried out, although snow fell from the beginning to the end of the ceremonies. The procession moved shortly after noon from Paddington Station, through Oxford and Regent streets to Buckingham Palace. Notwithstanding the unpropitious weather, their Royal Highnesses rode in open carriages, and the streets along the route were crowded with spectators. The houses on both sides were beautifully decorated, and the roadway lined with soldiers and marines from the station to the Palace. The enthusiasm as the Duke and his bride passed by, was intense, cheer following cheer from one end of the route to the other. On their arrival at Buckingham Palace, in front of which immense masses of spectators had accumulated, the Royal party appeared uncovered upon the balcony, and were greeted with every manifestation of loyalty and affection by the people, whose number at that point is estimated at 50,000. To-night the entire west is brilliantly illuminated and dense crowd flood the streets. A torchlight procession of medical students marched to Buckingham Palace, and serenaded the Royal pair.

Mr. Gladstone's Intentions.

LONDON, March 13.—Mr. Gladstone has issued the customary note, requesting the presence of his supporters on the reopening of Parliament.

At the same time he had written to Earl Granville saying, "whilst discharging this duty I feel it necessary that I should explain what a circular could not convey with regard to my individual position.

"For a variety of personal reasons I could not contemplate an unlimited extention of active political service.

"The need of rest will prevent more than my occasional presence in the House during the present session.

"I desire my political friends to clearly understand that, at my age, I must reserve entire freedom to divest myself of the responsibilities of the leadership at no distant time.

"I should be desirous before the commencement of 1875 Session to consider whether it would be advantageous to place my service at the disposal of the Liberal party or whether I then should claim exemption from the duties I hitherto discharged.

"However, there will be reasonable grounds, I believe, that instead of the course which I have accepted, it would be preferable in view of the party generally for me at once to assume the position of an independent member, I should willingly do so, retaining all my desire for the welfare of the party, and if a leader be chosen or the interim provision be made for the present year, my successor should receive every assistance he might seek or I could render."

Adjourned.

In the House of Commons to-day the administration of the oath was completed, after which, a motion to adjourn till the 19th inst., was adopted.

Contradicted.

The "Times" on the Late Senator Sumner.

LONDON, March 12.—The Times to-day publishes a laudatory article on the late Charles Sumner. Referring to the dispute between England and the United States it says:—"Sumner was not able to judge us dispassionately, and we possibly have not understood all influences which made him apparently unjust. It is better to forget these differences, and remember the strong impulse for good which first drew him from private life to oppose that great national wrong, slavery, and which, in spite of his many weaknesses, remained his guiding principle even to the end."

Trains Blocked by Snow.

The Caledonian Railway is blocked by snow, several trains being buried in drifts. The fall of snow has been unprecedented along the line of the road. In some places the station houses are covered, the chimneys only appearing.

The Tichborne Case.

Mrs. Mina Jary, one of the witnesses in the Tichborne case, and a member of the Orton family, denies that the Tichborne claimant is her brother. Mrs. Pettendret, another witness, declares that Mrs. Jary has been a party to the conspiracy from the beginning.

WASHINGTON, March 12, 10:30 a. m.—Probabilities for the Middle States and Lower Lake region, fresh to very brisk north to west winds, low temperature and generally clear weather, except occasionally light snow over the latter and northern New York.

Fire and Fatal Collision.

BOSTON, March 12.—There were several fires in the city last night. On Plympton street, a block occupied by several wood workers, was destroyed; loss about $60,000. On going to the fire two engines collided, killing one man. Another fire at the corner of South Market and Commercial streets, destroyed a corner store in Quincy block.

The Women's Temperance Crusade

CINCINNATI, March 12.—The Catholic Temperance Journal publishes a letter from Archbishop Purcell on the women's temperance movement. He does not in open terms condemn the movement, but says that all extremes are bad, and no iron rules can be laid down for observance by everybody. For some persons the reasonable use of liquors might be just the thing. A labourer who had to carry bricks and mortar three stories high on a hot summer's day might need it. He says: I am in favour of license for liquor dealing so high as to inexorably close, by all the penalties known to the law, those vile barrooms where liquor is sold to minors, and drunkards, by men or women who are now pests to society, a disgrace to their families, and who are teaching, by word and example, the broad way to perdition. The business of the breweries is very perceptibly feeling the effects of the temperance agitation The wholesale whiskey trade has fallen off from from 10 to 30 per cent, according to the territory of the dealer's custom.

Funeral of the Late Mr. Fillmore.

BUFFALO, March 12.—At 9 o'clock this a.m., funeral services were held at the late residence of Mr. Fillmore, when the remains were borne under military escort to St Paul's Cathedral, where they lie in state till 2 p.m. On reaching the Cathedral, the casket was deposited in the vestibule of the church and was visited by thousands of citizens and strangers to take a last farewell look at the face of the distinguished dead. A procession will convey the remains to Forest Lawn Cemetery at half past two. Many distinguished bodies will be represented.

LATER.

Ex-President Fillmore.

NEW YORK, March 12—All the Federal offices here are closed to-day, out of respect to the memory of ex-President Fillmore, whose funeral takes place at Buffalo to-day. There are many flags at half-mast on account of the deaths of ex-President Fillmore and Senator Sumner.

Funeral Ceremonies.

BUFFALO, March 12—Shortly after two o'clock the doors of the cathedral were opened to admit the United States Senatorial and House Committee, Legislative Committees, members of Gov. Dix's Military Staff, the Mayor, city authorities, Bar of Erie county, Board of Trade and representatives of other civic societies. At half-past two o'clock the family having entered the cathedral, six sergeants, detailed from the First United States Infantry, stationed at Fort Porter, bore the casket from the vestibule into the cathedral, headed by the Rev. Dr. Shelton and the Episcopal clergy of Buffalo, and followed by W. A. Bird, Noah P. Sprague, E. R. Jewett, O. H. Marshall, O. G. Steel, Judge George W. Clendon, Henry Martin, Warren Bryons, bearers, eight of the oldest and most influential citizens and friends of the deceased, and deposited the same in front of the church. The ceremonies in the cathedral were of a solemn and impressive nature, including a brief view of the life of the illustrious deceased by Rev. Dr. Shelton, the venerable the Rector of St. Pauls, and the life long friend of Millard Fillmore. The singing of the St. Paul's full choir was grand, and splendidly rendered, after which the casket was borne to the hearse, and the procession moved in the following order: Major Gen. Howard and Brigadier Gen. Rogers and staff; Company D, Buffalo City Guards; 65th and 74th Regiments National Guards; Companies A and C, First U. S. Infantry, under Col. DeRussey, as a Guard of Honor. The hearse was decorated with national and funeral emblems, and a long line of carriages, with bearers, mourners, National, State and City representatives, and citizens, proceeded to Forest Lawn Cemetery. where, after the funeral service of the Episcopal Church was performed, the remains were deposited in a stone grave in the family lot adjoining the graves of Millard Fillmore's partners, Hon. Solomon G. Haven and Judge N. R. Hall. The crowd on the streets and along the line of march was large—almost beyond precedent.

The Funeral of Mr. Sumner.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The committee of arrangements and pall bearers, attended by the Sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, with the Vice-President of the United States, Senators and representatives from Massachusetts, accompanied by their families, as mourners, and the chaplains of the two Houses of Congress, will assemble at the late residence of Mr. Sumner on Friday morning at nine o'clock to attend the remains to the capital.

Fires.

BOSTON, March 12.—Last night there were two fires. One on Plympton Street destroyed Robinson Gill's block, occupied mostly for mechanical purposes; loss, $25,000. Another on Commercial Street caused a loss of $65,000. Among the sufferers were Atwood & Co., oyster dealers; and Enstad & Darling, commission merchants. The property is mostly insured.

Japanese Disturbance.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The Financial Agents of the Japanese Government to-day received a despatch from vice Minister Yoshida, saying the political disturbance was confined to one province of Japan. On the first instant, all the offenders surrendered to the Government.

Reformed Episcopal Church.

The organization of the New Reformed Episcopal Church was completed by the acceptance by Bishop Cummings of the rectorship.

The Vacant Chair.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—In the United States Senate, the late Mr. Sumner's chair was draped in mourning, and the desk decorated with flowers. Mr. Anthony, in the absence of Mr. Boutwell, made a formal announcement of Mr. Sumners's death, followed with an appropriate speech, and moved the appointment of a committee to attend the funeral, and the remains to be taken to Massachusetts in charge of the Senate Sergeant-at-arms.

Closed.

ALBANY, March 12.—All of the State offices are closed, and the Assembly adjourned in respect to the memory of the late Mr. Fillmore.

Reciprocity Treaty.

NEW YORK, March 12.—A Washington special says the visit of Gen. Shenck to the United States is connected with negotiations for a new Reciprocity Treaty between Great Britain and this Republic, which is to obviate any further proceedings under those clauses of the Alabama Treaty which provided for a Joint Commission to remunerate the British Colonies for their losses on account of the free admission of American fishermen to their coasts.

Jury's Verdict.

The Jury on the King trial came in at seven o'clock with a verdict of murder in the second degree. Sentence deferred until to-morrow.

At the opening of the second division of the Superior Court in Montreal, on Tuesday, Mr. Justice Johnson expressed his regret at the tardiness shown by the members of the Bar, in pushing business forward, as the Bench had shown their willingness to do so. The Court, he said, was well up with the business before it. For himself he had not a single case in arrears at the beginning of the present term. Of the cases he had since heard he could have given judgment in most, had the records been ready, which they were not in a single case. His Honor expressed the hope that the present state of things would not be allowed to continue.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the ever changing phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeit it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak an humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilization—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend [illegible]

[illegible] AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT o this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers.

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber, Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for DR. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of DR. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of DR. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of DR. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it to be a very pure oil, well fitted for those cases in which the use of that substance is indicated."

[illegible]

"[illegible] Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

. Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

The yearly numbers of the "Scientific American" make two splendid volumes of nearly one thousand pages, equivalent in contents to Four Thousand ordinary Book Pages. An Official List of all Patents issued is published weekly. Specimen copies sent free. Address the publishers, MUNN & Co., 37 PARK ROW, New York.

PATENTS.—In connection with the "Scientific American," Messrs. MUNN & Co., are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had over 25 years experience, and have the largest establishment in the world. If you have made an invention, write them a letter and send a sketch; they will promptly inform you, free of charge, whether your device is new and patentable. They will also send you, free of charge, a copy of the Patent Laws in full, with instructions how to proceed to obtain a patent. Address, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York.

Subscriptions received at the office of the Telegraph and Journal.

PROSPECTUS.

On or about the 30th SEPTEMBER, 1873, published, price $3.00,

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;
each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

by the use of
Enamellene

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at [illegible] cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANCREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

The Original and only Manufacturer Chemists to the Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, H.I.M. Napoleon the Third, His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, &c.,
143 NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

The Commissioners appointed for the construction of the Intercolonial Railway, hereby give Public Notice, that they are prepared to receive tenders for Track-laying and Ballasting on about 73 miles of the line, from the Metapedia Road to the Bridge across Metapedia River, Section 18. Tenders to be for the whole distance.

Sealed tenders marked "Tenders," and addressed to the Commissioners, will be received at their Office in Ottawa, up to 12 o'clock, noon, TUESDAY, the 24TH MARCH, 1874.

Tenders will also be received, at the same time and place, for 300 tons of Railroad spikes, according to sample to be seen at the above Office. Tenders to state price per ton of 2240 lbs. delivered at Riviere du Loup in equal quantities in the months of May, June, and July next.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines," shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

"Felt for Hats and Boots;"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

Ritualism from a Roman Catholic Standpoint.

We are so accustomed to regard the Ritualists and semi-Papists of England and this country from the stand-point of Protestantism, that we are apt to forget that their position is scarcely less unsatisfactory in the eyes of the enemies of Protestantism. If Ritualism is a fatal error in the estimation of evangelical adherents of the Churches of the Reformation, it is regarded as equally fatal by the Church of Rome. The fact is so distinctly brought out in the following letter from London to a R.C. paper of this city, the Catholic Review, of January 17th, 1874, that we insert it without further comment:

The English 'Ritualists' may be very good people in their way—but I fear that they will have to answer for grievous sins in the day of their judgment. They are perfectly able to come to the truth—but they wilfully shut their eyes to it. And they are daily not only committing idolatry themselves, but leading others to commit it. Not one of them can be certain in his own mind that he is really a priest; but every one of them act as if he were a priest. They hear confessions, and pretend to give absolution; they daily perpetuate the terrible crime of pretending to perform the awful sacrifice of the Mass, and they adore, and teach their people to adore, what we must believe is only a piece of bread and a cup of wine. All the while, they retain their connection with what they call a Church, but what is really only a branch of the civil service of the English Government, and whose laws most clearly forbid their practices. If they were honest Protestants, they would shrine with horror from what they do; if they were honest Catholics, they would ask for admission into the fold of the Catholic Church. But as they are nondescripts, they remain as they are.

The parish church of St. Barnabas, Pimlico, happens to be in the hands of these people. There they go through with their parodies of Catholic worship—more shocking, a thousand time more shocking, to Catholics than to the strictest of Protestants. The other day they conceived the idea of erecting a Baldacchino over the table which they call an altar. A Baldacchino is a canopy, it may be the silken canopy that is carried over the Sacred Host on the occasion of a procession; or it may be a canopy of marble or of metal erected over the tabernacle in which Our Lord reposes upon our altars. The only significance of the canopy in either case is that it is meant to do honor to the Divine Presence, and these Ritualists of St. Barnabas intended that their erection of a Baldacchino should have this meaning. Upon their altar Our Lord does not dwell, He dwells only upon the altars of His own Church—but the St. Barnabas people pretend that they believe that He is with them also. But before they could erect their Baldacchino they had to obtain permission from an ecclesiastical court; upon applying for this permission they were opposed by the "Protestant" members of the Church; and the other day the court, to its honour, decided that the Established Church of England, being Protestant, could not permit in its buildings any such manifestations of Catholic doctrine. Now, the point I wish to urge is this—with what arguments can honest men, who believe in the Catholic doctrine of the real Presence, reconcile themselves to remaining in a communion whose laws, as interpreted by the courts of the highest authority, forbid the acceptance of that faith? This is only the last of a score of such decisions; but still the English Ritualists remain as they are. They are incurring fearful perils in the sight of God. Some of them, it is true, are beginning to cry out for separation from the State Church; but to the majority of them the loaves and fishes are dearer than the truth. Even should they secede, however, as "Bishop" Cummings and his colleagues have done, and set up for themselves, they would still be as far from the Rock of all truth as they now are. I tremble when I think of these men. They hate the doctrines of Protestantism; they have an intellactual knowledge of the truths of God's Church; but they will not accept them, and they go on, day after, in a path that must lead to their everlasting damnation unless the mercy of God saves them at the last moment.

PIETRO.

Hon: A. McKellar.

(From the Ingersoll Chronicle.)

From the day when first a Reform Government began to administer the affairs of Ontario, the organs of the Opposition have, by a seemingly combined movement, concentrated on Hon. Archibald McKellar all their batteries of abuse. The last attack is on account of a note written to the superintendent of the works at the Central Prison, authorizing that official to allow the men to attend the nomination of Mr. Moss and Mr. Bickford for Toronto West. In other words, Mr. McKellar is accused of everything monstrous because he gave the men a half holiday in which to go and hear and cheer their respective candidates. They were to receive their half day's pay, of course, for, without this, the leave of absence would have been no holiday. This is the whole of the tremendous crime Mr. McKellar has committed against the Constitution. We need not seriously discuss whether such a temporary relaxation of the hard bands of officialism as giving two or three hundred workingmen a half holiday in an offense against the constitutional and Parliamentary rights of the people of Ontario. The bare supposition is absurd. What Mr. McKellar did, he did without corrupt motive or intent. The fact that he committed the authorization to writing is proof of this assertion. Now, for an answer to this question—"Did Mr. McKellar apply the faintest pressure or coercion to obtain a vote?" Not the shadow of a proof of this effect. Had he done this, then we, Reformers as we are, would not for one moment attempt to justify it. In authorising the half holiday, Mr. McKellar acted in the openness of his heart as a man, and not with the suspicious caution of a tricky politician. The Reform Party of Ontario will never believe that Archibald McKellar ever did, or ever could do, any act that would mitigate against those great principles of pure popular Government, in whose propagation and defence he has used up the best years of his life.

The Ottawa Times

MONDAY, MARCH 16, 1874.

A telegram from Fort Garry to the Nouveau Monde states that Bishop Tache has just published a large pamphlet entitled—"The Amnesty promised and not granted." Our contemporary reminds the public that at the time Riel's narrative appeared, the Globe and Herald called upon the witnesses to the promise of amnesty if any there were, to speak out, and either confirm or refute Riel's pretensions, and adds that this appeal has now received its answer. The Nouveau Monde naturally enough asks what better authority on the subject could be demanded than that of the Bishop, specially brought from Rome during the rebellion in the Northwest, and who himself received the promises which have not been kept, and which bad faith of our rulers has placed him in such a painful position. We concur with that journal that the arrival of that brochure will be awaited with the most lively impatience. We ourselves have never doubted that some kind of promise of amnesty was made Riel by the late Government, which hypocritically, and for political ends, pretended, especially in Upper Canada, that it was anxious to bring "that murderer," as Sir John Macdonald publicly styled him, to justice. The character of the ex-Premier, for many years, is quite consistent with such conduct. In fact any such theatrical manifestation of feeling as he made on the occasions of reference to Riel, before meetings in Ontario, would but confirm those who know him best in pre-existing suspicions that in private he had undertaken or decided upon an entirely different course. We have already sufficiently expressed our abhorrence of Riel's deed, which was, at least, unnecessary; but in doing so, we have not attempted to justify any breach of faith with him, Bishop Tache or Father Ritchot on the matter. We have been accused of this offence by some of our not very candid or sensible French contemporaries. On the contrary, we plainly admitted, in commenting on this subject, a few weeks ago, the propriety and necessity of making good any pledge or promise in Riel's behalf made by the late Ministers. Whatever blame may be due in the case, will then justly fall to them and not their successors. It will be satisfactory to have all the facts of the secret negotiations and proceedings on both sides, which the Bishop may have furnished in his narrative.

MORE OPPOSITION FICTION.

One of the necessary duties of the journalist, friendly to truth and the present Government, ever since their accession to power, has been the frequent exposure of Opposition fabrications. Yet the task is thought by some to be superfluous, as the unscrupulous tactics of many of the Corruptionist organs are as well known as the seasons. The late election contest removed any doubt that the charitable may have felt as to the lengths to which these papers would go, for the purpose of damaging and defeating the Liberals, and breaking the fall of the Opposition leaders; or rescuing them from political extinction. A short time ago we had occasion to knock over some of the stories of the Citizen about the Gatineau boom, and including one as to the discharge of a man whom the Government had never employed, and now we are obliged to correct our erring contemporary again—a frequent practice since the fall of the late Government. A few days ago, the following paragraph appeared in the Citizen, with a disregard of facts not unusual, with that journal, to say the least:

> "The Palen contract scandal is fresh in the minds of our readers, and the guilt of the Premier in that transaction has been too clearly established to be denied by his organs. Following it we have a new scandal in the Goderich Harbor contract, awarded the other day to Messrs. Clendenning and Moore, of Walkerton, Bruce, two of the warmest supporters of Mr. Blake in the recent election in the South Riding of that county. There were seventeen tenders for the contract, and of these six at the least were from two thousand to ten thousand dollars lower than that of Mr. Blake's friends. Among the rejected tenders was one sent in by a leading Montreal firm, which was several thousand dollars lower than the one which was accepted. The matter, we understand, will be brought before the notice of Parliament next session when, we hope Palenism will meet with the condemnation it deserves."

Each allegation of the above is unfounded.

No. 1. Falsehood—That the parties getting the contract were the warmest supporters of Mr. Blake. The firm consists of David Moore, James Wilson, and Wm. Clendenning. In the Sproat election all voted for Sproat against Blake. In the Well's election, all voted for Brocklebank against Wells. At the last election Wilson and Clendenning voted for Baird, against Blake.

No. 2 Falsehood—Not six, nor anything like the number, were lower than Moore, Wilson and Clendenning. One only shewed even a prima facie intention to comply with the conditions, and after waiting for him for from a week to a fortnight to enter into contract, it was found that he had left the country! The next offer on the list—and that for only a thousand dollars above the other—was taken, and this happened to be that of Messrs. Moore and Clendenning.

No. 3 Falsehood—So far from "the leading Montreal firm" being "several thousand dollars lower than the one which was accepted," it was $21,000 higher!

Let them bring the case before Parliament, if they dare!

THE ANTI-LIQUOR CRUSADE.

The anti-liquor crusade continues in the Central and Western States, and has even spread to New York, Boston and other Eastern localities. The methods employed successfully to a large extent in Ohio, Indiana and other States, would not seem to suit the seaboard, since they have not been deemed proper for adoption. In the West, bands of earnest women still visit the saloons, singing hymns and praying in or near them, and following up these exercises with urgent exhortations to the proprietors to give up the unpopular trade, and even the habit of drinking themselves. The female reformers have overcome no small scruples and obstacles in their well-meant mission, bearing with the jeers and abuse of the devotees of Bacchus with exemplary patience and resignation. Indeed, when we consider the moral character of the movement, and its apparent incongruity, it is surprising it has not elicited far greater hostility. It has evidently, from the first, enjoyed the sympathy or moral support of a large portion of the community, upon which it came at an opportune moment. The public mind has been undergoing a species of preparation for some uprising against the vice of intemperance, with a view to the abatement of at least its most glaring evils. The women's crusade was a happy thought, coinciding with the drift of popular sentiment, to the formation of which they have, no doubt, materially contributed. In the West the mode of procedure was adapted to the humour and manners of the people, no less than to the nature of the evil to be combatted. The plain, frank style of speech, the earnest, energetic mood and rough-and-ready way of action, are deemed the most effective means of striking an impression and producing a result. The experience of the courageous determined ladies, so far, to no slight extent, justifies their calculations and hopes. Indeed, they are probably more surprised than any others at the amount of their success, which has encouraged and emboldened their countrywomen over a great part of the Republic to do something to help in the reform so vigorously begun in Ohio. The liquor selling business has received a serious blow in many districts, whether it recovers hereafter or not. In the Eastern States, where the manners and circumstances of the people are somewhat different, the bold out-door crusade has not yet been attempted to any considerable extent. Meetings for prayer and speech-making have been held in churches and other public buildings, under the auspices of the clergy and temperance societies, and by means of the interest and excitement aroused, many persons have been induced to sign the pledge. The movement presents some odd, ludicrous features, and its promoters lay themselves open to sharp criticism occasionally. Mistakes in taste and judgment, of course, are not confined to any body of workers. Some of the New York papers found fault with the ladies and gentlemen who assembled at the den, kept by Harry Hill, in one of the worst localities, and which is the resort of gamblers, prize-fighters and all sorts of criminals. Religious services were held there, with these characters all about, and in not much humour to treat them with respect or appreciate their objects. Hill, in fact, played what he thought a joke, or an advertising game, exposing the temperance people to the ridicule of his associates. The pure, moral men and women must be anything but edified by the Society, looks and manners of these hardened gentry, who find amusement in their benevolent efforts. It is thought by not a few, that familiarizing refined ladies, with the scenes and atmosphere of the lowest haunts of vice, is an experiment at least risky, if not fraught with injury to their moral feelings. Certainly one naturally shrinks from the thought of ladies mingling in such corrupt society even for a moment, and with whatever purpose. But, however this may be, there is no doubt the present crusade has given the temperance cause an immense impetus. With perseverance and judicious action, much good may be effected, while the popular mind is so stimulated and susceptible. The iron should be vigorously struck while it is hot. We do not believe that the liquor trade can be absolutely put down for many a day, for the many who use liquor moderately will not give up the practice or submit to restraint on account of the inability of some to confine themselves to moderate quantities; but we certainly hold that everything reasonable that can be done to reduce the evils of drinking to a minimum should be set about by the Governments of all enlightened countries. As a first and important step, we should advocate severe penalties for the adulteration of liquors with fusil oil, prussic acid, or other poisons, that madden the toper, shatter his nervous system, and impel him to crime. It is the drugged liquor that is responsible for much of the crime and suffering society is afflicted with. The profits of the dealers are high enough, in all conscience, without resort to such cruel and dishonest tricks. It is but right to say that Canadian liquors are, as a rule, far superior to United States in this respect, as one might infer from the comparative freedom of our country from the shocking tragedies and catastrophies so frequent in the Republic. We think the report elicited by the Parliamentary enquiry, set on foot by Mr. Bodwell, last session, showed that the foreign ingredients chiefly used in adulterating liquor in this country are salt and water. Probably the use of salt suggests the common description of a drunk man, as one "corned." The salt produces thirst, at any rate, but it would be better to apply it to pickling other things then men's stomachs. As a preliminary reform, let us have pure liquor, and proper restrictions as to the number and character of the saloon-keepers, and their hours of sale. In Canada, too, we are experiencing some motion from the great temperance wave sweeping over the adjoining Republic. Here, also the Temperance Societies are at work, though not so demonstratively, and their labours, quiet and unobtrusive though they be, will, no doubt, be productive of good fruit. The propriety of moderate, practicable-looking aims will no doubt commend itself to their judgment, as experience has often shown that men may fail as much through aiming at perfection, as though want of requisite skill and strength in essaying attainable results.

A FORTUNATE CITY.

The people of Montreal are decidedly in luck, having not only a prosperous revenue and trade to congratulate themselves upon, but have just received the ground for two fine parks, in addition to that mountain tract to be used for the same purpose. No other city in British North America, and few, if any, in the States, will be in a position to compare with Montreal in the matter of these breathing-spaces and places of recreation, some of which, moreover, will afford among the finest views to be had in the settled parts of America. St. Helen's Island can be easily reached from the centre and east, and even from the west wards of the city, by the horse cars and ferry, which will cost only a few pence for the refreshing trip across the channel. The Island is large, fertile and diversified enough to accommodate all loungers, and interest all sight-seers. Its cool shades and pleasant bowers will afford a rich treat in hot weather. Then the Mountain Park, comprising some three to five hundred acres, is a noble natural pleasure ground and place of observation. With a little outlay, its beauty and attractiveness can be immensely enhanced. Cool breezes and glorious views will not be its smallest recommendations. Logan's Farm is nearer the Eastern end of the City, and for soil, position and extent is all that could be desired. It is a large, elevated tract, easily convertible into a charming resort. Trees, flower beds, lawns and walks will be forthcoming, there being abundant space for the public wants, and the gardener's experiments. The Federal Government will rent the Farm to the City for $1,000 per annum for ten years, and afterwards $4,000, with the privilege of purchasing it at $300,000 in case the authorities here should decide to sell within the next twenty years. Montreal will probably buy the farm, should she have an opportunity, in order to have the property entirely within her control. The completion of such splendid improvements would add greatly to the advantages of the city, and to the value of all adjacent property. Multitudes would visit it in summer, and stay longer than at present, while the health and enjoyment of its own citizens could not fail to gain largely. The expense at present would ensure a rich return in pecuniary and other ways ere many years. One of the conditions of the transfer of Logan's Farm, is the grant to the Council of Agriculture of sufficient space for the buildings and shows of the Provincial Exhibitions, in return for an annual rent. The Local Government may have ground for a Normal School on similar conditions. The Council of Agriculture by its President, Hon. L. Archambault, and the city, by the Mayor, have agreed to accept the offers made them under those circumstances. All things considered, including a revenue of over a million, exceeding estimates and expenditure, Montreal would appear to have before it most flattering prospects.

THE SEA AND STEAMSHIPS.

The sea has been highly lauded in song. Grand in its fury, sublime in its placidity, and exhilerating in a breeze, the sea is nevertheless not altogether what it is cracked up to be. The discomforts of sea-sickness, the wearisomeness of a calm, the illimitable expanse of the waste of waters, the unceasing motion of the ship whether propelled by wind or steam produce a feeling of ennui and annoyance, which only the hope of arriving at the port of destination can ameliorate. A ship is, indeed, a thing that you never can be quiet in. Yet what a change in ocean travel has taken place within the past quarter of a century. Thirty years ago, crossing the Atlantic was a painfully slow and tedious business. To-day, a gentleman can step on board one of the Canada steamships with a carpet-bag in his hand, and find himself in London, Liverpool, or Glasgow, in about as short a time as, in former days, he could have travelled from Quebec to Toronto, or have sailed in the old smacks from Leith to London. This improved state of things is largely due to the enterprise of men living within what is now the Dominion of Canada. The Cunards of Halifax and the Allans of Montreal, have been mainly instrumental in reducing the wide Atlantic to a ferry. At all seasons, and in all weathers, these magnificent vessels cross the deep Herring Pond, with valuable freight and vast numbers of passengers. Canada has become joined as it were, by these steamships, to England most particularly. The telegraph set in motion in Canada speaks to London, and the buyer knowing how the markets stand takes passage himself to inspect the goods and can the day after his arrival if he chooses return again. On every day of the week, a steamship leaves some port of the United Kingdom for Canada or the United States, and it is contemplated to afford a daily departure of Canadian steamships from both shores of the Atlantic. This is an exceedingly pleasant anticipation, and sooner or later it will be realized. But, notwithstanding, the sea has its dangers as well as discomforts and men of indisputable bravery and nautical skill are necessary for the safe conduct of ocean steamships. That the Canada steamships are provided with such men as commanders and officers is proved by the recent perilous voyages of the 'Scandinavian' and 'Phoenician.' The thrilling account of the voyages of these vessels recently testify to the stuff of which Capt. Smith, R.N.R., and Capt. Graham are made. The horrors of the voyage scarcely needed to have had added to them a case of suicide, the result of nervous derangement consequent upon anxiety and general debility. There is one thing wanting in these great ferry-boats, however, which should be seen to. They ought to be made incapable of sinking, even though struck by an iceberg, or run into by another vessel. Compartments have not answered the purpose. A rock, another ship, or an iceberg, a heavy sea, it may be, sinks them instantly, the iron separates, the compartments open, and the majestic ship sinks, sometimes to be no more seen for ever. Is it not possible to build a ship double, to line her all through, so that if the outer coat gives way, an inner one may be left? We cannot tell; but certainly some mode of preventing, at least the sudden sinking of passenger ships, may be hit upon. Going into Portland, on a clear night, one great steamship struck upon a rock, where it would have been well had she remained. Anxious, however, to save his vessel, the commander caused the engines to be backed, which being done, the vessel slipped off into deep water and sank to the mast-heads, causing the death of twenty-seven persons. To keep the boats from being washed away during the tempest they have to be lashed down strongly, and the consequence is that in the event of collision, even should the sea be calm, they are rarely rendered available in time to save all the passengers. There is necessarily hurry and confusion. A lining at some distance from the outer skin, perfectly water-tight, would at least tend to afford time for escape in the boats. The matter, at all events, is worthy of consideration.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TIMES will not be held responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—With your indulgence I wish to say a few word on a portion of your correspondents' letter on "Iron Manufactures and the Tariff," in your issue of to-day.

I will confine myself as much as possible to that part of his communication coming under the head of—"Secondly, that raw material shall be imported free of duty."

I would first ask your correspondent, what is an iron manufacturer? Is he only to be entitled to that designation who takes the metal he finds ready made to his hand and works it up into ploughs, harrows, axes, nails, &c., or is it not equally if not more justly the title of the man who, taking the ore from the mine converts the true raw material into a commercial article? And why should the capital invested by the latter be not as deserving of protection by an import duty as that of the former? Your correspondent in fact wishes to increase his profits (and I hope he has profits), by 5 or 10 per cent, but would deny the mine owner or the capitalist willing to invest his money in smelting iron any advantages. Now it appears to me this is a very one-sided arrangement. It does not evince any of that spirit of charity which says 'live and let live'. Were the magnificent iron industries of England or the United States built up under such an arrangement as your correspondent desires? I think not.

What is the duty asked for by those who wish to invest in the smelting of iron, and he wishes to deny them? It is this—'to increase the duty on iron, now paying 5 per cent to 7½ or 10 per cent and to place a duty of five per cent on all such articles now on the free list as should be manufactured in the country.' This surely is not an unreasonable protection to ask for when it is considered that the erection of a blast furnace capable of turning out 60 to 70 tons a day could not be undertaken by a company with a less capital than $250,000, and rolling mills for bar and railway iron, with less than $1,000,000.

One point I would correct your correspondent in, is with regard to the quality of Canadian iron, and its ores. Our iron ores are of such a diversity of quality from the poorest to the very best, that there is really no branch of iron manufacturers for which they are not suited, and as to his statement, "and where it is available, we believe it is only used mixed with other iron of a better quality." I may say that I have several certificates before me at the present moment from various smelting works in the States shewing the very contrary, at all events as regards the ores of the Ottawa Valley. They are used to improve the quality of the iron made in the works referred to.

In one thing I agree with him that the tariff should as far as may, be permanent, but at the same time would stipulate that a fair consideration should be given to all the interests involved.

In conclusion I would refer your correspondent to Messrs. Macdougall, of Montreal, Glen, of Oshawa, and Gartshove, of Toronto, as to the quality of iron manufactured from Canadian ores.

Yours, &c.,
IRON.

OTTAWA, March 14, 1874.

Militia General Orders.

HEAD QUARTERS OTTAWA,
March 13, 1874.

MILITIA STAFF.

To be Deputy Adjutant General, Military District, No. 5:—Lieutenant Colonel John Fletcher, C. M. G., Brigade Major 2nd Brigade Division, Province of Quebec, vice Lieutenant Colonel W. Osborne Smith, C. M. G., transferred to Military District No. 10.

To be Brigade Major 2nd Brigade Division, Province of Quebec, with the rank of Major in the Militia:—Honorary Captain the Honorable Matthew Aylmer, Paymaster Military District No. 5, vice Lieutenant Colonel Fletcher, appointed Deputy Adjutant General Military District No. 5.

MEMO.—The head quarters of Lieutenant Colonel Fletcher will be at Montreal, and Major Aylmer at St. Johns.

The Auditors report is as follows:—Circulation, $12,313,005 69; specie, $3,406,552.30; excess of specie, $417,000.55.

The statement of the balances at the credit of depositors in Government Savings Banks on the 31st of January, 1874, is published in Saturday's Gazette. The deposits during the month were $390,667.43; withdrawn, $151,984 55; transferred to five per cent. stock, $10,300. Balance on January 31st, 1874, $3,476,135.88. Balance on December 31st, 1873, $3,237,753 00. Increase during the month of January, $228,382.88.

His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to make the following appointments, viz:—Mr. George Lefroy, of Toronto, Ontario, and Mr. Thomas Hession, of Georgetown, Prince Edward Island, to be Landing Waiters and Searches in Her Majesty's Customs.

His Excellency the Governor General has, by the advice of the Privy Council, disallowed by an act passed by the Legislative Assembly, of British Columbia, on the 21st day of February, A. D. 1873, entitled, "An Act to authorize one Justice of the Peace to do any act, matter or thing heretofore done by two Justices of the Peace, and to give an appeal to Courts of General or Quarter Sessions," on the ground that such a change in the law cannot be legally effected by an act of the Provincial Legislature. The act had received the assent of the Lieutenant Governor.

CITY AND VICINITY.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the City Council will be held in the City Hall this evening at 7 o'clock.

VISITORS at the Protestant Hospital this week are:—Directors, Messrs. Z. Wilson and John Graham. Clergy, Revs. B. Jones and W. J. Hunter. Physician, Dr. J. Sweetland.

COUNTY LIQUOR CASE.—A man named McKay, from Nepean, was brought before Chief Langrell on Saturday, charged with selling liquor without a license. He was fined $20 and costs.

TRIED SUMMARILY.—At his request the young man Kimner was summarily tried before Judge Armstrong on Saturday last, for burglary in connection with Mr. Rennigan's store on Sussex Street. He was convicted and sentenced to three month's imprisonment at hard labor.

A RURAL FESTIVAL.—A very pleasant entertainment in the nature of a Soiree and Musical Festival took place in Osborne Village, in the Township of Cumberland, Friday evening last. Professor Workman assisted by Miss Glead and Mr. John McDonald, of this city, contributed materially, to the musical part of the entertainment. Refreshments were first served, after which the addresses and musical portion of the programme followed. The chair was occupied by Mr. French. The affair was a great success, and reflected creditably upon the endeavors of I. O. G. T. under whose auspices it was held.

THE HALPENNY MYSTERY.

Coroner's Inquest—Verdict, "Found Drowned."

As stated in our issue of Saturday morning, the body of the late Wm. Halpenny, was removed from the house of William McDarby, where it was first placed after discovery, to the Protestant Hospital. This was done at the instance of Coronor Van Cortlandt, who desired that a post mortem examination of the body should be had, ere proceeding to take evidence at the inquest. Drs. Hill and Wright were accordingly entrusted with the autopsy which they performed on Saturday morning, the result of which is given in their evidence below. The inquest was then proceeded with at 2 o'clock, p.m., in the Director's Room. Mr. Keir, Coroner's Constable, having subpœnaed the following jurors:

Daniel O'Connor, Foreman.

Guilliaume Martineau, alias Cane,
James Ashfield,	Wilford Kipp,
Emile Valiquette	John Whelan,
James Keenan	Samuel Gregson,
Patrick Jackson	Hugh Boyd,

Robert Stewart.

The first witness summoned and sworn was Michael Kennedy, of the City of Ottawa, laborer, but knowing nothing whatever relative to the man Halpenny was discharged.

The second witness sworn was George Franklin, merchant, but like the first witness was discharged, he having no evidence to offer.

The next witness was James G. Howe, merchant, but like the two previous men, was discharged, as he knew nothing of the affair.

Wm. Little, laborer, of Ottawa, was next sworn, and deposed as follows:—He identified the body as that of the late William Halpenny. Knew the deceased three or four years during his life. Saw him last on Christmas Eve. His sister asked Halpenny to come into her house. He was under the influence of liquor. He walked from Bank street to near Mr. Purdy's. Mr. Bushell came out and spoke to Mr. Halpenny. He had a black cap on at the time. Parted with him near Goulet's house on Biddy street. Left him with a stranger who knew him. It was about half-past seven p. m.. He was not sufficiently under the influence of liquor as not to take care of himself.

Hamnett Hill, M. D., was then sworn, who deposed as follows:—He was a medical practitioner in Ottawa. He, along with Dr. Wright, on the 14th day of March, examined the body of William Halpenny, now lying in an outbuilding of the County of Carleton Protestant Hospital. The body was dressed in the usual style of clothing appropriate to the winter season. We removed the clothing, and each pocket was carefully searched. The only things found therein were a couple of white pocket handkerchiefs, some pieces of string, a portmonaie containing two silver coins, one ten cent piece, and a five cent piece, and two copper cents. The clothing was very muddy, and the body also appeared to be submerged under water for many weeks. The body bore no marks of injury externally, except on the left side of the face, which was very much flattened, apparently by some long continued pressure against some smooth and flat surface, such as would be represented by the side of a stop-log or other stick of hewed timber. The skin of the arms, hands and lower parts of the legs was peeling off or degenerating, the usual result of bodies long remaining in the water. The other discolorations about the neck, throat and chest were the usual signs of advancing decomposition. There was not the least sign of injury to be observed externally to create the faintest idea of suspicion of any violence during life. On opening the chest and abdomen, they found all the organs perfectly sound and healthy. There was fluid blood in the right cavities of the heart; the left was empty. The bladder contained bloody urine. The stomach was empty. On opening the head not the least sign of bruises or other injuries was perceived, either in or under the integuments, or in the cavity of the cranium. The brain was much softened, in fact in a semi-liquid state, from advancing decomposition. No blood issued therefrom, in fact nothing was found to harbour the remotest suspicion, that the deceased had met his death from any accidental violence. It is the deliberate opinion of this deponent, that death was the result of accidental or premeditated drowning.

Henry P. Wright, M. D., was next sworn, and deposed as follows:—I am a medical practioner, residing in Ottawa. Was present and assisted at the 'post-mortem' examination on the body of Mr. Halpenny, on the morning of the 14th of March. Having heard the evidence as read by Dr. Hill, I hereby corroborate the different statements as made by him (Dr. Hill), and he is also of the opinion, judging from the internal and external appearance that the said William Halpenny came to his death by drowning.

Several other witnesses, were examined, but nothing was elicited whereon to found the least suspicion of foul play, as to the extraordinary death of Mr. Halpenny.

The jury retired after having been briefly addressed by the Coroner, and in less than half an hour returned a verdict of "Found Drowned."

The body was then handed over to Mr Halpenny's relatives, who had it duly burried yesterday in Beachwood Cemetery. His remains were followed to the grave by a large and respectable cortege.

Police Court.

Before M. O'Gara, P. M.

SATURDAY, March 13.

A man named Carbery was charged with being drunk and disorderly. It appears that he broke into a house and insulted the inmates. He is a stalwart man, measuring over six feet five inches in height. He had applied for appointment to the police force with good prospect of success, but his conduct destroyed his chance. He was fined $5 and costs.

John Fitzgerald, charged with being drunk on the public streets, was fined $3 and costs.

In default of fine, both prisoners were taken down to jail.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

Mass Meeting in Gowan's Hall—The Hall Crowded to its utmost Capacity.

The meeting as announced in Saturday's issue of THE TIMES, was held last night, in Gowan's Hall, for the special purpose of furthering the work in which the Y. M. C. A. of our city is engaged. We were pleased to see such a large assemblage gathered together for the specific object of showing their willingness and heartfelt sympathy for this Association. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. T. J. Wilkie and Robert Gray, both of whom are active and energetic workers in Y. M. C. Associations. They testified in a simple, pleasing and effective manner, to the good that had been accomplished by Y. M. C. Associations in various parts of Canada. They felt that the citizens of Ottawa were willing to see such an association prosper in their midst, and they offered up prayers that God might increase the sympathy of the Christian public towards the Y. M. C. Association, and have proof to show that it would be much to their advantage to have such an Association in a prosperous condition. They found that there was one thing above all others that was needful, that was, that there shodld be a person upon whom the greater part of the responsiblity should be thrown, and that he should be a paid Secretary, for without such an official little could be done successfully.

At the close of the meeting a number of ladies came forward and with one voice testified that they would unite and do their part of the work, in order that this Association should go on, and be the means of doing a good work among the young men of our city. A committee of ladies was then appointed to meet at the Rooms of the Y. M. C. A., on Tuesday, the 24th inst., at 3 p.m., to take the matter into consideration.

These young gentlemen who have been among us for several days, have by their active co-operation done much towards resuscitating the Y. M. C. A. of this city. We trust that the young men of this city will profit by their advice, and set to work in an active and vigorous manner, that the object sought for may be in the end attained.

Temperance Meeting.

The usual Sunday afternoon Temperance Meeting was held in the Temperance Hall, yesterday; Mr. Johnston, Assistant Commissioner of Customs in the chair. Along with him on the platform were the Revs. D. M. Gordon, B D.; E. Gallagher, of New York; W. Wilson; Messrs. E. McGillivray, A. Russell and Wm. Porter.

The Rev. Mr. Gordon opened proceedings with reading a portion of Scripture and prayer.

The Chairman, after referring to a notice relating to the Y M C A. in the evening, and a special entertainment in aid of the Building Fund of the Baptist Church, to be held in the Temperance Hall, on Thursday next, expressed the pleasure it afforded him of being present with them the Rev. Messrs. Gordon and Gallagher, and would therefore take up no time in any preliminary observations, but simply call at once on the Rev. Mr. Gordon.

The Rev. Mr. Gordon on coming forward, apologised for his somewhat irregular attendance at such important meetings, as those that were held in the Hall from week to week; but this did not arise from any lack of sympathy with the object these meetings had in view. He assigned as a principal reason, the burdensome nature of his duties in his other sphere of Christian labour. But Ministers of the Gospel, he said, must assume the responsibility and consider it a part of their duty to further the temperance movement. Many arguments could be adduced from Scripture in support of such a mission. In Scripture it is stated "If meat make my brother to offend, I will not eat thereof, &c.," and the same might be said on the other hand, "If Drink make my brother to offend, I will not partake of it," but will use every endeavour to stay intemperance and its evil effects. He stated that in looking over the Police reports, from day to day in our own city, that nine-tenths of the cases calling for the adjudication of the Police Magistrate might safely be said to be owing to drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He next adverted to the Prison Statistics of the last year, which he said revealed the fact that out of 300 inmates some 290 could attribute their incarceration either directly or indirectly to strong drink. He then spoke of the poor houses of the world, which were the recipients of all those reduced to a state of abject poverty, and stated that the vast majority of the paupers therein to be found, could trace their unfortunate condition to the demon of intemperance. Again he said drink was the great rival of the Gospel power, which required to be crushed in order that the other might succeed. He said more money was spent in intemperate habits than was spent in the furtherance of the Gospel of Christ. Dr. Angus, of London, at the late Evangelical Alliance in New York, said, he reduced it to a practical test; he had said that it would take 50,000 Ministers to spread the Gospel over the entire universe. It would take about ten years, and if each man received £300 sterling, it would cost £150,000,000. Great Britain he said spent that amount alone in liquor in two years. This was a startling fact and one that could not be denied, hence the anxiety existing now in society to put the curse down. He next adverted to the question that was agitating the public mind as to the best means to bring about such a result. He was of opinion that legislation could not effect the purpose sought; it would be better, if possible, to educate the people to an abandonment of the craving and desire that existed for the use of strong drink. He was pleased to find the tone of society to-day much more opposed to it than even ten years ago, a state of things brought about doubtless by the arduous workers in the temperance cause. Clergymen found intemperance in their experience the great obstacle to the progress of the Christian Church. A triumph of the temperance movement, he said' meant a triumph for the Christian Religion. He concluded a fine address by asking temperance people generally to carry on the good work in faith, for on that depended mainly ultimate success.

Rev. Mr. Gallagher expressed his pleasure at being present and at hearing the address just delivered by the reverend gentleman who had just sat down. He was pleased to have made the acquaintanceship of the Rev. Mr Gordon, who evinced such a deep interest in the temperance cause. He recounted a pleasing incident to his mind of the late Evangelical Alliance referred to by the last speaker, when referring to Dr. Angus. It was, to his mind, one of the most glorious scenes ever witnessed on earth, and one that he would never forget. He looked upon it as a thing calculated to do much in the Christian Church. He recited many harassing tales of his early experience. Neal Dow was his authority for stating that, in Lowell and vicinity, there was scarcely a house in which there could not be found a skeleton, that was the victim of intemperance. A mother should, in early boyhood, take her son and make him swear eternal hostility to the demon of intemperance, King Alcohol. He believed with the last speaker, that you could not legislate the traffic down. Albany and Washington were centres of intemperance, even amongst our legislators. He believed that the people of the United States had succeeded in devising the only means whereby the demon of strong drink could be effectually vanquished. He said that power consisted in the influence of woman coupled with the power of earnest prayer. He was glad to see so many women present at this meeting; as it showed that they were, to a very great extent, even in Ottawa, interested in the temperance movement. The Bible, he said, stated that no drunkard should inherit the kingdom of Heaven,

TORONTO.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, March 14, 1874.

The Speaker took the chair at 11:15 a. m.

After routine, some private bills were advanced a stage.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Crooks the House went into Committee of Supply, and the following items passed: Asylum for the Insane, Toronto, $81,748; Asylum London, and Idiot Asylum (branch of the same), $80 342; Asylum Kingston, $52,193; Provincial Reformatory, Penitanguishene, $217,794.

On item, $41 690, for Central Prison, a long discussion ensued as to the means of bringing prisoners to Toronto from the various places where they had been sentenced.

Hon. Mr. Fraser explained that there was a special officer connected with the prison, whose duty it was to go round the country after the Assizes and gather the prisoners and bring them altogether to Toronto. The item passed.

The following items then passed: Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Belleville, $31,234; Blind Asylum, Brantford $20,572; School of Agriculture and Practical Science, $59,800; Immigration Agencies in Europe including printing and expenses, $32,164; Agencies in Ontario and Quebec, including provisions for immigrants, their care and charge, $20,000, Carriage of immigrants in Canada, $10,000; Assistance by bonus to immigrants to arrive in 1874, $40 000; assistance by bonus to immigrants (Arrivals in 1873, payable in 1874) $325 000; incidental, $1,300; Fruit Growers' Association, $1,000; Entomological Society, $750; for Sunday Services in connection with the Agriculture and Arts Mechanic's Institute, $2 000; Art Union, $500; Aid to Canadian Institute, Toronto, $750; Institute Canadian, Ottawa, $300; Athenæum, Ottawa, $300; to promote Scientific Research, $500; Hospitals and Charities $43,020; miscellaneous expenditure, $17,800.

The House adjourned at 3:05.

MONTREAL,

Complimentary Dinner to Hon. H. G. Penny—Election Court—Alleged Slander—Markets.

MONTREAL, March 14.

For the last three days the Court of Queen's Bench has sat till five p. m., the allotted time being four. The work seems to be moving quite harmoniously.

This evening Mr H. N. Tabb, whose name figures in the Coristine-Fenton correspondence, regarding the irregularities alleged to have been committed by the former gentleman while Secretary of Mr. McKenzie's election Committee, instituted a criminal action against Mr. John F. Fenton for certain malicious defamatory statements in the said correspondence.

The Election Court will open next Monday, when the case of Deux Montagnes will be considered.

A complimentary dinner will be given next Thursday evening to the Hon. E. C. Penny, of the Montreal Herald, at the Ottawa Hotel.

Receipts at the Montreal Custom House to-day were $24,514.27, and for the week ending this day, $116,488.57.

Flour—superior extra, $6.25 to 6.40; extra $6.07½ to 6.15; strong bakers', $5.75 to 6.00; spring extra, $5-55 to 5-70; superfine, $5.20 to 5.30; fine, $4.65 to 4.70.

A fair business, much better than that of last mail day, was done at the banks to-day. Money is easy and abundant, and the rate of discount for good commercial bills is from 7 to 8 per cent., with light offerings.

The Stock Market this morning was dull but firm; Commerce was agin higher; Montreal closing at 193 to 193¼; Commerce, 124¾ to 125; and Royal Canadian at 99¼.

QUEBEC.

Quebec and Gulf Ports Steamship Company—Skating Carnival—The Body-Snatching Case.

QUEBEC, March 14.

Messrs. Archambeault and Chapleau are in town.

The police have been working up the Levis body snatching case, and it is now thought that they have hit upon the spot whence the corpses were taken. The detectives have found three mutilated graves at Beauport cemetery, and the parents of the children buried there have been notified to attend at Belmont cemetery, and identify them.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Quebec and Gulf Ports Steamship Company was held yesterday. The following gentlemen were elected Directors:—Messrs. H. S Scott, J. C Thomson, W. Withall, P. Garneau, D. C. Thomson, Joseph W. Hunt, A. T. Galt and A. W. Delisle, The two last named reside in Montreal.

HALIFAX.

Proceedings in the Legislature—A Cowardly Assault—Another Body Recovered from Drummond Colliery.

HALIFAX, March 14.

A man named Joseph Tory was arrested in Truro, on Tuesday, charged with committing a brutal assault on a respectable married woman in Guysborough on the day of the recent election. The woman's clothes were torn from her person, and she was otherwise shockingly maltreated. She gave birth next day, prematurely, to twins, one of whom has since died, and the mother is in a precarious condition. The indignation of Guysborough over the outrage is intense.

Two more bodies have been recovered from the Drummond colliery, making the whole number so far recovered 16.

In the House, to-day, Messrs. Woodward and Holmes, Opposition, attacked the Government for having taken part in the Dominion elections. They denounced the Mackenzie Government as hostile to Nova Scotia.

Attorney General Smith and Provincial Secretary Vail replied, defending the action of themselves and colleagues, and paying a tribute to the Mackenzie Government for their promptness and liberal justice in settling open accounts between the Province and the Dominion.

The Opposition did not venture to divide the House. The address was carried by acclamation.

LONDON

The Exhibition Grounds—Prevalence of Diptheria.

LONDON, March 13.

The Exhibition Committee of the City Council have resolved to recommend the Council to keep intact the present show grounds till after the annual western fair this fall, when they propose to secure other ground.

Three deaths by diptheria have occurred in the family of Mr. W. F. Harper, Manager of the Merchant's Bank, one child dying last Saturday, and two to-day. A number of the children throughout the city have been attacked by this disease since the recent cold weather set in.

HAMILTON.

Ice in Burlington Bay Breaking up—Temperance Meeting—Y. M. C. A. Entertainment.

HAMILTON, March 14.

Burlington Bay is open on all sides for about two hundred yards from the shore, leaving an immense plate of solid ice, which is driven from shore to shore at the bidding of the winds. So early a dissolution of the ice around the shore of the bay has, it is said, never been known before.

A temperance mass meeting was held to-night by Mrs. Hardy, the temperance advocate, in St. James' Hall.

A grand entertainment was given this evening by the Women's Christian Association in the concert hall of the International Exhibition. The proceeds are in aid of the building fund of the Young Men's Christian Association. There was a very large and influential attendance.

The Halton by-law has been carried by a majority of 260.

The Western members of the deputation appointed by the manufacturers' meeting of Feb. 24th, at Toronto, will meet at the Rossin House next Monday, and will be in Ottawa on Tuesday forenoon.

ENGLAND.

Obituary Notice — The Opposition Leadership — Financial — Buenos Ayres.

LONDON, March 13—The Liberal journals publish highly eulogistic obituary notices of the late Charles Sumner.

The Times this morning, in a leading article says:—"So long as Gladstone remains in the House of Commons, he is the only possible leader of the Opposition. Every true Liberal will accept his leadership on his own terms."

The Daily News says:—"Gladstone's name is a tower of strength. The whole body of Liberals regard him as ther natural head. Any other person would only be a leader of a section.

At a regular half yearly meeting of the Directors of the Bank of England, it was announced that the total expense incurred in the pursuit and prosecution of the two Bidwell's and McDonnell, who committed the fraud on the bank, was £46,000.

Advices by mail from Buenos Ayres to the 9th ult., have been received.

The Presidential election in the Argentine Republic, was attended with much turbulence and disorder. There were riots in the Capital, in which four persons were killed and twelve wounded. Disturbances in the Provinces were still worse; result of the election not known. Cholera and fever have disappeared.

Viscount Sandon was to-day re-elected to Parliament from Liverpool.

FRANCE.

Disfranchisement.

PARIS, March 13—In Committee of the Assembly on electoral laws a proposition was made by the Right for the disfranchisement of the colonies of France. Laboulay made an earnest remonstrance warning members that the British colonies in America had been alienated from the mother country by the denial of the right of representation. The colonial deputies have unanimously demanded that right.

ITALY.

The Ecclesiastical Law.

ROME, March 13.—The Pope has written to the Austrian Bishop inciting them to use all their influence to prevent the passage of the proposed ecclesiastical laws.

UNITED STATES.

In Mourning.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The Rotunda and Senate Chamber are heavily draped in mourning, and chairs have been provided for the President of the Cabinet and other persons invited.

Sentenced.

Funeral Procession.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—At three o'clock Sumner's remains were taken from the house to the Capitol in a hearse drawn by four white horses, followed by 150 colored men on foot, including Fred Douglas and Binchback of Louisiana.

Tribute.

BOSTON, March 13.—An eloquent tribute was paid at the Massachusetts Historical Society last night, to Fillmore and Sumner, who were members.

Sumner's friends have decided to have the funeral at half-past 3 on Monday in the State House.

Jay Gould.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Gould denies having anything to do with Davan's resignation, but the company still affirm he is at the bottom of it.

Recognition.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—The directors of the American Steamship Company voted thanks and one thousand dollars to Mr. C. L. Brady, former third mate of the wrecked White Star Line steamer 'Atlantic.' who brought the s. s. 'Pennsylvania' safely into port when the captain and first and second officers were washed overboard in the gale on the last trip,

Closed Again,

NEW YORK, March 13.—The Hudson is again closed between Poughkeepsie and Albany. The ice is five inches thick in many places, and ice men are expecting another harvest.

Contradicted.

The report that the Brooklyn navy yard is to be closed after the present month is contradicted.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

The boiler used in driving the steam drills in the new railroad cut at Bergenhill, Jersey City, exploded this morning. One man was fatally injured.

Out of Work.

One hundred persons are out of employment by the suspension of the steel works in Jersey City, for want of coal.

Military Honors.

FORTRESS MONROE, March 13.—Military honors to the late ex-President Fillmore took place here to-day. Flags were displayed at half-mast, and a salute of thirteen minute guns was fired at sunrise, a gun every half hour during the day, and a salute of thirteen minute guns at sunset.

Mrs. Woodhull Acquitted.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The jury in the Woodhull and Claflin case, who have been out since 12:30 yesterday, returned into court at 11 this morning with a verdict of "Not guilty."

Judge Sutherland characterized the verdict as one of the most outrageous he had ever heard.

Shocking Railway Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—A passenger train going west on the Central Pacific Railway, between Toano and Wells, were thrown from the track by a broken rail and went over an embankment, falling a distnce of 30 feet. It is reported that the loss of life is very great.

SHOCKING—A telegram to the Telegraph says it is rumoured that three young men named Mahony and one named Noonan were burned to cinders in a lumber camp on Cain's river.

SPRINGHILL COAL.—This coal is now offered for sale in large or small quantities at the Railway Station, St. John, and at different points along the railroad. It is a superior coal. It makes a bright, cheerful fire and emits an immense heat. As it becomes known it will become a great favorite.—Freeman.

Mr. Edward J. Young, of Bridgetown, N. S., between the 17th and 28th of February had his barn on Belleisle marsh broken open and three tons of hay stolen therefrom, He offers a reward of $20 for the discovery of the guilty parties.

The Intelligencer, Belleville, in the course of a column or more indignation about the dismissal of Dr. Strange, says the doctor valued his "freedom much more than the $4 a day which he had lost." If that's so, what is all the howling about? The doctor has his "freedom," which he valued most, and somebody else has the "$4 a day," which he didn't value much. If he keeps on crying about it, people will think it's that "$4 a day" he has his heart set on after all.—St. Catherine's News.

STORMS AT SEA.

[Portland, (Me.,) Advertiser, March 7]

The steamer 'Scandinavian,' Captain Smith, whose arrival at this port we announced last evening, experienced a fearful passage. The vessel left Liverpool on Thursday, February 19, on a beautiful spring day and so far advanced was the season in England, that Captain Smith, brought on board primroses in full bloom. The next day Moville was reached, the fine weather continuing. On the night of the 20th the steamer left Moville, but had only got a few miles from land when rough weather came on. On the 23rd the weather grew worse. The gale continued until the morning of the 26th, when suddenly the wind veered to the south-west, the barometer quickly fell to 28, and there was every indication of a cyclone. Soon it burst upon the vessel and she careened fearfully but finally righted. Everything on the decks not securely fastened was taken off and whirled into the sea. The strong tarpaulins with which the boats were covered were torn in shreds and blown away. Suddenly there came a wave heavier than the preceding which struck the bridge on which were Captain Smith and first officer Jones, knocking them both insensible and badly bruising them. The heavy iron stanchions which support the bridge were bent and twisted like twigs and the bridge proper moved some distance from its position. The second officer had command until the captain recovered, which was very soon. At noon of the 26th a dead calm suddenly prevailed, but the barometer still continued at 28 degrees. About four p m., of that day the gale, which had veered to the north west, burst upon them with redoubled fury. The waves seemed to come from all directions, the good ship trembled in every dove, and the captain said it seemed as if she would be blown out of the water. Captain Berry, of Rockland, an old sea captain of forty years' experience, who came on deck, said he never saw such a fearful storm. The waves actually hissed as they threw their spray over the bridge and came down with the force of tons weight upon the decks. This storm continued almost unabated in intensity until the night of the 27th. The passengers, both cabin and steerage, kept up brave hearts, although they expected every moment would be their last. On the morning of the 28th, the force of the cyclone having spent itself, a young officer—Lieutenant Bisbee, of the Royal Engineers, a young man of high promise and fine family — committed suicide. His health was bad, and the effect of the terrible storm on his shattered nerves, it is thought, induced him to commit the fearful deed. Reaching out of the berth in his stateroom he took a small Derringer pistol from his hat-box, placed the muzzle against his heart, and fired. The ball severed the main artery that supplies the heart with blood, and lodged in his spine. He died without a struggle. That night another fearful hurricane burst upon the vessel and continued to rage until Sunday morning, March 15, when the first gleam of sunshine was beheld for about an hour, the first time since leaving Moville. The night of the 29th presented one of the grandest yet most awful sights ever witnessed at sea. Far as the eye could reach the ocean was white with foam, the great waves swept over the deck of the vessel, and the St. Elmo lights played about the ship, dancing from masthead to masthead and yard-arm to yard-arm, lighting up the scene with their unearthly glare. The thunder pealed, and the lightning also would fairly dazzle the eye every few moments. On Monday, the 2d of March, as the vessel passed the Flemish Gap—which lies to the eastward of the Bank of Newfoundland, near Cape Race—a field of huge icebergs was seen, and the thermometer placed in the water showed the mercury down to twenty-six degrees. The rest of the passage was not marked by any special features, the sea being rough, and yesterday being the first pleasant day the ship had met with since leaving Moville. For four days at one time during the fearful storm Captain Smith remained on deck. The passengers all unite in testifying to the great courage shown by him, his untiring energy, watchfulness, and courtesy, and also that of his officers and men who so nobly seconded his efforts.

(Portland (Me.) Advertiser March 9.)

The Allan steamer 'Phœnician,' Capt. Graham, arrived at this port from Liverpool yesterday noon after a most tempestuous passage of twenty-two days. She is a freight boat, not as full powered as the 'Scandinavian,' and passed through the same cyclone that vessel experienced. The 'Phœnician' left Liverpool on the 14th of February, and experienced extremely rough weather until the 25th, when the hurricane struck her with wind from the southward. A huge wave struck the bridge on which Mr. Beard, the first officer, was standing, breaking a stanchion, the end of which hit Mr. Beard on the head, knocking him out of time for a little while. The fearful seas washed over her decks, smashed to pieces one of the boats and carried away the after steering gear. Luckily the ship—the only one of the line—is provided with forward steering gear, otherwise the ship might never have reached this port. The figurehead was also torn off and carried away. The fearful hurricane lasted till the 28th, after which the usual rough weather of this season of the year was experienced. During the storms the vessel was necessarily frequently hove to, and at other times could make but a few miles per day. It is rarely we are called upon to record two such stormy passages as those of the 'Scandinavian' and 'Phœnician.'

Hon. A. McKellar.

(From the Ingersoll Chronicle.)

From the day when first a Reform Government began to administer the affairs of Ontario, the organs of the Opposition have, by a seemingly combined movement, concentrated on Hon. Archibald McKellar all their batteries of abuse. The last attack is on account of a note written to the superintendent of the works at the Central Prison, authorizing that official to allow the men to attend the nomination of Mr. Moss and Mr. Bickford for Toronto West. In other words, Mr. McKellar is accused of everything monstrous because he gave the men a half holiday in which to go and hear and cheer their respective candidates. They were to receive their half day's pay, of course, for, without this, the leave of absence would have been no holiday. This is the whole of the tremendous crime Mr. McKellar has committed against the Constitution. We need not seriously discuss whether such a temporary relaxation of the hard bands of officialism as giving two or three hundred workingmen a half holiday in an offense against the constitutional and Parliamentary rights of the people of Ontario. The bare supposition is absurd. What Mr. McKellar did, he did without corrupt motive or intent. The fact that he committed the authorization to writing is proof of this assertion. Now, for an answer to this question—"Did Mr. McKellar apply the faintest pressure or coercion to obtain a vote?" Not the shadow of a proof of this effect. Had he done this, then we, Reformers as we are, would not for one moment attempt to justify it. In authorizing the half holiday, Mr. McKellar acted in the openness of his heart as a man, and not with the suspicious caution of a tricky politician. The Reform Party of Ontario will never believe that Archibald McKellar ever did, or ever could do, any act that would mitigate against those great principles of pure popular Government, in whose propagation and defence he has used up the best years of his life.

POND'S EXTRACT

Horses Saved.

The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co, is on each package. Northorp & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada, Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 2491

Is the mind a ponderable or an imponderable substance; an essence, vapor, or an indescribable something which cannot be grasped, felt, or withheld? Man thinks, studies, invents, tires the brain by overwork, and loses his reason; rests his intellect, becomes calm, uses restoratives; and again thinks. When we reflect that a power of endurance can be imparted to the brain, and that weak minds have been restored to strength by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphities, we cannot but conclude that the subtle power is really ponderable matter, from the fact that the ingredients are supplied which render it support and give it vitality. Persons who study hard should preserve their balance of power by using the Syrup. 2505

CAPITAL . . £2,000,000 Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system, By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the ever changing phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of DR. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its Early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hospital.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada

This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 10 cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength, Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine, and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS,

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

'Felt for Hats and Boots;"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff-Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

DOMINION NEWS.

One of the Rockhead prisoners, named James MacDonald, who escaped from that institution on Thursday, was captured by one of the look out party at Bedford, and brought back to the city.

A house on Cunard street was badly damaged on Thursday evening, by an explosion caused by the bursting of one of the gas pipes. Although there was a number of persons in the room at the time, no one was injured.—Acadian Recorder.

On Saturday last the Nova Scotia Legislature were taken over the Riviere du Loup Railroad to Woodstock, where they had a dinner at the Blanchard House, and after the dinner speeches. They made the downward run in three hours and reached Fredericton in safety.

The Eastern Chronicle states that during the past week six bodies, additional to those reported last Thursday, have been recovered from the Drummond Colliery. They have been identified—Hugh McDonald and Hugh McGillivray, of Antigonish, and John Campbell. The work of opening up the mine is progressing without interruption.

The rain storm of Wednesday last flooded the greater portion of Stewiacke Valley, in Colchester County, from one to twelve feet of water being on the road in many places. The rivers in that section are very high, and all the bridges on the Stewiacke and Shubenacadie rivers carried away. The flood is the most destructive that has occurred in this locality for 20 years.—St. John, N. B., News.

PERSONAL.—The numerous friends of Mr. E. Woodbury, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Courtright, the terminus of the Canada Southern Railway, will be pleased to hear that he has been appointed Postmaster of that place, the inhabitants having sent in a petition to the Government in his favor.

MERCILESS WEATHER.—It must be that the remains of a cyclone, a tornado or some other trophical wrath has visited this part of the world. For the last few nights the wind has been howling most fearfully. Yesterday was very cold, although Old Sol did much in the afternoon to soften its force

ALLEGED RAPE — Detective Murphy brought to this city on Tuesday night from Hamilton, a young man named Graham, who had been arrested there at the instance of Mr. Frank Armitage, of this city, for an alleged criminal assault upon his wife about one year since. The accused was remanded until the 16th for examination.—London Free Press.

London Assizes open on Tuesday, Mr. Justice Gwynne presiding. The business before the court is expected to be unusually heavy. The cases on the criminal calendar include rape and forgery, and at the criminal side some important records have been entered for trial.

DISPOSING OF THE FUND.—The Reach Council have passed a by-law applying the money coming to the Township under the Municipal Loan Fund Distribution Act ($10,618) in redemption of the railway debentures.

OSHAWA.—A public meeting is to be called as to the disposal of the amount coming to Oshawa.

TORONTO.—Notice of motion has been given that the amount to be received from the Ontario Government, as the city's share of the Municipal Loan Fund, be devoted towards the erection of the new City Hall.—Whitby Chronicle.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—The first locomotive for the Midland Railway upon the narrow gauge system arrived from Portland on Monday last, the 2nd inst. The Midland Railway are carrying on remittingly the construction of their extension to the Georgian Bay, and will likewise accomplish the narrowing of their gauge this spring.—Port Hope Guide.

ACCIDENTS.—Between 6 and 7 o'clock last evening, as John Finnigan, of Lower Cove, was driving a horse and sloven, belonging to Mr. Sparrow, to Reed's Point, he fell from the seat and the wheels of the sloven passed over him, injuring him so bad, that it is feared he cannot live. He was at once removed to the Public Hospital.

About half an hour afterwards James Walsh, who lives on Waterloo street, sustained very serious injuries. He was passing the Golden Ball Corner, it appears, when a horse and buggy driven by a man named David McCarthy, approached rapidly and threw him down, knocking out one of his eyes and hurting him severely about the body. He was attended by Dr. John Berryman.—St. John News.

SAD ACCIDENT IN MARKHAM—A child of Mr. Robert Hae, residing on the fifth concession of Markham, was burned to death while alone in his father's house on Friday last. It is supposed that the child's clothes caught fire from the stove, and when assistance came it was too late to be of any avail.

A WINDFALL.—Mrs. Wm. C. Heard, of Manchester, formerly of this town, has recently met with a streak of good fortune. By the death of one of her relatives in the old country, she has received we understand, the handsome sum of $6,000.—Whitby Chronicle.

THE BALL TO THE GOVERNOR.—To the Ladies of Ottawa.—Thos. E. Moore, of 72 Sparks street, with respectable compliments and sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage, solicits an early call to inspect the elegant assortment of ornaments in steel, pearl, jet, and Tortoiseshell, which he has just received, and which he will sell at as low prices as possible, consistent with fair business principles. Fresh importations of all the new goods monthly at the Burlington Hair-Cutting Rooms. 2514.

THE DOMINION'S DEAF AND DUMB.—Six hundred and fifty dollars are set down in the Provincial estimates of the year in favor of a Deaf and Dumb School in St. John. We trust this sum will be voted and well expended. It is time that something more effectual than anything that has yet been attempted in this Province in behalf of its deaf and dumb mute should be accomplished. There must be a very considerable number of that unfortunate class among our people completely uneducated. They are not much to be pited. But all of them, at once old enough and young enough to be subjected to mental training, should have provision made for their education. It is true a school for the deaf and dumb has for years been in operation in Halifax. It has received help from our treasury and a number of pupils from our Province, and it has done and is doing much good. But it cannot fully meet the requirements of our case. Should a Maritime Union be by-and-by effected, one good institution located on the neck of land joining New Brunswick and Nova Scotia might suffice to meet the educational demands of deaf-muteism, not only in those Provinces but also in Prince Edward Island. Until such a union be brought about, it would seem that a local institution for the training of our deaf and dumb would best supply our needs. We shall be glad to see such an institution in vigorous operation in St. John. In the four Provinces, dealt with in the census of 1871, there were found, at that date, to be 3,789 deaf mutes, of these, 1,412 were registered in Ontario, 1630 in Quebec, 300 in New Brunswick, and 441 in Nova Scotia. Of the entire number in the four Provinces, 2,049 were males and 1,740 females. It is to be feared that a very large proportion of them can neither read nor write. Valuable as such accomplishments are to those who can hear and speak, they are infinitely more so to those who can do neither.—News.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,

GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named, and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for this Sale and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

The Ottawa Times

TUESDAY, MARCH 17, 1874.

The Hon. George Brown, Senator, has arrived in the city. The Premier and he attended divine service in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning last.

Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State, having removed from the other side of the Ottawa and taken up his residence here, has been appointed to the Senate.

The writ for the election in West Durham, to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Mr. Wood to the Chief Justiceship of Manitoba, has been issued. The election will take place forthwith.

Money is easy in New York at four to five per cent. The importation of dry goods for last week reached $2,540,000 against $2,270,000 for the corresponding week of the preceding year.

A large number of Frenchmen were on their way at the close of last week, to Chiselhurst, from all parts of France. The Prince Imperial came of age on the 16th inst, and his friends designed an important political demonstration on the occasion.

MR. JOLY.

We are among those who rejoice at the determination of Mr. Joly to remain in the Legislature of Quebec, and not to accept the senatorship offered him. He is more wanted as leader of the Lower Canada Opposition than in the Federal Senate, where the Liberal party is already well represented and ably led. At the same time we concur with those who believe he would be an accession to the latter body for his knowledge and talents. In Quebec, Mr. Joly, though a Protestant, enjoys the confidence of the Liberal party, as a matter of course, mainly Roman Catholic, while his liberality is respected by all creeds and parties.

He has fought the battle of liberalism ably since confederation, being faithfully assisted by Hon. Messrs. Fournier, Holton, Messrs. Bechard, Marchand, Tremblay and the rest of the party, while he has been gaining strength all the time. It has now a prospect of success at no distant day, and till that result is attained, at least, it could not dispense with the services of a man of the capacity, intelligence, and popularity of Mr. Joly.

SOWING SEEDS OF MISCHIEF.

The members of the British Columbia Legislature at the time the last received papers left, had been discussing the bill relating to the alteration of the terms of union, at great length and with much interest. The object of the measure was to secure authority for accepting the graving dock guarantee capitalised, and the million for roads and public works, to be granted by Canada instead of the small annual payment. Some of the members seem to have formed a correct enough estimate of the character and objects of the late Federal Ministers, in their extravagant, or reckless promises to British Columbia, in the matter of the railway. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Booth observed—"The feeling in Canada is 'that the road must be built; the feeling was that British Columbia must be united, and Mr. Mackenzie would have to give way to some one else, if he did not build that railway. The reason why Sir John Macdonald conceded such enormous terms to the Province was that he might have the six votes from British Columbia. It is strange there should be such ignorance of the ex-Premier's motives with many at home, here, when they have been seen through so far away as the Pacific Ocean. The ignorance in question must be for the most part merely pretended. An idea of the feelings of some of the enemies of the Local Bill, who were in a great minority, may be gathered from the remarks of Mr. McCreight:

"They should have negotiated with Canada first, and legislated afterwards; instead of that, there is legislation first, and negotiation last. Few lawyers would be found to state that they had jurisdiction in this matter. He was not there to take up the time of the House, only when he had something new to present to the House. He proceeded to inform the House the course they should adopt, in order to obtain redress from Canada for the breaking of the terms, and what she is daily doing? An appeal to Her Majesty in Council, was the only course left them in the position that the Province had performed her contract, and that the Dominion Government had not stood by her contract. He was far from saying that they should secede from Canada, but they would be acting foolishly if they did not reserve to themselves the power to ask from the Imperial Government, redress for the non-performance of the terms of union by Canada. In taking over the money from Canada, they would seriously impair their rights to seek to secede from the union. He contended that by taking over the $1,200,000 they should be increasing the debt of the Province to $2,200,000 or more and that being the case the Province would not be in a position to ask the Imperial Legislature to allow the Province to secede without first paying back to Canada her money, and where was the Province to get that two millions and a half he asked. He proceeded to argue from the point of the object of the union of the Provinces. The desire for power and to possess territory from ocean to ocean, was the object of union, and the way to be able to say to Canada that she can't have their territory, and to tell her she has failed to grapple with such a gigantic liability as she had undertaken, was to be able to state to her that she had not carried out her contract with this Province. Again he urged the House to do nothing to impair their rights for redress to secede. Viewing the matter as a legal question he believed it would be looked upon as most seriously to compromise their position by taking over the $1,200,000; it would virtually stop their mouths. If he could assist the Government to recede in their step he would willingly do so; he would not willingly embarrass it. The way the matter had arisen was painfully evident, and he proceeded to explain it. The constituencies not now alive to their position, would by-and-bye be alive."

Another speaker, desirous of defeating the bill, and holding Canada to the strictest letter of her bond, quoted, as we predicted would be done, the opinion of Sir John Macdonald, expressed often and emphatically during the late electoral campaign, that if the railway terms were not carried out as to time and amount of operations, and so forth, the Province would have the right to secede. This patriotic suggestion would be acted upon, no doubt, by a small party, to-morrow, but fortunately the majority are loyal to Canada, which they credit, and rightly, too, with a desire to do all within her power to keep faith with British Columbia, and give her a good start on the way to prosperity.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.

We have much pleasure in noticing the the attempt to establish or acclimatise a new industry in the Province of Quebec—that of the manufacture of beet root sugar. Whether it may look like protectionism or not we must confess that the need of new industries is very much felt in many parts of the Lower Province. Farmers distant from the chief cities are ill off indeed for even middling markets having thus no object in taking much out of the soil. Who can wonder at consequent poverty and emigration to the State, or the large cities. Frenchmen who have visited Canada admit the capacity of Quebec for beet cultivation, so profitable in their old country. Efforts have been made for some time to establish the manufacture of sugar from this root, and thus supply an opportunity of profitable labours to the people.

The Quebec Legislature the session before last gave practical encouragement to a Frenchman desirous of embarking in such an enterprise. We are glad something has come of it, as the following from L'Evenement will shew:—

"The Evenement has received a sample of sugar made from beet-root grown at Lotbiniere. It says the specimen was splendid, very fine in the grain, and of very delicate taste. It was straw-colored and very clear. There is a beet-root sugar refinery established at Lotbiniere, and this year will be in complete operation upon a considerable scale. The seed of the beet-root from which the above sugar was made was sown in June last, that is one month late, and without having undergone the necessary preparation to quicken vegetation. In spite of this the roots yielded nine per cent of saccharine matter, which is two per cent more than the yield in Europe. The farmers in the neighbourhood, seeing the success of the new refinery, have promised to devote several hundred arpents to growing beet-roots this season, and will doubtless reap a handsome return. Eighty million pounds of sugar were imported into the Dominion last year. Beet-root sugar manufactured in Canada, it will be remembered, was last year protected by the present duty for ten years. This ought to give it a start."

THE WEATHER.

The freaks of the weather have not been confined to the American Continent this winter. This side of the Atlantic we have experience such a broken, alternately very mild and cold season, as meteorologists have to go far back in memory or records to match. Fortunately for the poor, at any rate, we have been favored with an extraordinary number of warm, spring-like days, by the effect of which our winter roads have been several times almost entirely dissipated. The mild spell of the week before last raised expectations of departure of winter, which were rudely dispelled by the biting blasts and snowstorms of last week. Now, again, and in regular order, about St. Patrick's Day, we have genial weather, the foretaste of summer, which may or may not be succeeded, as before, by chilly winds and frozen downpours. We should prefer a different experience, however. In England, too, they have been visited by gales and snow-falls, the Duke of Edinburgh and his bride having entered London mid the flakes, which which did not discourage the citizens, or or prevent their giving him a warm reception. By the way, his brother, the Prince of Wales, used to excite remark by his ill luck in Canada and elsewhere in the matter of rain, his entrance to a place being generally accompanied with innumerable wettings. A witty reporter of a Montreal journal christened him, while in this country, on account of the above circumstance, "The Raining Prince." Constantinople, strange to say, has also been pelted by a snow storm, occasioning great suffering among the poor. Such a visitant in that latitude is so rare as to find the people wholly unprepared, and to surprise the rest of the world. We usually associate the thought of the Sultan's Capital, on the shores of the Bosphorus, with pictures of burning suns, tropical plants and lazy, half clad Mussulmen, oppressed with heat and languor. We notice that Mr. Bell, the weather prophet of Quebec, and a man who has devoted great study to the science of meteorology, predicts gale with rain or snow, from the 16th to the 23rd inst, and from the 17th of April to the 24th for North America and the British Islands.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

This subject, we notice, is just now attracting some attention in the press of the mother country. This is owing in some measure to the labours of the efficient staff of Emigration Agents sent over by the Dominion and Provincial authorities here. Mr. H. J. Larkin, Emigration Agent in Ireland, is amongst those whose efforts suggest activity and zeal, and are doubtless productive of much good. Under date of the 20th ult, Mr. Larkin addresses a letter to the Dublin Freeman, from which we quote the following extracts, which are just the correct antidote to the mistaken impression of the relative advantages of Canadian and United States inducements:—

I read with much interest your leader in your very instructive columns of this day on the subject of the coming season's emigration of our laboring industrial classes to the Western World, and being so well timed and opportune, I am sure you will allow me a small space in your influential paper to present another feature of that important question. I regret that even liberal, well-intentioned journals, as yours, do not draw attention to that important half or so of the American Continent, as a most desirable field for our emigrating people, where all the drawbacks and hardships which you so truthfully and ably expose are not met or endured. I fully endorse your views regarding the folly and madness of so many of our thoughtless people crowding to the Atlantic cities of New York and Boston, becoming the mere dupes of crimps and men-catchers, who infest all large seaports—when they can land at our Canadian ports, and be received there by Government agents, who despatch them to all parts of the Dominion, and if unable to pay their own railway fares, free tickets are presented to them for their journey, thus saving all delays, expense, and uncertainty as to their destination, provided they have secured letters approving of them as fit and proper persons for such assistance from the Canadian Government emigration agents before sailing; and when they reach their destination other Government agents procure for them suitable employment at once. * * *

* * * I may be permitted to add to your remarks, that the stagnation of business, which you properly explain as due to the panic of last autumn, did not reach Canada, and only drove over thousands from the United States to us, where the necessaries of life are so much cheaper, and where also our people either found them employment, or supported them by public charities during this winter. But now that spring has come, and public works on our Government canals and railways is about to commence, there is no lack of employment. I see the Local Government of the Province of Quebec have passed Acts of Parliament granting large sums of money for several new lines of railways during their session just closed. Also the Provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and the latest Confederated Province of Prince Edward's Island, are chartering several railway lines for next season's work. The numerous public and private contracts in the Province of Ontario, by the Local Government and companies, not to speak of all the farm hands required, render it quite impossible to supply a tithe of the helps required. In the new Provinces of Manitoba, British Columbia, and the great North-West, the Government buildings, with enlargement of the canals and the sections of the great Pacific Railway ready to construct as soon as spring opens, besides the mines of silver, copper, iron ores, coal, &c., (which are even now profitably worked), point out these provinces as the most desirable points in the world for the vigorous, determined, strong arms of the surplus population. Statistics prove that the Canadian prairie lands are the most fertile, and produce 25 to 30 per cent. more wheat than the choicest lands of the Western States which you mention, and of a better and brighter quality, with a better filled and plumper grain. * * *

We expect a very large share of the emigration of this year, the per centage of which is yearly increasing in proportion to those who crowd the Atlantic cities of the United States.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TIMES will not be held responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—In the face of this very large defection from the Church of England, it is but fair to the clergy of that Church, to state some of the reasons advanced by those who are taking a part in the Reformation of 1874.

In making arrangements for the grand temperance meeting held in the Rink this winter, one of the committee, waiting on certain of the Roman Catholic clergy for the purpose of securing the influence of their presence on the platform, met, but with cold encouragement, but on an appeal to that truly Catholic prelate, the lamented Bishop Guiges, he replied, "my clergy must remember that besides their duties in the Church by virtue of their offices, they owe another duty to the state as citizens, and in a matter of such vital importance to the community as this war on the common enemy, they have my hearty sympathy and co-operation in anything they can say or do for the cause;" and it was in deference to his wishes, thus expressed: that three of the R. C. clergy appeared on that platform, which contained, besides, representative clergy from all the Evangelical Churches in the city except the Church of England. A few day ago we had a mass meeting in aid of the Young Men's Christian Association, at which also representatives of the various churches appeared but no Bishop or "Priest" of the English Episcopal Church took any part in this grand movement for promoting the Master's work. What part did they take in the week of prayer, under the auspices of the Evangelical Alliance, or in the formation of the Ottawa Branch of that organization. Do they take any prominent part in the public temperance meetings held in this city, or in any other enterprise in which Christian men unite their energies for the amelioration of the condition of fallen man, we see them holding aloof, content with ministrations among their own peculiar people, but putting forth no efforts to reach the masses, to whom the inside of a church is a place unknown, and the drinking and gambling saloon, the police station or the inhospitable street, are all too familiar; or if they do engage in any philanthropic enterprise, it is in anything but a Catholic spirit, not recognizing the work that others are doing, or deigning to lend them a helping hand. This is not so in other places that I know of, but is notably so in Ottawa.

Yours &c.
I. K. E.

The Church Question

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—In these days of Church controversy, when everyone in his own opinion is right, and everyone else wrong, the main cause of the difficulty is overlooked, and I wish to quote from the London Times of the 17th ultimo, a few lines which are as applicable to the Church in Canada as to that in England. "It is the custom of the Bishops and clergy to bewail the lukewarmness of the people. The fault is not in the people, but in the clergy, who are unequal to the situation, and of the Bishops who do not or will not see where the fault lies. Wherever there is an efficient and earnest clergyman there is always a full congregation. And where there is not such a pastor, there is a congregation outside waiting to come in as soon as the right man is found. This the root of the evil—the inefficiency of a great portion of the clergy of the Church of England. You may build churches by the hundred, but until you make these teachers of the people more fit for their work you must have a lukewarm or unbelieving population. You want not priests but preachers."

Now sir, the above remarks are thoroughly applicable to the pastors of this city. They seem to hold no communion in common with the majority of their flocks. They bow themselves certainly before the class of would-be aristocracy springing up amongst us, but they look upon the middle class and the poor as so many appendages to fill up the otherwise empty benches of their churches. I could cite numerous instances of families who have left the Church of England in consequence neither rector nor assistant ever crossing their threshold. If this lukewarmness continues, the danger will not be of the people drifting into extreme high, or extreme low church, but of losing or abandoning what religion they have, and becoming as Grimaldi styled himself "No Religion at all." We, sir, are fast entering on an age of reason, when if he so will, every man may become his own high priest, and the clergy should bear in mind that there is already formed on this continent the nucleus of a society whose purpose is to everthrow and destroy every church. Should that spread to Canada, and the lukewarmness have turned to coldness, the clergy cannot look for aid to the people whom they have neglected, and whom they simply use as automa to fill an empty space. Verbum sap.

TOM PAINE.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—As the incumbent of St. Alban's has thought it expedient to place a statement of his views, respecting the movement, which he terms the unholy work of Anti-Christ, before the public, I should be glad if he can find time to give explanations on certain parts of his letter. I may, however, as well at once, express my dissent from his proposition that the religious questions now agitating the public mind are not suitable for discussion in the secular press. The Church of England numbers about one-fifth of the whole population of Ontario, and a matter of interest to so large a proportion of our people may fairly claim the assistance of the press. I am very sorry the reverend doctor should have descended to the use of language both intemperate and unjust towards a gentleman, who, whatever his religious opinions may be, has certainly given no provocation for the harsh terms applied to him by the Incumbent of St. Alban's.

The reverend doctor says he is no "Ritualist." Will he state then why his choir wear the dress of the Roman Catholic Church? Why they cross themselves? Why he follows, in his services, practices which have been made grounds of appeal to the Ecclesiastical Courts in England. As to the united congregation, rumor must have strangely erred, or the doctor is under a most singular delusion. The names of leading citizens of Ottawa have been mentioned from time to time as having been compelled to leave the congregation of St. Alban's owing to their dissatisfaction with the innovations and eccentricities of the incumbent, and, I am told, there are not now thirty heads of families in Ottawa (of course I don't include the choir) who attend St. Alban's, who would be got to sign a statement that they are satisfied with the way the service is carried on. Nay more, it is said that several of the most prominent members of the Reformed Church are seceders from St. Alban's congregation.

In conclusion, I should like to commend to the careful attention of the Incumbent of St. Albans the letter of the Bishop of Virginia to the Rev. Mr. Litane, as the incumbent will there see how men may differ in opinion, and yet not only refrain from intemperate language, but express themselves as christian gentlemen should do.

Yours truly,
EPISCOPALIAN.

Festivities at the Ottawa Ladies College.

A very pleasant affair took place at the Ladies' College last Saturday night, in honor of Principal Jackson's birthday. At half-past six p.m., the party, consisting of the Principal, with his family, the resident teachers, the Matron and pupils, with the Rev. Mr. Moore, Prof. Butler and family, descended to the spacious dining hall of the College, where they addressed themselves to a bountiful repast. After Rev. Mr. Moore had asked the Divine blessing, Prof. Butler arose, in behalf of the resident teachers and pupils, and in an elegant and graceful address, presented to the Principal a most elegant watch chain, as a token of the affection and esteem in which he was held by his teachers and pupils. Mr. Jackson was taken completely by surprise, but replied in a few fitting words, expressing his thanks and profound pleasure, after which the party repaired to his own apartments, where, after a short address by Rev. Mr. Moore, they enjoyed two hours of merry, social intercourse, which was, no doubt, a very welcome variety to the rigid routine of boarding-school life.

Subjoined is a copy of the address:—

My Dear Mr Jackson:

Allow me to congratulate you in behalf of the teachers and pupils assembled here to honor your birthday.

It gives me great pleasure to represent the school on this occasion.

We have now been associated together very pleasantly for seven months; that we have all been mutually happy in this great family of ours, all will agree.

We all know the deep interest you take in the welfare of your pupils, exercising over them a paternal care, as well as the more onerous one of teaching.

This morning when it became generally known that it was the anniversary of your birthday, the pupils, with one accord, voted you a token of their affection and respect.

Our worthy preceptress, Miss Walker, was consulted, and immediately devoted all her enthusiasm toward making the affair a great success. A meeting was held in Miss Walker's room, and it was voted that a gold chain be selected. A committee was formed, and this is their selection. May every link in this chain bind you closer to the hearts of the donors, and cause you to look back with great pleasure upon your first year at the Ottawa Ladies' College.

My dear sir, we all wish you many happy returns, and pray that your life may be happy and prosperous.

Accept please, the chain as our token of love towards you.

Yours sincerely,
E. J. BUTLER.

MONDAY, March 16.

Thomas Handrahan was the first prisoner. He was arraigned for drunkenness. Fined $5 and costs, or three weeks in gaol at hard labor.

Felix Paradie, was charged with assaulting Benjamin Ethier. He confessed his guilt and was fined $3 and costs.

Annie Lynch was charged with stealing $24 in bank bills, silver watch and chain and a ring from James Iville. It appears that Annie is the inmate of a house of doubtful reputation at the Chaudiere. Iville was drunk when he went to the house, and she went through his pocket The case was remanded until to-morrow morning to afford her an opportunity to produce witnesses.

CITY AND VICINITY.

NEW OFFICE.—The Dominion Telegraph Company have opened a new office in East Templeton, in the Province of Quebec.

PERSONAL.—Madame Evanturel, Chevalier Smith, and Mr. Steckel left town last evening for Almonte, where there is to be a grand concert this evening in which they take part.

BAKER'S UNION.—A meeting of the journeymen bakers of this city was held on Friday night, with a view to the formation of a "Baker's Union" for the city of Ottawa.

A CANADIAN IN ASHANTEE.—Lieut. Jones of the 2nd West India Regiment, who was wounded at Korraman and who so gallantly defeated the Ashantees there, is an elder brother of Mr. E. A. D. Jones, of the Post Office Department in this city.

AMPUTATED.—The young man Albert who had his feet so severely frozen while up the river with one of Mr. Champness' teams, a few weeks ago, has had both feet amputated above the ankle joint in the General Hospital.

TEMPERANCE IN PEMBROKE.—A new division of the Sons of Temperance has been opened in the Town of Pembroke, to be called "The Pembroke Division." Mr. J. M. T. Hannum, of this city, installed their first officers in the Town Hall of Pembroke last week.

PROTECTION.—An association has been formed in Brockville to be called "The Manufacturer's and Industrial Association of Brockville." The officers are, Wm. McCullough, Esq., President; James Smart, Esq., Vice-President; W. A. Gilmour, Esq, Secretary and Treasurer. A committee has been appointed to form a code of by-laws for the regulation of the affairs of the association.

A GRIEVANCE.—It seems that the Statute does not provide for the payment of juries attending Coroner's Inquests, and as a consequence, those who are compelled to act in this capacity feel aggrieved. In the Halpenny case the other day, the men lost a day and a half, having to neglect their own business in the meantime, and it does therefore really appear but reasonable, that some compensation should be allowed them.

TOWNSHIP OF BROMLEY REFORM ASSOCIATION.—The Reformers of the flourishing and progressive Township of Bromley have organized a Branch Association, with the following office bearers:—Chas. Ross, Esq., Bromley, President; John McLaren, Esq., Osceola, Vice-President; Duncan Ferguson, Esq., Secretary; Executive Committee, Messrs. William Groves, Geo. Brown, Henry Barr, John McIntyre, Alex. McLaren, jun., James Ross, James Ritchie.

ALBION HOTEL.—Thos Mansfield, Manotick; Rev Thos Garrett, Bearbrooke; W J Wood, Kars; H Cowan, Gloucester; Thos Little, Richmond; D Macpherson, Brockville; Faden, A Faden, H Hughes, Winchester; James Armstrong, Edward Armstrong, John Armstrong, Henry Armstrong, Thos Armstrong, Edward McDaniel, Huntley; W Richie and son, Torbolton; J Bruce and wife, Montreal.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. William McCarthy, Civil Engineer, met with a rather serious accident some days since on the Great Western Railway, at Cayuga Station, while returning to this city from a visit to the West. It appears that the conductor started the train without the customary warning, and that after the train was in motion several passengers, among them Mr. McCarthy rushed to get on board, when he slipped from the platform bruising his face severely against the rails.

NEW LAW FIRM.—The card of Messrs. Bell and Brunel who have just commenced business in Hay's Block, Sparks street, adjoining the reading rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be found in another column. These gentlemen have both had a first-class university education, and a number of years experience in Toronto, in the practice of law. From what we know of the new law firm, we have every confidence in recommending them to the people of Ottawa and vicinity.

MAJOR'S HILL.—Already this somewhat neglected locality shows signs of an improved appearance. A rough wall of stone lines the front of the old quarry pit alongside the locks, which is being rapidly filled up with debris and earth from Parliament Square. Ere mid-summer, it is altogether likely that the south end of the hill will be all raised to a level with the other and higher portions of the hill. This once accomplished, trees can be planted all over the square, and be so laid out as to make it very attractive. It is to be hoped the Government will accede to the wishes of the citizens in placing at their disposal "Victoria Square" for the purposes of a city park.

ed from his office he made a remark to the effect that he had been thinking of the past. The cause of death was the rupture of a blood vessel in the head. The deceased was 45 years of age, and an Englishman. He had been about two years in this country. He has a wife and family living in Greenwich, England. Some of his sons it is said are in the East India service. Beatley seemed to be a man of intelligence and education, but had ruined himself through drink. He possessed no funds, and a collection was taken up to defray his funeral expenses. He was buried yesterday morning in the English Church cemetery.

THE GLOBE GAS LIGHT.—The City Corporation did well last night by taking a step in the right direction towards improving the light of the city. It is simply outrageous the way the city has been treated of late by the Gas Company in the matter of lighting the public streets. Many Aldermen testified as to this unsatisfactory state of affairs at the Council Board last night. In the meantime, it is only contemplated to enter into a contract with Mr. Charles Clark, the general agent of "the Globe Gas Light Company," to substitute his fine Self Burner for the coal oil lamps now in use, and if successful, they may ultimately be made to rival the present gas lamps and come into general use all over the city.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The Pembroke Observer says:—Last Tuesday morning about ten o'clock a man named Henry Beatley, employed in the office of Messrs. Loucks and Burritt, was seized with an apoplectic fit, and died about 3 o'clock the following morning. He was first discovered by Loucks in his office, sitting with his head resting on the desk before him, as if asleep. An attempt was made to rouse him but without success. At first it was supposed that he was suffering from the effects of drink, as he was of rather intemperate habits. He was carried into another room, and laid on a sofa, when certain unusual symptoms appearing, Mr. Loucks had him conveyed to Mr. Teevan's Hotel, where he boarded. Drs. Dickson and Irwin were sent for. They tried bleeding in the temple and arm but without avail. He never completely recovered consciousness, and only spoke once from the time he had been first discovered. On the occasion of being remov-

St. Patrick's Day.

To-day, the sons and daughters of Erin will honour the natal day of the patron Saint of Ireland, by its due observance. The St. Patrick's Literary Association, and other bodies desirous of joining in the celebration of the Anniversary, will assemble at St. Patrick's Hall at 9 o'clock a.m.; to walk in procession to St. Patrick's Church. High Mass will be celebrated therein by the Administrator of the Diocese, Vicar General Dandurand. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Father Stenson. After Mass the procession will reform, proceeding through Bidly, Bay, Wellington, Rideau, Cumberland, Clarence, and Sussex streets to St. Patrick's Hall, where addresses will be delivered, after which all will disperse. A grand Concert will take place in the evening in the Rink Music Hall.

CITY COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held in the City Hall last night. His Worship the Mayor in the chair.

O. A. ROCQUE.

Ottawa, March 16th, 1864.

Moved by Ald. Bronson, seconded by Ald. Robertson, that Report No. 1 of the Assessment Committee be received and adopted. Carried.

BOARD OF WORKS REPORT.

Ald. Pratt presented the second report of the Board of Works recommending sundry improvements, also the outlay of $400 for a drain on O'Connor Street, and a like amount for a drain in Theodore Street.

Moved by Ald. Pratt, seconded by Ald. Heney, that the second report of the Board of Works be received and adopted. Carried.

Ald. Waller raised the point of order by Rule 41, as to the illegality of such a large expenditure without first referring it to the Finance Committee.

A pretty lively discussion followed in which several Aldermen took part.

Moved by Ald. Waller in amendment, seconded by Ald. McDougal, that the items for drains on O'Connor and Theodore Streets, be struck out of the report of the Board of Works just read, and that the report as so amended do pass. Lost.

Moved by Ald. Birkett, seconded by Ald. Pratt, that Rule 41 be now suspended for the time being.

NAYS—Waller, McDougal and Groulx.

FIRE AND LIGHT REPORT.

Ald. Christie presented the fourth report of the Fire and Light Committee relative to the purchase of the necessary horses for drawing the Steam Fire Engine and sundry accounts connected with the fitting up of the engine house; also a recommendation to enter into a contract with the "Globe Gas Company," to furnish new lamps patented by said Company to be used instead of the present coal oil lamps.

Moved by Ald. Christie, seconded by Ald. Pratt, That Rule, No. 41, be now suspended, and that the report of the Fire and Light Committee be adopted. Carried.

Yeas—Pratt, David, Bangs, Bronson, Christie, Rowe, Robertson and Birkett.

Nays — Waller, McDougal, Rocque, Groulx, O'Connor, Heney and Durocher.

Moved by Ald. Rocque in amendment, seconded by Ald. McDougal, That Rule 41, be now suspended, and the report of the Fire and Light Committee just read, be amended by adding after the words "be discontinued" the following:—On the first day of July next; and that the report so amended do pass. Lost.

The London and Port Stanley arrangement bill was read the third time and passed.

Hon. Mr Crooks moved the House into Committee on the liquor bill, which was passed.

The amendments made to the Committee to the bill respecting Industrial Schools were concurred in

On motion of Hon. Mr. Pardee, the bill to make valid certain sales of land for taxes in junior counties and in towns not separated from counties was read the second time.

The House went into Committee on the bill respecting public aid towards making gaol additions and alterations, and the bill was passed.

The House then adjourned.

After routine,

The Attorney General moved the second reading of the bill to make further provisions for the administration of justice. He showed the necessity of appointing additional judges, and thought that considering the increase of business and the extra work occasioned by contested elections, that four Judges would not be too many. He also proposed to pass a law abolishing stamps in Division and County Courts.

Mr. Deacon was favorable to the appointment of extra Judges, but thought that the latter part of the Bill proposed many changes which might be dangerous to practitioners, and hoped that all the clauses after the fourteenth would be held over.

Mr. Hodgins supported the Bill, which he considered a step in the right direction.

Mr. McCall objected to some of the provisions of the Bill.

The House rose at 6 o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

The debate on the Administration of Justice was resumed.

Mr Baxter thought there were objectionable features in the Bill, and it would be better to hold it over.

Mr Prince was in favor of the Bill as it stood.

Mr. Cameron did not think it fair that an important measure like this should have been brought down so late in the session.

Mr. Boultbee was in favor of the jury system which was attacked by this Bill. He believed it impossible to consider the measure during the remainder of the session.

Mr. Hardy supported the Bill generally, but objected to some of the details.

Mr. Gibson thought the machinery of the election courts could be greatly simplified.

Mr Meredith moved a three month's hoist.

Mr. McCall considered there was over much legislation in this chamber which was the result of having too many lawyers in the House.

Hon. Mr. Mowat said he had sent the bill to each of the Judges for the purpose of obtaining their opinion, and this had occasioned unavoidable delay. He hoped the bill would pass.

Mr. McManus was entirely in favor of the bill, which he considered as nearly passed as could be.

Mr. Boultbee moved in amendment to the amendment, that this House cannot avoid expressing its regret that a matter of such importance should be brought down at so late a period of the session as to preclude its being properly discussed and understood.

Mr. Boulton thought that additional Judges should be appointed, but there were objectionable clauses which might be laid over.

Mr. Cumberland asked that the bill be held over, as members had not had time to comprehend so extensive a measure in eight and forty hours.

After some further discussion the members were called in, and the amendment was lost. Yeas, 20; nays, 38.

Three month's hoist. Yeas, 8; Nays, 50.

Mr. Cumberland then moved to the effect that the bill be not read until the same shall have been submitted to the Judges of the Superior Courts with the request that they would report to this House at its next session their views on its several provisions. Yeas, 10; nays, 50.

Hon. Mr. Fraser then moved on the original question for the purpose of saving time.

Mr. Rykert said such a motion from a Minister on a bill introduced by the Government was unprecedented.

Mr. Deacon, in honor of Ireland's National Day, moved the adjournment of the House.

After some discussion, the previous question was put and carried. Yeas, 35; nays, 19.

LONDON, March 14.—The Dowager Duchess is dead.

Re-elected.

Mr. Baggaloy, member of Parliament for Mid-Surrey, Rowland Winn for North Lincolnshire, and Sir J. Elphinstone, for Portsmouth, all Conservatives, who, after accepting office under Disraeli, went before their constituents for re-election, have been returned without opposition.

Fenian Amnesty.

LONDON, March 15.—A meeting in favor of a Fenian amnesty held in Hyde Park to-day, was attended by 20,000 persons. Good order prevailed.

Dr. Kenealy.

Lincoln's Inn authorities will consider on Wednesday the charge of unprofessional conduct against Dr. Kenealy.

Bishop Imprisoned.

Advices from Rio Janeiro report that the Bishop of Parnambusco has been sentenced to four yerrs' imprisonment for continued resistance so the laws of the State.

Ashantee Expedition.

The Prince Imperial's Majority.

The tickets distributed for the celebration at Chiselhurst exceed 5 000. Among numberless presents, the Queen has sent from Windsor a flag, an order of the Garter, and also a brass plate with an inscription, to be placed over the Emperor's sarcophagus. The programme for Monday is as follows:—Mass at 11 o'clock, reception at the Camden House from 1 to 5 o'clock, the address to be read by Duke de Padon, to which the Prince Imperial will reply. Reports from Paris express fears of the demonstration. The change in the electoral law, and distress among the working classes have a tendency in favor of the cause of the Imperial Prince.

FRANCE.

Prince Imperial and Prince Napoleon.

PARIS, March 15. The Pays publishes a correspondence which shows that Empress Eugenie and her son have finally broken off relations with Prince Napoleon, because he has refused to go to Chiselhurst on Monday next.

SPAIN.

The Carlist War.

MADRID, March 15.—Marshal Serrano, with 34,000 men and 90 pieces of artillery, is now face to face with a Carlist force of 35,000 men, while Gen. Loma, with a column 8,000 strong, is moving in the enemy's rear.

ITALY.

Ecclesiastical Laws.

ROME, March 14.—In the letter of the Pope to the Roman Catholic Bishops of Austria, exhorting them to combat pending ecclesiastical bills in the Reichsrath, dated the 7th instant, His Holiness says the measures are calculated to place the church in ruinous servitude, and takes occasion to renew his protest against rupture of the Concordat. The Pope has also written to the Emperor Francis Joseph, personally, adjuring him to protect the church within his dominions.

GERMANY.

Bismarck.

BERLIN, March 15—Prince Bismarck suffers less pain; his condition is improving.

UNITED STATES.

Suicide.

BUFFALO, March 14.—A young man, supposed to be Franklin A. Cishop, of Petroleum, Pa., committed suicide at the Mansion House, this p.m., by shooting himself with a revolver through the right temple and taking chloroform. No cause assigned. Had his abundance of means in his possession.

Sumner's Remains.

NEW YORK, March 14.—In accordance with cable instructions from his Government, Minister Preston, from Hayti, among other prominent personages, will accompany Sumner's remains from New York to Boston this morning.

Union Pacific R. R.

The Times says it is believed that Jay Gould controls but one-fourth of the new board of the Union Pacific Directors.

Cespedes.

A Santiago de Cuba letter of the 1st inst. states that the body of ex-President Cespedes was viewed by hundreds of people there, but there was no particular rejoicing over it.

Cuban Items.

An Havana letter states 27 volunteers were killed in the train which was taking 400 newly drafted men to Neuvitas, the Cubans firing into the cars about five miles from Neuvitas; a large number were also wounded. A large number of Cubans continue to be arrested in the interior towns. Several Spaniards have been sent to Washington with funds to influence legislation again the Cuban cause.

Decorations.

Interoceanic Canal.

The steamer 'Gettysburg' is loading at Key West for Greytown, to which place she will take the U. S. Commission to examine the route for the proposed Interoceanic Canal. Prof. Mitchell and others are at Key West.

Discharged.

Nearly 500 men were discharged from the Portsmouth, Va., navy yard, and a large number from the Brooklyn navy yard this week.

Naval.

The frigate 'Minnesota' is to be towed to New London early next week for repairs.

Marine.

On February 26th during a heavy sea in lat. 49° 52', long. 22° 36' a volunteer crew of seven men headed by third officer Hartford, set out in a life boat from the steamship 'Algeria,' and at the risk of their lives secured the captain and seven men from the brig 'Folden,' from Callie, for Queenstown, discovered in distress with four feet of water in her hold and in a sinking condition. The 'Algeria' passengers divided $500 among the rescuing and rescued crew.

Funeral Service.

Sumner's remains left the in a special train with funeral cortege at ten o'clock for Boston.

BOSTON, March 14.—Owing to the limited size of Doric Hall it has been decided to hold the funeral service of Senator Sumner in King's Chapel.

Fire.

Talbot & Son's oil carpet factory in Norwood is burned; loss about $12 000; no insurance.

Off the Track.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14—A despatch just received from Toano says the westward bound passenger train which left here at 3.30 o'clock a.m. to-day, had the smoking and emigrant cars thrown from the track 12 miles west of this place. No lives were lost, but some of the passengers were badly injured.

Exaggerated.

Despatches received here show that the first report of the accident on the Central Pacific Railway is greatly exaggerated. One passenger coach and two emigrant cars were thrown from the track, but no serious injuries caused.

Extensive Fire.

NEW YORK, March 15—Panama papers contain an account of the fire there. It occurred on the 19th February, commencing in a hat store in the front entrance of the Grand Hotel, the hotel soon catching and burning to the ground in less than an hour. A portion of the hotel building was occupied by the bishop and several clergymen, who lost all their effects. Very little property was saved from the hotel, and the proprietor was nearly suffocated. A high wind at the time carried the flames to the adjoining property, which destroyed the City Saloon building, the building of Pedro Merino and several other large buildings. The fire raged three hours, when the wind fortunately changed, thus saving the southern portion of the place. The police and soldiers were worse than useless. They got drunk and devoted themselves to pillaging. Late at night a steam fire engine arrived from Aspinwall, which was useful to extinguish embers. The engine at Panama was useless, the authorities not keeping it in order, The total loss in buildings, stocks of goods in the numerous stores and the warehouses destroyed is between eight hundred thousand and a million dollars. Insurances are $200,000 in the Imperial of London; $105,000 in the Sun of London; $100,000 in the Northern British; $189,000 in the North British and Mercantile; and $175,000 in the Scottish Imperial.

Engine on the Loose.

ALTOONA, PA, March 14. An engine standing in the Pensylvania Company's yard, at this place, got started some way without any person on it, and ran through the round house and across the house into a large machine shop, running the entire length of the shop, over 300 feet, in which over 560 men were at work. One man was killed; another had his leg taken off, and cannot live. The engine smashed everything in its course.

DENISON, TEXAS, March 15.—The Union Passenger Depot, Adams and Texas Express Offices and thirty cars laden with merchandize were burned; loss, $40,000.

Billiards.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—A match game of billiards came off on Saturday between A. P. Rudolphe and Geo. F. Slossom, Rudolphe averaging 31. Won by 400 to 227.

Ship Burnt.

A fire broke out again on the ship 'Ailsa.' She was filled with water, her keel resting on the bottom. The loss is $100.000 on the cargo, and $5,000 on the vessel; insured in foreign offices.

Railroad Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15—A despatch from Elko gives particulars of the accident on Saturday morning on the Central Pacific Railway, ten miles west of Toano. The western bound train was one hour behind time, but was running at the usual rate of speed, when a rail broke, precipitating the rear car and an emigrant car thirty feet. The coach, which was filled with passengers, turned completely over, but the emigrant car was not overturned. Mrs. Wm. Roe, of Dundas, Canada, was seriously injured, and her condition is regarded as critical. Several other persons sustained slight injuries, but, with the exception of Mrs. Roe, will be able to proceed to their destination. Nobody killed outright.

The Death of Sumner.

BOSTON, March 15.—The death of Sumner was alluded to in all Boston pulpits to-day, and in several was the chief subject. No event since the death of Lincoln has so affected the mass of people. The body had changed so much that the committee decided it was not advisable to be seen.

Quiet.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The steamship 'Colonial' arrived from Aspinwall on March 4th; all was quiet at Panama.

Brutal Murder and Suicide.

In Brooklyn this a, m. a watchman named Delany, without quarrel and perfect sober, attacked his wife with a hatchet and beat her head into a shapeless mass. The Assassin then cut his throat, almost severing his head from his body. His wife lingers without the slightest hope of recovey. The son, ten years of age, states there was no quarrel, and the first he knew of it was blood from his father's wound spouting over him.

PRINCE EDWARD LEGISLATURE.

An Important Speech—First Meeting of the Local Legislature.

The Legislature of Prince Edward Island was opened on Thursday, 5th inst., by a speech from Sir Robt. Hodgson, Administrator of the Government.

Mr. President and Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:—

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly;—

It affords me great satisfaction to meet you in General Assembly for the first time since this Island became a Province of the Dominion of Canada. In accordance with the terms of the addresses of the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly, transmitted to the Queen when the Legislature was last in session. Her Most Gracious Majesty was pleased to issue an order in Council, declaring that from and after the first July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, this Island should become part of the Dominion of Canada. I earnestly hope that the sound material, and political interests of the province will be advanced by the union.

His Excellency the Governor General visited this Province in the month of July last, and expressed himself highly gratified with the general appearance of the Island, and the fertility of its soil, and with the loyal and warm reception accorded to him by all classes of its inhabitants.

Since the formation of the present Government, my constitutional advisers have been anxious that the tenant on the remaining proprietary townships should have an early opportunity of becoming freeholders, and have therefore, entered into communication with the proprietors, in order, if possible, to effect a speedy purchase upon just and equitable terms. The correspondence will be laid before you, and I am confident it is unnecessary for me to direct your special attention to a subject of such paramount importance.

"The Tenant's Compensation Act. 1872," and the Act in amendment thereof of last Session, are still under the consideration of the Imperial Government.

A Bill transferring the jurisdiction of controverted elections from the Legislature to the judges of the Supreme Court, and providing more effectually for the prevention of corrupt practices at elections, will be submitted for your approval, as well as a Bill for further securing the independence of the General Assembly.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly:

I have given directions that the public accounts for the past year shall be laid before you without delay. The large sums paid as compensation for damages to real estate, under the provisions of the Railway Act, have exceeded all reasonable anticipation.

The estimates for the present year will be submitted to you. They have been framed with due regard to economy and the efficiency of the public service. The [illegible] revenue under Confederation judiciously expended will, in all probability, be sufficient for many years to come to meet the charges upon it without resorting to any additional local taxation.

Mr. President and Hon. Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:—

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly:

A despatch which has been received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, acknowledging the receipt of your joint address, of last session, to the Queen on the subject of the refund by the United States of certain duties, collected in the year 1871, on fish and fish oil imported into the United States from this Province will be laid before you.

The construction of the railway is rapidly advancing towards completion, and will be open for traffic in the autumn, when farmers and purchasers of grain and other produce will be enabled to avail themselves of its advantages as a means of transport to the principal harbors of shipment.

I rejoice to be enabled to congratulate you upon the prosperous condition of the province and of the healty state of the trade.

During the past year a kind Providence has blessed the labors of the husbandman with an abundant harvest, and the products of the soil have met with a ready and remunerative market.

I now leave you to the performance of the duties of the session, trusting that under the Divine blessing your deliberations may tend to the welfare of the province, and secure the happiness and contentment of its people.

EXTENSIVE FIRE AT WOODBRIDGE.

ABELL'S AGRICULTURAL WORKS DESTROYED.

A Safe Blown Open.

THE BUILDINGS FIRED BY THE BURGLARS.

LOSS, $200,000.

WOODBRIDGE, March 14.

This morning, about half-past three o clock, the office of Mr John Abell'se machine shops was discovered to be on fire. The principal building stood twenty or thirty feet from the line of the street, and a few years ago an office attachment, one story high, had been carried forward to the street. This contained three apartments, used as outer and private office, Montreal Telegraph office etc. The business of the Works had much increased of late, and the office work had become very straining on the principals, Mr. John Abell and his brother Mr. Henry Abell, and in consequence, they were often during the winter as late as twelve and even two o'clock, in the office. Last night they left the office at half past twelve. The burglars had, no doubt even then been watching for they had matters far enough advanced to blow open the safe in the office about three o'clock. It is a small matter of satisfaction to know that they did not get more than perhaps ten dollars in cash. The outer door of the safe was perforated by a square hole about three-fourths of an inch in size; and from its appearance, not much dependence had been put in the sharpness of the cold-chisel, for the iron is much driven inward, as if heavy blows with a sledge had been used. It had then been blown open with powder; but the inner door and lock were still intact. The key hole of the inner lock had then been enlarged by a blow on the round punch, and powder introduced in the lock, with the result of shattering the door and laying the contents of the safe open, No remains of two tin cash boxes are to be found, and the presumption is that they were carried off for examination by the burglars. These contained all the notes of hand and other securities for money belonging to the firm. It is barely possible these may yet be recovered.

What next happened can only be conjectured. The office was found to be on fire within a very short time after the explosion was heard. Two or three persons who heard the deep muffled sound of the explosion thought little of it, as noises at late hours often proceeded from the works. But the glare of fire was soon seen, and the alarm raised. Mr. Campbell, the toll keeper at the bridge adjoining the premises, saw two men going up toward the centre of the village, and scarcely past the works, when he raised the alarm. They must have heard him, but paid no attention. He supposes them to have been the desperadoes who had done the deed. Probably they calculated that the rifled safe, falling down in the bottom of the fire, would keep their secret for at least a day, till they got to a safe distance; but the safe rested above a stone wall, and was so secured as not to fall down.

The proprietor, though living at some distance, was almost immediately on the spot, and with some of his men worked most heriocally to get up steam on the steam pump. This they did, and got one branch going, but it was too late. The fire was roaring like a thousand demons over their heads, and to save their own lives they had to desist. There were no appliances for extinguishing fires in the village, except the fixtures in the works themselves. Two extensive ranges of buildings, three stories in height in front, and running back about three hundred feet, full of the most expensive machinery and tools, and a large yard piled with the most valuable sorts of seasoned lumber, all a smoking ruin The loss is variously estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000. There was no insurance, Mr. Abell judging that the great premiums payable on such "hazardous" property could be better expended in perfecting appliances for self-protection. His precautions were very perfect, but the idea of burglars setting fire to the works was one that was scarcely entertained.

One hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment, and much sympathy is expressed for them, for many of them are men with families.

It is very touching to hear the men expressing sympathy for "the boss." "We could all have lost our tools," said one of them, "without saying much, if the shop had only been left."

Some suspicious characters had been seen about the place for a day or two past.

A man was arrested this morning on suspicion of being connected with the gang of burglars. As yet, nothing very definite has transpired to point to his guilt. The Toronto police have been communicated with, and it is hoped the detectives may soon overhaul the guilty parties.

DIED.

On the 15th inst., Mary Ann Taylor, beloved wife of David Manchester, aged 30 years.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, Queen Street, Chaudiere, to-day, (Tuesday), at 3 o'clock, p. m. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend without further notice.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the ever changing phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all tha proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially elucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable feature and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for DR. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption its Early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hospital.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it to be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

"I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the Linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 10 cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkalme, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Billious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Billious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Billious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here, and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent readers in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for a subscription to these the LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twins" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines," shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

"Felt for Hats and Boots:"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

DOMINION NEWS.

THE MISSING BOY.—On Friday last we mentioned the fact of a boy named Tompkins, seven years of age, having been missing since the 21st of February. It now seems that the youngster, whose family had moved from Ingersoll, leaving a married sister there, had found his way to the station and went on board a train to get to that place. He happened to go with a box car, out of which, the train having started, he could not get, and he was landed at his destination. After remaining in Ingersoll some time, the young rover was returned home by his sister, nothing the worse of his travels. —Chatham Planet.

MOOSE HUNTING IN MANITOBA.—David Edie, son of C. Edie, Esq., of South Cayuga, writes from Manitoba, that about the last of January he started on a hunt, and the second day out came on the track of three moose, and after following them some distance came within shot of them, and wounded the largest in the shoulder, which he followed, and after planting four balls in her the huge animal fell. Two days after he went with his oxen and sleigh and brought it home. The moose weighed, after being dressed, 518 pounds, which realized, at 25 cents per pound, over $150.

THE BRICK MACHINE COMPANY.—The "Philips Improved Brick Machine Manufacturing Company (limited)" apply in the last Gazette for a charter of incorporation, and state that the place at which the machines are to be manufactured are Montreal, Galt, Hamilton, Toronto and London, with the head office at the latter city. The amount of the capital stock of the Company shall be $200,000, with power to increase the same to $500,000, the stock to be divided into 4,000 shares, of $500 per share. The names of the first Directors are John Geary, John Rowe Mickinnick, William Beresford, Duncan MacMillan, Ralph John Parks Morden, James Harry Thorp and Frank William Noble. Messrs Macmillan and Taylor are solicitors for the applicants.

THE NORTHERN RAILWAY.—In another column will be found the report of a meeting of the original stockholders of the Northern Railway. It would seem that a few of these desire to have representation at the Board, but from the figures quoted, it appears, that the sum of paid up original stock, exclusive of that received from the city of Toronto and the county of Simcoe, only amounts to £9,300. The debentures of the Northern amounts to £861,500, the Dominion lien to £475,000, and the arrears of interest to £350,000, making a total of £1,686,500 sterling. If every interest representing £10,000 were to represented at the Board, they would require to be something like 170 representatives there! It will, therefore be seen, that the suggestion thrown out at the meeting is an absurd one, and that Toronto and the county of Simcoe having reason to be satisfied with the general advantages derived from the Northern Railwal, the remaining original stockholders ought to be satisfied with the ratio of representation that satisfies greater creditors. —Toronto Leader.

Money.

Money is a drug in New York; there is a large unemployed surplus, although offered as low as 2 to 3½ per cent. The New York banks are exceptionally strong, having a reserve of nearly $90,000,000, or about $22,000,000 more than the 25 per cent. required by law to be held. Mercantile paper is very easily discounted at 5 to 6 per cent., with only a small supply offering. In England the bank rate is maintained firmly at 3½, with a reserve on the 14th February of £12,193,000, against £15,123,000 at the corresponding date of last year. At the same date the bank rates of discount in the following cities were: Paris, 5 percent.; Berlin 4; Bremen, 5; Frankport, 3½; Amsterdam, 4; Brussels, 4; Leipzig, 4½; Vienna, 5; St. Petersburg, 6½. Money in our chief cities is seductively easy; but there are few borrowers. Some of the smaller banks have been lending in Montreal on call at 5 per cent., but the larger banks decline to compete, and will not lend under 6 on call. They are satisfied that another month will disclose a legitimate demand for money, and to place it on the street now is only to foster speculation. It is much more expedient to lose a little for the time, from money lying idle, than to put it into the hands of speculators to make bad debts with. Exchange is without demand; and in fact money matters are at a stand-still so far as the banks generally are concerned.—Monetary Times.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 2517

NATIONAL ANNIVERSARIES.

The man who said "the spirit of a nation never dies," must have had countries like Ireland, particularly, in his mind. Come rain or snow, storm or shine, the son of the Emerald Isle never fails to turn out to do honour to his ancestral home and the cradle of his race. He proudly sports the national colour or emblem: a green ribbon or rosette being made to do duty for the real shamrock itself when it is not procurable. The Irish girls, too, are as brimful of the national spirit as their brothers, fathers, or, what are perhaps a little closer still, their sweethearts. The various devices of taste and ingenuity find skilful manifestation in the attire and adornments of the ladies, who make liberal display of the popular green, without any suspicion of verdancy in knowledge or natural endowments. The bright, cheerful countenances of these sons and daughters of Erin on the Festival of St. Patrick, prove not only the natural buoyancy of their spirits, but their pride of race and veneration for the old Island, so happily set in song and sentiment, as the "gem of the ocean." Its children carry with them to America and all other lands, a rich supply of its perennial freshness and brilliancy. The reflection of this ocean gem is seen in the eyes of the girls and the wits of the boys. Come toil, penury or hardship, the Irish fire never pales, the spirit never flags, being as ready to leap and flash as were the swords of Ireland's sons at the sight of the "proud invader," in the days of those exploits of Malachy, immortalized in classic verse. We live in an age of practical consideration, when all aim and effort seem directed to the ignoble hunt after mere wealth. It is especially desirable at such a time to keep the iron of base, hard materialism from wholly entering the human soul. The feelings or sentiments were not created to be sacrificed at the shrine of Mammon. There ought surely to be something fresh, child-like, self-sacrificing in the nature of men nowadays—some self denial in their actions and objects. While worthy deeds and traditions deserve commemoration, and the element of patriotism respect and cultivation, there is no need for exclusivism or sectional prejudice. Every sensible, true-hearted Irishman will respect the feelings of an Englishman on St. George's Day, and a Scotchman on St. Andrew's, because he loves his own old land, venerates her worthies, and exults in her glorious achievements. We have no confidence in a man totally devoid of sentiment. Patriots and enthusiasts in good causes are never made of such stuff; nor can we conceive of better material out of which to mould and build up a healthy, potent and beneficial national sentiment than that love of those old countries from which our people have sprung, and that admiration of those heroes and triumphs which are held up to us as such powerful factors in the great results of that liberty and civilization whose blessings we now so abundantly enjoy.

FINANCIAL RETURNS.

The statements of financial returns published in the Official Gazette are criticised by the Monetary Times with some severity, but evidently with the best intention. It has been made evident that errors have crept into those statements to an extent that operates against their utility, and that weakens public confidence in financial compilations that, perhaps, should be absolutely correct. The errors that have arisen in the Bank Statements as published in the Gazette, are due to the desire to get the latest returns included. But from the irregular way in which the returns come in from the banks it has been very difficult to have the proofs properly checked and revised. The errors, hence, are of the typographical character; and the statements will be found quite correct in the records of the Finance Department. We learn that Mr. Langton, the Auditor-General, under the instructions of the Minister of Finance, has sent a circular to the Banks informing them that if their returns do not reach Ottawa by Wednesday they will not be included in the statement in the following Gazette. The suggestion of the writer in the Monetary Times, that the printing should be proceeded with as each return comes in, is of course impracticable, but with Thursday and Friday intervening between the day of receipt and that of publication the statement could be properly made out and checked and the printing made perfectly accurate. It is desirable that the Bank Managers will give attention to the wishes of the Auditor General in this particular, which they must do if they would have correct information go to the public of the standing, each of himself and of his rival in business.

In the same critical article our contemporary refers to the Statements of Dominion Notes in circulation, and of the Saving's Banks, and asks certain questions as to what precautions there are for the accuracy of these. As to the circulation, the statements do not give, nor do they profess to give the exact amount in circulation at any particular date, but only the latest information which the Auditor General has from returns received from the several Assistant Receivers General at the date of publication, and the dates of the returns are given in the statement. Thus the last published statement is based on the returns from Toronto and Montreal to March 7th, but on that from Halifax of February 28th, and from Winnipeg of an earlier day of the same month. It would be quite easy from time to time to publish in addition the real state of the circulation, say on the last day of each month, when all the returns are in to that date, and this supplementary statement might be in greater detail shewing the denominations of all the notes outstanding with the fullness and accuracy of the Audit Officer records. Our contemporary also asks several questions as to the Dominion notes, to which we may answer that the stock of notes and gold on hand are periodically verified by the Financial Inspector; that the old Provincial notes and mutilated Dominion notes are cancelled and destroyed as they are sent in, and are written off the books. As to precautions against fraudulent issues the Assistant Receivers General use all due care in redeeming the notes, as is also done at the Audit Office in writing them off before destroying them. Mr Langton informs us that he has found a few cases of attempted alterations of the denominations of notes, such as converting a $1 into a $10; but with the exception of one suspicious fractional received lately he has had no reason to believe that there has up to the present time been any attempt at a fraudulent issue.

As to the Savings Banks, they are inspected at least one once a year, and the more important ones oftener. There are kept in the Finance Department complete books of all the Savings Banks from the returns received from the managers, and as a further precaution the Auditor General sends out twice a year circulars to each depositor shewing the state of his account at a certain date, and requesting to be informed if this differs in any way from his pass book. In respect of all the points raised, our contemporary may be well at his ease, if only the Bank Managers will co-operate with the Auditor General's Department in the timely forwarding for publication of their monthly returns.

THE PROGRESS OF CANADA.

It is pleasant to notice the cheerful tone pervading the speeches by which the Lieutenant-Governors of Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island have just opened their Legislatures. We, of old Canada, are happily relieved of that strain of complaint and denunciation with which, on similar occasions, a few years ago, we were so disagreeably familiar. No longer are the feelings of the people of the Western Provinces ruffled by unfriendly accusations and censures, nor is the offensive and menacing word "grievance" seen in Provincial utterances. An era of peace and harmony has succeeded, in which the sentiments of one part of the Dominion have become very like, if not identical with those of the others, and the interests of each a matter of concern to all. There is, happily, no longer a feeling of jealousy or hate on the part of the Eastern towards the Western man; both have learned to know and respect one another, and have cordially worked together, of late, for the common welfare. We are glad to see Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island proclaiming the prosperous state of their circumstances, including a thriving trade and sufficient revenue for all local wants. This is an agreable contrast to the complaint of deficits or difficulties in regard to the making of both ends meet, so frequent in former years. We naturally feel a peculiar interest in the state of the tight little Island so recently admitted to the Dominion family. It now reaps the benefit not only of such natural advantages as a recent good harvest, but of the wise provisions of its rulers and the legislators of Canada. While the necessaries of life are at present abundant and cheap, the Island Government has sufficient revenue for all public purposes without increasing the strain of local taxation. The railroad through the Province is also well advanced to completion, thus improving the facilities of the farmers and fishermen for the transportation and sale of their products. Good as has been the condition of the Lower Provinces of late years, and very much in consequence of their increased communication and trade with Quebec and Ontario, there is every prospect of material improvement by the continuance and extension of these advantages. The Intercolonial Railway should be completed in twelve months from this time, and we should have swift and safe communication, by steamers connecting with the terminus at Halifax, with P. E Island and Newfoundland. Besides, some of the projected railroads through New Brunswick, direct to the St. Lawrence, such as the River du Loup and Woodstock, and the Lennoxville and Lake Megantic, will so shorten the trip from the Western Provinces to the seaboard as not only to encourage the settlement of our interior districts, and foster a valuable local trade, but give a great impetus to the through trade of the grain-growing and manufacturing regions of Quebec and Ontario, with the Maritime Provinces and countries beyond sea. There is no manner of doubt that, within two or three years, our four main Provinces lying between the Atlantic and Lake Superior, will be knit much more closely and profitably than at present by at least three railroads between the St. Lawrence and tide-water. Manitoba, also, will shortly be in connection with Ontario by water and rail, or the latter all through, from Thunder Bay to Fort Garry, so the means of intercourse and inter-Provincial trade at all seasons of the year will be gratifyingly abundant. There is no need to enlarge upon the advantages to be anticipated. The East has resources, in plenty, of which the West stands in need, and the West can produce commodities in profusion required at the seaboard, and not within its capacity. The different portions of the Dominion can thus be made very helpful to one another, while all the time becoming better acquainted, and more impressed with the variety and value of the resources of the whole Dominion. Among the useful results will be moral as well as political gains. Our people will become more homogeneous, united in spirit and patriotic, their love of Canada growing with their admiration of her prosperity, energy and vast natural advantages.

A deputation of manufacturers arrived in the city, yesterday. They interviewed the Premier and the Finance Minister. We do not see the necessity for their coming here, and it is quite possible that by this time they fail to see it themselves. Of course the Government could not indicate to them their fiscal policy, or even hint their intentions in that respect. It is not probable that the delegates could have supported their position with argument, since they could scarcely have had time, and certainly could have advanced nothing new upon the subject. They acknowledge having been well received by those members of the Government to whom they were presented, but say what is equivalent to saying that they would leave Ottawa no wiser than they entered it. They were unquestionably a highly respectable body of gentlemen, and they could not have failed to impress the Premier and the Finance Minister in that sense, if they did fail in the other and more important purpose of converting those Ministers to their peculiar views of political economy.

There was a peculiar fitness in planting the beautiful new banner of the Catholic Young Men's Society opposite the St. Andrew's Church, yesterday, till the head of the procession and a considerable portion of the organizations had passed. The flag, ablaze with religious devices and national symbols, was then carried to appropriate place in the ranks, forming a glittering guide, with its fringes and tassels of gold, to the Societies in the rear. The handsome Greek Cross of the Presbyterian Church—for the old Calvinistic prejudice against such emblems would appear to be dying out—seemed to smile with an air of complacence and dignity upon the Latin Cross of this flag, while some thoughtful North of Ireland men, could not help remarking that its detention at that spot was a new and delicate compliment to St. Patrick who was a Scotchman and, as the late Dr. Stewart of Armagh and other followers of Knox and Calvin contend, was a Presbyterian into the bargain. Be that as it may, the brilliant banner in question formed a striking contrast to the tower of the splendid Gothic Church, which bears the name of another decent Scotchman, a "brither Scot," St. Andrew. If the stationing of the flag was designed to honour St. Patrick's nationality, it was a happy thought, deserving of general imitation; and if such a practice were continued for any time, every son of Auld Scotia would feel tempted to turn out to swell the processions, in honour of Ireland's national day.

CITY AND VICINITY.

STEAMSHIP ARRIVAL.—The steamship 'Austrian' arrived in Portland on Monday evening, so that an English mail will doubtless be distributed in the Post Office this morning.

PERSONAL.—J. Forin, Esq., Contractor, of Belleville, has arrived in the city, and is staying at the Union House. It is with pleasure we note the arrival of Mr. Forin, as his principal mission here is to proceed with as little delay as possible, with the erection of the proposed new Normal School.

A TIGHT PLACE.—A man yesterday undertook to drive a large load of hay into the yard of a hotel on Rideau street, but he soon found that he had reckoned without his host, for he became firmly jammed in the gateway. How the sleigh and load of hay were extricated, we are not in a position to say, as we left the man meditating seriously as to the best method of attaining that object.

ESCAPED.—Constable Patterson, of Almonte, lost a prisoner at Brockville a couple of days ago, that he was bringing from Lindsay to Almonte for trial, he having obtained goods in one of the stores of that village under false pretences. It seems that instead of giving his prisoner up to the police authorities at Brockville, he allowed him to occupy one of two bed rooms, comprising a double suit of rooms in the St. Lawrence Hall of that place. When he awoke in the morning his bird had flown, having leaped from a bed-room window, 15 feet, in order to make good his escape.

Augustus Robeuil, same offence, was fined $3 and costs.

William Caldwell was also up for assaulting his wife, but the case was adjourned for one week.

Anthony Gilespie, using abusive language to George Smith. The young lad was reprimanded and let go.

The Great Female Job Moses' Periodical Pills.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied upon.

TO MARRIED LADIES,

It is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

"These Pills should not be taken during the First Three Months of Pregnancy, as they are sure to bring on Miscarriage, but at any other time they are safe."

In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affections, Pains in the back and limbs, fatigue on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, hysterics and whites, these pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed, and although a powerful remedy, do not contain iron, calomel, antimony, or anything hurtful to the constitution.

Full directions in a pamphlet around each package, which should be carefully preserved.

JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.

$1.00 and 12½ cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., general Agents for the Dominion, will ensure a bottle, containing over fifty pills, by return mail.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Enthusiastic Celebration

A TRULY IRISH HOLIDAY.

Yesterday was a day to our Irish fellow-citizens, dear from the hallowed memories that each and every one of them cherish towards the land of their forefathers. We embrace all, for there is scarcely an Irishman to be found who does not, on the recurrence of such an anniversary as St. Patrick's Day, feel the sentiment of the poet re-echo in his heart, when he says,

> "Breathe's there a man with soul so dead,
> Who never to himself hath said—
> This is my own my native land."

This feeling is strong in the Irish people generally, from the warm and impulsive nature of their hearts. Their attachment to their country is proverbial, and will live while their celtic nature blooms and influences civilization. Ireland, noted for its fertility of soil, its emerald valleys, has attractions of a moral and social as well as national character that make it admirable to others than those of Irish birth or parentage; hence we cannot but esteem that fidelity and love of country that pervades the Irish people. Independent of these considerations, there are other circumstances peculiar to the early manners and customs of the Irish people, that enchain their affection to old associations. Her poets, patriots, statesmen, men famed both in literature and art, have so enriched the historical records of Ireland, that it becomes almost an impossibility for Irishmen to alienate themselves from the fond memories woven by a glorious ancestry. Last but not least, the Irish people revere their Clergy with an ardour seldom or ever found amongst other nationalities. This fidelity, was at a very early period manifested towards Ireland's great Apostle St. Patrick, when he dispensed to its people the blessings of Christianity many centuries ago. No wonder his fame is immortal as the heroic Saint, of that sea girt isle, to whose people he was one of the first, if not the first, to preach the Holy Gospel. In Ottawa, yesterday, the recurrence of his anniversary was made the occasion of much rejoicing. From early dawn the sons and daughters of Ireland might have been seen promenading the streets in true holiday attire, determined at least to give one day out of the whole year to perpetuate the recollections of the dear old Fatherland. The weather was anything but propitious, for when morning dawned, the clouds lowered, and gave indications of very gloomy weather indeed. It however cleared partly off, and although not such a day as might be desired, yet it was not so disagreeable as to prevent the carrying out of what to our mind was the finest celebration that has ever taken place in Ottawa.

THE RENDEZVOUS.

St. Patrick's Hall as early as eight or nine o'clock became the place of rendezvous, where all those who were to participate in the day's festivities assembled. The procession was then duly formed by Mr. M. Starrs, Chief Marshal, who was ably assisted in his somewhat arduous labors by Messrs. Killduff, McCann and Battle of the Temperance Society; Messrs. Roche and Neville of the Catholic Young Men's Society, and Messrs. Christian and McKenna of the St. Patrick's Literary Association.

The following order of procession was then formed:

Chief Marshal.
Union Jack.
Governor General's Guards Band.
Ottawa Fire Company.
Marshals.
Banner.
Christian Brothers' Schools.
College Band.
Banner.
Students Ottawa University.
Marshals.
Union Band.

Catholic Young Men's Society.
Marshals.
Marier's Band.
Banner.
Temperance Society.
Marshals.
Cornet Band.
Irishmen Generally and Descendants.
St Patrick's Banner.
St. Patrick's Literary Association.

Fully three thousand men must have walked in line of procession, and as many more spectators lined the route of procession. After forming at St. Patrick's Hall, the procession moved through Sussex, Rideau, Sparks and Hugh streets, to St. Patrick's Church. The bands discoursing in the most lively strains, some very fine Irish melodies, on the march to church.

THE CHURCH.

The work of decorating the interior of an unfinished building where bare walls and gaunt looking rafters, and seats of the plainest class meet the eye, to the disparagement of any architectural beauty the edifice may possess, is no easy one, and considerable taste and ingenuity is required to make anything like a presentable appearance. However, so far as St. Patrick's church was concerned this morning, there was ample proof that the Rev. Fathers Collins and Stenson were equal to the emergency, for they, with the assistance of Mr., Mrs., and Miss Dodd, Mrs. McFarland, Miss McCurdy, Miss Quinn, Miss O'Brien, Messrs. Fern and Philton, and several other members of the congregation, effected quite a transformation in the aspect of the somewhat dreary looking edifice. Gay festoons of green, red, and white material depended from the roof to the sides of the church; six wreaths of evergreens also being hung immediately over the middle aisle. The altarpiece was a masterpiece of decorative are. Over it was erected a pink canopy, from the centre of which were festoons of scarlet and green, the ends falling on the summits of eight pillars, draped to match the festoons. On the head of the altar proper was a beautifully decorated Maltese Cross, from a design by Father Collins, who indeed is to be credited with the whole of that portion of the ornamentation. Crimson drapery and white lace curtains surrounded the whole, tall candles, and colored lamps placed among vases of beautiful artificial flowers, and in such a position as to have their light reflected by mirrors judiciously arranged, formed a most brilliant coup d'oeil. At the base of the cross before mentioned, was a double row of red lights, which flashed back by the bright ornaments produced a most pleasing effect. In the centre of all was a fine statuette of the Patron Saint in full canonicals, mitre, crosier, and all the Episcopal insignia. This was flanked by two large and handsome coloured lamps, and from tall tapers of white wax. The table was covered by a white cloth with a lace border. The steps of the altar were covered with a fine carpet of rich pattern, and altogether considering the difficulties under which the work was completed, it may justly be termed at once a success and handsome and tasteful in the extreme.

Early Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father O'Connell, of Richmond, and the many persons who attended it, retained their seats until ten o'clock, the hour appointed for the High Mass. Long before the time, however, the church was completely crammed, there being scarcely standing room left. In the interval Miss Green, who presided at the organ, entertained those present with a selection of Irish airs, which she played very sweetly. At ten minutes past ten, the procession entered the church headed by the Union Jack, the band playing the good old spirit-stirring air of "St. Patrick's Day" in most vigorous strains.

The following clergymen were present:—Very Rev. Administrator D. Dandurand, sang High Mass, the Rev. Father Chalice, acted as Deacon, Rev. Mr. Coffee as Sub-Deacon; present at the Mass—Very Rev. J. Tabaret, Rev. J. J. Collins, Rev. Dr. O'Connor, Revds. J. Stenson, Pallier, Malloy, Barrett, O'Connell, of Richmond, Gay, of Wakefield, Bovier, of Arnprior, and several clergy from the College.

The mass was celebrated in the most solemn and impressive manner, the musical portions of the service being unusually well rendered.

was preached by the Rev. Father Stenson who took for his text the words "I have chosen you and I have appointed you, that you go forth, &c." He went on to say that in the life of man there were days of sorrow and days of gladness. They were there to celebrate an event which had not been their lot to witness, which was one of gladness; he spoke of Passion Week as an instance of the days of sorrow. He spoke of the Patron Saint's Day as being one ever fresh and ever new. He thought it but proper that they should devote a short season to noting the virtues of one who was sent by the Lord, and worked out Ireland's salvation. He said the hour was fast approaching when again a great and rich gift, that of universal religion would be given to Ireland. He held that the celebration of such festivals of this kind as being of great importance, and after enlarging most eloquently upon this theme, he proceeded to enter into the history of St. Patrick, with which many of our readers are familiar. He extolled the Saint as being a miracle of faith, and held up his early life and religious fervour while in captivity as an example most worthy to be followed. He adverted to his self-sacrificing nature as shown in his leaving home after his escape from bondage and going on his mission to Ireland. After a most severe course of study, under the learned men of the day, he was ordained and sent forth 'chosen of the Lord,' by Pope Celestine. When the Apostle arrived in Ireland, he was met by kings and princes who were gathered to greet him; all that pomp and grandeur could effect was employed to do him honor, but he went, lowly of mein, humbly clad, and cross in hand. They knew that he was no Druid, for they knew not the cross, but when he made himfelf known to them he was received with the greatest delight, as one who had come to save them. The mission of St. Patrick was a perfect success, and soon the morning sun ceased to rise upon the altar of the Druid, and Christianity reigned throughout the land. Truly he was a miracle of good. The preacher then spoke of the persecution which in the days of old dishonored their priests, and desecrated their altars. But there had been days when the nations of the earth were not ashamed to name Ireland as being the Isle of Saints. If nature, reason, and religion be good, noble, and true, then does religion require from them the veneration of one who is now in the mansions of his Father. The love of fatherland and St. Patrick must live in their hearts, even although they were far distant from it. The love for their country could never die out of their hearts so long as they might live in the present land of their adoption. In this day of exile they might like Joseph did on waking from his dream look upon the glorious Church of Ireland rearing its head heavenward, and showing how much she loved her sons. The great Saint has been a good friend to them, as he had brought to them the tidings of Blessed Mary, the spotless Joseph, and the Saviour. To-day the Saints of Heaven were rejoicing over the doings on earth in honour of their own dear St. Patrick, the father and patron of Christianity. The Rev. gentleman concluded a sermon, which occupied three-quarters of an hour in delivery, and was marked with great ability, by drawing a beautiful word picture, in which he said that the wearing of the shamrock on their breasts was emblematical of the Holy Trinity, and a scriptural meaning in the eyes of all true Irishmen.

A collection was then made, and the money collected will be devoted to the purposes of St. Patrick's Church.

THE CHOIR.

The singing was under the direction of Mr. R. Devlin. Miss M. Green presided at the Organ in her usually able style. Before the commencement of the Mass, Miss M. A. Turgeon gave a selection of Irish airs, raising the spirits of the vast crowd assembled by reminding them of the land of their birth. The Mass sung was "Peter's Mass in D." Mrs. McGarr, a lady possessed of great musical talent, sang the "Laudamus" in the "Gloria" and the "Domine Deus" in the "Credo." Mr. T. Lawrence sang the "Crucifixus" in the "Credo" very nicely. The tenor solo "Quoniam" was also very well rendered by Mr. A. Marrier. But the principal feature in the whole affair was the "Inflammatus" from Rosinnis "Stabat Mater," sung at the Offertory, by Mrs. McGarr, who also accompanied herself on the organ, the choir joining in the chorus with very good effect. At the end of the Mass, the "Laudate" by (Zingarelli) was sung by the whole Choir in a splendid manner, Mrs McGarr taking the solo parts. On the whole the musical performance was very good and highly creditable to the St Patrick's Choir.

AFTER SERVICE.

At the conclusion of the service the procession reformed, and proceeding through Biddy, Bay, Wellington, Rideau Dalhousie, Clarence and Sussex Streets, again reached St. Patrick's Hall. Upon arriving at the hall it was found utterly impossible to enter the building so that a temporary platform was erected in front of the Hall from which the different speakers, about to address the vast assemblage could be heard. Mr. Waller, President and the other officers of the St. Patrick's Association, accompanied by the Rev. Fathers O'Connor and O'Connell, and Messrs. M Battle and John Heney came through an open line of procession formed by the Ottawa Fire Company, towards the platform, being lustily cheered as they passed through. Just as they approached the platform, the Guard's Band struck up 'St. Patrick's Day." The President then addressed the assembly to the following effect:—

He said another year, pregnant with events, had rolled away since last they had met, and again they had assembled to do honour to the memory of Ireland's glorious apostle, and manifest the feelings of warm love and attachment that within them lived for their native land. This was the sixth or seventh year in succession that he had both the honour and pleasure of addressing them a few remarks on St. Patrick's Day, and as he was no gifted orator it was difficult for him to say anything that he had not already touched upon previous occasions. As most of them knew he was a Tipperary man—would not have been born anywhere else even if he had the choice—and this being the fact, if he were to make a speech, or could make one at all, he must have something to contend for—some one must tread on the tail of his coat, or on the corns or coat tail of the cause he espoused, for, in the absence of some such stimulus he was a passive kind of mortal, and a very poor hand to make a speech. The first speech he ever attempted to make was on that platform six or seven years ago—and a stormy day it was in every sense of the word—and the spirit of his remarks was, that it was their right and privilege in this country to celebrate their national day; that they should never let Irish sentiment freeze up in Canada; that they should always keep green in their souls the memories of the old land while true to the new, and one day out of three hundred and sixty-five, and that the Seventeenth of March, afford evidence of practical attachment to the home of their childhood, by peaceable and orderly public demonstration; by marching in procession to the inspiriting strains of national music; by unfurling their green banners to the breeze, and displaying on their breasts, above their hearts, the dear little shamrock of Ireland. (Cheers.)

> "Oh the shamrock,
> The green immortal shamrock,
> Chosen leaf of bard and chief
> Old Erin's native shamrock,"

When they forget the land where it grows on the mountain tops, and in the valleys, and on the graves of their sires—the land of the cowslip and daisy, the primrose and hawthorn—the land of lightheartedness and song, of honour and virtue, and unbounded hospitality—the land of Emmett and Fitzgerald, of Grattan, Curran, and O'Connell—when they forget that dear old land, and all its fond scenes and associations, and cease to commemorate the anniversary of its glorious Apostle, let them inherit the scorn and contempt of every other nationality. (Cheers.) But there was no danger they would ever forget old Ireland, no matter where their lot might be cast on the face of the habitable globe. The tenacious ivy would first cease to cling to the native oak, and to the walls of the ruined round towers and castles of the land, and the sweet-smelling woodbine to entwine with the fragrant hawthorn before the exiled children of Ireland could forget the old land of their birth. Often, throughout the year, did some of them revert to the home of their youth, but to day the whole of them in thought re-visited its sea beaten shores, but only to joy for a moment in the fond memories of the past, and then sigh for the friends they should meet there no more. The feelings that haunted them to-day of home and friends, and childhood's happy homes, were pure and holy feelings of an exalted kind—feelings of devoted children towards an honoured mother—feelings of reverence, gratitude, and of love—feelings in affinity with heaven, quickening the soul's sensibility, and softening the impulses of the heart. Feelings, notwithstanding their alloy of sadness, he hoped they might live to experience over and over again, on each succeeding St. Patrick's day, (Cheers.) While thus warmly affected and attached to their native land, they were second to no other component of the population in their loyalty and devotion to this their adopted country. In fact in these annual celebrations they not only gratified the generous impulses of their nature, but conferred a benefit on the land they lived in by holding out an inducement to their countrymen at home, who had to emigrate, to come to Canada. One thing of all others this country required to make it a great nation—as it is destined in the future to become—and that was a large, hardy, and industrious population. Its climate was healthy and invigorating; its inhabitants free and enlightened, and its resources almost exhaustless, inviting millions of willing hands and ardent minds to engage in their development and receive a rich reward for honest labour. The extent of its territory was equal to that of the United States, but while that great and progressive country had a population of over forty millions we had less than five millions of the whole Dominion. Thousands of the hardy sons and daughters of Ireland were emigrating annually to the continent of America; they made as good settlers and citizens as any other people that landed upon our shores, and anything that tended to attract them here was in the interest of this country. The Irish people had an affinity of feeling for one another, and in leaving the old land they liked to go where they would find their countrymen in numbers to meet them; and when, therefore, they learned in Ireland that the Irishmen of Ottawa and Montreal, Quebec, Kingston and Toronto, annually in thousands, celebrate St. Patrick's day with bands of music and flying colors, and held concerts in the evening, and sung the songs of old Ireland, they had the false impression removed that Canada was only a land of wild bears, savage Indians, and perpetual snow, and had a strong inducement afforded them to come to this country (Cheers.) It was in the interest of their native land also to a certain extent that they should celebrate St. Patrick's day in the land of their adoption. Their country men at home, Protestant and Catholic alike, and all having the prayers of the venerable Archbishop of Tuam—the father of his people—for their success—were labouring earnestly and patriotically for the restoration of Ireland's rights in the resuscitation of her ancient parliament—and they would get it before they stopped—and he hoped they would all live to see them get it. The movement engaged in by priest and minister—Protestant and Catholic alike—was called the Home Rule movement, and it was astonishing that so many well informed persons in Canada should be so ignorant of its true intent as to look upon it as an effort at entire separation from Great Britain, and the establishment of a Republic in Ireland. It means nothing of the kind. All that Home Rulers asked for was that Ireland should occupy the same position to the throne, that the Government of Ontario does to that of the Dominion, or the Dominion itself to the Crown of England. She asked for her own Parliament composed of the Queen, Lords, and Commons of Ireland; to manage her own internal affairs, leaving all high treaty making matters affecting the Empire as a whole to the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain and Ireland. This right he pined for? the absence of it made her disloyal and discontented, and in the interest of the British Empire as much as in that of Ireland, that right must be conceded to her and at no distant day. (Cheers.) The Home Rulers asked for nothing for Ireland to-day, but what we would ask for to-morrow in Canada, if England attempted to legislate for us, or deprived us of our Parliament. There were over a million of Irishmen in Canada, and three-fourths of them were Home Rulers, and anything that tended to make that fact known at the other side of the Atlantic, had its influence for good on the Home Rule movement. These annual celebrations tended to make that fact known, and in seconding the demand for Home Rule for Ireland, the Irish in Canada were no enemies of, but friends of the British Empire, for Ireland was England's strength or weakness, and until the measure of justice she now demanded was granted to her, she would remain a weak spot in the Empire. (Cheers.) He concluded by congratulating the processionists on the success of the national demonstration, and by reminding them of the grand concert to take place this evening in the Rink Music Hall.

SISTER SOCIETIES.

Mr. Waller then read the following telegrams:—

QUEBEC, March 17.

To St. Patrick's Society.

"The Irish Catholic Benevolent Society greet you on this great festival. Five societies in line of procession honouring the day."

J. SHEA,
President.

TORONTO, March 17.

To W. H. Waller:

The Irishmen of Toronto, to the Irishmen of Ottawa, "Greeting." "Home Rule for Ireland."

J. L. TROY,
La Salle Institute.

To Mr. W. H. Waller, President of the St. Patrick's Association.

KINGSTON, March 17.

The Irishmen of Kingston, to the Irishmen of Ottawa, greeting. "Home Rule for Ireland, the Divine prerogative of a free people,"

P. DOGHERTY,
President of St. Patrick's Society.

To the Secretary of St. Patrick's Society.

THOROLD March 17.

The Irishmen of Thorold to the Irishmen of Ottawa greeting. "Home Rule" is, and shall be, our motto. God save Ireland."

JOHN BATTLE.

He then read the following, which he would submit to the assemblage for their approval, and if sanctioned by them it would be in Dublin ere sundown. (Loud cheers.) Here it is:

OTTAWA, March 17.

Isaac Butt, Dublin.

Irishmen of Ottawa heartily sympathize with the Home Rulers in efforts for restoration of National Parliament.

W. H. WALLER.

Dr. O'Connor was next called for. [illegible] coming foward he expressed the pl[illegible] that it afforded him, to have again, on St. Patrick's Day, the opportunity of addressing his fellow-countrymen and country-women. He felt somewhat [illegible] vous in following the ponderous gentleman who had so eloquently addressed them. (Laughter.) He was afraid when he observed the gloomy appearance of the weather in the morning, that they were going to have a disagreeable day, but it proved to be the contrary; but even if it had not, he knew that no sort of weather, however gloomy or stormy, could cast a gloom over an Irish heart. (Cheers.) St Patrick's Day he said inspired a [illegible] of joy and happiness among Irishmen the world over. Fond reflections were cherished of that dear old land, noted as being the Isle of Saints, of men of science and of those who were foremost in the great work of civilization. Millions he said, did honor to day to the land of their fathers; for there was not a spot on the universe, where the sun of heaven sent its brilliant rays, that did not bear some of the footprints of Irishmen. In Asia, in India or Australia might be found those who to-day, with us, cherished fond memories of Ireland. It mattered not, he said, whether born in the country or not, the same blood coursed through their veins; and neither frost, snow, nor any other element could congeal the warm impulse that throbbed in every Irish heart on St. Patrick's day (cheers.) He adverted to the Home Rule Movement now agitating Ireland, and expressed his cordial sympathy with the Movement. He hoped he would not be impeached with treason in thus expressing himself, especially as a was policeman here. (Laughter) He said there was no treason in Home Rule. All can remember how the cry of treason was raised when Mr. Gladstone was about to redress Church and tenant-right grievances; but now these measures had been granted and were not deemed so [illegible] able after all. It was the same with this new movement, there was no treason in asking for the people of Ireland only asking the same privileges that we as Canadians enjoyed in the free exercise of our Parliamentary rights. Home Rule was sure to come, and he hoped to live to see it, and that soon, the day, when an Irish Parliament would once more meet on "College Green," in Dublin. [Loud cheers]. He believed the day was not distant when a grand Imperial policy would federate the British Empire, whereby every colony would have a voice in the general parliament, yet leaving each the right to manage its own local affairs. He said the last speaker had made a good deal of capital out of the fact that he was a Tipperary man; but he thought he was an improvement in this direction as he was two-thirds a Tipperary and one third a Waterford man (Loud laughter) He concluded by stating that he was a family man, and that as the proceeds of the concert to-night was to be devoted to the maintenance of his family, he would ask each and everyone present to visit the concert, and thereby contribute to the support of some 90 orphan children, who now occupied the St. Patrick Orphan Asylum. The Dr. retired amid loud applause.

The Rev. Father O'Connell, of [illegible] mond, was the next speaker. He [illegible] pleased to have the privilege, on [illegible] anniversary of St. Patrick's Day, of addressing the sons and daughters of Ireland. He listened with pleasure, also, to the orators who had preceded him, [illegible] thought it needless for him to [illegible] them at any length, after hearing [illegible] eloquent addresses. He said he had great reason to rejoice [illegible] at the large number who had turned out to do honor to their country's [illegible] saint. He viewed with intense [illegible] the condition of Irish affairs [illegible] trasted with 300 years. He was [illegible] hear the Tipperary men speak [illegible] tory of their country. They were good fellows, but he could not allow them to have all the credit to themselves. He claimed that Cavan had done much for Ireland, notwithstanding that it was the seat of wealthy estated gentlemen, [illegible] might astonish persons present, yet [illegible] the fact, that Cavan had returned a Home Ruler to the present Parliament. Ireland he said owed much to her patriotic [illegible] Daniel O'Connell started the first of the great movements to liberate the [illegible] people; he having succeeded in [illegible] emancipation. Other sons of Ireland in emulation of his noble and patriotic example, have followed up the good [illegible] and succeeded in doing much to [illegible] Irish grievances. He trusted that the day was close at hand, when [illegible] would crown the exertions of those who were now agitating for Home Rule. (Cheers.)

Mr. Martin Battle and Ald. Heney followed in short but expressive speeches which were well received.

Three cheers were then given for the Marshals who conducted so admirably their part in the day's proceedings. [illegible] cheers were given for the Ottawa Fire Company, and three cheers for the President of the St. Patrick's Literary Association, after which all dispersed.

THE CONCERT.

In the evening the grand annual concert of the St Patrick's Literary Association took place in the Rink Music Hall, and artists of high repute, English, [illegible] French and German cordially assisted in the programme designed for the honour of the Patron Saint of Ireland's nationality. Long before the hour appointed for the commencement of the concert the specious hall became filled to its [illegible] capacity by a large, appreciative, and respectable audience, and as each [illegible] the various nationalities, and prominent persons entered, they were loudly cheered.

The chair on the platform was occupied by Mr. W. H. Waller, President of the St. Patrick's Literary Association, and on either side of him were the Hon. [illegible] Mackenzie, Hon. R W. Scott and Hon. [illegible] O'Connor, D. S. Eastwood, President of the St George's Society, Dr. Grant, President of the St. Andrew's Society, Dr. St. [illegible] M. P., President of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, Professor Tiepke, President of the German Society, P. C Ryan, President of the Catholic Young Men's Society, [illegible] Starrs, Grand Marshal, St. Patrick's Literary Association, Judge Armstrong, [illegible] Buckman, American Consul, D. O'[illegible], Alderman Heney, and a number of Catholic clergymen, and of the Christian Brothers.

At a quarter past eight o'clock the concert began with the overture to the opera of 'Othello,' by Gowan's band, after which the President of the St. Patrick's Literary Association addressed the audience.

Mr. Waller said that having had the honour of being elected resident of the St. Patrick's Literary Association for the third time in succession, the duty devolved upon him of presiding there to-night. On behalf of the Society he bid them the Caed Mille Failthe. For these [illegible] was glad to see so large an attendance. First, because it was illustrative of the vitality of Irish national feeling and sentiment at the Capital—of veneration and respect for the memory of St. Patrick and of unalterable attachment to the land of his labors, the green isle of the west. (Cheers.) His second reason was that out of the proceeds of such a magnificent house, the prospect presented itself of their being able to give something handsome to the St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum—a worthy institution, deserving of sympathy and support; and his third reason was that a rich musical treat awaited them at the hands of talented amateurs and by Ireland's gifted daughter, [illegible] which they could not well afford to miss. As he had committed himself more than once on that platform to the theory that long speeches would be out of place on an occasion of that kind, he would only trespass on their attention with a few remarks concerning the St. Patrick's Literary Association, under whose auspices the day was celebrated, and of whose present prosperous condition he felt assured they would be all glad to learn. The Association in a few years had paid off [illegible] debtedness of nearly $3,000, [illegible] in addition had purchased [illegible] piano for their hall—an optical instrument, and scenes for winter evenings' entertainments—opened a well selected library and reading room for the use of their members, and had also within the last eighteen months paid over $600 to worthy and charitable purposes. They had now an unincumbered real estate and movable property to the extent of over $7,000, a condition of affairs that few other national societies in Canada could boast of. (Cheers.) Between the St. Patricks Literary Association and the other National Societies of Ottawa, the best and most friendly feelings existed, as was shown by the presence of their representatives on the platform this evening. That was only as it ought to be, as in Canada the Englishman, the Irishman, the Scotchman, the Frenchman, and the German found a common country, with equal rights and privileges, and a wide field for unrestricted operation, and their true interest lay in being friendly towards one another and united, and all working together for the general good (Cheers.) He trusted that the present good feeling existing between the several national bodies in Ottawa would long continue to be characteristic of the whole people of the Dominion of Canada. In conclusion, he thanked them for their kind attention to his remarks." (Cheers.)

Mrs. Parsons then appeared, and sang the song "Longing" very nicely; after which Mr. Adam sang splendidly Claribel's favorite ballad "Come Back to Erin," and was loudly applauded. The next artist who appeared was Mdlle. Rosa D'Erina, from whom, of course, great things were expected, and, that the audience realized fully her great voice and manifest ability, was evidenced in the enthusiastic and continued applause with which she was greeted after each of her performances, each of which was inexorably redemanded. At the special request of the Hon the Premier, her last song was the "Last Rose of Summer." It was quite refreshing to hear this celebrated artiste sing the air pure, and simple, as it is written in "Moore's Melodies," without any of those insane variations which singers of incomparably less ability than she, almost invariably introduce, and in which the "Last Rose" is so pulled to pieces, that barely a leaf remains on the stem. Mrs. Kearns played a piano solo of her own composition; and it is needless to say it was played in faultless style, and Master Harris, a juvenile Scot, sang "The Hundred Pipers," and was honoured with an encore. Hon. Mrs. Scott and Miss Willis also sang, and were both received with marked applause.

Mr. Waller next read a telegram from Sir John A. Macdonald, from Toronto, apologizing for his inability to be present; after which the Hon. A. Mackenzie made a short address. He said he would best consult the feelings of that large influential audience by allowing them to listen to the beautiful melodies rendered by Ireland's gifted sons and daughters, than by occupying them with a speech. The magnificent demonstration he witnessed there shewed him, that, although separated by thousands of miles from their native shores, their hearts were still inseparably bound with the Green Isle; and he did not believe that an Irishman, Englishman, or Scotchman, loved his country less because he had a heart in the prosperity of his adopted country, Canada. (Applause.) On some other occasion he would be delighted to address them on certain prominent points in the history of Ireland. While we all might well rejoice that, at length, tardy justice had been done to Ireland by the English Legislature; and at the peace and prosperity which marks an era in Ireland's history, we might also hope that an era of peace and prosperity were marked in the history of the nations of the world. (Loud cheers.)

Addresses were next delivered by the Presidents of the St. George's, St. Andrew's, St Jean Baptiste's Societies, the Mayor, and Rev. Dr. O'Connor; after which the second part of the programme was proceeded with. In this portion, Madamoiselle Rosa D'Erina, was kind enough to sing, not only her allotted songs, but those of Mrs. McGarr, who was prevented from attending by illness. Mrs. Shepherd sang in good style "St. Patrick's Day;" Madame Beaubien sang "Oft in the Stilly Night;" and Mr. Marley played a violin solo, with pianoforte accompaniment by Miss Turgeon. Mr. J, A Fraser next sang twice, playing his own accompaniment; after which Mr. Shepherd sang "Cruiskeen Lawn." It was a pity that the many talented amateurs present were not requested to sing the chorus of this favourite melody, as it was sung in the "Colleen Bawn;" for not only would it have added greatly to the song itself, but it would have varied a little the programme, which consisted throughout of solos. The performance concluded with the National Anthem.

The Stewards were Captain McCaffrey, Messrs J. M. Goulden, Egleson, O'Connor, and Slattery, all of whom promoted in a great measure to the complete success which attended the entertainment.

TORONTO.

Local Legislature.

TORONTO, March 17.

The Speaker took the chair at 11.20.

After the routine,

Hon. Mr. Pardee introduced a bill respecting the sale of pine by settlers in the Free Grant Districts of Parry Sound and Muskoka.

Hon Mr Crook's Liquor Bill was read the third time, and passed.

Hon. Mr. Pardee's Bill to make valid certain sales for taxes of land-in towns not separate from counties, was read the third time and passed.

Hon. Mr. Fraser's Bill to establish Municipal Institutions in the Districts of Parry Sound, Muskoka, Nipissing, and Thunder Bay, was read a third time and passed.

The House then went into Committee of Supply.

Unforseen and unprovided expenses, $50,000 were passed.

The following items were then passed after some discussion: Asylum for insane, Toronto, $32,000; do, London, $31,181; Inebriate Asylum, Hamilton, revote, $68,886.

The Committee then rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.

The House adjourned at 1 30 p.m.

The Speaker took the chair at 3:15.

The Bill respecting aid towards Gaol alterations and additions, was read the third time, and passed.

The Hon. Mr. Crooks moved the House into Committee of Supply.

The Hon. Mr. Cameron said it appeared that work had been given out by the Government without tender, and he wished to test the sense of the House on this conduct. The alterations of the Hamilton Inebriate Asylum; the cottages for the insane at London; and $1,530 worth of work at the Central Prison were all given out without tender, and he did not think the country would approve of this. He moved an amendment of great length, enumerating cases referred, and concluding by the statement to the effect that the House does not approve of work being given out without tenders being invited.

The Hon. Mr. Fraser said that the work of the Central Prison was taken from Mr Elliott because it was clear he could not carry on the work, but there was no political motive for it was hardly possible that at the time the work changed hands the Government could have foreseen the Mos.-Bickford election. There was certain latitude given to Ministers with reference to giving way and he challenged the Opposition to shew that too high prices had not been given to any contractor engaged by the Government.

Mr. Boultbee supported the amendment.

The members were then called in and the amendment lost. Yeas, 23; Nays, 42.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, and the following items were passed:—Provincial Reformatory, Penetanguishene, $8,870, Central Prison, $59,492; Deaf and Dumb Institute, $7,618; Blind Institute, $4,934.

The House rose at six o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

The House went into Committee of Supply.

The following items were passed: School of Agriculture, $14,249; School of Practical Science, $200; Normal School and Education Office, $12,000; Normal School, Ottawa, $94,768; Osgoode Hall, $1,500; Government House, $2,000; Parliament and Departmental Buildings, $5,000; Court House and Gaol, Sault Ste. Marie, $5,000; Lock-up and Gaol, Thunder Bay, $6,000; Lock up and Gaol, Nipissing, $2,000; Registry Office, Parry Sound, $100; Registry Office and Lock-up, New District of North Victoria and Parry Sound, $3,000.

The Committee rose, reported, and asked leave to sit again.

The House adjourned at 12:15, a.m.

Sir John A.—Contested Elections—St. Patrick's Society.

Sir John Macdonald arrived in the city last night and is staying with Hon. G. W. Allan.

The following additional seats have been contested:—North. Perth, Monteith; North York, A. H. Dymond; South Leeds, D. F. Jones.

St. Patrick's Day passed off, so far, quietly. The attendance was large, but not as large as usual, as some Societies refused to march owing to a Union Jack being carried in the procession. High Mass was celebrated at St. Michael's Cathedral. D. J. O'Donoghue, M. P. P. for Ottawa, drove in a carriage with Father Shea in the procession.

Hon. C. F. Fraser appeared in the House to-day wearing a green rosette.

It is rumored that Hon. Mr. McKellar will retire at the close of the session, and that Mr. Christie, North Wentworth, will be taken into the Cabinet. The rumour gains credence.

BOWMANVILLE.

West Durham Election.

BOWMANVILLE, March, 16.

Robert Armour, Registrar has received the writ of election for West Durham to fill the vacancy caused by the acceptance of office by the Hon. E. B. Wood, and it has been fixed on the 27th of March for the nomination and the 4th of April for polling day.

LANCASTER.

Ontario Prohibitory League.

LANCASTER, Ont., March, 16.

A public meeting, under the auspices of the Ontario Prohibitory League, was held here this evening, A. McDonald, Esq., in the chair, Mr. H. S Watson, in an earnest effective and logical speech, clearly showed that prohibition of the liquor traffic should be made the paramount issue at the polls. Rev. Mr. Macpherson, Messrs. Ross, McDougall and McInnes gave earnest addresses. Strong resolutions were passed in favor of prohibition being the paramount issue at the polls.

HALIFAX.

Death of Judge Bliss—Ashore—Sudden Death.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 16.

Judge Bowers Bliss, one of the retired Judges of the Nova Scotia Bench, died this morning, aged 79 years. He represented Hhants County in the Provincial Parliament for a number of years previous to his elevation to the Bench.

Work on the new railway from Sydney to Louisburg, C. B., has commenced.

The packet schooner 'Juliet,' from Halifax to St. John, went ashore at Petite Passage, near Digby, on Friday, and has become a total wreck. Some of the cargo may be saved.

The steamer 'Alpha' arrived from Bermuda and St, Thomas this afternoon.

A young man who had just returned from New York to his friends in Boularderie, C. B., while receiving the congratulations of his mother the other day, fell down and expired.

OWEN SOUND.

Saw Mill Burned.

OWEN SOUND, Mach 16.

Early on Sunday morning the steam and saw-mill near Kilsyth, Township of Derby, belonging to Mr. James Corbet, was totally consumed by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown, loss about $2,000; insured in the Niagara Mutual for $1,000.

ENGLAND.

Remains of Dr. Livingstone—Elected—Re-Elected.

LONDON, March 16.—Gen. Wolsely will go to Malta or Allen to meet the remains of Livingstone, and escort them to England.

Mr. Hall, Conservative, has been elected to Parliament for Oxford City by 462 of a majority.

At Chiselhurst to-day, in the morning, mass and thanksgiving services were held, after which the Duke of Padua addressed the Prince in the name of the people of France, congratulating him upon having attained his majority. The Prince in reply returned thanks to his countrymen for their faithful remembrance of the late Emperor and in conclusion said: "Despite the confidence inspired by the loyalty of McMahon an irresistible current of public opinion has been pronounced in favor of a plebiscite. I am ready to accept its verdict." Camden House, residence of the Prince, is gaily decorated. Among the French present were Ollivier and Roher and Duke de Grammont.

FRANCE.

Capture of Republican Troops—Examination of DeKeratry.

BAYONNE, March 16.—The Carlists, under Saballo, captured in the Province of Gerona a column of Republican troops, marching to the relief of the town of Olong.

PARIS, March 16.—M. Keratry was examined by a committee of the Assembly, to-day, in relation to the charges preferred against Gambetta. He testified that Gambetta, while a member of the Government and National Assembly, purposely refused arms to Bretons, that they might suffer defeat and be unable later to fight the Commune, the rise of which was already anticipated.

SPAIN.

Carlist War.

MADRID, March 16.—The Carlist leader Trestony, has been defeated in Taragona. It is reported that the Carlists have raised the siege of Bilboa.

GERMANY.

Contradicted.

BERLIN March 16.—A report that Prince Frederick of Prussia is to make a tour of the world next summer is contradicted.

UNITED STATES.

A Volcano in the United States.

RALEIGH, N.C., March 17.—Bald Mountain, in the western part of North Carolina, is in a state of volcanic eruption.

It is stated that farm houses and cottages along the sides and base have been prostrated by a subterranean convulsion, and many of the inhabitants have fled.

A thin vapour issued from the top of the mountain. A low, rumbling sound is audible over the entire surface, and the snow melts as fast as it falls.

The Famine in Bengal.

CALCUTTA, March 17.—The distress from the famine in Bengal is increasing.

Many thousands of natives are dependent on the Government for food. In the Ticherrot district a hundred thousand persons in an emaciated condition have made application for relief within ten days.

Mexican Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The United States and Mexican Commission are busily at work, having last week decided 39 clims. The Umpire still has under consideration the Mexican claims for indemnity, owing to the Indian incursions; the ground assumed by Mexico being that the United States, under treaty of Guadaloupe are responsible for them.

Personal.

The President has a severe cold, and is not in the official portion of the Executive Mansion to-day.

Judge Dent's Condition.

Judge Lewis Dent still lingers, with no apparent change, but he is evidently in an irrecoverable condition.

Post Mortem Examination.

BOSTON, March 16.—An autopsy of the body of Senator Sumner was made this morning, and the report will be published.

Fire.

OSWEGO, March 16.—T. J. Dorr's hardware store, Maenster Wort's bakery, and Kerr Brothers' grocery store, were burned yesterday. Loss, $30,000; insurance, $17,000.

The Fete at Chiselhurst.

NEW YORK, March 16.—A London despatch states that some seven thousand people were at the Chiselhurst fete to day. An address was read to which the Prince replied. He said the presence of such a large assemblage on this occasion, showed alarm of France for her future. He considered a plebiscite as the only salvation of the country. If decision was against Imperialism, he would accept it. If in favor of restoring the Empire, he was ready to accept the responsibility of the Government. His address was received with enthusiasm.

Marine.

NEW YORK March 16.—The barque 'Jupiter,' from New York, arrived at Gibraltar, having experienced heavy weather and lost master and several sailors overboard.

Light House Arrangements.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Light House Board gives notice that on and after the opening of navigation in the spring of 1874, fixed white lights will be exhibited from sunset to sunrise on every night thereafter during the season of navigation from the new light house at Bluff Point, Vancouver Island, on the west side of Lake Champlain.

Funeral of the Late Chas. Sumner.

BOSTON, March 16—The obsequies of the late Chas. Sumner took place at half-past three o'clock this afternoon in King's Chapel. The remains were conveyed from Doric Hall in a hearse drawn by four horses, escorted by a force of mounted State Constables, followed by a procession of Executive and Legislative authorities, Congressional Committees, and a delegation of United States officials, Municipal authorities and other bodies. The casket was borne from the Hall down the steps, the band playing the "Dead March in Saul." In accordance with Governor Washburne's proclamation, bells were tolled all the time the procession was moving. Vast crowds, numbering many thousands, gathered in the vicinity of the State House and King's Chapel, and lined the route of procession.

MEXICO.

Ecclesiastics in Trouble.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 10, via Havana, March 16.—At Ahualulco, in the State of Jalisco, last Sunday morning, a priest delivered an incendiary sermon, in the course of which he advocated the extermination of Protestants, that so excited his hearers that an armed mob of 200 persons gathered in the evening and proceeded to the residence of Rev. John Stevens, Congregational Minister sent out by the Boston Board of foreign missionaries with cries of long life to the priests. They broke into the house and seizing a clergyman, smashed his head to a jelly, and chopped his body into pieces, they afterwards sacked the house and carried off everything of value. After much delay, the riot was suppressed by the local authorities. The Government has sent a detachment of troops to the place. Rigid investigation has been set on foot, and orders issued for the arrest of all parties in Ahualulco and the neighboring town of Tesbitan. A mob in Sayuga, acting under similar religious frenzy, attacked the small garrison of the town, burned public archives, and pillaged the houses of the authorities.

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Electric Oil!—Worth Ten Times in Weight in Gold.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,

GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named, and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst., at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for this Sale and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale,

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all tha proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak an humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilization—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Landington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take shoice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense, and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption : its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that subtance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell Montreal.

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at 25 cents per box.

Caution.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

"SAVORY & MOORE,"

The Original and only Manufacturer Chemists to the Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, H.I.M. Napoleon the Third, His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, &c.,
143 NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE
ALCOHOL
DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms, except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

'Felt for Hats and Boots;'

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

Insurance Company.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

CAPITAL . . £2,000,000Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

St. Patrick's Day at Kingston.

The speech of Mr. O'Reilly, Q. C., at Kingston, on St. Patrick's day, was a very able one, and decidedly worthy of note. The following is an extract from it:

"Although the true friends of Ireland have not been successful in England, in Scotland and in Ireland, they are in the majority. The home rulers of the Irish National party have been successful beyond anticipation, and the large number of eighty-two good men and true (the number is prophetic!) have taken their seats in the British House of Commons, pledged to secure for Ireland the management of her local affairs. (Cheers.) The Irish people are determined never to cease agitation until this is accomplished, and may heaven strengthen and encourage them to the end. Irishmen are charged with being factious, fond of political excitement and turmoil, I deny the charge. That they have kept alive a spirit of resistance to unjust penal legislation, I admit, and who could blame them? Since the days of Henry Grattan and the volunteers of 82 they have been engaged in an arduous struggle to emancipate themselves and free their country from as degrading a thraldom as the world ever saw. They have been and are still forced to maintain political warfare, and will continue to do so until Ireland is entrusted with the making of her own laws and the administration of her local affairs. It is a great principle the Home Rulers contend for. Home Rule has been conceded to Canadians, and why not to Irishmen? The equilibrium of the Empire would not be disturbed by the concession. On the contrary, I am convinced it would add to England's stability, and increase her influence with other nations. Granting self-government to the Hungarians, has not weakened Austria, and we know that self-government and a free parliament in Canada have strengthened the bonds that unite her to the Empire. In the event of war none would be more ready to maintain the connection and uphold the honor of the Empire than Canadians, whether by birth or adoption. (Cheers.) That Irishmen in Ireland are fit for self-government ought to be apparent by this time. There can be no better evidence of her ability to manage her local affairs than the successful management of her trade and monetary institutions. Ireland has a number of banks yielding large dividends far in excess of those of the banks of this country, sustained by Irish capital and managed by Irishmen. To show the confidence reposed in their stability no less sum than one hundred million of dollars are now on deposit in Irish banks. We hear of no Irish banks breaking or becoming insolvent. In like manner with her trading and other corporations. The wisdom and economy displayed by Irishmen in their management show that they are a provident if not a progressive people. As to their progressiveness where they have a fair chance of displaying it, we have only to look to the chief cities of Europe and America and there will be found abundance of evidence to establish the fact. The Irishman's capacity for business and for accumulating wealth is second to none. And in vieing with men of other nationalities in the arts, the sciences and in the learned professions they are famous the world over. (Cheers.) Why then cannot they be entrusted with a home legislature to enable them, untrammelled, to develop the resources of a country so richly endowed by nature as theirs? My countrymen, I have faith in the public sentiment of England, and that it will at no distant day be the means of securing for the sister kingdom the inestimable boon of a local Parliament. Englishmen may fancy that they know how to govern Ireland, so far they have failed notwithstanding the honest and earnest efforts of their most accomplished statesman, the brilliant William Ewart Gladstone. I admit that modern Ireland owes much to the liberal statesmen of England, and that Mr. Gladstone accomplished all that public opinion permitted him to accomplish in the removal of Irish grievances and in satisfying the Irish people. There is a very easy way to make them forget the wrongs and oppressions of the past, that is to restore to them their own Parliament in College Green. (Applause.) Now my friends I have a word to say to you about Canada, for after all, as much as we love Ireland, where the ashes of our forefathers rest, our devotion and duty to Canada are paramount. Canada ought to be our first consideration as adopted citizens of the finest and best governed country on earth, and where civil and religious liberty are secured to all by those constitutional guarantees that only freemen can fully appreciate. Even here in free Canada, attempts are made for political purposes to arouse hostile feelings between Catholics and Protestants and to evoke the religious rancour that has been the cause of so many heartburnings in the past. Before Confederation the Protestants of Ontario may have had fears, which have since proved unfounded, of the political dominancy of the Catholic Province of Quebec, but since each Province possesses a separate Legislative Chamber, these fears ought wholly to disappear. In the present Ontario Assembly there are only three Catholics, although Catholics are one to five of the population. In the Government there is one Catholic, but in positions connected with the House not one. In all Ontario there is only one Catholic Judge, and he is only a junior or second-class County Court one! There are no Catholic Sheriffs, and but two or three Clerks of the Peace and County Attorneys. All the chief offices of the country are in the hands of Protestants, so that there is no rational ground for Protestants feeling alarmed, and the feeling, if in existence, is kept alive for party purposes only."

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 251

The Ottawa Times

THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1874.

George Lefroy, of Toronto, is gazetted a landing waiter and searcher in Her Majesty's Customs in that city.

The Hon. A. B. Foster, Senator, is in town, for the purpose of attending a meeting of the Directors of the Canada Central Railway.

Mr. Brydges, Managing Director of the Grand Trunk Railway, and Chairman of the Board of Intercolonial Railway Commissioners, is in the city attending to the business of the latter office.

A proclamation in yesterday's extra of the Official Gazette announces that the Acts "respecting the shipping of seamen," and "relating to shipping and for the registration inspection and classification thereof" have received the Royal assent.

An extra of the Official Gazette issued yesterday notices the appointment of Hon R. W. Scott to the Senate vice Hon. Samuel Mills deceased; E. G. Penny of the Herald to the Senate vice Hon. Jas. Leslie deceased; and Hon. E. B. Wood as Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench of Manitoba.

The Honorable Richard Hutchinson, of Miramichi, formerly member of the House of Commons for the County of Northumberland, New Brunswick, and at one time a member of the Hon. A. J. Smith's Government of New Brunswick, arrived in this city yesterday, and had interviews with the Prime Minister, and with several other members of the Government. He had also a lengthened interview with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries during the day.

Lieut.-Col. I. W. Powell, Indian Commissioner for British Columbia, and brother of Lieut. Col. Walker Powell, Acting Adjutant General, arrived in the city yesterday. He is here at the invitation of the Government, in connection with the Indian Affairs of British Columbia. Apart from five days detention on the Pacific Railway, owing to heavy snow-drifts, the journey from B. C. was made in a fair and reasonable time, and the Colonel looks none the worse for his very long trip. During his stay in Ottawa he will remain with his brother, the acting Adjutant General.

JUDICIAL REFORM IN ONTARIO.

There can be no two opinions with regard to the strength of the case made by the Attorney-General for the increase of Judiciary in Ontario. The enormous growth of the population and business of the Courts, within the last quarter of a century protests energetically against the limitation of the bench to the strength adequate at the commencement of that period. Judges no doubt, when qualified and willing may, by extra exertions, get through more work at one term than was called for on some former occasions; but it does not seem reasonable that they should be expected to sustain a strain looked for at the hands of no other body of workers, or think that they could rise to the demands of a business that had quintupled within a couple of decades. Mr. Mowat, himself an experienced lawyer and judge, is able to appreciate the wants of the public and the bench in this matter, and he has but acted in accordance with his duty to both in submitting his present measure. The consequence of the present numerical weakness of the bench is great inconvenience and loss to a large number of suitors at law. Some of the Courts are largely in arrear with the cases on their rolls, particularly the Common Law; the Attorney General stated that at the last Toronto Assizes it was impossible to dispose of all the cases left over from the previous assizes without touching one new case. The number of writs issued from the Process Office rose from 672 in 1870 to 983 in 1873. The cases at the spring assizes in 1871 were 373, and in 1873, 658, those of the autumn assizes rising from 473 in the former to 696 cases in the latter year. The county cases disposed of in 1870 were 677, and in 1872, 994. It is difficult for a layman to form a correct idea of the enormous amount of labour involved in the efforts to keep pace with this extensive increase of legal business, which must be expected to expand in future in a ratio corresponding to that of the past.

As an intelligent, conscientious jurist Mr. Mowat has studied how to remedy the existing defects with their attendant evils, and has brought down proposals for improvement in the machinery and procedure of the courts, designed, and, we believe, calculated to achieve these desirable results. Mr Hodgins but gave voice to the general opinion in proclaiming the unfortunate effects of the present imperfect system, most readily described in the phrase "losses and delays," with respect to the truth of which even the enemies of the bill and its framer agree with him. Going to law under any circumstances is the reverse of agreeable, except to the gentlemen of the long robe, but when the ordinary risks and delays, even in cases where suitors have right on their side, and which are formidable enough, in all conscience, are seriously aggravated by the shortcomings of an inadequate, overworked judiciary, the enterprise in question assumes the aspect of a positive hardship, sometimes ending in real misfortune. There is no reason why such a state of things should be allowed to continue, to the annoyance and injury of the public, when there is any means of putting an end to it within the power of the Government. Three, four or even half a dozen judges' salaries would be a small price to pay for the disposal of the arrears now encumbering the dockets, and the establishment of prompt, efficient tribunals equal to the demands of the public business. In the case of the present measure, the Opposition, as usual tried the game of faction and obstruction. Some thought the bill should have been brought in earlier, which the Attorney General explained could not have been done, since the opinions of the judges on it were being obtained. Others imagined that the minor changes proposed were of doubtful expediency, the design of Mr. M. C. Cameron and friends being to delay and defeat the measure for the present, or in any way snatch a victory from the Government by means of it. With this object Mr. Merrick moved the three months' hoist, and the leaders of the left discovering, after a little discussion, that this was a too summary and suspicious looking process, and above all not likely to succeed, Mr. Boultbee was put up to try another shot, in the shape of an addition to the motion for a second reading, of a clause expressing regret that the measure had been delayed to so late a period in the session. This mild-looking censure Ministers properly repelled. And why not? Should not reforms, for which there has long been crying need, be accepted at any part of the session, and particularly when it is patent they could not have been brought in earlier under the same advantage of mature consideration, guided by all the information obtainable? Better late than never in this as in other matters. But the fact of a session being several weeks old is no reason for the postponement of good legislation on very important subjects. If it were, how easy would it not be for factious parties to retard indefinitely, if not kill off all desirable proposals of amendment that did not suit their fancy? Our legislators may be very important men, and their time exceedingly precious, but the making of good laws is work worthy of even their attention, late or early, and they should not enter Parliament if not prepared to devote a considerable amount of time to its duties. They meet at a season whose business calls are neither very numerous nor urgent, and a country, not wholly ungrateful, makes them some pecuniary allowance for the valuable hours spent in the handling of public affairs and grievances. With regard to the opposition in the present case, again did a large majority condemn their frivolous, dishonest objections, and endorse the timely action of the Premier. There is a gratifying prospect, therefore, of a great legal reform within a very short time.

We have just received a St. Augustin Gazette with a letter from a young American, who spent part of the winter here. It is so complimentary to Canada, and especially the Governor General and family, that we are sure every one will like to see it have a place in our columns. No one can say too much of the hospitalities of Rideau Hall, except that the list of who is who? is at times faulty—they want a Canadian attache, we humbly suggest. Col. Irvine's loss having never been replaced.

The Prince Imperial of France has boldly assumed the duties of manhood with his eighteenth birthday, and the risks and responsibilities of candidature for the sceptre of his country. The gathering at Chiselhurst was a grand affair, whether the number of Frenchmen present be considered, or the importance of some of the courtiers. Members of the nobility and the Legislature, including such well-known, able and influential public characters as Ollivier, Rouher and the Duc de Grammont were in attendance to give eclat and political significance to the occasion. The Queen, herself, seems to have contributed to its interest and success as, at least, a social and friendly demonstration, by the despatch of the Garter and other presents calculated to gratify and benefit the young Napoleon. In reply to the address of congratulation and loyalty presented to him, he declared his attachment to the Napoleonic device of the plebiscite, and his willingness to be bound by its decision, whatever it might be. The assumption also expressed, that France was not satisfied with the present state of things, notwithstanding President MacMahon's loyalty—to the constitution must be intended, though not mentioned—was doubtless intended to foster discontent, if not to faithfully describe an existing condition of feeling. There is unquestionably an Imperialist party in the Republic, side by side with one not satisfied with the present regime, which is considered but temporary, and not very worthy of a prospect of permanency. Whether Napoleon's friends will increase to any material extent is a problem dependent upon various circumstances for solution. The Royalists have helped him by suicidal folly, and Republican blunders would create a powerful current of sentiment in his favor. The events of the next few months will be watched with interest. No doubt the Imperialists have much to gain by creating the impression that the actual Government is but a party compromise, expedient or experiment, which should give way, sooner or later, to the popular will, and that the plebiscite ought once more to be invoked as the true and only authoritative arbiter between the pretenders to the national sovereignty. The attention of France and the world can, at least, hardly fail to be more intently fixed upon the aims and efforts of this party than since the downfall of the late Emperor.

OTTAWA, March 18, 1874

Having as you know had to pass much of this winter in the frozen regions of the Ottawa Valley, I was troubled in many ways about myself, how was I to clothe? how was I to feed? would I find mental enjoyment and means of improvement? Casual visitors had said it was a horrid place for intellectual people; poor bookstores and poorer theatres, and society all whiskey, cards and dance.

Now it is Spring, and my experience is this: I have never had to change my tweed suit, I did buy a fur over-coat, only required on a long drive in a sleigh, on a few exceptionally cold days. I have felt no extreme cold, the natives say, however, that this season has been unusually mild. As to eating, no blubber or fat is required; the finest beef, ham, poultry, I have ever eaten; with any quantity of venison and very fine fish, and partridges without limit; and the people, though not generally highly educated or intellectual, have among them many talented, well read, highly cultivated men and women, some educated in Europe, and accustomed to the very best society.

There is a Literary and Scientific Association, with frequent lectures—a whist and a chess club—and all the churches have le gueux, bazaars, socials and readings. Ottawa is visited by all the itinerant nigger minstrels, and occasionally by the best singers and musicians. Madame Rosa D'Erina has been much here lately and has been well patronised.

I cannot understand how anybody can complain of want of books, where there is a library of 70,000 volumes, comprising some of the most rare works on art, science, and literature, with history and belles lettres equal to any public library in our own country. Few persons appreciate the extent and the value of the privilege which access to this library is to the citizens, but when the magnificent building preparing for it is finished, and proper publicity given to its contents, persons of fortune and taste, who delight in natural scenery, literature, and art will choose Ottawa as the spot where all these can be enjoyed, more fully and easily than in any other spot in America.

You will think I have become quite a Canadian, though you have not yet heard my chief reason for admiring Ottawa and loving Canada, it is having there learnt how to spend seven months, winter without one dull day or the slightest feeling of ennui—turning the very snow and the ice into means of enjoyment, from the example of His Excellency the Governor General, who is so adept in the science of happiness, an expert in every kind of sport. Lord Dufferin, they say, is not a great man, has never distinguished himself in the highest regions of politics, statesmanship, oratory or metaphysics. I am no judge of these, and this opinion has the bias of late political contention, contentions in which Lord Dufferin had to steer a course most difficult, to any man of feeling and kindness of heart, especially to him who has so much of these qualities; but, I am to speak of him as a host, as a self-sacrificing caterer to the young people. The old style was a ball or two, lasting all night; lots of wine and an expensive supper; cab hire $5 to $8, which to the Civil Service, aristocracy and clerks is a heavy tax. Now, what a change, Lord Dufferin built a Curling Rink that famous old country game played with large stones from 26 to 40 lbs. weight, pushed by strength of arm on the ice, toward a mark. It is very exciting, requiring strength, activity, a good eye and long practice; all skilful curlers are invited here, without regard to social position, the banker and his clerk, the Principal of the Collegiate Institute and his poorest scholar, the Governor General and his carpenter, all who have played and excelled compete for gold medals, and lunch with the Countess if we do not curl, or if we feel chilled from the cold vapour in the covered room, we enter a pleasant well warmed room and watch the game from the window, or put on our skates and step out in the open air on the skating rink, a fine little artificial sheet of ice, on which we see all who have become proficients in this graceful art; one young lady distinguished for her taste in dress and grace of manner, as well as skill in executing the most intricate figures, received a medal from Her Excellency's hand last week in a carnival on the public rink in the city; on the bank is a Russian slide, erected on a sloping hill, forming a long safe slide for toboganning, an amusement quite new to me. A tobogan is the quintessence of a flirtation machine, a thin plank six feet long, eighteen inches wide, the end turned up 15 inches in front, a lady seats herself on this squat, you place yourself behind her, steer with one foot, and off you go, upon your long meander ma'am, over knolls and pitches, fleet as the wind away on to the plain. Necessity requires that you hold on tight, and it requires no other law, they say there is none stronger, to make every young man cling like grim death itself, you probably upset in a snow wreath far away from the old folks, and you take fifteen or twenty minutes to pick yourselves up, and consider the situation, and finally hear that you have been deaf to the calling of others who want the tobogan, and you toil up the steep and re-join your party.

On Saturday afternoons, from 3.30 to 6.30, Lord Dufferin invites numbers of friends to share in these enjoyments; when fatigued with these active exercises, or on a stormy day, the company adjourn to Rideau Hall, remove their outer raps and in their ordinary walking dress join their Excellencies in the ball-room; a refreshment room is always open with delicious tea, coffee, and cakes, and I am sorry to say a little wine, a very unnecessary and old-fashioned fogyism, not yet exploded in Canada. Lord Dufferin should see our White House receptions without a whiff of the now, well understood, alcohol; drawing rooms, library, and billiard room are open, and two magnificent conservatories recall the glories of the sunny south, the dwarf cinneraria azalia, and wall flowers, exquisite roses and delicious heliotrope. The jessamine faint, and the sweet tube-rose—the sweetest flower for scent that blows—and all rare blossoms from every clime grew in that garden in perfect prime.

But from this the ladies who talk much of flowers but seldom prefer them to Terpsichore, gently lead one off to the ball-room, which is admirably constructed and beautifully decorated, and with such harmonious and exquisite tints that the eye is never weary gazing upon it; a neat stage at one end is frequently used as a theatre for excellent amateur performers. On these occasions there is on it a fine piano, played by a most accomplished lady. While the room is soon filled with waltzers, the scene is soon changed to a cotillion, and four or five of the numberless figures are performed, sometimes four gentlemen have to pass through rather small hoops, he who succeeds first being rewarded by choosing his partner from four young ladies, who stand at the other end of the room. By and bye a lady is seated in the middle of the room, with a smooth plank placed upright before her, she criticizes through a long, narrow slit gentlemen standing one by one before it, making signs with pegs on the board. The rejected retire behind her, the accepted lead her to the waltz again. A lady sits on a chair facing the music, a gentleman on a chair at each side facing the other way. To one she hands a broom, and a night cap, which he must put on and proceed to sweep the floor after the lady and the other gentleman with whom she dances. You can fancy the feelings of the unfortunate sweeper and the merry peals of laughter from their Excellencies' children, the most beautiful, hilarious, engaging little creatures ever you saw. Another day there was a prettier picture—a lady holds a rod from which stream eight or ten long ribbons, a gentleman follows with another. As they pass round the room, ladies take each a ribbon from his rod, and gentlemen hold each ribbon on the ladies. They mingle in a sort of dance till in the melee each gentleman claims as his partner the lady who chances to hold the same colour of ribbon, and they waltz away as usual.

But the charm, the soul of the whole is the family. Imagine a man of mind and culture purposely devoting his attention to give the greatest pleasure to the greatest number, his lady and her brother, the aides-de-camp, and the tutor, even the clever soldier and writer, who is Military Secretary, all lending their aid cheerfully, gaily, heartily to gratify their guests and entertain themselves, they all skate beautifully, wonderfully for only one season, the children making the air ring with laughter and huzzas as they fly down the cone, or glide over the ice. His Lordship goes to the rink and scores his 21 points, beating the oldest players—then in the ball flits around the room with a beautiful graceful creature who seems to do everything with equal perfection, you almost think it is a little flirtation, so happy they are, so eager and animated the faces, but as they whirl nearer you perceive it is the Countess, and you see that no two young folks in the room are more full of fun or feel more real enjoyment. Now, one can understand the motive which induced the Earl of Dufferin to refuse to be Viceroy of India, the highest office in the gift of his sovereign, he could not part from his family, and he could not take them there.

If I had the pen of Dickens or of Thackeray to picture these scenes as they deserve, you would think there is neither gloom nor rigour in a Canadian winter, and this natural kindness, this voluntary devotion to the happiness of a people has more effect than even great dinners, speeches, or statesmanship, when discontented Grits see their daughters waltz with Lord Dufferin, they feel that the country is safe, and that this man will do more to preserve Canada to England than guns or gunpowder.

FLORIDA.

CITY AND VICINITY.

PERSONAL.—Mr. G. W. McMullen is in town, and staying at the Russell House.

Canadian Lustres, bought at auction, slightly imperfect and offered very low by Allan, McKinnons & McMorran. 2458

NEELIN BROS. have just received a new stock of shirts, collars and ties. 2497 3m

BOOTS, BOOTS.—If you want cheap boots attend the great clearing sale that is going on at Pratt Bros., Wellington Street. 2495

Smokers! For a good smoke, use the Myrtle Navy. See T. & B. on each plug.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Alphonse Lusignan, of St. Hyacinthe, has received the appointment of Private Secretary to the Minister of Inland Revenue.

APPOINTMENT.—Mr. George Duval, Advocate of Quebec, son of Chief Justice Duval, has been appointed Private Secretary to the Minister of Justice.

PERSONAL.—Mr. McLeod Stewart has arrived home, after an extensive tour through the British Isles and the Continent. He looks well, and appears greatly invigorated from his recent trip.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.—We would again thank Mr. D. J. O'Donoghue, M. P. P., for favors in the shape of Parliamentary Reports, Bills, &c., just received from Toronto.

WARNING.—The Chairman of the Board of Works and City Engineer had better direct their attention to St. Patrick Street Bridge; as the present soft weather is liable at any moment to cause a freshet in the Rideau River.

THE GUARDS.—There will be a Commanding Officer's Parade of the Governor General's Foot Guards this Evening at the Drill Shed. The Regiment will march out headed by its fine brass and fife and drum bands.

DRY GOODS.—The stock in trade of Messrs. James & Fee, was sold by public auction yesterday, by Mr. Birmingdam, auctioneer, and the sum of $18,000 was realised therefrom. Mr. William Johnston, at present commercial traveller for the firm of Magee & Russell, was the lucky purchaser.

EARLY IN THE SEASON.—Mr. Chas. Bryson, ever enterprising in the Dry Goods line, is receiving and opening daily now, a well assorted stock of spring goods. All desirous of having the latest styles in this line, had better give his establishment in Sparks street a call. See advertisement in another column.

A SPRIG OF SHAMROCK.—Yesterday Mr. Bermingham was the recipient of a fine sprig of shamrock, all the way from Cork by the last English mail, per steamer Austrian. Fancy what intense dissatisfaction it must have given that gentleman to have received it just the day following St. Patrick's day.

EN ROUTE FOR THE ASYLUM.—Sheriff Powell left the city yesterday morning, having in charge three lunatics. Two were women, whose names were McMullen and Woodrow—they were going to Kingston—and the other was a gentleman who formerly held a prominent position in the county. He is to be taken to Toronto, where he will remain as a paying patient.

The entertainment of the season will take place this evening. The Baptist Ladies' Aid Oyster Supper and Musical Entertainment, the latter will consist of first-class talent, Vocal and Instrumental, under the management of Mrs. Parsons. Oysters served in Temperance Hall, Rideau street, from 6 to 9 p. m., to-night. Come all. Admission 15 cents.

OTTAWA IMPORTS.—The following merchandise destined for Ottawa, is reported in the manifest of the steamship 'Austrian.' George Hay, 1 cask of hardware; Joseph Metcalfe, 2 cases of merchandise; C. W. Bangs & Co., 1 case of merchandise; J. Durie & Son, 6 cases of books; Shoolbred & Co., 2 trusses of matting; T. Beamont & Co., 2 cases of merchandise; John Henderson & Co., 7 cases of merchandise.

FIRST-CLASS GROCERIES.—The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Campbell & Almas in another column. Here can be had the first brands of imported wines. In teas, coffees, sugar, &c., they defy competition. Being young, active, courteous and energetic business men, customers may rely upon all their orders being promptly attended to, and the delivery by their own express with the greatest possible dispatch.

BANK STREET CHURCH.—The ninth annual concert of the Bank Street Presbyterian Church takes place this evening in the basement of that Church. In connection with it, a soiree will be given by the ladies of the congregation. These festive occasions in Bank street Church are, as a rule, of a very pleasing and social character, and well repay the patronage so freely accorded them. Tea will be served at 7 p. m. Addresses are promised from prominent city clergymen, as well as from the Hon. Wm. Ross and the Hon. Malcolm Cameron.

OYSTER SUPPER AND LITERARY ENTERTAINMENT.—A social entertainment takes place this evening in the Temperance Hall, Rideau street, at which a somewhat novel feature is introduced. It consists of a musical entertainment, to which several talented amateurs are contributors. Sufficient time will also be allowed to partake at reasonable rates of a well prepared oyster supper, by the good ladies of the Church. There will, doubtless, be a large crowd visit the Temperance Hall this evening, if only to encourage the object in view, that of raising funds towards the building of a new Baptist Church.

POND'S EXTRACT is derived from the most potent curative agents. Its efficacy is wonderful. 2511.

Issue of Licenses.

The following licenses have been already granted by the Board of Police Commissioners for the current year; and there is not much prospect of many more being issued, as a considerable reduction has been made this year. 93 Tavern Licenses, 6 Saloon Licenses and 59 Shop Licenses are included in the list below given.

TORONTO.

Yorkville Homicide—Toronto Assizes Open—Adjournment of the House—Want of Confidence—Arrival of Archbishop Lynch—Address of Welcome—Shot with a Pistol.

TORONTO, March 18 h.

Jos. Dean who was wounded by a Yorkville burglar, is much worse this afternoon and his life is again despaired of.

The Spring Assizes opened to-day; Chief Justice Hagarty presiding. There is a large docket.

It is thought doubtful, owing to the factious conduct of the Opposition, whether the House can adjourn before next week.

Another want of confidence motion was moved to-day, after debate but was withdrawn, because the Opposition were not agreed upon it.

Archbishop Lynch will arrive to-morrow morning by the Grand Trunk. He will be met at the station by a deputation and escorted to the Cathedral, where a triumphal arch and platform have been erected.

An address of welcome will be presented, after which a Te Deum will be offered up for his safe return.

A man named James Smith, proprietor of the Union Station Refreshment Room, was wounded in the hand by the accidental discharge of a pistol lying among some papers.

Ontario Legislature.

Attorney General introduced a bill respecting the Executive Council, which was read a first time.

Solemnization of Marriages' Bill was read a third time and passed

Resolutions remitting fees on proceedings in County and Division Courts were passed through Committee of the Whole, and referred to Committee on Administration of Justice Bill.

Attorney General moved the second reading of the bill respecting Voter's Lists The object of the bill was to secure that only the names of voters should appear on the list. The present system of taking names from the assessment roll was objectionable as a Court of Assessment was often swayed by political bias. The bill was generally approved of by members on both sides, and was read a second time.

The House went into Committe of supply.

The following items were passed:—Washago Channel to wharf, $1,000. Sydenham River improvements, $614. Muskoka Falls excavation dam and sluices, $4,565. Locks between Mary's and Fairy Lakes, $18,980. Ryerson's road work, $511. Settlers homestead fund, $8,279.

Mr. Rykert said that Jos. Arch in his lectures in England had stated that this Government would erect a log house for every emigrant, who came to this country.

The Hon. Mr. McKellar said such an opinion had been entertained by Mr. Arch; but his mind had been disabused of it. It was the intention of the Government to erect a few cottages.

Trent River Bridge $2,000.

The Committee rose as reported.

The House adjourned at 1.30 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The speaker took the chair at 3.10.

The Hon. Mr. Crooks moved the House into Committee of supply.

Mr. Merrick said it appeared from the discussion of last night that appropriations for the erection of a lock up at Bruce Mines, had been diverted to the building of a lock up at Silver Islet. This he considered wrong, therefore he moved in effect that in the the opinion of this house no public money appropriated by Parliament for a particular purpose, in a certain locality should be diverted by order in Council at the mere will of the Executive, thus violating the express will of Parliament.

The Attorney-General agreed with the abstract principle of the amendment, but as it was put in the form of a want of confidence motion, he should resist it. There were occasions where a general rule should be departed from, and he thought this was one.

Mr. Boultbee thought as the Attorney-General had agreed that the principle contended for by the Opposition was right, the amendment might be withdrawn and an abstract motion, offering the principle, substituted.

Mr. Lauder said it had not been shown that there was any necessity for this lock-up.

Mr. Ardagh considered the amendment one of those measures that he could not vote for. He looked upon it as uncalled for.

The Hon. Mr. Fraser said if this strict rule were laid down, the hands of the Government would be tied, and if emergencies arise they would be unable to expend money.

Mr. Rykert said if emergencies arise, money ought to be drawn from unforeseen and unprovided expenses.

Mr. Merrick said that after hearing the explanations of the Attorney-General, he would withdraw his amendment.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, and the balance of the items under the head of Miscellaneous Public Works, amounting to $59,056, passed. Drainage, $8[illegible],000; Colonization Roads, $100,000.

The House rose at six o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

The House went into Committee of Supply when the following items were passed: Expenditure on account of Crown Lands, $147,467; Refund account, $220,016; To complete services and to cover unpaid accounts for 1873, $59,982; To cover expenditure under unforeseen and unprovided unpaid accounts for 1873, $10,451.

The Committee then rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

The Attorney-General's Bill to Incorporate the Municipality of Haliburton and to provide for its becoming a provisional county, was read a second time.

The House adjourned at 12.30 a.m.

ALGOMA.

Algoma Elections.

SAULT ST. MARIE, March 17.

Returns received last night seem to indicate the return of Mr. Barron for Algoma There is, however, no word yet from the Thunder Bay region. It is altogether probable, however, that it will not materially alter the result. The following is the result as far as heard from:—

	Barron.	Scott	Brown
Sault St. Marie	179	65	18
Algoma Mills	18	0	0
Spanish River	8	2	0
Manitoulin	102	2	0

HALIFAX.

The Steamship Company—Proceedings in the House—Strength of Parties—Extradition.

HALIFAX, March 17.

The new Steamship Company to run steamers coastwise, was organized to-day under the name of the Eastern Steamship Company. They have purchased the steamer 'Virgo' at New York for $45,000, gold.

In the House to-day, the public accounts for 1873 were submitted. Mr. Woodworth moved an implied censure of the Government for their action in regard to the tariff of the Windsor and Annapolis, Railway Company. A Government amendment was carried by a vote of 23 to 10. Four members were absent The actual state of parties in the House is 26 to 11

Johnson, held here for extradition under a charge of uttering counterfeit United States notes in New Hampshire, was up for examination again to-day. A witness for the defence was heard, when the examination was adjourned till to-morrow.

A man named Patrick C. Brennan, belonging to Arichat, died suddenly in the house of a friend in this city last night. While in the act of drinking a cup of tea he fell back and expired.

There was a slight shock of earthquake in Yarmouth on Thursday.

LONDON

The Call to the Rev. Mr. Scott—London Sewing Machine Co.

LONDON, March 17.

The shareholders of the London Sewing Machine Company met yesterday and elected the following directors for the ensuing year: Samuel Peters, Thomas Aspden, C. P. Smith, J. W. Sifton, W. Glass, Dr. Nelles, J. R. Minhinnick, J. Durand and E. L. Ruey. At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors Mr Samuel Peters was elected President; Mr. C. P. Smith, Vice-President; Mr. Charles Hutchinson, Solicitor.

The call from the congregation of North Bruce to the Rev. John Scott, of this city, was reconsidered by the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, and a resolution opposing the call and providing for the appointment of a colleague to assist Mr. Scott, was carried by a large majority. The Presbytery met this afternoon to decide in regard to the call which, at the Rev. Mr. Scott's request, had been brought before them for reconsideration. Mr. Scott addressed the Presbytery, formally resigning his charge of pastor of St. Andrews.

QUEBEC.

Winning Score for the Dufferin Medal—Presidency of a Stadacona Bank The Jesuit Barracks.

QUEBEC, March 17.

Mr. A Joseph has resigned as a Director of La Banque Nationale, in consequence of his having accepted the Presidency of the Stadacona Bank.

The work of altering the Jesuit's Barracks for Government offices, which had been temporaily suspended, was resumed to-day.

The score of the Quebec Curling Club for the Governor General's medal was 122, which is officially announced as the winning score.

PARKHILL.

Dropped Dead—Crushed by a Falling Haystack—Accident in a Planing Mill.

PARKHILL, March 17.

Mr. William Wells, of the firm of McGregor & Wells, manufacturers, and proprietors of the planing mill and sash and door factory here, had his hand nearly cut off by the moulding machine in the factory this afternoon. The limb will be amputated to-night.

Mr. Joseph Allen, of Grand Bend, was killed yesterday by a haystack falling on him, crushing him to death.

Mr. Elias Gillis dropped dead yesterday while piling lumber at Corbet's mill, McGillivray. An inquest was held by Dr. Caw, Coroner, and a verdict returned that death was caused by heart disease.

BELLEVILLE.

Fire.

BELLEVILLE, March 17.

This morning, about four o'clock, a fire broke out in Roy's Brewery. Front street, destroying part of the machinery, together with a quantity of grain. Loss about $4,000.

VIENNA, March 17.—The Roman Catholic Bishops in the Reichsrath threaten to to withdraw if the passage of the ecclesiastical Bill is pressed.

UNITED STATES.

Liberal Bequests.

BOSTON, March 17.—Miss Sophia Snow will give all her paintings to the Boston Athenæum, and divides $85,000 among various charitable societies in and about Boston.

St. Patrick's Day.

BUFFALO, March 17.—St. Patrick's Day was celebrated by the Irish citizens with great spirit. The day was pleasant and mild. High Mass was celebrated in the morning at the Cathedral and other churches. In the afternoon a large civic and military procession paraded the principal streets with banners and music. The evening was devoted to a public lecture, the proceeds of which were donated to the orphan asylum. The ceremony was more imposing than on any previous occasion in this city. The most perfect order was maintained.

Implicated.

A letter from Santiago de Cuba says the correspondence captured with President Cespedes will implicate a great number of prominent families in that place. Fully 10 000 persons viewed the remains of Cespedes.

Prize Fighting Alderman.

James Dunne, the noted prize fighter, was elected Alderman of the 6th Ward of Brooklyn on the Reform ticket.

Canal Navigation Opened.

Raritain Canal was opened to navigation yesterday.

Celebration.

BOSTON, March 17—St. Patrick's Day is being observed here in the usual manner, but under disadvantages of cold easterly rain.

Alien Tenure.

ALBANY, March 17—In the Assembly today bills were passed authorizing the Canada Grand Trunk Railway to hold real estate in Buffalo.

St. Patrick's Day.

NEW YORK, March 17—The St. Patrick's procession, headed by the 69th Regiment, arrived at the City Hall at half-past two. It took one hour and twenty minutes to pass the City Hall, marching closely and somewhat fast on account of the rain, and numbered between 15,000 and 20,000. There were not so many carriages as on previous occasions, but the procession was fully as large. It passed off without incident of any note or disturbance of any kind not a single arrest taking place, and was dismissed at Cooper Institute by the Grand Marshal, when it dispersed in an orderly and peaceable manner.

Fire.

PITTSBURGH, March 17.—A fire broke out in the Oil Exchange Hotel, Modoc City, Pa., to-day, which destroyed the building; loss, $100,000.

Ice-Bound.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The steamship 'State of Alabama,' from Glasgow to New York was ice-bound four days, and had several of her bow plates crushed. She put into Halifax with seven feet of water in her fore and main holds, and had propeller and rudder damaged.

Blockade Raised.

The snow blockade in the Sierra Nevada Mountains is again raised and trains are moving on the Central Pacific Railway.

Confirmed.

A dispatch from Knoxville confirms the report of an earthquake in North Carolina, but locates it between Ashville and Old Fort. A Raleigh dispatch confirms a former statement locating it at Bald Mountain, and says a volcanic eruption is momentarily expected.

Steamer Burned.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17.—The steamboat 'South Western,' hence on Thursday for Shreveport, was burned at Colfax on Sunday morning. The boat and cargo are a total loss. Valued at $30,000. Passengers saved.

Fires in Montreal,

Eight fires more or less serious in their character, broke out last evening between 6 and 11.35 o'clock; incendiarism is believed to be the cause, in the majority of instances. At six the roof of the Donegana Hotel caught fire, extinguished by portable Babcocks kept on the premises.

At 6.40, fire in a stall in Mr. Bennet's stables, Fortification Lane, No, 71. in rear of the Star offices; a horse which occupied the stall was severely burned about the head; in his agony and fright he threw himself upon the floor. One stream from No. 1, at this place was found sufficient.

At 8.45 fire in the stables of the Rev. Gavin Lang, No. 132 St. Alexander street; confined to the hay loft.

At 10.15 stables, No. 61 Vallee street; damage not serious.

At 10.30, fire in the shop of Mr. Morrice, cabinet-maker, No. 129 St. George street; confined to the finishing department, which, with its contents, was badly damaged; the most serious fire of the series, Loss, which is very considerable, covered by insurance.

At 10.55, wooden stables on Berthelot street; buildings destroyed.

At 11, out-buildings in rear of Mrs. Curley's residence, Mayor street; damage slight.

At 11:35, stables, property of Mr. S Mathewson, No. 50 Durocher street; three streams were laid, and the flames were speedily extinguished.

A fire also occurred in some sheds on Berthelot street.

At the Durocher street fire, Nathaniel Cairns, a member of the Brigade, was severely injured, being prostrated accidentally by a heavy blow on the breast; he remained in an insensible condition for several minutes, when he was removed to his home.

In view of last night's work, the firemen are mooting increase of pay; it may be mentioned that for three of these fires alarms were not sounded.—Star, 17th inst

THE BABCOCK AGAIN!

The following we clip from the Toronto Mail of the 11th of March, 1874.

WOODSTOCK.

Firemen's Annual Supper—An Unpleasant Interruption.

WOODSTOCK, March 10.—No. 1 Victoria Fire Company celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary last night at the Bishop House, by giving a supper to about 150 persons, including honorary members and invited guests. During the serving of the supper, a little before nine o'clock, a student from the Canadian Literary Institute, situated a mile distant, informed the chief that the Institute building was on fire. A rush was instantly made for the engines, one of which is kept underneath the Town Hall. The fire companies with their apparatus made their way over the rough roads towards the Institute, but before reaching the premises parties returned with the statement that it was a false alarm. The companies returned to their celebration, vowing vengeance against the author of the trouble; but it was not a hoax after all. A fire had been discovered below the floor of the third flat, near a hot air register. A short time before one of Babcok's fire extinguishers was placed under the charge of Pro. Wells, who, with great presence of mind, directed the removal of a portion of the floor, and operated between the joists, where the fire had made considerable headway. Three charges from the little machine effectually subdued the fire, thus probably saving the whole valuable building, which is quite new. The fire had occurred from the over-heated hot air shaft, which is of brick, and which ignited the joists near it.

DIED.

Of congestion of the lungs, at the Entrance Lodge, Cataraqui, on the 15th inst., Harriette, the third and beloved daughter of Peter and Margaret Lowe, in the eighteenth year of her age.

CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, ENLARGEMENT of the Glands of the Neck, Eruptions of the Skin, Spinal Disease, Torpid Liver with constipation and head aches, Irritation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Nervous Prostration and General Debility, all depend upon depraved nutrition and impoverished blood arising from indigestion. Dr Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya immediately reaches the primary cause of these diseases, Dyspepsia, and enables the stomach to completely digest and assimilate a sufficient quantity of nourishment to build up the tissues.

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil!—Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes —"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O, write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,

GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named, and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for this Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $200 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to actual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense, and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

KEATING PERSIANS INSECT DESTROYING POWDERS.

This Powder is quite harmless to animals, but unrivalled in destroying Fleas, Bugs, Emmets, Flies, Cockroaches, Beetles, Gnats, Mosquitoes, Moths in Furs, and every other species of insects in all stages of metamorphosis. Sold in packets tins, and bottles of various sizes.

CAUTION.—The public are requested to observe that all the above preparations bear the Trade Mark as herein shown. Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that subtance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY,
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada

This work will contain the names and address of every business man in Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;
each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

Enamellene

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength, Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, ointments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT, Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twins" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a first entry of such goods.

'Felt for Hats and Boots;"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs,

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Dean Stanley and the Greek Church.

From Our Special Correspondent.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 21.

The Dean of Westminster, who will have arrived in England before you publish this, paid a farewell visit to the Ecclesiastical Academy of St. Alexander Nevski the morning before his departure. The Dean delivered a short address to the students, which was translated into Russ as he proceeded by the Rector, M. Yanitcheff. The following is the English version, the address having been written and read in French:

"Gentlemen,—By permission of your estimable Rector, I will venture to address a few words of sympathy and encouragement to you upon your entry into the career you have chosen, a career which is also my own. Be certain that that career is one of the most honourable and important which exists, even in the present age. It is a very ancient path, but it is one which abounds with prospects always new. Like you an ecclesiastic, though of another Church, my experience is more or less the same as that of the ecclesiastics of all countries in the age in which we live. Like others, I had difficulties to overcome and battles to fight, but my highest and chiefest duty has always been on those solemn occasions on which it is my office to edify, to console, and to instruct. The happiness of searching out truth in the Holy Scriptures and in the history of the entire Church, the hope of beholding more and more the accomplishments of the regeneration of human hearts and human institutions, according to the true spirit of the Gospel—this is it which has sustained me, and I trust that the same consolations and the same encouragement may be felt by each of you. Do not be of those who declare that all is lost. No; with you it lies whether everything should not be saved. Sursum Corda. Raise your affections and aspirations to the Highest and the Holiest, and you will not be discouraged by questions of science and criticism, which for most part touch only the extremities and do not attack the foundations of religion. So far I have spoken of the ecclesiastical career in general, but I will venture to add some words on the topic of the Russian clergy and of the 'Orthodox Church.' It has always seemed to me, since the time I first began to know Russia, that her priests have this almost unique advantage, that they appeal to the souls of a people profoundly religious. Neither does there exist in Russia, as in several Western countries, a conflict between the laity and the clergy, between the religious spirit and the national spirit. That which is most needed in Russia is the diffusion of the very knowledge which you are now acquiring, and which you will hereafter teach, not with the object of destroying ancient traditions, but with the object of raising, purifying, and simplifying them, of considering them in their just proportions; in a word, of exalting the spirit which vivifies over the letter which kills. All instruction, all solid learning, whether of the Scriptures, of history, of science, or of the human heart, teaches us that the true fruit of all piety is morality, duty, justice, toleration, charity. There is, in reality, nothing incompatible between the aspirations of Vladimir the Great, founder of the Russian Church, and those of Peter the Great, founder of the Russian civilization. One word with reference not merely to your ecclesiastical career, but addressed to you as young men, belonging to the general whose deeds are yet in the future. I saw at the Academy of Fine Arts a touching picture (I think by Ludoff), representing a group of aged Russian peasants listening with profound attention to the tiding or the knowledge poured into their ears by the voice of a child seated in the midst of them, with a book in his hand, and reading easily to those who know not how to read. This is a type of the connexion which exists between the generation which is passing away and that which is coming, the contrasts which exist more or less all through Europe, but which are possibly most evident in Russia. I do not say this with the intention of counselling you to despise the wisdom of your elders. No! a thousand times no! Old age has always treasures, not only of prudence..... but of light, which youth lacks. For young men modestly is the essential condition of progress. Nevertheless the passing generation must still bequeath a greater responsibility, or rather a greater glory, to those who replace them. It is you for whom, by the purity of your life, the ardour of your faith, the sincerity of your love for justice and truth, it remains to render easy, prosperous and glorious that transition which all the Christianity of our epoch, the Christianity of the East as well as of the West, much experience. If something you should remember the stranger who at this moment sees you and speaks to you probably for the last time, but who will never forget his visit under the kind auspices of your auspices of your excellent Rector to the Academy of St. Alexander Nevski, be sure that the future which he desires for you is that which will lead you in the path of activity, of intelligence, and of that charity which is the way, the truth and the life."

"Sir,—The address you have read breathes such sentiments of sympathy and love that it is not only courtesy but the desire of my heart which prompts me to reply to you. You came to our country to unite the Imperial Family of Russia with the reigning House of England, to unite two great nations. You have noticed here a body of young men who have dedicated their powers and their lives to the science of theology. We will do our best and we will pray God to cause that science to flourish even in spite of those who are set against all progress. In your address you have shown that Christian charity knows no difference of race or distance of country. Can we help loving our Church when you have manifested such a great sympathy for her—you, a foreigner, filling a position higher than any we can hope to attain? You have spoken to us from your long experience as a priest, and in so doing have rendered a great service to young men who desire to place all the powers of their minds at the service of their country and to contribute to the religious instruction of their nation. We cannot better reply to the noble sentiments you have expressed than by assuring you that profound gratitude will ever rest in our hearts, and that in our own tongue we shall pray the God of all Christians that you may attain that eternal happiness alleged for by every soul that loses the truth."

After his visit to the Monastery the Dean of Westminster went by invitation, to a reception at the apartments of the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg, who there celebrated, as usual, the yearly festival of the day of his patron Saint Isidore. There were present the two other Metropolites, the rest of the members of the Holy Synod, Count Tolstoi, Gen. Ignatieff, and many other distinguished clergy and laity. After the usual toasts of the Emperor, the Holy Synod, and the Metropolitan, the Metropolitan himself proposed the Church of England, as represented in his guest, whom he charged to convey his request of special salutations to the Metropolitan of Canterbury. Lady Augusta Stanley spent her last day in St. Petersburg in visiting the hospitals and prisons. The day before yesterday, according to annual custom, the orphan girls of Smolna Monastery School were driven round the town, and through the carnival fair in the Champ de Mars, in Court carriages drawn by four horses each, footmen and postilions all clad in full Imperial liveries. M. Chevalier, the artist who accompanied the Duke of Edinburgh on one of His Royal Highness's South Sea tours, and who was commissioned by the Queen to paint a picture of the Thanksgiving has been taking notes of all these marriage feasts and splendours for the Prince of Wales. M. Chevalier sketches quickly and skilfully, and his drawings will form a most interesting collection.

BISHOP TACHE ON RIEL'S AMNESTY.

An extra of the Metis, of Manitoba, dated 9th March, the organ of Archbishop Tache and the French half-breeds, received yesterday, states that he is putting the finishing touches to his pamphlet on the subject of "the amnesty." It gives its conclusion containing a summary of the Bishop's arguments to prove that an amnesty was actually promised by the Imperial, the Federal, and the Provincial authorities, and that the question is no longer open or debateable. Facts and reasoning are given to shew the obligations of each set of authorities in the matter. The Bishop asserts that the most solemn promises were made by the representatives of the Imperial authorities, were not revoked, and were accepted in good faith. The Bishop makes this statement as to the Canadian Government. "Solemn promises were given by voice and writing by and in the name of the Federal Ministers, and which were often repeated and never denied, at least before those to whom they were made." The Bishop argues that the subsequent conduct of the Imperial and Federal Governments, in the matter of the dealings of the troops with the half-breeds at Red River, and the reception of the delegates of the Provisional Government at Ottawa, demonstrates incontestibly the making of this promise. He next cites the demeanor and policy of the Manitoba authorities in support of his theory, and the fact of the appeal to the half-breeds in time of danger, and the correspondence of the authorities with these same men, accepting their military services, and so forth. The concluding paragraph is very suggestive, being an intimation of the fact, that if the Bishop chose to take advantage of all his information and his position, he could add materially to the strength of his case. It will be curious to watch the manœuvres of the Opposition press to break the force of this revelation, justify their recent denials of the promise of amnesty, and defend the conduct of the late Government in connection therewith. We suppose Bishop Tache knows as much about this matter as the ex-Premier's organs, while his word is certainly far more deserving of credit than those of them in the Ottawa region, at any rate.

STILL ANOTHER DEFEAT.

Like the man who was never at peace except when fighting, the Ontario Opposition are never happy unless getting thrashed. They courted and received still another defeat on Tuesday, in connection with a subject utterly worn out by the friction of incessant wrangling in the Public Accounts Committee and the Legislature—we mean the Government's action in regard to the Central Prison and other public buildings. Never did a theme evoke more "Parliamentary jabber and jaw," and all to no purpose, so far as the success of the opponents of the Ministry was concerned. Mr. M. Cameron's amendment proposed to condemn the Government for giving out contracts for work in connection with certain public buildings, without inviting tenders by public advertisement. He dwelt particularly upon the Commissioner's course in taking over the work on the Central Prison, after the failure of the contractor, in order to its timely completion under the supervision of the Department. Mr. Fraser's reply overturned the case so laboriously set up by the Opposition leader. Of course the various points of complaint being stale from age and repeated discussion, it seemed almost unnecessary to go over them in that answer. But Mr. Fraser showed that in regard to one building mentioned, tenders had been called for, while as respects others the present Ministers had done nothing more nor less than what was done by Messrs. Carling, M. C. Cameron and colleagues when in power. In some cases where there was no advertising, Commissioner McKellar had sent to apprise contractors and builders that tenders would be received for the work to be done, while he had acted upon the principle of accepting the lowest tenders, such as those of Messrs. Dickey and others. In cases where a new invention like the artificial stone, or a peculiar form of prison lock or door was furnished, only one party, the inventor, could be dealt with, but these transactions involved no great sum of money. The defenders of the Government challenged proof of any partiality or injustice on their part, through political or other motives. The charge of extravagance in respect to the Central Prison, was repelled as unfounded. The fact was that the workmen had been receiving less pay from the Government Contractor than their fellows elsewhere, and a few days after his discharge, they struck for from 25c. to 50c. a day more. Mr. McKellar appreciated the justice of their claim, and allowed it, and hence these hypocritical tears of the Opposition. The question is, should a Government, with millions of a surplus, screw down the workingmen to less wages than are paid by private contractors? Yet, for treating the artizans with consideration and justice, he has been vilified without measure, in the hope of the overthrow of the Cabinet of which he is an able, honest member. No doubt when the elections come again, we shall have the Province ringing with Opposition professions of regard for the working classes, and desire for the improvement of their condition. The debate on the above subject showed the hollowness of the case attempted to be set up, and the result was, as might have been expected, a majority of nineteen for the Government in a house not full.

TRIAL OF CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

The questions raised by Judge Mondelet, in reference to the character of the Court for the trial of election petitions naturally excite discussion in Montreal and elsewhere. He sets out by the statement that, by the Imperial Act of 1867, the Provincial Legislatures have the exclusive power of organising the local administration of justice, though the Judges are to be of Federal appointment. He asks, can the Federal Parliament do indirectly what it can't do directly—namely, appoint as election Judges the Judges of the Superior Court? Next, can Parliament assign Provincial Judges duties different from and additional to those fixed by the Provincial Legislature? The other questions are as follows:

Quid as to Section 101 of the Union Act—Additional Courts—are such courts to be any courts, or courts connected with the Superior Court only?

Are the election laws such laws as are called Dominion laws by Section 101 of the Imperial Act, for the carrying out of which such additional court may be necessary.

Is the Election Law of 1873 a confederated law—a law for the confederation such as mentioned in Section 101 of the Imperial Act; or is it merely a sectional law, a law of a sectional character, creating sectional courts, i.e., Division of Quebec.—Division of Montreal?

Can the appointment of judges by the Federal Legislature be constitutional and valid which require the authorization of Local Government?

If such appointments require such authorization are they those which the Federal Government alone and exclusively can make?

If judges are partly appointed by the Federal Parliament (not by the Federal Government) is such appointment constitutional?

Could the Imperial Parliament interfere in any way with the provincial organization of the administration of justice and its judges?

His Honour's doubts appear to have mainly arisen from the clause of the Confederation Act enumerating the subjects to be exclusively dealt with by the Local Legislatures, embracing,—the administration of justice, and the constitution, maintenance and organization of Provincial Courts, both of civil and criminal jurisdiction, including procedure in civil matters. The point of difficulty with the Judge is as to the right or power of any body to appoint the Judges of the Superior Court to try contested election petitions, notwithstanding the Act of 1873, in the absence of Legislation by the Provincial Houses on the matter. Clause 101 of the B. N. A. Act empowers the Canadian Parliament to provide for the constitution, maintenance and organisation of a general Court of Appeal for Canada, and for any additional courts for the better administration of the laws. The question is, does not this latter provision sanction the establishment of the Election Courts? Parliament acted in the belief that it did, after ample discussion. The Witness submits the following views and considerations hostile to the pretensions against the constitutionality of these Courts, and shows, plainly enough, the inconvenience that might result from a different reading of the law on the subject:—

"It is considered that at the present juncture the question of jurisdiction cannot well be raised. The Controverted Elections Act of Sec. 5 provides that whenever a general Court of Appeal for the Dominion shall be constituted, one of the judges of that Court should try elections, and any three judges of said court should be a Court of Appeal from any decision rendered by such judges; and until such court is constituted the judges of the several Provinces should try election petitions provided the Lieutenant Governor and Council should have authorized and required such judges to prepare the duties so assigned them. In the Province of Quebec the judges of the Superior Court were named by the Act; and in case the Lieutenant Governor and his Council refused to allow the judges to act, the Governor General could appoint judges ad hoc to carry out the provisions of the Act. From these enactments compared with Section 101 of the British North America Act, it seems pretty clear that the Parliament of Canada had the power to provide not only for the constitution, maintenance and organization of a General Court of Appeal for Canada, but also for the establishment of additional courts for the better administration of the laws of Canada. The judges of the Superior Court probably have the same power as Judges ad hoc would have had; namely, that of refusing to accept the duty in question at the time of their appointment; but having once accepted and acted upon the permission granted them by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, it seems too late now to draw back. Such acceptance and assumption of office appears by the rules of practice drawn out and signed by eight of the Judges of the Superior Court for the Montreal Division, (and we understand those of the Quebec Division have done the same), by numerous ministerial acts performed by them within the last fortnight. What an expense parties would be put to, were the contrary view to be adopted. Some nine petitions have been presented at great trouble and expense, and are all the proceedings to be set aside? Have all the moneys paid into the Clerk of the Election Court to be refunded? An important point is mooted, viz:—All the Superior Court Judges of the Montreal Division, some 14 in number, are Election Judges, any three of whom may form a court, so that the members of the court may change from day to day. Who are going to discuss and decide this question, only three? Who are going to bind the other 11, supposing the three before whom the point is argued decide not to act? Will that stay and tie the hands of the others? Proceedings in contested elections before the House under the Act of the Consolidated Statutes of Canada cannot take place. That Act is repealed by the Controverted Elections Act of 1873."

It is probable that Judge Mondelet's scruples may be set at rest by such explanations and arguments as the above, whether coming through the medium of the press or the official exponent of the law. Perhaps the majority, if not all his brother judges consider the Dominion Statute sufficient authority for the constitution of this Court, which would obviate any risk of delay in the performance of the work assigned it, as the necessary number could thus easily be obtained to take up the work awaiting attention. The public will watch with interest the working of this method of deciding election contests. In England, we believe, the Judges have not had occasion to unseat many parties for illegal practices; or it might be more correct to say not many have been thus dispossessed. It is by no means to be inferred, however, that bribery, corruption, treating, coercion and other offences forbidden by the law have died out in the old country. The last elections have furnished proof to the contrary, as well as occasional elections previous to the dissolution. It is stated, for example, that never did elections cost so much, as the late ones, although the ballot was in force with the Judges in the back ground. There must have been less intimidation and coercion, as it would have been useless, but the ways of spending money among the free and independent were as numerous and exacting as ever. We also notice the fact that offences against the election laws, in England, more rarely meet with punishment now than formerly, the defendants being hedged about with those legal safeguards, including the benefit of the doubt, peculiar to the British system, and so salutary in ordinary criminal proceedings. Parliamentary Committees, though less careful, perhaps, and learned in the law, had the habit or knack of meting out a rough and ready justice in the case of its glaring violation, and even in the event of delay, the punishment was not to be despised. To be sure, there were both delays and failures of justice, but whatever improvement may have been effected, in England, as regards the former, the latter evil has not been terminated by the new system of trial, but rather aggravated, so far as offending electioneering agents are concerned. It remains to be seen what reputation the Canadian Courts will acquire within the next five years.

OPENING OF THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

Parliament was opened yesterday with the reading of the Queen's Speech as usual. Her Majesty refers to the continuance of friendly relations with foreign powers, and alludes to the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh as a pledge of friendship between two great empires. Praise is given to the troops composing the Ashantee expedition for the courage and endurance displayed in the campaign. Speaking of the famine in Bengal, the Queen says the Governor General of India has been directed to spare no cost in his efforts to mitigate this terrible calamity. The estimates of expenditure for the coming financial year will be submitted to the House of Commons immediately. Measures will be submitted to Parliament which it is hoped will be found calculated to do away with much of the delay and expense attending the transfer of land in England. Several local matters are referred to, including the working of the Act affecting the relationship between master and servant, the Act dealing with offences connected with trade and the law of conspiracy. In view of the remonstrances made against these measures, Her Majesty desires that Parliament, before attempting fresh legislation concerning them, should be in possession of all material facts, and of the precise question in controversy, to secure which she has issued her Royal Commission of Inquiry into the state and working of the laws. The too most important topics of the Speech to the larger portion of Her Majesty's subjects, are the recognition of the meritorious services of the army in Africa, and the announcement of a generous policy of assistance to the starving millions of India. There is little doubt that the remarks on both subjects will find an echo in every breast, and that the humane policy towards the sufferers in Bengal will be cordially supported. The Government will attempt no measure of material change so far as the United Kingdom is concerned, this session at any rate, which will surprise nobody, under the circumstances.

We understand that their Excellencies, the Governor General and the Countess of Dufferin will hold a reception at Rideau Hall, on the night of the 28th.

Dr Schultz is the avant courrier of the ensuing session, the honorable gentleman having left Toronto last night, will be here to-day to attend to his Parliamentary duties.

It is stated that Mr. H. Burke, the Reeve of Darlington Township, will be the Liberal candidate for West Durham, in succession to Hon. E. B. Wood. There is no doubt of Mr. Burke's election.

The Bill to incorporate New Brunswick Orange Societies has been defeated in the Legislative Council again, and is probably disposed of for this session. The Council is mainly, if not altogether, Protestant.

Col. Strange, the able and accomplished Commandant of Quebec, has been invited to read a paper before the Canadian National Association of Toronto, on "the best military system for the Dominion."

Fifty-five clergymen in P. E. Island have issued an appeal to Protestants in favour of non-sectarian schools. The Separate School Question is a live one there as well as in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Hon. Alexander Campbell succeeds Lieutenant Governor Crawford as President of the Royal Canadian Bank, the latter retaining a seat at the Board. Hon. J. Hamilton will be Advising Director at Montreal.

We hear that it is the intention of a member of the Commons to move for an address during the ensuing session, praying that the office of Adjutant General may be thrown open to volunteer field officers as well as "Regulars."

We are happy to learn that a judicious selection of the political writings of Mr. Etienne Parent, late Under Secretary of State of Canada, and for a lengthened period editor of Le Canadien of Quebec is being now made and will be shortly given to the public in book form. The volume, which we are sure, will be gladly welcomed by all Canadians, and by all who take an interest in Canadian history, will be prepared with a biographical sketch of the veteran journalist's life, from the pen of one of Canada's most accomplished writers.

The unfortunate Protestant missionary who was reported, a couple of days ago, to have been barbarously murdered by a mob in one of the Mexican towns, is another victim of that ingratitude and bigotry characteristic of ignorant, semi-civilized communities. The telegram states the mob was incited to this savage conduct by a priest, and the authorities, ashamed or afraid of the consequences of such brutality, had a number of clergymen arrested, and made vigorous efforts to reach and punish the bloodthirsty rioters. It was not stated whether the missionary was an American or an Englishman; but it is likely that the nation whose citizen he was, will look after the subject of fitting reparation or indemnity. Outrages of this description are not rare in Mexico, a large portion of whose present inhabitants are more cruel and lawless than the original Indian population, while little if at all superior in the matter of education. An intelligent foreigner, exiling himself in such a country, in the hope of improving its races, makes a sacrifice of no ordinary character, and is deserving of the everlasting gratitude instead of the hatred of its people. To such a philanthropist death, apart from the manner of it, should not prove a very unwelcome visitant. There is little prospect of Mexico being other than a reproach to civilization till the United States annex it, and plant there the institutions of order, liberty, and progress.

A Mr. Gilbert Malcolm Sproat has delivered himself of a sentiment of horror at an expression or two of Mr. Jenkins, M.P., uttered in Dundee, in the course of a speech on English political affairs. In describing in a humorous vein the new Cabinet Mr. Jenkins made use of some chaff applying the epithet "screaming Marquis" to Lord Salisbury, and referring to Mr. Disraeli as one whose "malicious ingenuity entitles him to the appellation of a 'Penang Lawyer.'" Mr. Sproat thinks this language both dreadful and unsuitable, particularly in the mouth of a quasi-diplomatic representative of Canada. He tortures himself with the thought of the mischief possible through such badinage, including the embarrassment of important Canadian negociations. He but shows that there can be "miseries" as well as "pleasures" of the imagination; but, perhaps, the source of his grief can be fully explained by the fact that Mr. Sproat sought in vain for himself the position given Mr. Jenkins. We publish in another column a couple of interesting extracts from this gentleman's Dundee speech, from which a correct opinion of it can be drawn, and better estimate formed of the value of the oratorical and other services that such a man may render to Canada. Mr. Jenkins had evidently some favorites in the Cabinet since he spoke of Lord Carnarvon as "worthy to succeed a worth successor," and a man whose appointment will be hailed with the greatest satisfaction through all our Colonies.

CITY AND VICINITY.

C. O. O. F.—A meeting of the Metropolitan Lodge of Oddfellows, takes place this evening in the Oddfellows' Hall, Rideau street, at 7.30 p.m.

ENGLISH MAIL.—The English Mail closes at the Post Office at 11.05 o'clock this morning for the steamship 'Austrian,' which sails from Portland to morrow for Liverpool. A supplementary bag closes at 12.25 o'clock.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.—A complimentary banquet is to be given at the Albion Hotel this evening to the Masonic brethren of Ogdensburgh, by their brothers of the mystic tie, belonging to the Builder's and Eddy Lodges of this City and Hull.

CHANGE OF TIME.—The St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway Company change their time-table on Tuesday next, the 24th inst. All interested are directed to consult the advertisement in another column giving particulars as to the arrival and departure of trains. The change can also be noted in the Traveller's Guide.

CLEANING STREETS.—A suggestion is very often urged just now, that our streets could be cleaned to much better advantage and at a much more reasonable cost, than to wait until heaps of mud have to be collected in them. Such an eyesore so many weeks in the Spring is much to be deprecated, and if the Engineer can see any force in the above idea, and clean them on the present sub-strata of ice, he would be conferring a present as well as a future boon upon a long-suffering community.

Esmarck's method for bloodless operation, was yesterday used for the first time in Ottawa, at the General Hospital, with great success on the man Albert, who had his feet frozen some time ago up the Ottawa river. The operation consisted in the removal of both feet at the ankle joints, which was performed by Dr. Robillard, attending surgeon, assisted by the Hospital staff.

The Governor General's Foot Guards, with a view to creating and maintaining an esprit de corps, have resolved upon giving a vocal and instrumental concert in aid of the Reading Room and Library Fund, on the 25th inst. We do not know of any scheme better calculated to keep the Guards together. They must, assuredly, have some mode of cohesion besides the mere straw-foot, hay-foot of interminable drill. There must be some sociality as well among the men as among the officers, and the men ought to be encouraged in their efforts to be sociable. The concert, under the patronage of their Excellencies Lord and Lady Dufferin, cannot be otherwise than a success.

OYSTER SUPPER.—The Baptist Ladies' Aid Oyster Supper and Musical Entertainment took place last evening in the Temperance Hall, Rideau street. The refreshment table was presided over by Mrs. King and Mrs. Harvey, who displayed much courtesy and affability in catering to the wants of their numerous customers. A large quantity of useful and fancy articles were for sale at other tables, presided over by Mrs. Casewell, Miss Graham and Miss Link, who were very energetic and very successful in pushing a trade. During the evening several pieces, vocal and instrumental, were well executed, by Miss Prentice, of Aylmer, Mrs George Howe, Mrs. Avory, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons. Mr. Adam sang 'My Pretty Jane,' towards the end of the evening, and was loudly applauded. Before the company separated the Rev. Mr. Cameron made a few remarks, observing that he regretted this entertainment was held on the same evening as that of the Prebyterian Church, Bank street.

The "Weekly Times."

The "Weekly Times" published this morning contains 30 columns of news. It contains:—Local news of every description, including a full account of the celebration of St. Patrick's Day. Dominion Items carefully selected. Valuable correspondence on the New Church Movement. Telegraphic correspondence from all parts of Canada and the United States. A well arranged synopsis of the proceedings of the Local Legislature now in session at Toronto. Proceedings of the Temperance and Y. M. C. A. Movements. Editorials on the leading questions that agitate the public mind, and a correctly arranged commercial column. Persons desirous of sending to friends in the Old Country a well selected compendium of news, would do well to invest five cents in a copy of the "Weekly Times," to be had at Perry's News Depot, adjoining the the Post Office, and Sullivan's News Depot, Sussex street, and at the Office, Wellington street. Plenty of time, as the English mail does not close till noon.

Bank St. Presbyterian Church Soiree.

The Ninth Annual Concert and Soiree of the Bank Street Presbyterian Church, was held in that edifice last night, and was, in every sense of the word, a great success. There was a large and respectable audience, comprising many members of the other churches of the city.

SOIREE IN BASEMENT.

On entering the church a gentle hint from ther usher brought the guest to the basement of the church, where the ladies of the congregation had laid out two tables, that literally groaned with the good things provided. Tea, coffee and cakes in endless variety were supplied in such a lavish manner as to appease the appetites of even the most fastidious. The basement showed evidence of the handiwork of the ladies, in the artistic devices and festooning that characterised the the whole room. At the head of the room was a beautifully designed crown, intertwined by evergreens, and surmounted by the word "Welcome" in large letters. Upon each side of the crown were several appropriate mottoes. The sides of the Church were similarly adorned with wreaths of evergreen and mottoes. The foot of the room had an artistically designed crown, surmounted by the word "Energy." The pillars in the room were also entwined with evergreens and mottoes, transforming the entire basement into a scene, such as might be read of in story books, and something more easily imagined than described. After all had partaken of the hospitality so generously afforded, a rush was made up-stairs to the body of the Church, where the second part of the programme had to be performed.

THE CONCERT.

After all had become seated in the body of the church, the Hon. Malcolm Cameron was called to the Chair. Along with him we observed the Hon. D. Laird, Minister of the Interior, Hon. Wm. Ross, Minister of Militia, the Rev. Messrs. Gordon, Gallagher, Hunter, Moore, McCuaig, and Principal Jackson of the Ladies' College.

The Chairman called upon Prof. Workman for a piece of music; when that gentlemen assisted by Mr. J. A. Macdonald and Misses Higman and Olver, sang with fine effect a Quartette, Come Holy Spirit; which was at its close was deservedly applauded.

The Chairman offered a few introductory remarks, but he said he must content himself with but few as there were so many other gentlemen present who were to address them. He then called upon the Rev. Mr. Gordon for an address.

Mr. Gordon spoke briefly on the subject of giving, making a very practical address, and concluded by offering the members of Bank Street Chuach his congratulations on the success that had attended their Ninth Anniversary Soiree.

Prof. Workman again favoured the audience with a trio, Rest for the Weary, in which Misses Higman, Workman, and Olver took part. Their rendering of the piece was excellent, and was loudly applauded. Mr. Workman accompanied in his usual skilful manner on the organ.

The Hon. D. Laird, Minister of the Interior, was the next speaker and made a few very appropriate remarks suited for the occasion, after which he resumed his seat amid applause.

Another quartette followed Have Mercy Lord. Prof. Workman, Mr. Macdonald, Misses Higman and Olver again contributed and gave evidence of good musical powers in the singing of their respective solos. The piece was well received by the audience.

The Rev. McCuaig next addressed the audience, keeping them considerably amused by the recital of several amusing anecdotes. He resumed his seat amid applause.

Miss Oliver next sang a 'solo,' Sweet Spirit Hear My Prayer, in which she shewed to good advantage her fine contralto voice. She deservedly won the plaudits of the house. She was accompanied on the organ by Prof. Workman.

Dr. Gallagher was next called upon by the Chairman, who at some length entertained the audience. He dwelt for a short while on the great Religious agitations that were moving the different parts of the world. He then referred in general terms to the object of the meeting, contributing some humorous and entertaining anecdotes, and concluded by wishing them every prosperity as a congregation. (Cheers).

An anthem was then sang, called The Lord is King, in which Prof. Workman, Mr. Macdonald and Misses Higman and Olver took part. Mr. Macdonald's fine tenor voice was shown to good advantage in the rendering of his solo part of the Anthem. Miss Higman showed herself possessed of a fine treble voice in her solo. Professor Workman needs no words of praise from us, as he has already earned a reputation here in a musical role.

The Rev. Mr. Hunter then followed in a somewhat happy speech, and was succeeded by Principal Jackson, of the Ladies' College.

The Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Moore, after which this very pleasant entertainment was brought to a close.

Board of Separate Schools.

OTTAWA, March 18, 1874.

Present:—Messrs. Larose, Finly, Coursolles, Sims, Chouinard, Lapierre, O'Connor and Kavanagh.

In the absence of the Chairman, Mr. Finly was called to the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Mr. Coursolles presented Report No. 3 of the Finance Committee.

The Committee on finance and assessment beg leave to report, that they have examined the following accounts, and recommend that cheques do issue for their several amounts:—

John Finly, for wood	$159 73
Sister St. Charles for sundries	6 00
Sister Mary of l'Assumption, do	13 00
J B Lamontagne, for clocks	10 00
E. A. Laverdure for sundry work	5 60

They also beg to recommend that the application made by Mr. Reuben Lawrence for reduction of his school taxes, in proportion to the reduction made by the Court of Revision, on his municipal taxes, on the property mentioned in his letter be allowed.

That the accounts of the Grey Nuns for rent and other charges in connection with the St. John the Baptist School, together with the application of the Reverend Father Porcile and Brother Andrew for an increase of salary to the different teachers employed in the schools under their charge, be referred to the School Management Committee, with instruction to enquire and report on the number of teachers actually employed in each school and class, and the advisability of granting such relief as they may think proper.

Your Committee would also recommend that it be an instruction to the School Management Committee, to provide water casks and drinking cups for the scholars in each of the schools where such requisites are not provided.

Ottawa, 16th March, 1874.

THURSDAY, March 19.

The Chevrier case of assault was further adjourned until Monday next. Chevrier was let out on bail.

A case of abusive language was adjourned until to-morrow, on account of the non appearance in Court of the parties concerned.

Patrick O'Keefe was charged with stealing a coat from Mr. Chabot. He elected to be tried summarily and pleaded not guilty of the charge. He was sent down for two months at hard labour.

Joseph Marrion was charged with stealing a table from Mr. Senecal. The charge was not proven and the case was adjourned until to-morrow.

MR. JENKINS, THE CANADIAN COMMISSIONER, AT DUNDEE.

Speech on British and Canadian Affairs.

The following is an extract from the report of Mr. Jenkins' address to his constituents at Dundee, on the 23rd of March. It will be read with interest in Canada, as it has been in England:—

Gentlemen, let us look at this Cabinet. There is the right honourable gentleman the Premier, the author of that silly, bombastic, hysterical Bath letter, in which he talked about the plundering and the blundering of the Liberal Government; the author of a pastoral address to his constituents which exceeds in invective and stupidity the pastoral address of an Irish Roman Catholic Cardinal. (Laughter and applause.) It seems to me that nothing more clearly shows what the mal-droitness of his rival was than the fact that Great Britain has accepted the miserable shreds a policy contained in the address of Mr. Disraeli. Why, gentlemen, what did he do? He found he could not pick up a policy in England, and he took a voyage to the Straits of Malacca (Laughter and applause). He found out that our Government had entered into a treaty—a compact—which permitted the Dutch—that omnipotent and avaricious people, who might at any time, you know, come and take possession of London—to take possession of the Island of Sumatra, which happens to be on the one side of the Straits, whilst Great Britain holds the other side; and Mr. Disraeli says that by so doing they have imperilled the interests of English commerce, and he seems to think that the next thing the Dutch will do will be to cross the Straits and take possession of the whole of the peninsula of Malaya. Gentlemen, there is one thing that should be said about the honorable gentleman—that if he has not shown much success in framing a policy, he has at all events shown an ingenuity which entitles him to the name of the Penang Lawyer. (Applause and laughter.) Well now, gentlemen, discussing this Administration, we come to another member, Lord Derby, an able and sagacious administrator, but a man who is the very Martin Tupper of politics, who goes about the world giving vent to more proverbial and philosophical commonplaces; and then, gentlemen, we have a new Chancellor of the Exchequer—Sir Stafford Northcote. There is one point about Mr. Gladstone, that in finance he was both ingenious and great; but who will say of the present Chancellor that he is either great or ingenious? With reference to that matter, I see it is suggested that this Chancellor of the Exchequer is likely to propose a reduction of the income tax. Now, when Mr. Gladstone proposed to do away with the income tax altogether, I felt so much confidence in the right hon. gentleman's financial knowledge that I knew he could do it; but when it is proposed to reduce it to twopence, I know that it will be some miserable financial measure, and the meaning of it will be simply this—that somehow or other Sir Massey Lopes and his friends will claim the surplus for the purpose of relieving local taxation and one of the most perilous resolutions that was passed in the House of Commons during the last session may be carried into operation, and by titivating our local finance the whole country may be thrown into a state of financial confusion. I cannot enter to-night fully into that question, but I shall take an early opportunity of doing so in case it is brought before the House of Commons, and of showing you what is the real meaning of those propositions made by the Tories at this moment with reference to the relief of the local authorities, or rather the relieving of land from local taxation. (Applause.) Then there is another member of the Cabinet—a screaming Marquis—(laughter and applause)—who has been wandering about the world in a state of possession—wandering amongst the tombs of antiquated opinions and prejudices—and whom we now find coming back clothed and sitting in his right mind as the feet of such a saviour of humanity at the author of 'Vivian Grey' and 'Lothair.' (Applause and laughter.) However, there are other components of the Cabinet to whom we may look with greater confidence. There is Lord Carnarvon, who has been appointed to the Colonial Office—a man worthy to succeed a very worthy predecessor, and a man whose appointment will be hailed with the greatest satisfaction throughout all our colonies; and I am sure that the country may expect capable administrators in such men as Lord Sandon, and Mr. W. H. Smith, the member for Westminster, and in Mr. Cro[illegible] the members for Lancashire; but I [illegible] not but look with suspicion upon [illegible] mission into the present Administr[illegible] such a man as Sir Massey Lopes, wh[illegible] said, has pledged to a certain exte[illegible] Conservative party to that dangerous [illegible] position with reference to the trans[illegible] the burdens from localities to the Im[illegible] exchequer. And, moreover, from the [illegible] guage of Mr. Disraeli, from the tone [illegible] Conservative journals, and from th[illegible] that the Marquis of Salisbury is a m[illegible] of this Administration, I fear that it [illegible] simply to be a mere Conservative [illegible] that it is to be an Administration [illegible] action, and if it remains in power [illegible] the next five years, it would almost [illegible] a revolution in England. (Applause.) [illegible] may predict a stormy time for such [illegible] ministration as that; but I hope [illegible] things. We know that Mr. Disraeli [illegible] happy art of instilling into the [illegible] his followers certain ideas which [illegible] not want to take in. I remember [illegible] by President Lincoln. There was [illegible] out West who was a great tem[illegible] and he happened to be in a [illegible] room taking a glass of [illegible] Some of his friends came in [illegible] 'Let us have a little whiskey.' [illegible] cannot take whiskey, I have taken [illegible] pledge.' 'Oh, but you will just [illegible] little.' 'Well,' said he, 'if you could [illegible] a little in unbeknownst, I might [illegible] [Laughter and applause.] Gentle[illegible] Mr. Disraeli has a method of [illegible] political Tory whiskey in unbekno[illegible] and somehow or other his followers [illegible] ceed in swallowing it. [Applause [illegible] laughter.] But now, gentlemen, [illegible] criticised the Administration I am [illegible] to say this—that I feel that this A[illegible] tration is one which, if it will leave [illegible] reactionary matters, and will devote [illegible] simply to administrative and [illegible] forms, may in this interval of quiet [illegible] England a vast amount of good. I [illegible] here to-night to ask you to support [illegible] the policy which I have marked [illegible] myself in the House of Commons, [illegible] that in all such matters as that I will [illegible] to the present Government no [illegible] opposition. (Applause.) I do not [illegible] pose to be a party to this and the [illegible] tempt from time to time to hamper [illegible] its action in matters which are not [illegible] to party politics. I think that it [illegible] duty when the Tory Government [illegible] forward a measure of administrative [illegible] form which is likely to be an advantage [illegible] the country to give it all the aid [illegible] power—[applause]—and what I [illegible] to-night is to confide to [illegible] stituents so far as to allow [illegible] this opinion in the House of Com[illegible] with your approval. Gentlemen, [illegible] are questions that, to my mind, [illegible] probably be taken up by a Tory [illegible] ment and treated with greater [illegible] than they could have been by the [illegible] Government. For instance, Sir C[illegible] Adderly was lately appointed by [illegible] Government Chairman of the Royal [illegible] mission which sat on the question [illegible] lic health, and incidentally [illegible] question of local administration [illegible] these are burning and important [illegible] in England, and they require a [illegible] settlement, and with regard to the [illegible] is not only the question of local [illegible] tration but a good deal of the que[illegible] financial reform. Well, I think [illegible] Charles Adderley—although I [illegible] think he is altogether sound in [illegible] posals he has made—were to [illegible] ward a measure in Parliament, [illegible] were supported by the enlight[illegible] servatives who used to attend [illegible] ings and debate upon this subject [illegible] tary reform and local admin[illegible] would meet from the Liberal [illegible] amount of support; and I really [illegible] that it is more likely that [illegible] carry a measure which would be [illegible] factory to the people of England [illegible] Liberal Government would be able [illegible] for years to come. Upon the [illegible] leave me free to act. [illegible] depend upon it I will do [illegible] contrary to Liberal pr[illegible] but, if I see a measure brought be[illegible] House of Commons which I think [illegible] not only to do away with the tend[illegible] centralisation which I used to [illegible] late Government, but likely to settle [illegible] question for years to come, I [illegible] allowed to use my discretion, [illegible] all the aid in my power [illegible] ing that to a successful conclusion [illegible] plause.) There is one small [illegible] which may be brought before [illegible] of Commons, I hope it is prob[illegible] Lord Advocate may be induced [illegible] in a measure for settling that [illegible] tion about roads and tolls. I [illegible] endeavor to inform myself on [illegible] and to the best of my ability [illegible] bringing the measure to a happy [illegible] sion. (Applause.) Upon another [illegible] I look to the present Governm[illegible] little hope. It is upon the question [illegible] perial politics. To me now, by the [illegible] which only succeeded by one [illegible] great distinction which you conferred [illegible] me, this is becoming not only a [illegible] of personal importance but one of [illegible] greatest responsibility. The Gove[illegible] of the greatest of our self-gover[illegible] pendencies has conferred upon me, [illegible] the Dominion of Canada—the [illegible] position of Agent General in Eng[illegible] all purposes—political and [illegible] (Loud applause.) Not long ago [illegible] Childers—an ex-Cabinet Minister, [illegible] Lord of the Admiralty—conducted [illegible] similar position with reference [illegible] the Australian colonies was [illegible] ceptance, I have been appointed [illegible] sent not one but the federation [illegible] whole of the colonies of the [illegible] Canada—a country larger in area [illegible] United States of America—a [illegible] taining four millions of inhabitants [illegible] rapidly increasing population—[illegible] which has the fourth mercantile [illegible] the world—standing next to [illegible] country that has 60,000 mariners [illegible] maritime provinces, where you can [illegible] steamboat in the very centre of [illegible] try and steam seaward in inland [illegible] for a thousand miles, and then [illegible] have only run over one half of its [illegible] (Applause.) Gentlemen, there [illegible] numbers of emigrants at this [illegible] proceeding to that country, and the [illegible] ernment have determined in every [illegible] possible to assist its development [illegible] country is rich in mines of copper [illegible] silver, coal and iron. It is a vast [illegible] building country, and I feel in [illegible] ing it that in no quasi diplomatic [illegible] am really holding a more re[illegible] office than the Minister of Sweden, [illegible] Minister of Norway, or the Min[illegible] Holland, or the Minister of Switzerland [illegible] the Minister of Spain can possibly [illegible] (Applause.) Gentlemen, the [illegible] Government has important inter[illegible] London which they require to have [illegible] sented. It has important trans[illegible] with the Colonial Office which some[illegible] should carry on, and it is also [illegible] that those four millions of Ca[illegible] should at length have in London [illegible] sistance as is always afforded by [illegible] Ministers of other places to their [illegible] and which they now expect will [illegible] forded through my influence and [illegible] tions to all Canadians [illegible] (Applause.) Gentlemen, I am sure [illegible] will all congratulate me upon [illegible] pointment—(applause)—and if I am [illegible] tunate enough to discharge [illegible] duties with success, I am sure [illegible] you will be glad, as you [illegible] also have to share, the honour [illegible] (Applause.) Gentlemen, in dealing [illegible] the Conservative Government on be[illegible] those Colonies, I am perfectly certain [illegible] they will be willing to facilitate my [illegible] tion in every way. Not long since Mr. D[illegible] although he haggled about it for a [illegible] time, under the influence of Sir C[illegible] Adderley, declared himself in favor [illegible] what may after all be a true Con[illegible] principle—I mean that it is important [illegible] preserve the union and cohesion [illegible] Colonies with Great Britain. (App[illegible] I am only speaking now in my [illegible] capacity—don't take what I say [illegible] moment as if it came from me as [illegible] presentative of the Dominion of Ca[illegible] but I feel bound to tell you, as I [illegible] the people of England, that the C[illegible] yearn towards us with the greatest [illegible] They desire that our connection [illegible] equally glorious and beneficial [illegible] should be permanent, and they are [illegible] to make any sacrifice in [illegible] bring about that great and [illegible] end. (Applause.)

TORONTO.

Local Legislature.

TORONTO, March 19th.

The speaker took the chair at 11.30.

Mr. Crooks moved concurrence in the resolutions reported by the Committee of Supply, which, with the exception of four items held over till to-morrow, were concurred in.

The Ballot bill had certain amendments added, providing for counting votes, and was read a third time and passed.

Hon. Mr. McKellar moved the second reading of the bill to extend the franchise. This bill would enable a most intelligent class, such as clerks, teachers and professional men to vote. He proposed to fill in the blank for the Committee for the sum of $300.

Mr. Rykert was opposed to the amount, which too nearly approached Universal suffrage. He thought $600 a desirable sum.

Mr. Prince supported the bill.

Mr. Boultbee objected to the bill in some of its details. The proposed scheme would give a vote to railway laborers, who had no special interest in the localities in which they worked. Giving them votes would expose them to the influence of unscrupulous men, who would manipulate them to their own purpose.

The House adjourned at 1.40 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The speaker took the chair at 2.15.

The Attorney General moved that Private Bills be taken up after the Government orders, and before the public order at this sitting, and also on Friday at each sitting.

Mr Rykert protested against this motion, which he considered was to prevent discussion on his motion on the Municipal Loan Fund, which stood on the public orders.

Mr. Boultbee moved in amendment, that in the opening of the House it is important that order 42 relating to the Municipal Loan Fund be disposed of. After some remarks the members were called in, and the amendment was lost by 14 yeas to 40 nays.

The motion was carried on the same division.

The Attorney General moved the House into Committee on the Administration of Justice Bill.

Messrs. Boultbee and Rykert protested against such an important measure being brought down so late in session.

The House then went into Committee, and the first 19 clauses were passed with the exception of 18 which was dropped.

The House rose at six o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

The House went into Committee on the bill to provide for the due Administration of Justice, which after a lengthy discussion, passed.

The bill to amend the Municipal institutions was read a second time.

The House adjourned at 12 a.m.

City News.

It is well known that the Attorney General intends, if possible, to prorogue the House on Saturday, but the Opposition intend offering a number of motions when the House is moved in concurrence to-morrow.

Mr. Boultbee to-day opposed the extension of the franchise to those having an income of $400 per year, on the ground that it would give every railway laborer or workingman who earned a dollar and a half a day a vote.

His Grace the Archbishop stayed at Kingston, en route for this city, and will not arrive till to-morrow. He has declined a public reception.

The Yacht club on York street was broken into last night, and $50 stolen.

Joseph Dean is still in a very dangerous condition to-night. The Crisis in his state, is expected to-morrow,

Sir John held a reception to-day in the Queen's Hotel, but the crowd that formerly attended him when in power, were conspicuous by their absence.

MONTREAL,

A $20,000 Fire.

MONTREAL, March 19.

At 6:30 this p.m., a fire broke out in the building opposite the Dominion Telegraph Company, occupied on the ground flat by the National and Canadian Express Companies. The second flat were mercantile offices. The top flat being occupied as a public hall where the fire was supposed to have originated. The fire gained great headway before the alarm was given, but good work was done after the arrival of the engines. The fire was however not got under control until 8 p m The upper part of the building is a total loss. The Express Company also sustain a heavy loss through damage done by water. The total loss is estimated at $20,000; covered by insurance.

HALIFAX.

Accidental Death—Sable Island—Lumbering Camp Burned—The New Steamship Company—The Subsidy to Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, March 18.

Daniel Bent, while working in the woods at Parker's Cave, Annapolis County, on Monday, by the falling of a tree was killed.

John Henderson, of Merigomishe, Pictou, County, was drowned on Tuesday night while crossing from the mainland to Big Island.

The steamer 'Lady Head' arrived from Sable Island this morning. She reports all well on the Island; no wrecks have occurred since last report.

A lumber camp at Sheet Harbour, with all its contents, was destroyed by fire one day last week; the lumbermen lost their clothes and valuables, and were obliged to travel several miles to get something to eat.

The new steamship company's steamer 'Virgo' will ply between Halifax, Cape Breton ports, and the Western shore.

In the House of Assembly this afternoon, Mr. Blanchard moved the following resolution: Resolved—1st. That in the opinion of this House the increased subsidy, to which, under the Dominion Act of 1873, this Province is entitled, was calculated and allowed on $9,186,000, granted by the Act of 1865, and not upon the sum of $8,000,000, mentioned as the probable debt of this Province in the Union Act of 1867. 2nd. That that the Local Government of Nova Scotia be respectfully requested to forward the above resolution to the Government of Canada, with a view of accomplishing its object. 3rd. That in the event of doubt being entertained by the Dominion Government on this subject, then should be requested to ask from their Legislature such declaratory or remedial statute as may be necessary to carry out what, it is believed, was the intention of the Legislature in the Act of 1873.

ENGLAND.

Re-Elected.

LONDON, March 18.—Richard Asheton Cross, Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been re-elected to Parliament without opposition.

Bondholders' Meeting.

A meeting of Louisiana bondholders was held to day, and resolutions adopted denouncing the funding bill of the last session of the Legislature as arbitrary, unjust and injudicious, and calculated to shake confidence in all American securities. The meeting resolved to take measures to resist the carrying into effect of the bill.

The Ashantee Expedition.

The Queen has publicly expressed her highest admiration and warmest thanks for the gallantry displayed by the British troops in the recent engagements with the Ashantees.

Dr. Kenealy.

A committee has been appointed to investigate the charges against Dr. Kenealy, counsel for the Tichborne claimant. Mr. Whalley, M.P., demands that a similar committee be appointed to investigate the charges against Hawkins, the prosecuting Attorney.

FRANCE.

Resolution of Censure.

VERSAILLES, March 18.—After a long debate in the Assembly to-day, a resolution was offered by the Left, censuring the government for its action in reference to the nomination of mayors of cities, which was defeated by a majority of 62.

Entry of Carlists in Olot.

BAYONNE, March 18.—The Carlist forces under Seballo entered Olot without opposition.

UNITED STATES.

Fire.

WILLIMINGTON, Del., March 18.—The spice factory of C. J. Fells & Bro., in this city, was burned yesterday morning. Loss, $55,000.

Billiards.

NEW YORK, March 18.—A. Gagnier, in answer to the challenge of Rudolphe, says he will play, in New York, a game of 3-ball French caroms, 500 points up, for $1,000 a side, with 2½ balls on a 5 by 10 table, the game to take place three weeks after his match with Maurice Daly for the championship of the world.

Committee.

The Produce Exchange has appointed a committee to proceed to Albany and urge legislation for the deepening of the Erie Canal and introducing steam navigation.

Fire.

The Neptune Boat Club-house, Dempsey's livery stable, Clark's shoe store, and the stock of several other small traders were busned at West New Brighton, Staten Island, this morning. Loss, $25,000.

The New King of the Sandwich Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—The steamship 'Mikado' brings intelligence from Honolulu that Prince Kalakua has been elected King of the Sandwich Islands, to succeed Lunalelo. The elections were quiet. A serious riot was threatened at Honolulu when the election of Kalakua was made known. The mob attacked the Court House, but the men from the U. S. steamer 'Tuscarora' and other war vessels landed, and quiet was soon restored.

Further Particulars.

Advices from Honolulu to March 8th, show that the riot by the mob of Queen Emma's adherents, when they learned of the election of Prince Kalaqua, was more serious than at first stated. When the announcement of her defeat was made, a mob attacked the House of Assembly and beat several of the members, one of whom afterwards died, tore up the seats and desks, and set fire to the house, when the United States and British Marines landed and dispersed it. W. L. Green, Minister of Foreign affairs, tendered the thanks of the Government for the timely interference of the marines. The King is still threatened with assassination. Herman Widemed is now Minister of the Interior, and Judge Hartwell Attorney General.

Communist Celebration.

NEW YORK, March, 18—The French Communists to-night celebrated the anniversary of the Communist uprising in Paris by a ball and supper

Volcanic Intimations.

A Raleigh, N. C., despatch says throughout the entire country, and for a distance of 16 miles from Bald Mountains, extending into adjoining counties, trembling reverberation of the earth is perceptibly felt. Its numerous instances for several miles from the Mountain the glasses have rattled in windows and dishes shaken from shelves to such an extent as to create most wide spread consternation among the rural inhabitants. This has again caused a still greater stampede of citizens, many of whom superstitiously regard symtoms as an indication of Judgment Day. The latest accounts from the disturbed Mountain state that so far there has been no volcanic eruption of lave or fire, though terific noise and internal rumbling was heard at a distance so great yesterday morning as to induce the belief that a genuine volcanic eruption had taken place.

Collision.

During the dense fog this morning, the ferryboats 'Livingstone' and 'Hoboken' collided on the North River. Both boats were badly damaged, and two men injured by the falling timber.

H. Miller. The buildings belonged to Mr. W. T. Allison, whose loss is $35,000; insured for $15,000; chair factory loss, $40,000.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. SPRING CIRCULAR.
J. BERMINGHAM,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named, and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst., at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for this Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale,
Four Houses to Rent.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle-age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all the proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the real conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it to those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilization—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially included in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $200 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1873. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

[illegible] AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to actual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. in fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N., R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in [illegible] equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of those books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III., of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitute an admirable feature, and add much to the value of the Readers."

PINE LANDS.

OVER 300,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes connected with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locational facilities where logs can be [illegible] free of expense. Add then the advantages of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber, Shingles, &c., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. De Jongh's Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and, notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in Consumption is afforded by Allen G. Chattaway, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by Rowland Dalton, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. De Jongh's Oil are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. De Jongh's Oil would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it to be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in which the use of that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

"I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article, and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

[illegible] Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville, F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in Imperial Half-pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; Capsuled and Labelled with his Stamp and Signature

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY,
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland,
each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

the most ordinary laundress is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 25 cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANCREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis, or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength, Messrs. SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, pills, or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labels on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

DR. J. WALKER'S
VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
VITAL RESTORATIVE
TRADE MARK

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twins" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

'Felt for Hats and Boots:'

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

The Public Service in England.

As an instance of the rapid strides which the free expression of opinions is now making in the mother country, as well as the general desire which exists to place the public service on a liberal footing regarding salaries, we insert the following from the London Standard:

MEETING OF POST OFFICE EMPLOYEES.

Last evening a public meeting on behalf of the post office employees was held at Exeter Hall, Mr. A. J. Mundella, M.P., in the chair. The object of the meeting was to support the petition to Parliament for the abolition of Sunday work, and increase of pay to post office servants. Amongst those on the platform were Colonel Beresford, M.P., Sir Charles Dilke, M.P., Captain Bedford Pim, M.P., Mr. C. T. Ritchie, M.P., W. McCullagh Torrens, M.P., Mr. S. Plimsoll, M.P., Mr. C. Bradlaugh and Mr. McDonald, of Manchester. Previous to the meeting, which was densely crowded, the employees from the E. C., N. E. and S. E. districts assembled in Finsbury square at half-past seven, and proceeded procession-wise along Finsbury-pavement, Moorgate street, Graham street, St. Martin's-le-grand, St. Paul's churchyard, Ludgate-hill, Fleet street, and the strand; whilst those from the W. C. W., N. W. and S. W. districts assembled in Cavendish square about the same hour, and preceded in military order along Bond street, St. James's street, Pall-mall, Charing Cross and the Strand; so that at eight o'clock the two contingents met in front of the hall, to the music of the bands by which they were headed. Shortly after eight o clock the hall was occupied by a company numbering between two and three thousand, by whom the chairman, on making his appearance was most rapturously applauded.

Mr. Mundella, in rising, said that he should not have felt satisfied in occupying the position he did that night were it not, he felt convinced, that the servants of the Post Office had exhausted all other means of bringing their grievances properly before the country. (Hear, hear.) The Post Office employees had agitated the question in every reasonable manner, and he hoped they would never do anything so rash as to alienate from them the sympathies of the public. (Cheers.) He believed that the letter carriers in the London district earned from 16s. to 30s. a week, whilst in the provinces 23s. was the maximum of the wages. Now, taking into consideration the immense increase in the price of provisions within the last few years, the present remuneration was by no means adequate to the requirements of a man holding a responsible situation. [Hear, hear.] In the last session of Parliament Mr. W. H. Smith the member for Westminster, [loud cheers] presented a memorial to the House of Commons on this subject, which gave rise to an animated discussion, and then a very distinct pledge was given by the then Postmaster General that the matter should receive speedy consideration. But probably since then the Postmaster General had other things to think about—[laughter]—and the consequence was that nothing had since been done. [Hisses.] Within a month in a probability, they would have a new Ministry. [A Voice: 'And not before it was wanted.' Laughter]—and then, perhaps, Mr. W. H. Smith might find himself in the position of Postmaster General [great cheering], and in such case he, no doubt, would pay the money rather than eat the leek [cheers and laughter.] In conclusion, the Chairman again impressed upon the meeting the sad results which would follow from any indecent conduct on their part, such as a strike, in alienating from the Post Office employees the sympathies of the public. [Applause.]

Mr. McCullagh Torrens, M. P., who rose to move the first resolution, said that he was agreeable to the idea of retrenchment, but let it be done in the proper way. If the Government wanted retrenchment, let them cut off the Privy Seal of the Vice Royality of Ireland, and the money so saved would provide sufficient to meet the present claim. He should say to the new Chancellor of the Exchequer or the new Home Secretary, when dealing with the public—not for civility's sake—'Go and do likewise,' but 'go and do otherwise' [cheers and laughter.] The hon. gentleman concluded by moving the following resolution:—"That this meeting regards with extreme regret the continued delay of Her Majesty's Government in granting an adequate increase of pay to the various classes of employes on the 'Minor Establishment' of the Post Office throughout the country, believing that, taking in account the arduous and responsible nature of their work and the importance of its faithful performance to the political, social, and commercial welfare of the nation, they are deserving a higher rate of remuneration than they at present receive."

Mr. Forsyth, M. P., who was received with loud applause, seconded. In doing so he said that he was extremely glad that the first opportunity afforded him of speaking in public since his election was one on which there could be no difference of opinion. (Cheers.) He argued that there could not be a greater mistake than for an employer whether in the States or otherwise, to under-pay those whom he employed; and he could honestly promise them this, that when any motion for their alleviation was brought before the House of Commons such motion should have his most hearty support. (Cheers.)

Mr. Simpson, of Liverpool, in a good practical speech, supported the motion in the name of the Post Office employes not only of Liverpool, but of the Provinces generally.

After some further observations in support from Mr. Lloyd Jones, the resolution was put to the meeting and carried with acclamation.

Mr. Ritchie, M.P. for Tower Hamlets, proposed the second resolution:—"That this meeting desires to express its earnest sympathy with the employees in the country towns and rural districts, who are either wholly or partially deprived of their Sunday rest, and strongly urges that Sunday work in the Post Office may be entirely abolished, or, if that is found to be impracticable, that such arrangements be made as will secure one entire day's rest in seven to all Post Office servants. Also, that a parliamentary committee be appointed to inquire into the grievances of which the employees complain." It was, Mr. Ritchie said, a course of great gratification to him to see the object of the meeting so ably supported, and so constitutionally advocated. Now that the opinion of the country had been taken, and had been so out-spoken, the first duty of the new Parliament would, no doubt, be to undertake to remedy the injustice under which civil servants suffer. He was not one of those who considered that doing justice to himself was just if it ignored liberty on the part of others; for others, it was clear, were equally entitled with him to the liberty and justice which he claimed for himself [cheers]. Whether the government of the feature were Whig or Tory, he believed that was the last meeting which the Post Office employes would be compelled to hold in order to have their wrongs righted and their grievances redressed by the House of Commons. [Cheers.]

Captain Bedford Pim, M.P., for Gravesend, who seconded the resolution, said he looked upon the postman as a personal friend, and, being a sailor, he could only promise his friends that, as on board ship, so in the lobby of the House of Commons, if ever they had occasion to call upon him they would find him a man of deeds, not words. [Cheers].

The motion was carried with acclamation.

Colonel Beresford, M. P., proposed a vote of thanks of the chairman, which was seconded by Mr. Samuel Plimsol, M. P., and carried with enthusiasm.

The meeting then separated.

The Ottawa Times

SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1874.

Hon Albert J. Smith has resigned the Presidency of the Maritime Bank of the Dominion

Dr. Schultz, M P., for Manitoba, arrived in the city yesterday evening, and is stopping at the Russell House.

Hon. Frank Smith has been re-elected President of the Northern Extension Railways of Ontario.

Mr. Louis Honore Frechette, one of the sweetest of the French Canadian poets, has arrived in town to attend to his Parliament duties as M. P. for Levis.

Hon. Isaac Burpee, has retired from the firm of I. and F. Burpee, hardware merchants of St. John, N B. We hope our Sparks street contemporary is now quite satisfied that the "national interests" are no longer in peril, and that the country is safe."

The Government have determined to increase the Manitoba, or North West Mounted Police Force, by 150 men with the corresponding accompaniment of horses. The requirements of service are set forth by official announcement elsewhere. Lieut.-Col. French, the Commissioner, is in the city at present in connection with this business.

Information reaches us from Montreal that Louis Riel, the member-elect for Provencher, is sojourning in that city, under the care and protection of some old college friends. It is not known whether he will claim his seat, in the absence of an amnesty for political offences committed by him in his capacity of President of the Provisional Government, established prior to the transfer of the North West Territories to the Dominion. In connection with this subject, we see that Messrs. W. A. Farmer, G. D. McVicar, James Stewarr, D. N. Campbell, Geo. H. Young and Archibald Wright, on behalf of the prisoners confined in Fort Garry at the time of the murder of Thomas Scott, publish a lengthy statement in the Manitoba Free Press, in which they controvert many of the statements made by Riel in his recent manifesto.

SUITING OURSELVES.

The difficulty of pleasing everybody is notorious. In all ages and climes it has been recognized and exemplified in popular maxim and fable. The story of the man who, from being carried by his ass, returned the compliment, and shouldered his animal, out of deference to other's opinion, is well known. The complacent fool found that, though he might fatigue himself ever so much, he could not please all the critics with whom he came in contact; and learned, however late, that the wisest way was to suit himself, regardless of the opinions or crotchets of his acquaintances. In larger matters than those affecting individuals, singly, this is often judicious policy. No country can hope to keep up with half the schemes recommended to it by its benevolent advisers, of course solely in its interest; nor can any escape the objurgations of the sensitive, but self-important counsellors whose advice has been disregarded. We find Canada at this time the object of the reproof of some foreign critics who, probably, never saw her shores, on account of the refusal of her Government to rush blindly and, we will say madly, into the late Cabinet's insane scheme of building the Pacific Railway through a country but little known, and within a period little more than sufficient to make satisfactory surveys of the region judging from the rate of progress hitherto observed. In other words, a country which, with the Imperial guarantee of the money required to build the road, could not complete 500 miles in seven years, through a region settled all the way, and in easy communication with the sea, the St Lawrence, and the older, well peopled district, is called upon to build a railway five times as long, through a wilderness whose whole white population would not reach 50,000! In the first place, here are but twenty persons to the mile of road, and they concentrated at a few points many hundreds of miles apart. There is, for instance, a village at Thunder Bay, with a few hundred souls, with no settlement worth mention for 400 miles till Fort Garry is reached. Then when the Portage is passed, or the district sixty miles west of Winnipeg, you have a thousand miles of prairie solitude, with no signs of human life beyond the few families at the small, widely separated Hudson Bay posts. We exclude the bands of Indians from notice as valueless in a colonising or business point of view. Indeed the fickle, warlike savages are a source of danger, which will diminish the strength of the working force of whites in the Northwest, by reason of the police or military precautions necessary against their depredations. The London Standard is one of the critics that can see no difficulty in the way of the Dominion's instant commencement of this trifling undertaking, while being amazingly clear in the perception of all sorts of moral short comings and political dangers in regard to the temporary connection of our North West with the American railroads. That journal's contempt of obstacles serious enough to the eye of the financier and engineer to be almost, if not quite insurmountable, marks either a sublime sense of its own capacity, or an amount of ignorance of the North American world dense enough for King Koffee of Ashantee. The right of England to insist upon Canada's compliance with the Act or bargain in regard to the railway of British Columbia, on account of the Imperial guarantee of the loan, is menacingly referred to by this Tory thunderer. But it is as well to remind it that not a dollar of that loan has been raised, which leaves England wholly clear of responsibility in the matter up to this time. Sir Hugh Allan failed to get the money for the road last Spring, with all the advantage of that guarantee and parade of Governmental honesty of purpose, upon which the Standard would lay great stress. The London capitalist cares little about Colonial Governmental promises, begotten of party necessities or objects, when the prospect of gain in connection with the enterprises concerned is the least shadowy. Now the eighteen millions and a half dollars covered by the Imperial obligation, it was well known in England, would not have built the 500 miles north of Lake Superior alone, while the means for the remaining 2,000 would have had to be raised on the credit of the Dominion and the strength of the land grants. Good or valuable as they might be, such a length of railway through 2,000 miles of wilderness did not prove a very tempting investment. It is rather absurd, then, to think that a task which the world's financial capital, constantly helping even the visionary-looking schemes of semi-civilized nations at the ends of the earth, shrank from, though amply secured as to a portion of the investment, should be hastily and thoughtlessly entered upon by Canada, whose debt is already over a hundred millions, always augmenting, and likely to increase for improvements within the old four Provinces. The honour and interests of the Empire, and particularly of this American portion of it, are as dear to the Government as they are to any London newspapers, lacking a thorough acquaintance with the subject discussed, and free of responsibility for any action taken. But even Canadian writers can be ignorant and disingenuous in dealing with this all important subject. How often throughout the late electoral contest, and since, also, have we not had to laugh at the flippant, ridiculous advise to Ministers, to go along and build this railway on the late Government's routes and plans, if they desire the support of this or that mighty newspaper potentate. The inference was that refusal meant his displeasure and, as a matter of course, Ministerial ruin. The job was a mere nothing from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with its thousands of square miles of lonely prairie, its Rocky Mountains, marshes, Alpine valley's and deep gorges, or canyons, over a thousand feet deep. Why should we hesitate, even though we did not know one fourth of the character of the route talked about, or the best cut across the Rocky Mountains, after three years of surveying? The new government was fortunately honest and courageous, and with all the danger of unprincipled abuse and misrepresentation by the Opposition, before its eyes, to scout such insane proposals, and candidly declare its real belief and purpose. And the principal point and source of satisfaction to Ministers and their friends to-day is, that their views as to the wise policy for Canada, on the railroad question, are justified by the information gathered, and have met with the emphatic endorsation of the Dominion. Why, even as to the passage across the Rockies, there is still controversy. Capt. Butler praises Peace River Pass, 100 miles north of the Tete Jeune, which was and is favoured by earlier explorers and engineers. Others prefer the Pine River, somewhat south of the Peace, which is known only to the Indians, whose praise of its advantages is ardent and, perhaps, justifiable. Those northern passes would, it is contended, obviate the crossing of most difficult regions in British Columbia, including the Fraser, a Canyon one mile broad, and 1,200 feet deep! Five hundred miles of railway through the Pacific Province, the Switzerland of British America, as Mr. Sandford Fleming happily styled it, is only a part of the operation so glibly recommended by ignorant, carping critics, some of whom would rather see the country ruined than their political friends out of power. The Dominion Board of Trade was more modest, for on motion of Mr. White, himself a vigorous opponent of the Government, that body refused to assume the responsibility of offering it any counsel on the subject of the Pacific Railway. It is not now likely to be moved from its determination, to open up communication with the far Northwest, in the way best suited to its wants and the means of Canada But there is no danger of faith not being kept with British Columbia, and just as little of the Dominion's ruin in the process, while the Mackenzie Ministry stands.

A return made by the medical officer of a London hospital shows that out of 411 children under 15 years, suffering from smallpox during the last epidemic, 80 children died of the disease. Of the 80 children 77 had never been vaccinated, and the other three, though vaccinated, only showed defective marks. No child showing good vaccination marks died.

THE RIEL AMNESTY.

The Kingston News as well as the Citizen and other Opposition papers have misrepresented our position on the above question. Our reply to the following remarks of the News will suffice for all our ignorant or uncandid opponents.

"The Ottawa organ of the Dominion Government is trimming again on the Riel question. Recently it strongly opposed the granting of an amnesty to the murderer. Now, however, it would not justify a breach of faith with him! Breach of faith indeed! Breach of fiddlesticks. Judging from the tone of the Times on Saturday it would appear that the French influence has predominated in the Cabinet and that the granting of an amnesty will be advised by the Government. The Times uses these significant words. "Whatever blame may be due in the case, will then justly fall to them (the late Government) and not to their successors." The country wont look at the subject in that light, however. We have already defied the Grits to prove that Sir John A. Macdonald or his Government promised their influence to secure an amnesty to Riel; and if they did, any promise made by them would not be binding upon Mr. Mackenzie and his friends. The Government organs would like to throw the responsibility of the Riel business on the late Government, but they cannot do it. One of the two courses is open to them, and which of these shall be adopted, it is alleged a subject of warm discussion in the Cabinet,"

Our reply to the above need not be long to be effective, and it is—First, the Times did not oppose amnesty to Riel, if it was promised by the late Government. Second, the present Government could not, in view of the submission and subsequent good conduct of the half-breeds, break faith with them, even would it not be foolish to do so; and third, we have published Bishop Tache's solemn asseveration, translated from his own organ, le Metis, that amnesty was promised on the part of both the Imperial and Federal Government. Is this not enough?

CHURCH PATRONAGE.

A good deal of interest is manifested in this subject, in Kingston, and the conduct of Bishop Lewis, has been freely discussed, of late. The following editorial from the News, gives a sample of the opinions expressed by the Bishop's critics:

"Our Brockville correspondent appears dissatisfied with our explanation of how it was that Brockville was made an exception to the general rule of a curate not succeeding his rector. We do not consider it very satisfactory, for if the rule were good for Brockville, it ought to be good for Cornwall, Belleville or Picton, Our correspondent is no doubt perfectly aware that the News has advocated for years the propriety, the desirability, or the necessity of the congregations having a voice in the appointment of their own ministers; and it is within the knowledge of our correspondent that since the establishment of the Diocese of Ontario the Editor has consistently waged war with the system of patronage established among us, but without success. St George's, which suffered most from the system, got up an agitation, not against the principle, but against the appointee. With that agitation outsiders could have little sympathy. The other parishes, gave a faint support to the agitation, but never took it up heartily until they suffered themselves, when they cried out quite vigorously. The present might be a good opportunity to revive the agitation, although, judging from the past, we have not much hope that Bishop Lewis would relax his grasp on the power which has caused so much disturbance in the Diocese of Ontario for the last ten years."

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TIMES will not be held responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—In your editorial of yesterday on the subject of the late celebration at Chiselhurst, so deeply interesting to the adherents of the Napoleonic Dynasty, you remark that "the Queen herself seems to have contributed to the interest and success, at least as a social and friendly demonstration, by the despatch of her garter and other presents calculated to gratify and benefit the young Napoleon." Although you very properly qualify their demonstration as "friendly and social," yet it implies the idea, and the impression has obtained, that Her Majesty had conferred the "Order of the Garter" on the Prince Imperial. This would be a premature and somewhat partizan demonstration. The Order of the Garter is only conferred on Crowned Princes and on persons of very high rank, or very rare distinction. The Queen is related to other aspirants to the Throne of France, and has been scrupulously careful not to confound the deep and affectionate interest she takes in the misfortunes of an illustrious family, with the fortunes of a dynasty. To confer the Order of the Garter on the Prince Imperial at this conjuncture would be to espouse his cause, in the face of France and Europe. May I be allowed to offer a solution to this apparent enigma? Napoleon the Third, Emperor of the French, was a Knight of the Order of the Garter; as such, he had a stall or seat appropriated to him in St. George's Chapel, at Windsor. Over each of those seats, hangs the record of the achievements of each Knight, consisting of his banner, helmet, and crest, gorget, and shield. I think that either the "Garter," or the "George," or both are also emblematized in a very handsome though somewhat "Brummagen" type. To the back of the stall or seat is also attached a brass plate, bearing the name, style, and title of the occupant. On the death of the Knight, these insignia have to yield place to those of his successor, and it is easy to understand the good taste and delicate sympathy which suggested their honourable removal to overhang the sarcophagus in the Monumental Chapel at Chiselhurst. I imagine that this is all that has been done. Doing homage to misfortune, the Queen respects France.

I am, sir, your obdt servant,
ETONNENSIS.

OTTAWA, 19 March, 1874.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—The adulteration of liquors and articles of food has become so general in Canada that the health of Her Majesty's subjects is seriously impaired by it.

We punish even severely for the most trifling offence, while we allow those who poison their victims and rob their pockets to go free.

A writer in a public journal has justly remarked that the misery and crime produced by poisoned whiskey is truly deplorable.

Much good has been effected by the Adulteration Act recently passed in England, therefore, should not we of this Dominion among whom adulteration is carried to a much greater extent put forth some severe measures to save our people.

It is to be hoped that our Legislatures will pass such a law as will meet this important subject.

Your obedient servant,
W. E. B.

The Late Bishop of Ottawa.

To the Editor of the TIMES.

SIR,—A funeral service for the repose of the soul of the late R. C. Bishop of Ottawa, was celebrated with great pomp and magnificence at Curran, Prescott County, on the 16th instant. From an early hour the parishioners were seen flocking to the Church in their anxiety to pay their respect to the memory of the lamented Prelate. The weather being favorable, the attendance was very large; the grandeur of the church with its many hangings of mourning which were tastefully arranged, was truly imposing. In fact, nothing that could add to the solemn grandeur of the building was left undone. The Rev. Mr Bourassa, P. P., of Montebello, officiated, assisted by the Revs. Messrs Boucher, P. P. of Clarence and Philippe, P. P., of Fournierville The Kyrie and Diesirae and other portions of the mass, with Rev. Mr. Chaine's organ accompaniment, were rendered with much impression. At the conclusion of the mass, the Rev Mr. Lombard, P. P., of St Angelique, Q. ascended the pulpit, and in very appropriate terms recapitulated the whole life of him whose chief occupation had been the care of his flock.

A PARISHIONER.

Curran, March 18, 1874.

Unfulfilled.

To the Editor of the Manitoba Nor-Wester.

At the political beginning of the Province of Manitoba a deputation consisting of three men was sent from Red River to treat with the Governor of Canada at Ottawa; Black, Scott and Richot. And at the meeting or treaty, there was something composed in writing called the Manitoba Act, in which three parties were concerned—the Hudson Bay Company, Natives of mixed blood, and the Indian. The former and latter have received all which was stipulated in said treaty, but now about the satisfaction of the third party? Now, therefore, until all the stipulations specified in the Manitoba Act—passed in the 34th year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria—are fulfilled, the said Act must of necessity remain a dead letter, for whereas all natives of mixed blood are free men, a "bargain is a bargain," and so an agreement must remain such for all time, consequently all persons concerned in said treaty ought to agree and compel the Government of the Dominion of Canada to settle at once and for ever the said treaty, so that we may be a united people, without which we never can be anything.

Yours, etc.,
E.

CITY AND VICINITY.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. Thos. R. Davies met with a severe accident yesterday in T. W. Currier & Co's. sash factory It seems that in working the 'Sticker' in connection with one of the planing mills, caught his foot, severely cutting it. One cut is over the instep, another a little lower down, and a third has nearly severed the large toe. It will keep him from work at least two months, if something more serious does not happen.

RUNAWAY.—A horse runaway at the Chaudiere, yesterday afternoon, causing considerable damage. The horse started from a house at the west end of Pooley's Bridge, rushing through Duke street at a fearful rate, clearing everything in his course. The cutter was greatly smashed and the horse himself when caught showed signs of a hard time, being all covered with mud. Some man secured him near the Suspension Bridge and returned him to his owner. This is but another lesson for owners of horses to see to it that their horses are properly secured when left standing in the public street.

MESMERISM.—Miss Annie DeMontford gives her first entertainment in Gowan's Hall on Thursday the the 26th instant. Of her the Toronto Leader says:—"Miss DeMontford gave another of her mesmeric entertainments last night to a packed audience, in fact a great many persons had to go home they being unable to gain admission. This lady acquitted herself with perfection and proved to the entire audience that she was a mesmerist of the highest order as their frequent applause testified. She is, indeed, the most powerful mesmerist that we have ever seen."

MR GAHAN'S LECTURE.—The Lecture on "Canada our Common Country," which was announced for the 23rd inst., is unavoidably postponed for a few days, owing to private business, obliging Mr Gahan to absent himself for a short time. The tickets issued are good for the occasion, due notice of which will be given in our columns. As the object of the lecture is to foster a truly national spirit in the Dominion, we hope to see a large attendance of our patriotic fellow citizens. Meanwhile tickets can be procured at Messrs. H. & J. Gowan's, Spark street.

OTTAWA TRACT SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of this Society will be held, D.V., in Knox Church, Elgin street, on Monday first, the 23rd inst., at 7·30 p.m. The Rev. Mr. Hunter has promised an address on "The Press"; and the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Almonte, on "Religious Literature." The Rev. Mr. Gallagher, will also speak, and resident city Pastors are expected to take some part in the meeting A collection in aid of the Society will be taken up. A large meeting is earnestly desired. All are cordially invited to attend. 2521-4

FIRST APPEARANCE.—His Excellency's carriage was out for the first time this season yesterday. The groom and footman appeared gay in their summer livery dress.

THAT TURTLE.—Mr. Kavanagh of the "Queen" was the recipient of a Monster Turtle yesterday by train. It is his intention to have it duly prepared for the opening of Parliament on the 26th inst. The wisdom of the animal in question was singularly manifested yesterday, in saving his new master the expense of either cab or express waggon, as he walked all the way up from the depot to his new home on the corner of Wellington and Metcalfe streets.

THE BALL TO THE GOVERNOR.—To the Ladies of Ottawa.—Thos. E. Moore. of 72 Sparks street, with respectable compliments and sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage, solicits an early call to inspect the elegant assortment of ornaments in steel, pearl, jet, and Tortoiseshell, which he has just received, and which he will sell at as low prices as possible, consistent with fair business principles. Fresh importations of all the new goods monthly at the Burlington Hair-Cutting Rooms. 2514.

PRECOCIOUS.—Two young lads somewhat in the humour for a drink, stepped into a hotel, yesterday, and called for a drink. The bar-tender, thunderstruck, asked them what kind of a drink they wanted? the larger of the two boys, one aged 14 and the other perhaps 12, said port wine. Lemon syrup was offered, but at first refused; they, however, afterwards determined upon taking it. The bar-tender accordingly poured out the syrup; but after doing so, one of the precocious youths again remarked: so you will not give us hard stuff, a negative answer again greeted the request The boy then replied: well, you can drink that yourself. They skedaddled in a pretty lively manner. This, to our mind, was a pretty tough spectacle, and if only witnessed by old topers, would be of infinitely more service than all the women crusades and temperance lectures that could be devised.

Police Court.

Before M. O'Gara, P. M.

FRIDAY, March 20.

Nathaniel Floyd and Albert McCormick for assaulting one James Wm. Dean, were fined $1 each and $1 costs.

John McGillivray, for assaulting his wife, one week in gaol.

John Harrison was charged with stealing a coat from Henry Armstrong. The evidence went to show that he took the coat to Mrs. Hayes second hand clothing store on Wellington street, to whom he gave the coat for 75 cents, on the understanding that he could get it back again. He went the next day for the coat, but could not get it for less than $1 50. He took the coat on Saturday last. He was sent down for a month at hard labor.

The case of larceny, in which Marrion was remanded, was resumed. Mr. Marcille, of Hull, appeared for the defence. It was cleverly proven that the lad took the table, presuming upon his acquaintance with Mr. Simcoe to do so, and that he intended to pay for it. He was discharged with a warning.

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil!—Worth Ten Times in Weight in Gold.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents.

No one should ever make an application to the eye, for any ailment whatever. stronger than luke-warm water or milk, without the express directions of a physician. It is an organ so delicate in its nature, and so easily destroyed, that it should not be tampered with by what are called simple remedies. A lady was once advised to put a poultice of rotten apples on both her eyes one night for some weakness. She did so, and was blind next morning. There was no hope of restoration.—Hall's Journal of Health.

MASONIC.

Grand Celebration.

CANADA vs. THE UNITED STATES

A Successful Banquet.

Yesterday will mark an epoch in the annals of the Masonic fraternity of this city that will not soon be forgotten. The happy interchange of sentiment that prevailed, owes its success to an idea that prompted the Builders' and Eddy Lodges of this city to invite their brethren of the mystic tie from the city of Ogdensburg to visit our city. In response to this invitation some 50 members of "The St. Lawrence Lodge" of Ogdensburg, came to the city yesterday to partake of the hospitality so generously proffered by their brethren here Upon arriving at the city station of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway, the guests were welcomed by a Reception Committee composed of Worshipful Brothers Eddy, Butterworth, Rogers, Wilson and T. W. Currier, of the Builders and Eddy Lodges, who had the necessary means of conveyance ready to escort them to the Albion Hotel. At the Albion, mine host Robt. Graham, had everything in order, for the comfort and convenience of the visiting brethren. After partaking of lunch, all repaired to the Masonic Hall, where a cordial welcome was extended them with due Masonic honours. A short session was held, during which a brother was raised to the third degree. The Lodge then suspended its labours and returned to the Albion with the guests, who were still further to be feted.

THE BANQUET.

At about 9 o'clock p.m., the dining room of the Albion became the great centre of attraction; and well it might be, for the Committee of Management composed of Brothers Butterworth, Wilson, Rogers, Graham and Biehler from the Builders' Lodge, and Brothers Millen, Cushman, Grant and Buck from the Eddy Lodge, spared neither time nor labour to make the affair a success. The room was superbly decorated. At the upper end of the room were two flags, one British the other American, so artisticaly arranged as to form a canopy, with a beautifully worked device of the indispensable "Square and Compass" and the mystic "Letter G" above. The whole surmounted by the hospitable motto, in large letters, of "Welcome to our Guests." Upon each side respectively were very beautiful steel engravings of portraits of Her Majesty Queen Victoria and George Washington, the first President of the United States. There was also displayed upon each side respectively, a British Lion and the American Eagle. In other parts of the room the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes intertwined, and here and there might be observed other devices peculiar to the Order, which were unintelligible to any but those who were initiated into the Order. The tables were well arranged, one ran the width of the room as a head table, and from it projected three tables running the entire length of the room. Mr. Graham, who has been but a short time in possession of the Albion, determined that the dining room should be kept in accord with the character of the entertainment; and we venture the assertion that never before in Ottawa was there a spread got up with such success as that which mine host of the Albion laid before his some 300 guests last night. The tables literally groaned with the good things provided. Every delicacy of the season was provided, and wines of the finest brands were on hand, so that the most fastidious epicure might appease a whetted appetite. The whole affair, was of such a character as to call for the commendation of all who had the pleasure of enjoying the festivities of the occasion. The arrangements were under the supervision of Mr. Rice, long and favorably known in the Russell House, and our simply noting this fact will be a sufficient guarantee as to the success of the management:

The grand entry was made into the room at 9:30 o'clock, p m, the Garrison Artillery Band, under the leadership of Prof. Liberati, playing an overture from "William Tell." Right Worshipful Brother Butterworth, of the Builders' Lodge, occupied the chair; on his right were Right Worshipful Brothers Lord and Bellinger, of Ogdensburg, and on his left, Right Worshipful Brothers Satchell, of Prescott, and Featherston, Mayor of Ottawa. The vice-chairs were filled by Bros. Eddy, Eastwood and Dr. Sweetland. In other parts of the room we observed Bros. Gemmell, Wilson, T. W. Currier, McLean, Watson, Rogers, Michaels, Walsh, Graham, Somerville, Mills, and many other prominent members of the order in the city.

The Blessing having been asked from the chair, all went to work in right earnest to participate of the good things before them. The band played during the whole time some very fine selections of music. After the battle of knives and forks had subsided, the cloth was removed to make way for the more sentimental part of the programme.

THE TOASTS.

The first toast proposed from the chair was "The Queen and the Craft," which was right loyally honored, the band playing "The National Anthem."

The next toast was given from the vice-Chair, Bro. Eddy prefixing it with a few introductory remarks. He asked a bumper for "The Prince of Wales and Royal Family." It was duly honored; the band playing "God Bless the Prince of Wales"

The Chairman then asked them to fill up their glasses for a toast which he knew would be duly honored—"The Governor General." Drank with enthusiasm, the Band playing "The Roast Beef of Old England"

The Vice Chairman then asked all to fill their glasses for a toast which he felt sure would be warmly received, out of respect to their guests this evening. He proposed "The President of the United States." It was drank with three times three and a tiger, all joining in the chorus, "For he's a Jolly Good Fellow." The Band then struck up "Hail Columbia."

In the absence of the American Consul, Bro. Fulton, of Ogdensburg responded to the toast; after which he sang a song, "Ode to Charity," which was loudly applauded.

The Chairman next offered the toast of "The Army, Navy and Volunteers." It was drank with great enthusiasm, the band playing "The Red, White and Blue." Bro Capt. Stewart of the Ottawa Field Battery first responded to this toast, and was followed by Bros. Capt. Fraser, Walsh and Campbell, the latter dealing more particularly with the Navy.

The Vice-Chairman proposed as a next toast "The Grand Lodge of Canada." It was duly honoured, the band playing "the Mason's March" This toast was ably responded to by P.D.G D.M. Gemmell.

The Chairman again asked the glasses to be filled to honour "The Grand Lodge of New York." Drank with three times three, and much enthusiasm; the band playing a fine selection. Bro. Bruckett of the St. Lawrence Lodge, Ogdensburg made an eloquent speech in response to this toast and resumed his seat amid applause.

The Vice-Chairman in a very neat speech in which he feelingly alluded to the fact of his having become a naturalised British subject, yet he reverted with pleasure to the land of his birth. He therefore thought it becoming upon his part to ask his fellow citizens of this country to join with him in drinking the health "Of our American Brethren," drank with immense applause, the band playing "Yankee Doodle." Right Worshipful Brother Lord, of Ogdensburg, responded in a very eloquent speech, which was received with tremendous applause.

The Chairman next proposed the health of "The District Deputy Grand Master," drank with enthusiasm, all joining in the chorus, "For he's a Jolly Good Fellow." In the absence of D. D. G. M. Moystyn, of Almonte, the Chairman called upon Bro. Featherstone to respond on his behalf, which he did in a very able speech, which was much applauded.

The Vice Chair then proposed "The Sister City Lodges." Drank with three times three, followed by the chorus, "For they are Jolly Good Fellows." The Band played "Merry Masons. Responses were given by Bro. Dr. Sweetland, of the Doric; Bro. McLean, of the Civil Service, and Bro. Eastwood, of the Dalhousie. Bro. McLean then sang in a very fine voice, "Good-Bye, Sweetheart, Good-Bye," which was received with immense applause.

The next toast proposed from the Chair was "The Press." It was enthusiastically received by all, except by members of the fourth estate, who saw dim visions of speeches looming up in the distance. Responded to by Messrs. Robertson of THE TIMES, Mackintosh, of the Citizen, and Allan and Nichols, of the Free Press; Mr. Nichols contributing a song, "Simon, the Cellarer," in addition to his speech.

The next and last of the regular toasts on the programme was that of "The Ladies" drank with great enthusiasm. Bro. McGirr, of Ogdensburgh, responded to the toast by singing "Dinna Cross the Burn Willie," and to an encore "Old King Cole."

By special request, Bro. Champness sang "Petticoat Lane," which was received with great applause.

After toasting the Builders' and Eddy Lodges, and mine host of the Albion, a very successful entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

New Zealand Monster.

The Natural History Museum at New York is about to be enriched by a case containing skeletons of the wonderful dinornis of New Zealand. Seven varieties of this bird have been established by Prof. Owen, the largest one, dinornis elephantopus, being 16 feet high, and the smallest, dinornis otidiformis, about the size of the great bustard. The dinornis is a bird of puzzle to naturalists because they do not know whether it is to be considered extinct or not. The skeletons, it is true, alone have been found, but these in every case have been discovered in the banks and beds of rivers, very slightly buried in the mud. This would point to a recent origin paleontologically speaking. But from the fact that the natives have invariably recognized such bones and have called the bird moa it is plain that the bird must have existed within a few generations. For, among a people who have no written records the extinction of a bird would very speedily lead to the extinction of the name by which it was known. Moreover, naturalists do not deny the possibility of the dinornis still existing in the interior of the island, like the extraordinary apteryx, or like the great auk, which has been considered extinct for some time past, but specimens of which got shot in Greenland or the Ferroe Islands every few years. And it is on record that farmers in New Zealand, riding through solitary wastes, have come across gigantic birds resembling an ostrich in the rudimentary condition of the wings and tail. But in every case they have been so scared by the apparition of the monster that they have turned their horses' heads, clapped the spurs into their sides, and galloped away. It is very much to be desired that those journals whose enterprise sends correspondents to the Troad and Unyanyembe, would fit out an expedition to New Zealand, to discover whether there be any more alive or no, so that the question may be definitely settled. The dinornis has a reptilian cranium and a powerful, adze-shaped beak, with legs very strong in spite of their huge length. The food of the monster is supposed to be the nutritious roots of the gigantic ferns, which are such a characteristic of the island of New Zealand. These it obtains by scratching with its legs after the manner of the barn-door fowl. Its cerebral development, according to Owen, must be very low, and the poor monster must be as helpless and as stupid as the dodo of the Mauritius which became extinct under the attacks of the original Duch colonists. The dinornis can have neither the ability nor the instinct to defend itself, or to run away when attacked, and just enough of the latter to teach it to retire from the haunts of men. It is to be hoped that some leading naturalist will lecture on the subject when the skeletons arrived.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphities, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipent consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.
NEWPORT, N. S.

A letter received from Denver, Colorado, protests against the folly of physicians who allow patients in the last stages of consumption to go to Colorado, to die in a very few days. The air is rarer, contains less oxygen, and is too trying if the disease is too far advanced.

Some years ago Upper Egypt had only some five or six rainy days in the course of a year; but the Pasha planted millions of trees, and the annual average is now forty-six days of rain, by which the country has been incalculably benefitted. The country about Trieste has been made a pretty thorough test too. Once it was fertile; but the forests were swept away, and barrenness soon followed. Since then, however, millions of olive trees have been planted and carefully reared, and now productiveness has returned.

TORONTO.

Local Legislature.

TORONTO, March 20.

The Speaker took the chair at 11:20.

After routine, the Attorney General moved a resolution granting aid to the branch line of the Canada Southern Railway, Lower St. Thomas and River St. Clair's, at the rate of $194 40 per mile, per year, for twenty years, or payment out of the railway fund at the rate of $2,000 per mile.

Mr. Rykert objected to granting a bulk sum, as he believed the Railway fund appropriation had been already exceeded.

Hon. Mr. Crooks said there would be no demand on the Treasury which the Railway aid and Railway subsidy would not meet.

After some further discussion the resolution was carried.

Hon. Mr. Crooks moved that the time allowed the Prince Edward County Railway for furnishing proof of sufficient contract for the completion of the works be extended to July 1st. Carried.

Hon Mr Crooks moved the extension of time for the same purpose for the Northern Extension Railway. Carried.

Hon. Mr. Crooks moved a resolution granting aid to the Norfolk Railway, to the extent of $20,00 per mile, or $194 40 per mile for 20 years, for the line between Brantford and Port Burwell. Carried.

After some discussion,

Hon. Mr. Crooks moved a resolution granting aid to the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway to the extent of $2000 per mile, or $194.40 cts. per mile per year, for 20 years, for the line betwee Palmerston and Wingham.

At 1:40 the House adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Speaker took the chair at 3:10.

After routine, the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway resolution was resumed.

Mr. Rykert moved in amendment that, while this House is prepared and willing to grant aid to the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway, to the full extent of the Subsidy Act of 1872, yet this House cannot consent to ratify any order in Council which authorizes the payment $149 and 40 cts. per mile for twenty years, computed from the 1st of January, 1872, when such payment is not authorized by the Act establishing the subsidy fund, the said Act not being passed until March 1872, and there being no provision therein that said act should have a retroactive effect.

The amendment was then put and lost. Yeas, 13; nays, 40.

The motion was carried on the same division.

Hon. Mr Crooks moved a resolution that the time be extended for the Credit Valley Railway to the 1st December. Carried.

The debate on the second reading of the bill respecting the Railway Fund was resumed

Hon. Mr. Crooks said that the Government was willing to withdraw the two clauses objected to. The bill was read a second time.

The debate on the second reading of the franchise bill was resumed.

After a lengthy debate, the second reading was carried.

On motion for concurrence in item, $12,000 for criminal justice, Mr. Boultbee moved in amendment that this House regrets that, notwithstanding the facilities afforded by the Act respecting prompt and summary Administrations of Justice in certain cases, and the consequent large diminution of criminal trials at the several Court- of Assizes, the amount annually paid for Crown Counsel and prosecution has not decreased.

Mr. Rykert moved in amendment to the effect that this House regretted that $30,000 voted last year for the payment of the fees of the criminal witnesses had not been devoted to that purpose.

After debate the House rose at six o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

The debate was resumed.

The House divided on the amendment to the amendment, which was lost by 36 to 12.

Attorney General moved in amendment to the amendment that the House is satisfied with the explanation of the Government in reference to the payment of criminal witnesses. Carried by 35 to 14.

The original motion was carried on the same division.

On the item of $41,690 for the Central Prison,

Mr. Lauder moved that $25,000 be substituted for the sum named.

Mr. Graham moved in amendment that the action of the Government was actuated by desire to some public interest.

The amendment to the amendment was carried by 34 to 17.

The original motion as amended was carried.

On the item of $143,454 for immigration,

Mr. Boultbee moved to the effect that the House regretted that the public accounts showed a tendency to an excess of expenditure over the revenue, and the House was of opinion that the financial affairs should be so conducted that the expenditure should not exceed the revenue.

Mr. Hardy moved that the House wished that the Government should not relax the efforts to encourage emigration to this Province.

The amendment to the amendment was carried by 49 to none.

The remaining resolutions were carried without opposition.

The Hon. Mr. Crooks moved that the House go into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Rykert moved an amendment, expressing regret that some modification had not been made in the Municipal Loan Fund Act, whereby municipalities might divert appropriations in aid of schools. The amendment was lost by 34 to 16.

The House then went into Committee on Supplementary Estimates.

Resolutions were adopted and concurred in.

Mr. Merrick moved to strike out the item of $3000 compensation to John Montgomery. Lost by 30 to 14.

The amendments on the Administration of Justice Bill were concurred in.

The bill respecting the sale of pine trees by free grant settlers in Muskoka and Parry Sound passed a third reading.

Bills to consolidate Public School Laws, and to consolidate Laws of Public Instruction and High Schools, passed a third reading.

The bill incorporating the municipality of Haliburton passed a third reading.

The following bills passed a second reading:

Amending the Public Works Act; the bill relating to public and to charitable institutions; respecting drainage by law. Some private bills were advanced a stage, and the House adjourned at one o'clock.

City News

A petition has been presented to the City Council asking for aid for the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway to the extent of $100,000, to enable them to build an independent line to the city.

Commissioner Coatsworth is reported to have discovered a private grave yard adjoining the Ladies Convent of Lorette, in the west end of the city. Lady Superior in an interview with the Commissioner, stated that that ground was used with the sanction of the Archbishop for the interment of deceased nuns.

It is rumored here in official quarters that Riel will shortly be tried before a jury of six English and six French men in Manitoba for the murder of Scott.

Mr. Monk, M.P.P., left to night for Ottawa.

The House will probably adjourn on Monday.

MONTREAL.

Destructive Fire.

MONTREAL, March 20th.

A fire broke out in the Queen's Hall on St. Catherine street this evening about 7 p.m., and resisted the strenuous efforts of the entire fire brigade for a couple of hours. At 4 p.m. the fire was got under control, not, however, before the hall was entirely gutted. The stores underneath suffered more or less by water, and at one time it was thought that the whole block would have to succumb to the fiery demon. It is impossible to estimate the loss. It is understood to be well insured. Thousands upon thousands visited the scene of conflagration, and the whole western portion of the city was lit up by its lurid glare. The Crystal Palace right opposite presented a fine spectacle, as did the neighboring church. Cause unknown.

BROCKVILLE.

Robbery in Broad Daylight—No Clue to the Perpetrators.

BROCKVILLE, March 19.

Some time during yesterday a most audacious robbery was committed at the Roman Catholic Church. It will be remembered that the Church is left open for devotional exercises every day during Lent and yesterday it appears some person or persons entered and committed one of the most glaring crimes a man can be guilty of. They went to the tabernacle in which is kept the communion service, consisting of a pair of silver cups, and unscrewing the bowls of the cups which were inlaid with gold, they carried them off, leaving the feet in the vestry. The value of the cups was about $50, though of course they were valued much higher by the congregation to which they belonged. No clue has so far turned up which may lead to the conviction of the desecrators, but it is hoped that the constables will get on the track before long.

GASPE.

Departure of Mr. Harper, M. P., for Ottawa.

GASPE, March 19.

Mr. Harper, M. P., left Perce to-day for Ottawa There was quite a demonstration at Perce. He was escorted out of the county by 27 sleighs.

ENGLAND.

Re-assembling of Parliament—The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, March 19.—Parliament re-assembled to-day, and the Queen's Speech was read as follows:—

My Lords and Gentlemen:

I recur to your advice at the earliest period permitted by the arrangements consequent upon the retirement of the late administration. My foreign relations continue most friendly, and I shall not fail to exercise the influence arising from these cordial relations for the maintenance of European peace and the faithful observance of International obligations. The marriage of my son is at once a source of happiness to myself, and a pledge of friendship between two great Empires. The Ashantee war has terminated in the capture and destruction of the capitol, and negotiations which I trust may lead to a more satisfactory condition of affairs than hitherto. The courage, discipline and endurance of my forces, and the energy and skill evinced in the conduct of the expedition, have brilliantly maintained under the most trying circumstances the traditional reputation of the British army. I deeply regret that a drought has affected the populous Provinces of the Indian Empire, and produced extreme scarcity, in some parts amounting to actual famine over an area inhabited by many millions. I have directed the Governor General of India to spare no cost in striving to mitigate this terrible calamity.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The estimates for expenditure during the coming financial year, will be forthwith submitted to you.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

The delay and expense attending the transfer of land in England has long been felt to be a reproach to our law and a serious obstacle to dealings in real property. I trust the measures which will now be submitted for you consideration will be found calculated to remove much of the evil which is complained of. You will probably be of opinion that a rearrangement of the judiciary and the blending of the administration of law and equity which were effected in England by the enactments of the late session, ought to be extended to Ireland. You will be asked to devote part of your time to the accomplishment of that object. The greater part of these changes are inapplicable to tribunals in Scotland, but you will be invited to consider the most satisfactory mode of bringing procedure upon Scottish appeals into harmony with recent legislation. Among other measures relating specially to Scottish interests, a bill amending the law relating to land rights and the facilitating of the transfer of land, will be laid before you. Serious differences have arisen and remonstrances been made by a large class of the community, as to the working of the recent act affecting the relationship between master and servant; of the act of 1871, dealing with offences connected with trade; and of the law of conspiracy. On those subjects I am desirous that before attempting fresh leegislation you should be in possession of all the material facts and of the precise questions in the controversy. For this purpose, I have issued my Royal Commission of Enquiry into the state and working of the present laws with a view to their amendment. If found necessary, a bill will be introduced dealing with such parts of the Acts regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors as have given rise to complaints and appear to deserve the interference of Parliament. Your attention will also be directed to the laws affecting Friendly Provident Societies. These matters will require grave consideration. I pray the Almighty to guide your deliberations.

Address in Reply to the Queen's Speech.

In the House of Lords the address in reply to the speech from the Throne was moved by the Marquis of Lothian, and seconded by the Earl of Cadogan.

In the House of Lords.

An interesting political debate followed. The Duke of Somerset [Liberal] made a sharp attack on Gladstone for listening to, if not encouraging, parties who favored the dismemberment of the Empire. Earl Grey, another Liberal, described the dissolution of the last Parliament as an act of political suicide, committed during temporary insanity. Lord Selborne, late Lord High Chancellor, came to the defence of Gladstone with a brief but elequent vindication of his course

Earl of Derby, new Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the course of some non-committal remarks on England's policy abroad, intimated that the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh with the Princess Maria Alexandria, was a matter of political importance.

The address which is a mere echo of royal speech, was then adopted without amendment.

In the House of Commons.

In the House of Commons there was a very full attendance, and the galleries were crowded with spectators. Disraeli on entering the chamber was received with triumphant cheers by his supporters. When the members had returned from the Chamber of Peers, the Speaker read a letter from Lord Chief Justice Cockburn, informing the House of the circumstances under which one of the members (Mr. Whalley) was adjudged guilty of and fined for contempt of Court.

Mr. Anderson gave notice that on the 31st inst. he would call attention to the fact that British subjects had not yet received compensation for their losses in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of Washington.

An address in response to the Queen's speech, similar to that introduced in the Upper House, was moved by Sir Wm. Stirling Maxwell, and seconded by Mr. Collander.

Mr. Torrens moved an amendment to the address, declaring that Parliament was too conscious of its obligation to specially care for India, and assuring Her Majesty of the interest and anxiety with which it will consider measures to alleviate the distress in that country, and to prevent its recurrence.

Mr. Gladstone rose and said he would not seek to place any obstacle in the way of the Government in its treatment of India. He deprecated the creation of a Commission to inquire into the relations of employers and employed, but concluded by promising to give the new Government a fair trial.

Mr. Disraeli objected to the amendment moved by Mr. Torrens as inopportune, and it was withdrawn.

The address was adopted, and the House adjourned.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. ROYAL
Insurance Company.
LIFE DEPARTMENT.
CAPITAL . . £2,000,000 Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named, and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that have characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future Sales at Auction Room every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for the Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak an humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially incidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Landington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuiness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its Early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it to be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;
each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the Linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, many Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 10 cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicine. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE FREE FROM
PURELY ALCOHOL
DR WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

REPRINTED BY
The Leonard Scott Publishing Co.
140 FULTON ST., NEW YORK.

By arrangement with the English Publishers, who receive a liberal compensation.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here, and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent readers in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for a subscription to these the LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

"Felt for Hats and Boots:"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

Insurance Company.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

CAPITAL . . £2,000,000 Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

Police Outrage in New York.

Yesterday evening J. Sheehan, a butcher residing at No. 407 East Forty Sixth street returned home intoxicated after celebrating St. Patrick's Day and beat his wife severely. She resented his cruelty, and he took up a table knife and threatened her life, and so frightened her that she ran out of doors, and meeting officer Tuohey, of the Nineteenth Precinct, showed him marks of violence on her face and asked him to arrest her husband. Tuohey started to make the arrest, and deeming it prudent to secure assistance rapped for officer Fitspatrick, who went with him to the house, which is owned by Jos. Kollman, who occupies part of it. Tuohey was going up stairs and Fitspatrick was in the hallway when Kollman came out of his room and told the officers, excitedly, that Sheehan had fled, and that it was no use for them to look for him. The officers replied that it was their duty to look for the man, and that they could not take anybody's word in regard to his whereabouts. Kollman said that he would have no policeman in his house, and catching hold of Fitspatrick attempted to eject him. Kollman is a very powerful man, and the officer had a hard struggle with him, and was dragged along a narrow passage into a rare room, where both fell under a bed. In the struggle Kollman bit Fitspatrick's thumb severely, and the officer used his club, but it required the united strength of Fitspatrick and Tuohey to secure Kollman, who received several heavy blows from the officers' locusts. He was taken to the Fifty-ninth street station house, where his injuries were dressed, and the officers made a charge of disorderly conduct and resisting the police against him, but Captain Gunner, seeing that he had received a severe clubbing, allowed him to go home. Sheehan was subsequently arrested, but his wife refused to make a charge against him, and he was discharged.

Yesterday Koffman sent word to the Coroner's office that he was in a critical condition, and the following ante-mortem statement was taken:

"About half-past seven p.m., Tuesday, while I was taking my supper, I heard a noise in the hall, I went outside and saw two policemen, who were quite boisterous and seemed to be intoxicated; I requested them politely to keep quiet, as I felt it to be my duty to preserve order in my own house, but they said they had a right to do as they pleased, and threatened to arrest me; I declared myself willing to follow them, but as I was going into my room to get my coat and hat, they followed me, and, seizing me, began to push and beat me very severely; I fainted and fell on the floor, and while in that condition was dragged out of the room and into the street; I screamed for help, as I was perfectly powerless, but they kept on beating me, and then took me to the station-house; when I arrived there the police surgeon was sent for and bandaged my wounds; the blood was flowing in a stream over my face, and saturated all my clothes; as the officers could not prefer a charge against me the Captain discharged me at once, and I went home and to bed; I had a severe fever all night and this morning I sent for a physician, who prescribed something for me, saying that he would call again in the afternoon; I feel very bad; the wounds on my head pain me very much, and I also feel internal pains, especially in the left side in the region of the heart; the officer who clubbed me so severely, I recognize as Hugh Fitspatrick; the name of the other, who also beat me, I do not know; my wife was also severely beaten by them."

The police surgeon makes the following statement:—

Captain John Gunner:

DEAR SIR,—According to your request I herewith state the condition and circumstances attending the injuries received by Joseph Kollman on the 17th instant. I found Mr. Kollman had two cuts on the forehead, one on the left side about two and a half inches long, clean, cut not deep; the other an inch long, situated on the left eyebrow, superficial cut. His left arm was severely bruised at the elbow and at the wrist; no cuts upon it or elsewhere about the body. I simply sponged the cuts, which bled only a few drops, and applied plasters and a roller bandage. He said he felt very comfortable, and after thanking me and asking my name left for home. I do not consider the wounds serious, and from a great deal of experience with such injuries I think without doubt he will be entirely well and able to do business inside of two days.

Yours, &c.
F. LEROY SATTERLEE, M. D.,
Surgeon Nineteenth Precinct.

Captain Gunner says that when Mr. Kollman arrived at the station house both he and the officers were sober, but very much excited. Mr. Kollman did not appear to be in a critical condition last night, and the officers were informed by Captain Gunner that they would be required to present themselves at the Coroner's office to-day.—World.

The Ottawa Times

MONDAY, MARCH 23, 1874.

Hon. T. W. Anglin and family are in Montreal, en route for this city.

General Wolseley's Official Despatches, published in Saturday's Globe in advance of the mail, are reproduced in other columns of this paper.

Hon. D. A. Macdonald, Postmaster General, left town for Glengarry Saturday afternoon, but returned by yesterday morning's train.

Their Excellencies, the Governor-General and the Countess of Dufferin will hold a drawing room in the Senate Chamber at 9 o'clock on Friday evening, the 27th inst.

Messrs. Yeo, Sinclair and McIntyre, Members of Parliament from Prince Edward Island, arrived at the Russell House on Saturday. Hon. Mr. Montgomery, Senator, arrived at the same time, and is staying at Mrs. McIntyre's, Sparks Street.

The banquet given in honor of the elevation of Mr. Penny, editor of the Montreal Herald to the Senate, on Thursday evening last, was in every respect successful. The compliment was flattering to Mr. Penny, and in a sense to the press generally. Leading citizens, irrespective of party distinctions, joined in the entertainment; and the Government of the day was represented by Hon. Messrs. Letellier and Huntington.

To-day, Mr. Reynolds announces, the extra train in the morning bringing in the mails and passengers from the East and West at 9:15 will be resumed. The running of Pullman cars from this city to Montreal and Toronto will also be resumed for the Session on Tuesday. This action on the part of the Managing Director will be duly appreciated by the public.

The divisions taken on concurrence in the Estimates, in the Ontario Legislature on Friday last, show the Opposition in their true standing. The several votes stood 14 to 35, 16 to 34, 17 to 34, 12 to 36, and on an occasion brought on by Mr. Boultbee, 49 to 0, which result was received with great laughter. It is well for Lauder, Rykert, and Boultbee that they have any amount of what in slang phraseology is called cheek, otherwise they would be laughed out of the House.

INCOME FRANCHISE.

The principle of Income Franchise was accepted by the Legislature of Ontario, on Friday last, without a division. Ontario has led the march of political reformation in many important respects of which this is not the least significant. Since previous extensions of the franchise, intelligent men have felt that change, having gone so far without incurring any of the dangers which old-fogy prophets had predicted, might be permitted to advance a little farther. We are familiar with the warnings which those amongst us to whom the idea of a progressive state gave the horrors, were wont to utter. Their gloomy forebodings almost make dark one side of our political history, yet as a people we still survive; yea more, we have laid broad and deep the foundations of a great colonial Dominion. Indeed our greatness, and our sense of devotion to the Empire, and the general desire (of late years much strengthened) to perpetuate British connection, seem to have grown upon us the more that we took the people into our confidence. Not one of the misfortunes that were to happen in consequence of the extension of the franchise has yet come upon us; every prediction of the kind, not only here but in England, has utterly failed; yet there are people, a few, who still untaught by history promise the worst from the granting of income franchise. Fortunately the Ontario Assembly is too thoroughly liberal to be influenced by those whose timidity or prejudices keep them in the back ground of political progress. It was well observed in the debate that a distinction should be made tending to a greater liberality in the matter of the Parliamentary as distinguished from the municipal franchise. The Hon. Mr. Currie said he would willingly advance in the direction of manhood suffrage for the former, but that real property was the proper basis for municipal representation. There is good policy in that view. The distinction between the political and municipal concerns of the people is plain and should be observed. Where taxation and representation are so nearly related, the claims of property to representation press upon us with an argument that is irresistible. In the matter of the political franchise we may well ask one another why we stop at income and household suffrage? Certainly not one man in a hundred could give a conclusive reason for halting just there.

THE INDIANS IN THE NORTH WEST.

The Indian Council of Manitoba, after several days sitting and consultation, adjourned a few days ago. The demeanour and movements of the Red men are, and must continue to be, of great interest to Canada, and it is well to have all the information obtainable on the subject with a view to the formation of correct opinion. The last copy of the Manitoba Nor' Wester received here makes the following remarks with regard to the Council, and the race whose affairs are the object of its existence and special care:—

"Among the members of the North West Council are many gentlemen who have had considerable experience in the Territories, and are well-fitted to advise the Lieutenant Governor and the Dominion Governor what is best to be done. We have no doubt that all the members of the Council are alive to the responsibilities of their position, and earnestly desire to render loyal and efficient aid in the great work of opening up the Northwest Territories, and establishing law and order there. The proceedings of the Council are secret, and we are not therefore in a position to say what action has been taken with a view to effecting these laudable designs. But we regret to say that we cannot, as yet congratulate the Northwest Council upon having achieved much apparent good. The present system of dealing with Indian affairs, for instance, is as injudicious as it well can be. The duties of arranging treaties and advising on Indian matters is entrusted to the Lieutenant Governor, the Indian Agent, and the Dominion Land Agent. The latter gentleman is undoubtedly a pains-taking and efficient officer, but what does he know about making treaties with the Indians of the Saskatchewan, or what connection is there between his office and that of an Indian Commissioner. We presume that the North-West Council have a voice in the matter. If they have not, we can only say that it is high time they had. The Indian question in the North-West cannot be played with, and the administration of Indian affairs should, as we before hinted, be placed under the control of the North-West Council, many of the members of which have had practical experience with the Indians of the North-West, understand their character, and speak their language.

We are quite certain, as we before said, that the members of the North-West Council are willing and anxious to render the Dominion Government all the assistance in their power. We trust that the advice they offer will be received not merely with cold official courtesy, but as valuable counsel touching subjects of grave and weighty import upon which none are better qualified to speak than they."

We assume no responsibility for the above statements and opinions, but may safely disabuse our contemporary's mind of any possible apprehensions as to the manner in which the Council's suggestions will be received by the Government. It is not very risky to assert they will not be met either with cold courtesy or indifference. Ministers have the proper conception of their duty towards the aboriginal as well as all other elements of our population. Writers upon North West affairs, some of whom seem to be well-informed, practical men, agree as to the importance of the Indian question. One correspondent, whose letter we regret we have not at our hand, puts the subject before the public in a way that takes much of the character of romance out of the sketches of the Saskatchewan Valley given by the author of "From Ocean to Ocean," by Rev. Lachlan Taylor, and others. The topographical and climatic excellencies of the Country, he freely acknowledges, and from long experience his opinion in that respect is valuable. But he warns all concerned of the necessity of keeping the Indians well in hand. He gives the estimated Indian population of the Saskatchewan and contiguous districts, numbering if we recollect rightly about twenty thousand. These aborigines claim title to the soil, and although they do not as promply assert their claims against the invaders as the proprietor of a farm in Canada would proceed to eject a trespasser, yet they are represented as being none the less certain some day in a fit of jealousy or revenge to determine to have their own; and when they take measures of this kind they usually do it with vengeance. Besides the question of right in the soil, there is said to be another one of great danger arising from the improvident habits of life prevailing amongst those wretched people. Up to a comparatively recent period the abundance of buffalo enabled them to have a sufficiency of food at all times without the exercise of provident care. For some years past this source of supply has been failing them, until now buffalo are become very scarce, no substitute has been found, and in the winter season starvation in various degrees of severity overtakes whole tribes. In circumstances of extremity such as these, their resort is to the Hudson Bay Company's stations, by which agency the lives of thousands have been prolonged until the coming of the milder season, when they are able to shift for themselves. It is said, too, that they do not hesitate to resort to force to obtain food when they find that the chances are largely in their favour. The correspondent to whom we refer urges that most thoughtful consideration should be given this subject, before promoting a general movement of emigration to isolated localities in the Saskatchewan country, and holds up the shocking experience of Minnesota and Dakota as a warning. To be fore-warned is to be fore armed, therefore there can be no harm in putting forward the worst side of the prospect for emigrants to Manitoba, while we do not, of course vouch for its truthfulness. At present there is no need that emigrants should go to far-distant and isolated settlements. Fort Garry, and other stations within convenient radius of it, afford the nucleus of a safe resting place, which the fertility of the soil, and cheapness and abundance of it, leave the new comer without excuse for going farther. It is true that adventurous spirits will go farther at the risk of faring worse; and while the Government will always afford them all possible security under the circumstances, the responsibility of the risk that they voluntarily assume must rest with themselves. There is no doubt, however, that the Government, even at this early day, with the multifarious duties that have been pressing upon Ministers since they entered office, intensified with the imminence of the Parliamentary Session, have carefully considered all vital points in North West affairs. The country will be prepared for the emigrant as speedily and effectually as he will require it for occupation, and not much more we apprehend is demanded by public opinion. There are a great many people who have good advice to give the Government now, who perhaps should have given it before. When their friends were in power they saw no defect of administration, and even yet they seem to be short-sighted to this extent, that in pointing out how much there is to do they are exposing how little they did when they had the opportunity. The vacillating, temporizing policy of the late Government has thrown upon the shoulders of Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues many heavy burthens, of which the Northwest with all its demands is not the least. The acquisition of the Northwest, however, it is well known was one of the favorite projects of the Liberals for years, and the administration of its affairs will unquestionably be conducted with prudence, energy, and pride.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Personal.—Mr. C. Sheehy, Canadian Passenger Agent, for the Michigan Central Railway is in town, and staying at the Russell House.

Customs' Sale.—Mr. Rowe will sell, at 11 o'clock to-day, at the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway Depot, a lot of unclaimed goods in possession of the Customs' authorities.

Y. M. C. A.—A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in their hall this evening. Mr. Claxton so well and favorably known in that institution in Montreal, will address the meeting. There will be doubtless a large attendance.

The Sheriff's Point.—This point in Brockville promises to outrival the St. Lawrence Park as a place of amusement. Mr. J. Moulson has leased it and will have a pleasure ground with every convenience ready for use by the 24th of May.

Visitors at the Protestant Hospital this week, are Directors—Messrs. A. Workman, J. Peacock. Clergymen—Rev. J. Johnston, Rev. Mr. Hall. Physician—Dr. J. Sweetland.

Successful Operation.—Dr. Robillard of this city, performed a very difficult feat in Ocular Surgery, on Friday last, having completely cured Mr. Russell of Pakenham, of what is vulgarly termed squinting of the eyes. Mr. Russell returned home a much happier man.

Equinoctial Gale.—Last night a regular equinoctial gale set in and throughout the whole night blew almost a hurricane. There has likely been a considerable destruction of property, but we have not been in a position to obtain particulars this morning.

Real Estate Investment.—D. Galbraith, Esq., M.P., for North Lanark, has purchased from Mr. W. McEwen, of Almonte, for the sum of $2,080, a fine brick building and lot, adjoining St. Paul's Church in that village. It is rumoured that it is Mr. Galbraith's intention to take up his residence in Almonte at no distant day.

Accident.—Mr. Halpenny, Inspector of Hides, met with a severe accident on Friday last, having been run over with a sleigh. He had some ribs broken, and was otherwise severely injured. He very nearly lost his life, and lies yet in a somewhat critical position.

The Anchor Line, after April 1, will despatch three of their fine steamers to and from Glasgow, viz: Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday; the last named going direct, Thursday's steamer calling at Queenstown and that of Thursday's touching at Londonderry. This company have now such an enormous business, that it would not be surprising to hear soon of their daily line.—"N. Y. Express, March 13th.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church, Wellington street, purpose holding a Soiree in the basement of that Church on Thursday night, the 26th inst. This will doubtless, like previous entertainments in that Church, prove a success, for it really seems that the ladies of that congregation have got into the secret of making public entertainments a success.

Temperance Revival.—A great temperance revival seems to pervade the Bytown Division, Sons of Temperance, as each succeeding Monday night adds many recruits to its already well-filled ranks. To night another lot, some dozen or so, of very prominent citizens are to be initiated. There is little wonder that rum sellers contemplate increasing the tariff of drinks. It is contemplated shortly to give a grand entertainment on the strength of the great increase of membership in this veteran division.

St. Patrick's Street Bridge.—The new improvements on this bridge, are now nearly completed, there being but one pier to fill when the work will be finished. It has not come one moment too soon, and even yet should the freshet, that usually comes, begin to-day or to-morrow, there will be danger. It is to be hoped, however, that Mr. Stanley, who has thus far worked like a Trojan, will see to the speedy execution of the work, so as to place it beyond all risk. The new structure looks considerably improved, and it is very unfortunate that it was not properly constructed in the first place.

Robbery in the Nunnery.—A man named Kelly, a baker by trade, and for some time employed in the Nunnery on Bolton Street, seems to have robbed the Sisters of a large amount of money, to what extent is not yet definitely known. The discovery was only made of a robbery having been committed on Saturday morning, when Mr. Heney went down to get paid an account for wood. It seems that the money was all gone from the place in which it was kept, and that almost immediate suspicion fell upon Kelly. In gambling in an adjoining tavern he seems to have lost $104 of this same money. Ill gotten gains are easily lost.

C. O. O. F.—At the semi-annual election of officers on Friday evening last, in the Metropolitan Lodge of Odd Fellows, the following persons were elected for the current half year.

P N G—Bro. J P. Featherston.
N. G.—D Mowat
V. G.—Ralph J. Cook.
Secretary—J. H. Thompson.
Assistant Secretary.—C. A. Butterworth.
Treasurer.—A. Mann.
R. H S N. G.—John Peacock.
L. H S N. G.—Wm Kerr.
Warden—Jas. Brewer
R. H. L. V G.—E Clarke.
Conductor—B. R. Hamilton.
I. G.—
O. G.—H. Mattingly.
I. H. S. V. G.—

Organ Recital at Christ's Church.

The following selection was performed on Saturday evening at the above Church, by Professor Mills, before a large and select audience. The character of the music and of Mr. Mills as an organist are sufficient guarantee that a genuine treat was provided. The entrance was free; admission being by invitations, of which a large number were issued.

Temperance Meeting.

The usual Sunday temperance meeting was held in the Temperance Hall yesterday afternoon, at which there was a large gathering.

Mr. Johnston, Assistant Commissioner of Customs, occupied the chair.

On the platform we observed Dr. Beatty, Messrs. E. McGillivray, J. Robinson, J. Kerr, A. Russell, H. S. Watson, George Crain and James Bell, late of Toronto, but now of the firm of Bell & Brunell, Solicitors, Ottawa.

Dr. Beatty opened the proceedings with the usual devotional exercises, and reading a portion of Holy Scripture.

The Chairman said, as several speakers were likely to address the meeting, he would not make any preliminary remarks. He would first call on Mr. Robinson to address the meeting.

Mr. Robinson on coming forward said he felt a delicacy in addressing so large and intelligent an audience; but being convinced that the battle was not always for the strong, he presumed to address them in his humble capacity, on the subject of temperance. It is, he said, generally urged as an argument against temperance, that at every meeting the same thing is said over and over again. He would say that there was a good deal of truth in the remark, and such was likely to continue until the evil of intemperance was banished from the land. He next remonstrated strongly against moderate drinking, and deprecated the attempt of many men, even clergymen, to quote Scripture in its defence. He proved that Scripture had reference to other than intoxicating wines in such cases. He then explained at some length the process of fermentation employed in the manufacture of liquor. He, by a system of chemical analysis employed, showed that fermentation was not produced from the pure grape, but had its origin from a putrefaction engendered by an amalgamation of it with other substances; hence the reason of its intoxicating properties. He next contended that the Scripture phrase: "Take a little wine for thy stomach's sake," did not mean intoxicating drinks; and said that if the admonition had been, "take a little oil for the stomach's sake," so many would no be so anxious to stick by the injunction. He argued that the example set by moderate drinkers did more to hinder the temperance movement than even the vice of intemperance itself. He next dwelt on the effects of intemperance upon men in public trust, of able mind and great ability, and how strong drink prostituted all their virtues. He concluded by an appeal to all young men like himself to lend their aid in furthering the temperance cause.

The Chairman next called on Mr. Bell to address the meeting.

Mr. Bell in addressing the audience, would wish it to be distinctly understood, that he directed his remarks more particularly to young people like himself. His age and experience did not justify the presumption to speak and dictate to older and more valiant temperance men than himself. He adverted to the trials and temptations to which young men like himself were open to every day, and against which they had stoutly to battle. Old people, grown in the vice of intemperance by the force of habit and continual indulgence were difficult to reform. They had become so hardened, and both their mental and physical powers had become so warped, that it became an impossibility to redeem them from their depravity. It was on this account, therefore, that it was better to effect a reform in young men, who were to mould the destinies of rising generations. He then dwelt on the evils arising from drinking habits, and the large expenditure of money over public bars. He cited instances where as much as $20 had been taken over a bar in a day upon an average, and stated that an average $15 might be struck for all taverns, so that a very slight calculation could give an idea of the vast amount of money spent in this evil habit. He then stated it as his belief that Prohibition was the only effectual remedy for the evil. It was no argument, he said, to state that in places where such a law was in existence, that it failed to stop the liquor traffic. He said it failed in particulars that only required some additional legislation to remedy what he considered minor effects. He drew a comparison between the city of St. John, N.B., and Portland, in the State of Maine, he having had the opportunity afforded him of spending a short time in each last year on the respective national holidays of the new Dominion, and that of the United States. In the former place, the crime of drunkenness prevailed, men actually rolling in the gutter, and the general public looking on as complacently as if it were nothing unusual: while in Portland he had seen from the piazza of his hotel upwards of 100,000 persons pass and repass and did not observe a single case of drunkenness. He believed that in some places, in the cellars, in the back streets, it could be found; but it dare not exhibit itself openly to the light of day, without meeting the scorn of public contempt. Who then would say that there was no use in Prohibition? Tavern keepers it had been said would contend against legislation that would deprive them of their private rights and property, but he would say that they have no more right to do so, than a private citizen has to complain of a Railway Company expropriating his land for railway purposes. Private rights must always be made subservient to the public interest. The few must not be allowed so to act as to prejudice the rights of the many. It was upon these grounds, he said, that the abolition of the Seignorial Tenure took place in Lower Canada a few years ago. It was proposed in the event of the success of prohibition, that the Government should buy up the stock in trade of tavern keepers, as the British Government did the slaves in the West Indies. But he thought that the loss they might sustain in this direction, would be but a small infliction upon them, compared with the curse they had inflicted upon mankind. He would therefore say, let the taverns suffer. He advised young men to be up and doing, and go into the reforming of anything that would benefit society, whether in the Church, in Politics or in temperance, and by so doing they could always say that they had been associated with those who were truly philanthropists. He resumed his seat amid applause.

The singing of the Doxology, and the benediction brought the proceedings to a close.

New Macadamized Road.

A large and somewhat enthusiastic meeting of men in Nepean interested in the construction of a macadamized road, between this city and North Gower, took place at Mr. McFarlane's hotel, on Friday last, with a view to the formation of a Joint Stock Company, to carry out that object. Among those present were: Col. Bearman, Reeve; Hon. James Skead, J. Rochester, Esq., M.P.; Thomas Clarke, Deputy Reeve; Samuel Collins, J. P.; Richard Rivington, John Nelson, Robert Bayne, John Boyce, J. P.; E. B. Hopper, W. Hopper, J. B. Hopper, T. Angus, Charles Moffat, Robt. Moffat, T. Lemaine, John Nesbit, sen., John Nesbit, jun., Henry McFarlane, Wm. Rowland, John Falls, Daniel Reddy, John Reddy, William Gordon, Joseph McGaw, Joseph Grier, Robert Nesbit, Hugh Nesbit, Solomon Olmstead, Wm. Taylor, Robert Craig, Jno. Caldwell, John McMillan, C. Grier, Geo. Boyce, Alex. Nelson, with about fifty other farmers, and residents of the township.

The meeting was presided over by John F. Bearman, Esq., Reeve of the Township, and Mr. John Bayne, acted as Secretary.

The chairman explained the object of the meeting, after which addresses were delivered by the Hon James Skead, Mr. John Rochester, M. P., and others. The speakers were all in favor of the building of the proposed road, setting forth the great benefit such roads were to the counties which were fortunate enough to possess them. It was explained that the road if once commenced would be extended to Burritt's Rapids, which was the most direct route from Merrickville to Ottawa. The speeches and explanations showed clearly that whilst the road would be a boon to all the farmers in the township, any money would be profitably invested. At the conclusion of the meeting a stock list was opened, and nearly $20,000 subscribed on the spot. This evidently means work and it is the intention to push it on vigorously. The following resolutions were put to the meeting:—

Moved by Thos. Clark, seconded by Richard Rivington, that in the opinion of this meeting it is desirable that there should be a macadamized road built along the eastern side of this township, on such route as may be decided upon by the company, when legally organized. Carried.

Moved by Mr. E. B. Hopper, seconded by Mr. John Nelson, that the Municipal Council of the Township of Nepean be requested to take stock to the amount of $10,000 in said road, or the amount accruing to the Township out of the surplus revenue of the Province of Ontario. Carried.

Moved by Mr Hooper, seconded by Mr. Nesbitt, that the following gentlemen be appointed as a Committee of Management: James Rochester, Thomas Clark, Daniel Collins, James Craig, North Gower, and W. Tremble, North Gower, J. Boyce, J. Bearman, Robert Bayne, John Nesbitt, James Wallace, North Gower, with power to add to their numbers, and to employ a competent engineer to locate the road, also to employ a solicitor to give a legal assistance in the matter, and to organize a joint stock company under the statute. Carried.

Another meeting in furtherance of this object will be held at Maple Hill Hotel, Nepean, on Saturday, the 28th, at noon. The meeting will be an important one, and a large attendance from Nepean and North Gower is requested.

Police Court.

Before M. O'Gara, P. M.

SATURDAY, March 20.

Agricultural and Arts.

Mr. McKellar's valuable report on this subject, comprising nearly 400 pages of interesting and attractive matter is one of the most valuable compilations issued by any Governmental Department. The following is the concluding paragraph of the preface, treating briefly of the subject of the Agriculture:

"As the advancement of Agriculture greatly depends on the amount of labour, skilfully directed, that is applied to the pursuit, the assurance is encouraging that a large unabated stream continues to flow into the Province, chiefly from the Mother Country. The supply, however, continues to fall very short of the demand, so far, at least, as relates to agricultural labourers and female servants; and it is a satisfaction to know that to the immigration of these two classes increased facilities will be offered in future. The want of a sufficient number of farm labourers at a reasonable rate of wages, which continues to be greatly felt in most sections of the Province, operates most injuriously against agricultural progress, particularly as relating to the clean and thorough cultivation of the soil—a condition that forms the basis of good and profitable husbandry. A better supply of labour, and the general introduction of improved implements and machines, would, in a short time, enable farmers to eradicate weeds, which, unhappily, in some sections, have so increased of late as to affect most injuriously all cultivated crops.

THE ASHANTEE WAR

OFFICIAL DESPATCHES.

LONDON OFFICE OF THE GLOBE,
March 7.

The following despatches were received to-day by the Colonial office.

BURNING OF COOMASSIE.

COLONIAL OFFICE, March 7.

The Earl of Carnarvon presents his compliments, and encloses a brief summary of the most important intelligence contained in a despatch received this morning from Sir Garnet Wolseley, with a copy of a telegraphic message, which was brought with the despatch:

Lieutenant Wood, Aide de camp to Sir Garnet Wolseley, arrived in London this morning bearing a despatch, dated Agiamnu, February 7th, from which it appears that on the evening of the 4th of February the troops occupied Coomassie. The General made repeated efforts to communicate with the King, but failed, the King's envoys refusing to bear the letter to him. Sir Garnet then concluded that as a treaty would be as valueless as it would be difficult to obtain, nothing remained but to leave a lasting mark of the British power, and gave orders for the destruction of the palace and the burning of the city, abandoning the project of burning the Bantoma, or sacred burial place. The demolition of the place was complete. He believes the main object of the expedition has been perfectly secured. The troops were, when he wrote, on their march homeward, and would embark for England immediately on reaching Cape Coast.

"HEADQUARTERS, DETCHIASU, Feb. 9.

"Messenger from the King just arrived in camp, requesting peace. I halt with native troops north of Adansi Hills until the 13th or 14th inst., to allow time for negotiations. Enemy has not attempted to interfere with our troops returning.

"(Signed,) G. J. WOLSELEY,
"Major-General,

"The Right Hon. the Secretary of State
"for War, War Office."

"COOMASSIE, Feb. 5.

"Soldiers, Seamen and Marines of the Expeditionary Force,—After five days of very hard fighting, under trying conditions, your courage and devotion have been rewarded by complete success. I thank you, in Her Majesty's name, for your gallantry and good conduct throughout these operations. In the first phase of the war, the Ashantee army was driven back from the Fantee country into its own territory. Since then you have penetrated far through a dense forest, defended at many points with the greatest obstinacy. You have repeatedly defeated a very numerous and most courageous enemy, fighting on his own ground in well selected positions. British pluck and discipline, common to Her Majesty's land and sea forces, have enabled you thus to overcome all difficulties, and to seize upon the enemy's capital, which now lies at our mercy. All the people, both European and natives unjustly held captives by the King of Ashantee, are now at liberty in our camps, and you have proved to this cruel and barbarous people that England is able to punish her enemies, no matter what their strength in numbers or position. Maintain on your return march to the coast the same admirable conduct that you have hitherto evinced, and England may be as justly proud of having such soldiers, sailors and marines, as I am of having had the honor of commanding you throughout this campaign.

"G. WOLSELEY."

Camp Agiamnu, Feb. 7, 1874.

MY LORD,—I have the honour to report that immediately after the despatch from this station of my last letter on the 3rd inst., I forwarded a flying column, taking with me five days' provisions, and marched upon Coomassie. The enemy's resistance on the 3rd was considerable, and large numbers being in our front. I halted on the river Ordah. During the course of the day's march I received from the King a letter, of which I enclose a copy, with a letter from Mr. Dawson also enclosed, and returned at once the enclosed reply. On the 4th I advanced again at daybreak. The enemy had occupied a position of considerable strength near the village of Ordasu. This they held against us from about seven till a quarter to two, when they yielded, and on my advance-guard, under Colonel M'Leod, being pushed on against them, broke and fled in all directions, leaving behind, strewed along the road, the chief's umbrellas and chairs, etc., and the food which had been carried with the army. In the course of the day's march I received from Mr. Dawson two letters, of which I enclose copies. I ordered that the troops should be pushed on at once. No opposition was offered to our entry into the town. We occupied the town. Mr. Dawson was met, at full liberty, walking in the streets. I immediately issued stringent orders for the protection of the inhabitants, and the safety of the town. But night fell almost immediately after our entry, and in the darkness it was impossible to prevent some of the numerous camp-followers from pillaging. The Fantee prisoners had also been released, and in all probability were largely engaged in the same pursuit. The result was the outbreak of many fires. Captain Baker, Inspector General of the Police, and several officers were engaged nearly all night in the suppression of the pillaging, and in putting out the fires. One policeman taken in the act was hung. I endeavored immediately on my arrival to communicate with the King through Mr. Dawson, and through every channel that appeared to offer an opportunity. A chief having come into Coomassie who was said to be sent by the King, I saw him myself, and impressed upon him my wish to spare the town, and my desire to impose on the King no severer conditions than those he had already accepted. Moreover I told this man that, now that I had shown the power of England, I was ready, if the King would make peace at once, to accept a small instalment of the indemnity, and not to exact the half I had previously required to be paid in ready money. Other messengers were obtained who undertook to reach the King. To these I entrusted the letter dated Coomassie, 5th February, 1874. All was, however, of no avail. The man whom I endeavored to employ as messengers, and who came avowedly as envoys of the King, were found treacherously removing powder and gold dust from the houses. The whole scheme of Ashantee politics is so based upon treachery, that the King does not either understand any other form of negotiation, or believe it possible that others can have honest intentions. Under these circumstances, my Lord, it became clear that a treaty would be as valueless to us as it was difficult to obtain. Nothing remained but to leave such a mark of our power to punish as should deter from future aggression a nation whom treaties did not bind. I had done all I could to avoid the necessity, but it was forced upon me. I gave orders for the destruction of the palace and the burning of the city; I had at one time also contemplated the destruction of the Bantoma, where the sacred ashes of former kings are entombed, but this would have involved a delay of some hours. Very heavy rain had fallen. I feared that the streams might have risen in my rear sufficiently to seriously delay my march. I considered it, better, therefore, not to risk further the health of the troops, the wet weather having already threatened seriously to affect it. The demolition of the place was complete. From all that I can gather, I believe that the result will be such a diminution in the prestige and military power of the Ashantee monarch as may result in the break up of the kingdom altogether. This I had been anxious to avoid, because it seems impossible to foresee what power can take this nation's place among the feeble races of this coast. I certainly believe that your lordship may be well convinced that no more utterly atrocious Government than that which has thus, perhaps fallen, ever existed on the face of the earth. Their capital was a charnel-house; their religion a combination of cruelty and treachery; their policy the natural outcome of their religion. I cannot think that whatever may be the final fate of the people of this country the absolute annihilation of such a rule, should it occur, would be a subject for unmixed regret. In any case, my lord, I believe that the main object of my expedition has been perfectly secured. The territories of the Gold Coast will not again be troubled by the warlike ambition of this restless Power. I may add, that the [illegible] of England from this moment will be received throughout Western Africa with respectful awe, a treatment which has been of late years by no means its invariable fate among the savage tribes of this region. The troops are now on their march homewards, and will embark for England immediately on reaching Cape Coast. As the mission entrusted to me has now, I may say, been brought to an end, I avail myself of this opportunity for bringing to your lordship's most favorable notice the valuable services rendered to me throughout the war by Lieut. Maurice, R.A., my private Secretary. I would also take the liberty of mentioning the name of Captain Lanvau, 2nd West India Regiment, who for some time performed the duties of Colonial Secretary, and whose knowledge of Colonial duties and regulations were of great service to me since my arrival in this country. The police duties in connection with the recent military operations have been most effectively performed by Captain Biker, Inspector General of Police. He has rendered the force under my command most valuable service, and his zeal and energy mark him out as peculiarly suited for the post he occupies. My aide-de camp, Lieutenant the Honourable H. L. Wood, 10th Hussars, who is the bearer of this despatch, I have the honour to recommend to your lordship's favourable notice.

I have, &c.,

COOMASSIE, Feb. 4, 1874.

KING,—You have deceived me, but I have kept my promise to you. I am in Coomassie, and my only wish is to make a lasting peace with you, I have shown you the power of England, and now I will be merciful. As you do not wish to give up your mother and Prince Mensah, send me some other hostages of rank, and I will make peace with you to-morrow on the terms originally agreed upon. If either your Majesty, or your Royal mother, or Prince Mensah, will come to see me to-morrow morning early, I will treat you with all the honor due to your Royal dignity, and allow you to return in safety. You can trust my word.

I am, &c.,

No. 2—Sir G. Wolseley to the Earl of Kimberley.—(Received March 7.)

HEAD QUARTERS CAMP AGIAMNU,
February 7th, 1874.

MY LORD,—I have the honour to enclose a copy of a report just received from Captain Butler. Your lordship will perceive that it represents the complete collapse of the expedition under his orders. From Capt. Glover I have received no report since that of the 17th from Opogo, the contents of which I forward to your lordship from Fommanah, and which represented him as short of ammunition and waiting its arrival, after the success which placed him in possession of the town. From Captain Dalrymple I have received no official report, but I hear that the chiefs under his orders have almost entirely deserted him. Since the above was written Captain Butler himself has arrived. I cannot express too strongly my sense of the efforts which he, and the officers under his orders, have made for the cause in hand. In so far as failure represents an additional trouble which has to be undergone by an additional hardship [illegible] which he suffers, Captain Butler has had all the bitterest of [illegible]. He has failed to induce the miserable chiefs of this district to do all that he, in his fine belief in native character, fancied that he would be able to induce them to do. But so far as the interests of the expedition under my orders are concerned, Captain Butler has not failed, but most successfully achieved the very object which I had in view in detaching him for the work he had so cheerfully and skilfully undertook. He has effected a most important division in favour of the main body, and has detained before him all the forces of one of the most powerful Ashantee chiefs. For any purpose for which energy, practical ability, high spirit, and much knowledge of character are required, I cannot too highly recommend Captain Butler to your lordship's attention. All these qualities have been, under the most trying circumstances, displayed by him upon the present occasion. In speaking of Capt. Dalrymple I must point out that his position has been in some respects a far more difficult one than even Capt. Butler's. Capt. Butler is not only a man well known to the world at large, but I have on a previous occasion had opportunities myself for recognizing his ability. He was known personally to all those officers who were with me in Canada, and of whom many are here. Capt Dalrymple came as a perfect stranger to most of us. The difference is very considerable in the situation of two men each in positions of somewhat painful isolation. Under these most difficult circumstances, Capt. Dalrymple has worked with a heartiness and energy which I cannot too highly commend. Captain Glover's position before the world is so conspicuous, and your lordship's knowledge of his ability is so complete, that I scarcely think it would be suitable for me to report upon him as if he were one of the officers in any ordinary scene under my orders. In fact, since his military operations have been carried out under my orders, I have received but one report from him, and know nothing of what has been the history of his force.

ENCLOSURE NO. 2

TRIBOS, Feb. 2, 1874.

SIR,—After the despatch of my letters of the 20th and 30th ultimo, a rapid retreat commenced in the whole Akim force. So universal was the panic that during the greater portion of the night, bodies of men continued to move south, and early on the morning of the 31st, Ynnooms was reached and left behind. An attempt was made on the part of the kings to excuse or explain their gross treachery, and I could elicit nothing more tangible than that they were too far advanced into Ashantee territory, and that they must be cut off before assistance could reach them. My belief is that the statements of a blind Ashantee prisoner taken at Nansual, coupled with a verbal message sent by King Atah of East Akim, the purport of which I was not made aware of, did much to induce this disgraceful flight. In the hasty postscript to my letter of the 30th ult, I had only to make you acquainted with the fact of the retreat. No previous warning—no intimation whatever—had been given to me that it was the intention of the Kings and chiefs to abandon Akina; indeed, up to the last moment that the retreat began I was moving through the camps endeavouring to get the Akims to move to Dadiasu, en route to Amoaful, and I had actually engaged a party of hunters to proceed through the bush to the main line near the latter place. Yet, so complete was the flight, that within two hours, not a man was left in Akinas, and long before midnight every Akim was behind the Enucoo river, 10 miles distant. All this without a reverse having taken place, and after a loss of only two killed and two wounded in the [illegible] force. I cannot express to you the feelings with which I beheld this total break of the movement. Little by little, step by step, I had succeeded in leading savages to within a trifling distance of the point aimed at. It is true that there were many indications of how utterly untrustworthy was the composition of the force under my command; but, nevertheless, at Akina I naturally looked at the task as all but accomplished, and my junction with the main body at Amoaful, within a few miles of Coomassie, as only a question of some hours. Encumbered with baggage without carriers, save those given me by the Kings, and with three of my officers sick from actual fever or its recent presence, I dare not await at Akinee, the chance of communication from the main body. I had to abandon the fruits of no little labour at the moment success seemed most assured. The Kings, with about a quarter of the original force, are now encamped close to the Prah at Embronen; they have refused to move to Prahsu. The remainder of the men are scattered or dispersed to their homes. I will proceed to head-quarters with all speed, and afterwards be ready to undertake such punishment as the Major-General may determine to inflict upon the Akim Chiefs. Captain Paget has had a relapse of fever. He proceeds with carriers to Prahsu.—I have, &c.

Head Quarter, Camp Amoaful,
Feb. 8, 1874.

MY LORD—I have the honour to enclose copies of two reports which have just arrived from Captain Glover Your lordship will perceive that the last is dated Jan. 28, eleven days ago, and that Captain Glover speaks of being within 20 miles of Coomassie. I am making every effort to send him news of my success, and orders to fall back behind the Prah. I have offered large rewards to messengers if they succeed in reaching him, and have sent to him by several different routes. In any case, in the utterly crushed state of the Ashantee forces, I have every hope that Captain Glover will be able to hold his own against any army they could bring against him, and, at the worst, he certainly will be able to secure his own retreat—I have, &c.

ENTRY INTO COOMASSIE.

COOMASSIE, Feb. 5.

After the severe battle at Amoaful, described in my last letter, our men continued to fight their way through a series of ambushes up to this city, which our troops entered in triumph last evening.

We had a very sharp engagement with the enemy yesterday at Adasi or Adam, where the Ashantees in enormous numbers assembled to resist our passage of the River Dah. This was their last effort, and King Koffee, with all his chiefs, was present at the battle. Fighting commenced at 7:30 in the morning and continued until 2.30 p.m. The Ashantees fought with desperate determination; but our men exhibited most admirable coolness, intrepidity, and courage, and carried every point, spite of the immense advantage which forest and the natural formation of the country gave to the defenders. Sir Archibald Alison was in command of the attacking forces, as at Amoaful, and fought all through the engagement; he was rejoined, however, during the action by Col. Wood's force. Our losses were Lieut. Eyre and Capt. Muir, 42nd Highlanders, killed; Capt. Wanchope, 42nd, slightly wounded, and about thirty other white troops wounded; besides natives.

On the part of the Ashantees the losses must have been very heavy. At the close of the day the King and Chiefs were panic-stricken and forsook their men. We know that two of their "Caboceers" were among the killed. Messengers were instantly despatched from the Queen Mother to Sir Garnet Wolseley, begging for peace.

Although our men were excessively fatigued by over seven hours' fighting, it was determined to press on to Coomassie, and we reached the Ashantee capital at dusk. In entering the city the same order was maintained as has been observed in our progress from the Prah. The first man actually within Coomassie was Lord Gifford, who has gallantly led the way with his scouts, and been in the thick of all the fighting. He was wounded, and had to be carried into the city. Next came the Black Watch, which has fought so gallantly and lost so heavily. Their ranks have been sadly thinned by the fighting of these last few days, but they were yet in sufficient force to raise a tremendously hearty Highland cheer as they came within the black capital. All felt that they were entitled to the shout of triumph. Next followed the detachment of the 23rd Regiment, after them the Rifle Brigade, and finally the gallant Naval Brigade.

King Koffee's capital is a much superior town to what we had expected to find. The King's palace is really a handsome building. It was found to contain a quantity of silks and a large amount of curious and even valuable furnishings, all of which by the Major's command, has been jealously guarded. In the night there was some looting, and the Fantees fired several houses, causing immense consternation among the inhabitants who had remained. Everything has been done, however, to keep our native allies within bounds, and some looting Kossus have been hanged by way of example. One frightful drawback to the place is the stench of exposed corpses which is encountered in all directions. The scene at the "Execution House," was appalling.

The King and the Chiefs are still in the bush on the north of the town. Sir Garnet Wolseley despatched a messenger to His Majesty requesting his attendance here, and a reply was sent back immediately, arriving in the course of the night, that the King would come at once. His arrival to sign a treaty of peace is hourly expected.

Tired as our fellows were, they kept guard all night. I should state that during the battle at Adasi our baggage was left at Agiman. Wood's and Russell's regiments have already been sent back to Adasi, and we expect to follow to-morrow.

We are somewhat short of stores. All our posts on the road have been attacked, but nowhere with any success. The most serious attempt was made by a night surprise at Fommah, which was very nearly taken; but the convalescents defended the hospital, and eventually drove off the assailants.

BY TELEGRAPH

TORONTO.

Local Legislature.

TORONTO, March 21st,

The Speaker took the chair at 11:15 p.m.

The following railway resolutions were passed:—

The Toronto, Grey and Bruce, $97.20 per mile per year for 20 years, or $2,000 per mile for that portion of the line between Harriston and Teeswater, and $2,000 per mile between Weston and Toronto; Midland Railway, $218.70 per mile per year for 20 years, or $2,250 per mile for that portion of the line between Orillia and Midland Bay; Hamilton and North Western Railway, $243 per mile per year for 20 years, or $2,500 per mile for that portion of the line from Hamilton to Barrie and from Clarksville to Collingwood; Victoria Railway to the extent of $291.60 per year for 20 years, or $3,000 per mile for the line between Lindsay and Bobcaygon Road via Fenelon Road.

The House went into Committee on the Hon. Mr. Crook's bill, respecting the railway fund and the railroad subsidy fund. The first and second clauses were struck out. The amendment added to the third clause that the sum granted to the railways may be less than $120 or more than $240 per mile per annum.

Mr. Rykert did not think this could be dealt with by the House without the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor.

The amendment was carried and the bill reported.

The House adjourned at 1.35.

The Speaker took the chair at 3:15.

After routine the supply bill was passed.

Mr. Rykert's objection to the Railway Fund and Railway Subsidy Fund Bill was ruled out of order, and the bill was read a third time and passed.

The House went into Committee on the Franchise Bill.

Mr. Wood thought it would be better to postpone the operation of the Act to the 1st of January.

Hon. Mr. McKellar agreed to this.

Mr. Meredith did not think there ought to be any delay.

Mr. Bethune thought delay advisable, as the passage of the bill would not be known in time to allow persons to place the name on the assessment rolls.

Mr. Deacon said if the Bill was postponed, those entitled to vote under this Act would not be able to vote at the next elections.

Mr. Rykert moved in amendment, that the blank in the Bill be filled in with $600, instead of $400. Lost by 14 to 20.

Mr. Meredith's Bill was desirable to prevent the floating population to vote, therefore he proposed in amendment that three years' residence was requisite to enable men to vote. Lost.

Mr. Rykert moved that taxes should be paid before electors could vote. Lost.

The remaining clauses were carried.

Hon. Mr. McKellar moved an additional clause, declaring that the Act shall not go into force until Jnauary, 1875.

Mr. Rykert moved in amendment, that the Act shall go into force immediately upon its passing. Lost. Yeas 6, nays 23.

The Bill was then read a second time.

On the motion to read a third time, Mr. Rykert moved that the Act go into effect forthwith.

Mr Bethune moved in amendment that as owing to assessments having been made in the majority of the Municipalities for the year, it was impossible that the Act should operate fairly if it went into immediate force. The House divided on the amendment to the amendment and was carried yeas 32, nays 9.

Some further discussion having taken place, the bill was read the third time and passed.

Resolutions respecting aid to charitable institutions passed through committee.

The Voters' List Bill was passed through Committee of the Whole, and read a third time and passed.

AFTER RECESS.

Several bills were advanced a stage, and the House adjourned at 11:30.

City News.

TORONTO, March 22.

The body of an unknown man was found at an early hour yesterday morning, laying on the track of the Northern Railway, about 50 yards from Bloor street. He was evidently knocked down and killed by a passing train.

Archbishop Lynch preached this evening in the Cathedral to a crowded and fashionable congregation. His Grace gave a descriptive account of his trip to Europe and his visit to Rome, and after the sermon, delivered the Holy Father's blessing.

Jos. Kirby, of Niagara, who assaulted Jimuel Briggs Thompson, of the National, was fined $5 yesterday morning.

The Local Chamber will be prorogued to-morrow at three o'clock, a morning session will be held at 11 o'clock.

MONTREAL.

Queen's Hall Burned to the Ground—Loss, $100,000.

MONTREAL, March 21.

Last evening the Queen's Hall owned by Sir Hugh Allan and which cost $100,000, was completely destroyed by fire. The Hall is situated in the centre of the Cathedral Block, St Catherine street, in the most fashionable part of the west end. Near the English Cathedral. The fire broke out about six o'clock, and it is supposed that it originated in an overheated flue near the stage, and had gained strength before it was discovered at all. Very speedily the hose was set to work and streams of water were poured on the building, the men behaving most gallantly and fighting the flames inch by inch. Twice the fire broke into the front part, and twice was it quickly and effectually repulsed. The fire was first seen from the Crystal Palace steps, and did not present a very formidable appearance. Vast volumes of thick black smoke intermingled, or rather fringed with lighter-coloured wreaths poured out incessantly, wrapping the tower in a dense cloud and obscuring the view between the street. The firemen on the roof could scarcely be distinguished, and as every moment the reels, engines, and waggons dashed up the noise and bustle became terrible. The crowd thickened and thickened, gathering most at the corner of St. Catharine and Victoria streets. Every sort of conjecture was hazarded as to the cause of the fire, and attempts were made to question the affrightened residents of the chambers who were hurrying out with their household goods under their arms. Suddenly a tongue of flame shot up through the black cloud; its appearance was the precursor of the fearful blaze that ensued, hailed by a loud cry from the multitude. Again and again it flashed forth and at once the pillar of smoke that swept down on the scene was brilliantly lighted up. The thousand upturned faces, the hardy firemen on the walls, the houses around, all were vividly and unexpectedly tinged with the ruddy flush. Millions of golden sparks of blue, green, and violet coals flew over head and died in the far dark air. The flames leaped higher and higher, licking dormer windows and gables, travelling along the wood work, wrapping the tall flag staff stretching from cornice to cornice, and leaping with shriek and roar along the whole length of the building. The water dashed in wall and window, hissing and steaming as it met the furious element, while still the thick choking smoke belched forth and spread its pall over the scene. The point of most interest was now at the back, and at the Victoria street end. There masses of people had congregated and watched the raging of the fire as it gained in power and fury, and defied the efforts of the brigade. All at once a crash was heard above the clamour, and a portion of the end wall fell out and exposed the stage in the Hall burning fiercely. Back swayed the crowd moved by the one impulse of terror and the mad fear of the falling debris. Who is killed? was the cry—fortunately no one. The flames now finding ready egress soared high and lighted the street with more than the glare of the sunniest day. The steeple of Christ Church Cathedral in particular stood out rosy tinted, glowing like an alpine peak against the dark blue sky, still the fire increased. A piece of the mansard roof fell outwards sending up sheaves of flamelets and showers of burning sparks mingled with clouds of horrid smoke. The whole western side of the hall was in a blaze and it became dangerous to approach too close to the walls. Soon one tall chimney was seen to totter, one moment it trembled on the edge and then crashed down to the earth with a loud din that called forth another shout from the surging crowd. It was followed a moment later by its companion, and then the cry was that the whole building was about to sink in ruins. But the perseverence and boldness of the brigade were beginning to tell. The streams of water were poured into the burning abyss, and upon the heated brick, and gradually the mighty flames lessened and died away, though at the farther end they still rose fiery, and swept over the gable to the adjoining roof. The inhabitants of the chambers, the tradesmen in the stores began to take heart, and believed the worst was past. The furniture and stock which had been hastily tumbled out on the streets, in neighboring tenements, and in the Crystal Palace were brought back, and order was restored. In an upper chamber the dinner of the boarders, interrupted by the alarm, was resumed, and men commenced to examine their abodes to see whether they were dry enough to stop in. At about ten o'clock the fire was well under, although the firemen did not cease their exertions, but continued to pour floods into what had been the handsomest Hall in Montreal. The crowd slowly dispersed, and knots and groups were only left at the corners and in front of the building. The show, for it was a most picturesque sight, being over, few cared to watch the final conquest.

ENGLAND.

Arrival of General Wolseley.

LONDON, March 21.—General Garnet Wolseley disembarked at Portsmouth this morning, and is expected to reach this city this afternoon. An immense crowd had assembled at Waterloo station to welcome him home.

The Thames Rising.

The extraordinary rise in the tide of the Thames yesterday, caused great damage along the banks. Lambeth and Rotherhithe are inundated. The sewer burst, and the floors of many houses were forced up by the water.

Several Children Drowned, &c.

Several children and a number of horses were drowned in those places. At Wapping the lower stories of the houses are filled with water, and business on the wharves is suspended.

Numerous families are compelled to abandon their homes.

At the Woolwich arsenal the fires of the engine and factories were extinguished and the contents of the store sheds floated.

Another high rise of the tide is feared, and temporary embankments are being erected to prevent a repetition of the inundation.

Arrival of Sir Garnet Wolseley.

The steamer 'Manitoban,' from Gold Coast with Gen. Wolseley on board, is signalled off Proulepoint. The Lord Mayor of London will give a banquet to Gen. Wolseley on his arrival here.

Indian Loan.

Lord Sallisbury, Indian Secretary, announces a loan of $50,000,000 for India, of which $15,000,000 are immediately necessary.

Inundation.

The waters of the Thames rose rapidly to-day and overflowed the embankments of this city, flooding adjacent streets and warehouses. Putney was inundated and there were several narrow escapes from drowning.

Fenian Prisoners.

A report started by the Daily News that the Fenian convicts will soon be released is generally discredited.

In Liquidation.

In re Mr. Whalley, M. P.

In the House of Commons to-day, a motion was made that the letter of Chief Justice Cockburn in regard to Whalley's conduct for contempt of Court be referred to the Committee on Privileges, but on the suggestion of Mr. Disraeli it was referred to a Select Committee.

Notice of Adjournment.

Mr. Disraeli gave notice that the Government would ask for an adjournment of the House from March 31st to April 13th. He advised that a session be held to-morrow, and that next week be devoted to passing Bills of Supply. He promised that the Budget would be ready on the 16th of April.

Home Rule Rejected.

On report of Address, Dr. Butt moved an amendment representing the dissatisfaction of Ireland with the present system of Government, and declaring it to be the duty of Parliament to consider speedily means of removing such discontent. Dr. Butt said that the Irish asked for the management of their local affairs, leaving to Parliament the control of supreme matters. The Government of Ireland was based on distrust. The people asked for a new Prime Minister, not for immediate Home Rule, but for a complete policy of reconciliation. The Lord Mayor of Dublin upheld the amendment. Gladstone opposed it, arguing that such a division of the legislation, as the amendment proposed, was impracticable. There was no rule to determine what affairs could be considered as exclusively Irish. Lord Montague, Sir Geo. Bower, Mr. Johnson and others supported the amendment. Sir Michael Beach, Chief Secretary for Ireland, denied the gravity of the grievances. He said each party in Ireland interpreted Home Rule according to its own peculiar wants. The discussion then closed, and the amendment was rejected by a vote of 51 to 114.

The Rise in the Thames.

The rise in the Thames was caused by the remarkably high tides all along the eastern coast of England. Ipswich, Yarmouth and Hull are partially flooded.

Deputation.

A deputation from the Associated Chambers of Commerce waited to-day upon Lord Derby, Foreign Minister, and urged the advantage of an International Convention to assimilate the patent laws of all countries, beginning with England and the United States. Lord Derby replied that such assimilation was desirable.

Election.

Arrival of Gen. Wolseley.

General Wolseley arrived at Portsmouth this evening.

FRANCE.

The Carlist War.

BAYONNE, March 20.—The Carlists have captured an outlying fort at Bilboa. Forty men belonging to the garrison were taken prisoners. The bombardment of the city by the insurgents continues.

Meeting of Deputies.

PARIS, March 20.—A meeting of Deputies of Extreme Left was held at Versailles to-day. It was resolved that on presentation of the new electoral bill a demand should be made for the maintenance of the present law, and dissolution of the Assembly on the 28th January.

The Duke of Padua and other distinguished persons who took part in the recent demonstration at Chiselhurst, have been removed from Mayoralities and other offices held by them under Government.

SPAIN.

MADRID, March 20.—An order has been issued, forbidding publication by the press of other than official war news.

GERMANY.

The Army Bill.

BERLIN, March 20.—The Committee of the Reichstadt have voted a second time against fixing the ordinary strength of the army at $400,000 men.

AUSTRIA.

Appointments.

VIENNA, March 20.—The Emperor, having accepted the resignation of the Hungarian Ministry, has appointed Herr Bitn President of the new Council of Ministers.

UNITED STATES.

Resolutions.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—United States Senate. Resolution of the California Legislature, protesting against further subsidies to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, was presented; referred. Also resolutions of the same Legislature, instructing the California Congressmen to use their influence to have the Chinese Treaty modified, so as to discourage Chinese immigration to California. Hagar supported the latter in a short speech.

Delegates.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 20.—The Amherst College Church, has appointed President Starnes and Prof. Tyler, as delegates to the Beecher-Buddington Council.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,

GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for the Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hansa Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it to those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially incidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to actual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 58 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 300,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuiness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible, and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption, its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hospital.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 25 cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE

PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, ointments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicine. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaine, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE FREE FROM
PURELY ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent readers in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for a subscription to these THE LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

NOTICE.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish books, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets, seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

'Felt for Hats and Boots:"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command,
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

Trade Mark—"BLOOD MIXTURE."

The Great Blood Purifier and Restorer

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases and sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It cures old sores,
Cures ulcerated sores on the neck,
Cures ulcerated sore legs,
Cures blackheads, or pimples on the face,
Cures scurvy sores,
Cures cancerous ulcers,
Cures blood and skin diseases,
Cures glandular swellings,
Clears the blood from all impure matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the Office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF FITZROY,

Minutes of Council.

MARCH 14, 1874.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment.

Present—The Reeve, and Messrs. Mohr, Marshall, Elliott and MacLaren.

The minutes of last session were read; also form of petition to the Lieutenant Governor, relative to the Municipal Loan Fund, and Auditor's Report on township accounts.

Moved by Mr. MacLaren, seconded by Mr Mohr, That the form of petition submitted from the Council of the Township of York, relative to appropriation of the Municipal Loan Fund, be adopted by this Council, signed by the Reeve on behalf of this Council, and sealed with the Corporate Seal. Carried.

Moved by Mr. MacLaren, seconded by Mr. Mohr, That this Council grant the sum of five dollars each to widows Brown, Anderson and Farrell and to John Johnston, they being indigent, and that the Clerk give an order on the Treasurer for the respective amounts.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. MacLaren, and seconded by Mr. Mohr, that the Council do grant the sum of eight dollars to procure cedars to cover a bridge between lots 5 and 6 in the ninth concession, and that James Bond superintend the laying out of the same.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Mohr, seconded by Mr. Maclaren, that this Council authorize John C. Forbes to procure fifteen hundred feet of 2 inch plank to make a side walk through Francis Morgan's swamp and cause the side walk to be properly made. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Mohr, that this Council grant the sum of ten dollars to build a culvert on the third line, and eight dollars to pay for a scraper, that Mr. David Story take charge of the same. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Maclaren, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that this Council do now adjourn for one hour. Carried.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment, all the members present.

Moved by Mr. Mohr, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that the report of the auditors be now recommended and adopted. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Marshall, seconded by Mr. Elliott, that this Council authorize Daniel Martin to procure seven hundred feet of two inch plank, thirteen feet long, to cover a bridge on the second line in front of lots fifteen. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Maclaren, seconded by Mr. Mohr, that James Craig be appointed to enquire what the right of way can be procured for on the corner of Lot 25 in the twelfth concession, for a road so as to avoid the gully on the road allowance. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Mohr, seconded by Mr. MacLaren, That the report of Wm. Owens in reference to the road and bridge across the Carp, between lots 5 and 6, in the 7th and 8th Concessions, be received and adopted, and that the Clerk give him an order on the Treasurer for the sum of $5 for his services for the same. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Mohr, seconded by Mr. MacLaren, That the Clerk grant Mr. Wm. Latimer an order on the Treasurer for $40, to pay for one hundred cedar logs, and $35 for drawing the same, to build a Bridge on the Big Creek on the side road, between lots 10 and 11, in the 1st Concession.

Moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Mohr, that the Council do grant the sum of twenty dollars to make a drain on fourth concession line in front of lot fourteen, and that Mr. Wm. Owens superintend the same.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. MacLaren, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that Mr. Wm. Whyte be instructed go forthwith and open the fence now across the side road between lots Fo. 20 and 21, and that the Clerk notify Mr. Whyte of the same.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Mohr, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that this Council intend passing a By-law to open the original road allowance between lots 5 and 6 in the seventh and eight concessions at next meeting, ank the Clerk notify all the parties concerned. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Marshall, seconded by Mr. Mohr, that whereas it is uncertain whether the line now in course of being opened between lots 20 and 21 in the 8th and 9th concessions, is in the correct place, therefore the Corporation deem it expedient to employ T. M. O'Cromwell to determine its true place, and that he be requested to lay off the same. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Mohr, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that whereas the duties appertaining to the office of Township Clerk have greatly increased since the salary attached to the said office was determined, and whereas it is reasonable and just that the salary be increased, therefore the by law to increase and fix the salary of the said Clerk be now read first, second and third time, and passed, any rule to contrary notwithstanding. Carried.

By-law No. 231 read first, second, and third time, and passed accordingly.

Moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Marshall that this Council do now adjourn until the eighteenth day of April next. Carried.

Examined the foregoing accounts transcribed from the Treasurer's books and find them correct with vouchers produced, three items, viz: to Messrs. McGrath, D. Storey, T. Marshall, $100 each, given as relief for loss sustained by fire, we consider contrary to law and justice. If there is a law empowering the Corporation to grant aid to sufferers by fire, why not grant it to all. It is not only wrong that the poor should be taxed to aid the rich, as it is in this case; but a greater wrong that parties who have had their houses destroyed by fire should received no aid, and also be taxed to aid others.

The Ottawa Times

TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1874.

Cards of invitation have been issued for a Reception at Rideau Hall on Saturday next.

Dr. Schultz M. P., left for Montreal on Saturday night, but will return to the Capital in a day or two.

Hon. Mr. Albert N. Richards, Q. C., and Mr. James O'Reilly, Q. C., arrived in town last night, to attend the Assizes.

Hon. Timothy Warren Anglin, the future Speaker of the House of Commons as some people incline to believe, arrived at the Russell House last night. The honourable gentleman is accompanied by Mrs. Anglin and family.

The present Mayor of Quebec, Mr. Garneau, declines re-election, after serving two years. The city suffers from a deficit this year. Efforts are being made to get a candidate of British origin for the ensuing year.

Ladies and gentlemen attending the Drawing Room held by Their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Countess of Dufferin in the Senate Chamber on Friday next, will be good enough to provide themselves with two cards, with their names and addresses legibly written thereon. One to be given at the entrance to the Senate Chamber, and one to the A. D. C. in waiting.

The Summerside Progress of the 16th inst., in reporting the return home of the Hon. Mr. Howlan and Mr. Newberry, the P. E. Island delegates to the Dominion Board of Trade, states they gave an account of the proceedings at Ottawa to the Charlottetown Board, including the discussion on the question of Free Trade versus Protection. The Progress states that the latter Board is to discuss the question shortly, and hopes that the people of Summerside will not be behind those of the capital in taking measures to "defeat the designs of the Ontario ring of manufacturers."

THE ATTITUDE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The people of British Columbia are quickly learning the error of the ways into which a few designing men, stimulated not improbably by promptings from disappointed quarters in this section of the Dominion, would betray them. If we may form an opinion from the leading press of the Pacific Province, of which the Standard is the foremost example, we may rest satisfied that the people there will readily reconcile themselves to a policy that will present itself as manifestly the best thing that could be done under the circumstances. We can well understand how a people who had been purposely prejudiced against Mr Mackenzie and his party could become agitated over an allegation that the object of their prejudices was conspiring to lead them into a trap, in which when they had fallen they would discover that they had lost their claim upon the Dominion, and that their visions of a railway were blasted. This, however, was but the story of designing men who hoped that under cover of the dust raised by their inventions they would accomplish a party triumph. Time for reflection has been taken and the sober second thought of the people seems to be that they were for a time mistaken as to their friends. They now have no apprehension that Mr. Mackenzie intends anything else than to build the Pacific Railway as rapidly as the means of the country will enable him. The Standard, remarking the ill-success of the charter-sellers in these Eastern Provinces, says they have not been more successful out there "in deluding the people by their attempts to manufacture and "retail falsehoods touching the same subject," viz: the railway policy of the Mackenzie administration. The same journal proceeds to show that Mr. Mackenzie's intention to "keep faith with British Columbia," and to "carry out the terms to the utmost possible extent" is "every day becoming more and more apparent." It is too bad that our fellow citizens on the Pacific Coast should have been so cruelly misled relative to the character and policy of the men and the party into whose hands their relations with the Dominion had fallen. We may venture to assure them that they are peculiarly fortunate in the circumstances of the railway work having passed out of the hands of Sir John Macdonald into those of Mr. Mackenzie. There is not in the whole British American continent, a man more sincerely desirous for the opening up and connecting, in the most effectual manner and in the shortest possible time, the several Provinces than the present First Minister. His predecessor never had any other design in the matter than how best to procure political support. The engagement to build the railway within ten years, which the British Columbians were foolish enough to accept as a bona fide undertaking, was in itself evidence that he never intended to fulfil it, but that he pledged the good faith of the country to an impossibility for the consideration of the additional number of votes that the Province would send him. They are beginning to realize the position of the railway undertaking; that it is one thing to engage to build a railway across the continent through unexplored regions, and quite another to fulfil the engagement. The Standard indicates the sense of the people in this respect, and their willingness to submit to the inevitable, by the admission, after acknowledging Mr. Mackenzie's good faith in the matter, that "he cannot do impossibilities, nor do "British Columbians expect him to make "the attempt." That is coming down to common sense. Blatant politicians and newspaper men, many cry out "the terms, the terms, and nothing but the terms." But, like those generally who carry too much sail for their ballast, they will soon see how useless it is to contend against the inevitable. Reasonable people, however, usually see it much earlier; and therefore, long after the community may be said to have become reconciled, the vendors of clap-trap will be abroad with their wares. It will be quite safe to venture the statement that not one of the British Columbia members will find occasion to place himself in opposition to Mr. Mackenzie. They will discover that the Government policy will be the best thing within the range of possibility for them, and that relations of cordiality and confidence with the administration of the day, will be especially to the advantage of their Province, since the carrying out of projects in which they and the Eastern people are alike interested, will be greatly promoted if a good understanding be preserved.

TESTIMONIAL FOR GENERAL WOLSELEY.

Sir Garnet Wolseley has returned to England, coming by a strange coincidence in the steamship 'Manitoban,' and he will likely before many days receive a fitting ovation from the English people. It is already announced that the Home Government which has never been backward in bestowing substantial honors for duty well performed in the service of the Empire, has determined on confirming the gallant young commander in his major, generalship, and bestowing a pension on him. This is following the usual course, and will be grateful to the feelings of the nation. But many in Canada will incline to a sense of disappointment that Wolseley, like Napier of Magdala, has not been offered a Peerage. The Abyssinian campaign was not one whit more difficult or hazardous than the Ashantee, and the same reward might follow. Meanwhile, pending the question of a peerage, we may ask, what does Canada intend doing to mark her feeling of satisfaction over this recent success of our arms. General Wolseley, the victorious leader lived in our midst for many years, and was for a time the main prop, so to speak, of our Volunteer Militia force. If we mistake not, the Volunteer Camp of Instruction at Laprairie, in 1865, was under his command, and later on he was selected to lead the mixed force of regulars and volunteers sent to Fort Garry to restore law and order on the banks of Red River. No other man, we venture to say, possesses in the same degree, the confidence and good feeling of our Volunteers; whilst Sir Garnet Wolseley, on his part, places no little trust and confidence in them. Writing to Dr. Schultz, M. P., from Cape Coast Castle, on 1st November last, he says: "I wish I had a thousand Canadian "Volunteers here at this moment, for "with such a force, I think I should soon "be able to bring the King of Ashantee "to terms." Here is a compliment paid to the Canadian army, as a former Minister of Militia delighted to call the Volunteer force, of no equivocal kind, and one that richly merits some return. A writer in the Mail suggests an address of congratulation, but our own feelings, and those of many leading citizens who are not Volunteers, would suggest a testimonial of a more substantial character.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.
NEWPORT, N. S.

HOSPITAL ZYMOTICS AND HOSPITAL BUILDINGS.

"Hospitalism" is the name given by the late Sir James Simpson to that particular condition of hospital-atmosphere which produces erysipelas, pyæmia, hospital gangrene, and puerperal fever. Zymotic poisons sooner or later seem inevitably to accumulate in the most carefully managed wards of an hospital, and to such an extent that almost every surgical operation is attended with extreme danger. However carefully or successfully performed, whatever may be the strength of the patient, in many hospitals the use of the knife is too frequently followed by erysipelas, gangrene, and death. In a purulent condition of the blood which is styled pyæmia, it is impossible to operate without risk to the patient. This "hospitalism" is now attracting the attention of the faculty in the United States. We are told that at Bellevue Hospital, New York, on the authority of a House Surgeon of that Institution, "that in spite of the most careful and "judicious sanitary arrangements, recovery "from an amputation of the thigh for "injury is without the recollection of the "oldest inhabitant." Now this is surely a dreadful state of things, and it is worse when it is said to be attributable to a poisonous state of atmosphere which cannot be got rid of. It may, it is said, be got rid of, in rare instances, by free and prolonged ventilation, scraping, and whitewashing, and re-plastering; but in most instances, nothing short of the demolition of the building will suffice. Bellevue Hospital is, on account of the contagia with which it is infected, to be remodelled or rather reconstructed. The Supervising Surgeon of the United States Marine Hospital Service objects to palatial piles of masonry as Infirmaries because they are too costly to be destroyed, and is in favor of simple pavilions which may be torn down when they become infected with zymotic poisons. His words are these:—"The hospital proper should consist of "pavilions or separate detached buildings "of wood, one story in height preferable, "and of simple architectural design, constructed with the view of destroying "them so soon as the peculiar hospital "diseases, erysipelas, pyæmia, gangrene, "&c., are engendered by the cumulated "miasm of the patients." In Ottawa, a new hospital is being built and not by any means too soon. However kindly the patients in the old hospital may have, been treated by surgeons, steward, matron and others, it was sadly deficient in closets and other conveniences. All the water had to be carried up stairs. A bath could scarcely be obtained. And what was still worse, all the nuisances had to be carried down stairs or be thrown out of the back windows. There has been a deficiency in nurses. One woman or one man cannot do everything, and the consequence is that patient must help patient as best he or she can. Surely this is a lamentable state of things and should be remedied in the new hospital, and we cannot help regretting that Dr. Woodworth's objection to palatial piles of masonry for public hospitals had not been sooner made known. There is ample room on the grounds in which the County of Carleton Protestant Hospital stands, on which to build quite a number of wooden detached hospitals on the plan recommended by Dr. Woodworth, and it might not be amiss, even now, to altogether abandon both the new and old buildings, turning them into museums for specimens of Natural History—Ornithological, Zoological, and Ichthyological—with a view to the edification of the citizens generally, there being nothing of the kind here at present, if the few specimens of fish, flesh, and fowl, contained in the rooms of the Mechanics' Institute, be excepted. There is another decided objection to the site of these hospitals. The windows of all the back rooms look into the four burial grounds, and the gloomy idea of "graves, of worms, and epitaphs," must ever haunt the sick.

That Dr. Woodworth's ideas are not entirely new, may be gathered from Leviticus, XIV, chapter 39th, and subsequent verses, in which are these words:—"If the plague be spread in the walls of the house, and after it has been scraped and plastered, the plague be still spread in the house, the priest shall break down the house, the stones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the mortar of the house, and he shall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place."

"The Reform Episcopal Church is still the all absorbing topic of the day, as you will no doubt see by the telegrams from Ottawa in most of your exchanges. I notice in the New York Sun, and some of the French Canadian papers, that J. B. Steacy, the gentleman said to be excommunicated, (and who, by the way, is a Custom House official), is spoken of as the Rev. Jean Baptiste Steacy, and is no doubt looked upon as a Roman Catholic priest, instead of a Church of England layman. The writer "interviewed" Mr. Steacy, and was assured that he never felt in better health or spirits, and that so far, whether his suspension from the rites of the Church was a threat or a reality, he had not yet felt the least effects from it! Meantime the war of words on the side of the Anglican Church rages. A hot-headed Irishman, styling himself the "Priest of St. Albans," and signing himself "T. Bedford Jones," has taken up the cudgels in favor of the Established Church. I do not suppose his Bishop selected him for the work, for a more half-brained "priest," and one lacking that judgment so eminently required on these occasions, could not be found. His language, both in the pulpit and in the press, was most unseemly, ungentlemanly, and in bad taste. He spoke of Dr. Galagher as a "Yankee adventurer," and used other language quite unbecoming his cloth. To this Mr. Gallagher briefly explained that he was no adventurer, having come here at the request of a Committee of Churchmen. Dr. Jones also spoke very hardly of one of our city newspaper men in his published letter, which brought on his devoted head such a rebuke and expose as I fear will well nigh crush the Dr. out of print for some time to come. Bishop Cummins has been detained from coming in person to Ottawa, owing to the illness of his wife, who has been ordered to go South for change of air by her medical advisers; but he has promised to make his appearance before the approaching session of Parliament closes. In the meantime, some two hundred heads of families have signed their names to the new church roll, and between two and three thousand dollars have been subscribed for the salary of a clergyman, and to commence the erection of a church, which is to be begun at once. A meeting will be held to-night for the selection of a site, and to arrange preliminaries.

RIDEAU.

Ottawa, 10th March, 1874.

THE CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN.

Death of a Canadian.

The Carlists now occupy the principal strongholds of the North of Spain, and every effort of General Morriones to dislodge them from their positions has failed. Not only have they acted on the defensive, but in important engagements they have assumed the offensive and have penetrated into the General's lines. The latter has made frequent applications to the Government at Madrid for reinforcements, but no practical reply has as yet been made. Spain has certainly not got an army. There are troops enough to keep Madrid in order, and to overawe these towns which would feel disposed to renew on a smaller scale the experiment of Cartagena; but no force at present exists capable of taking the field and avenging the numerous defeats sustained by the troops under General Morriones. The successes of the Carlists prove that the Spanish Mountaineers are as true as ever to their traditions for bravery, and the army of the Government which long since went to pieces, has never been put together again in proper form, to overcome the Royalists. Military reorganization is not an easy task with an empty exchequer and with rival and expectant factions striving to render the central power as feeble as possible. If want of money and artillery have seriously impeded, as alleged; the real vigour of the followers of Don Carlos, how much more must the want of these hamper men who cannot rely on each other, and most of whose energy is wasted in guarding against party surprises. The fleet, too, seems to continue as useful in the North as it was in the South, and stormy waters are continually reported as interfering with its operations. On the other hand, grave doubts must be entertained as to whether the successes of the Carlists have been as yet of any decided consequence. Their object is to put down every form of Republicanism in Spain, and to place Don Carlos on the throne of his ancestors. Whether they are any nearer to the goal than they were a year ago is strongly to be suspected. They are fighting in the only one portion of the Spanish territory in which their cause is identical with the affections and traditions of the population, and even their triumphs, achieved under the most disheartening difficulties, which usually beget sympathy, or at least cause it to emerge from its hiding place, have met with almost no response in any other quarter of the country. If Don Carlos is minded to set up as King of the Mountain Provinces of the North, it would doubtless take many years before a Spanish Government would be found strong enough to dislodge him. But a King of Spain who does not get to Madrid is a phantam King, and despite their courage and endurance, there is little hope of seeing the vanquishers of General Morriones reach the capital.

Prominent amongst those devoted to the cause of Don Carlos who fell during the storming of the rocky heights of Manressa, a walled, strongly fortified, and flourishing town, situate thirty miles N.N.W. of Barcelona, was the Chevalier Murray, a native of the Province of Quebec, and a nephew of the Right Rev the Bishop of Kingston, and of Mrs. Moore Higgins of this city. Having successfully completed his studies at the University of Laval, he enrolled himself, about fourteen years ago, in the Papal Zouaves, with whom he served for ten years. At the battle of Mentana, where he was severely wounded, he made himself conspicuous by his gallantry, and was awarded promotion, and the Cross of Chevalier; and after the fatal days of September 1870, when the Papal army was disbanded, Capt. Murray retired into private life. When the war broke out in Spain, he tendered his services to Don Carlos; and in August last sailed from New York to join the Carlist army, with whom, as in the Italian Peninsula, he quickly distinguished himself. His services at Vich brought him prominently forward as one of the most daring officers in the service of the Royalist Chief; and thus he was elected to lead one of the columns that stormed Manressa on the 4th of February last. This stronghold was well garrisoned by the Republican forces, but the assailants, after a hard conflict, succeeded in carrying the heights, and here the brave Captain Murray fell, shot through the breast in the moment of victory. In him Don Carlos has lost an honest and faithful adherent, and a brave and experienced officer.—COM.

Book Notices.

A Canadian Political Coin—A Monograph—by William Kingsford, Esq., Ottawa—E. A. Perry, 1874.

Although this exceedingly well written and very instructive chapter on the History of Canada has been in our possession for some time, its close perusal, until yesterday, had been entirely overlooked. Mr. Kingsford's chapter is, indeed, the history of Sir James Craig's rule. Sir James, one of the most obstinate and despotic of rulers, was one of the best of soldiers and one of the most honest among men. But he ruled Canada at a time when the true principles of Constitutional Government were not at all understood by the legislators themselves, and antagonism between the two Houses of Parliament were frequent, while the Executive, the tool of presuming and entirely irresponsible advisers, was himself too often personally opposed to all semblance of Reform. It appears that so much was Sir James Craig detested, and certainly not without cause, by the Liberal party of Lower Canada that a copper coin of the value probably of a cent was struck to perpetuate the feeling about the time of his departure from the Province. On the obverse of this rudely executed coin, there is a profile bust surrounded with "Vexator Canadensis"—the torment or pest of Canada, and on the other that of a female figure dancing—"Non illos Vis capere"—Don't you wish you may catch them? Mr. Kingsford says:

"Craig committed great faults, but he possessed great qualities. The prompting motive of his life was duty. And yet it is to such a character that an obscure, unknown personage, on a rude, half-legible coin, has applied the reproach of being 'Vexator Canadiensis,' to be remembered so long as Numismatics remain a science. The perpetrator little foresaw the immortality he was conveying, and the extent to which the challenge would be answered. For we believe, that when the history of Canada comes to be written, as the duty has yet to be performed by men free from prejudice, and removed from the active influences which bewilder and pervert judgment, Craig, with all his errors, will stand forth as no unpleasing portrait. His will be held to be a character which many would do well to imitate—in his generosity, his honesty, his courage and his gentleness."

FROM MESSRS DURIE & SON, the Leonard Scott Publishing Co's. reprint of the London Quarterly Review for January has just reached us. It is rather late this quarter, but none the less noticeable on that account. The epithet 'ponderous,' frequently applied by some to Quarterly Reviews, is certainly not a fitting one for this number, which is filled with articles of universal interest.

No less than three biographical sketches arrest the attention as we turn over the pages. Winckelman's History of Ancient Art has long been a standard authority; but few have known the career of the author, as given in the pages of the Review—painful in its outset, tragical to its close. In a review of 'The Personal Recollections' of Mrs. Somerville, we have the outline of another life, one of repose and peace, contrasting strongly with the troubled story of the other. The little Scotch lassie, whose parents thought one year's schooling when she was ten years old would fit her for her work in life, had a love for study which could not be repressed by the great discouragements which attend her early years. It has been well remarked, "We shall never certainly know, although it may be that hereafter we shall be able to guess, what Science lost through the all but utter neglect of the unusual powers of her mind." No department of mathematical research was beyond her powers. It is unnecessary to recapitulate Mrs. Somerville's works; they are too well known. We content ourselves with a glimpse at the writer. "Her head was rather smaller than those of other women of her moderate height, and the impression which its form conveyed was that of extreme delicacy of feeling, and elevation of character than of power. Head, countenance, figure, manners, all were in perfect harmony with the gentle, intelligent, well bred lady, who talked so pleasantly in society, painted such pretty pictures, touched the piano with such taste, and worked such lovely embroidery."

John Stuart Mill is the subject of another biographical article, in which the development of his mind is illustrated by reference to the works produced at the different stages of his career.

Other articles are 'Simplification of the Law,' 'Sacerdotalism, Ancient and Modern,' treating on the history and growth of Protestant confessions, and other ritualistic observances; 'Lombard Street,' showing the importance of the Cash Reserve of the banking department of the Bank of England, as the ultimate safety-fund of the English mercantile system; 'The Despotism of the Future,' of universal interest in these days when the labor question is being agitated all over the world; 'Prosper Merimee's Lettres a une Inconnue,' which have created such an extraordinary sensation in Paris; 'Russian Songs and Folk-Tales,' illustrating Sclavonic Mythology and Russian Social Life; and 'The Difficulties of the Liberal Party.'

If we have not dwelt at length upon all the articles in this number, it is because our space fails us. Every one is worth reading.

CITY AND VICINITY

ASSIZES. The Court of Assize and Nisi Prius will open in the Court House this morning, at 10 o'clock, His Lordship Justice Galt presiding.

POSTAL CHANGES.—The attention of our readers is directed to the Spring change in the Post Office Advertisement in another column.

ORGANIZING.—The Reformers of the South Riding of Lanark met on the 26th inst., at the Music Hall, Perth, for the purpose of organizing a Reform Association.

TEMPERANCE INFLUENCE.—The hotel keepers of Smith's Falls have signed bonds required of them, and given security to the tune of $400. that they will strictly observe the provisions of the law.

MINING.—Extensive mining operations will be carried on this summer in North Burgess. A large amount of machinery has been purchased for raising phosphate. The Superintendent is Mr. B. Anthony.

PERSONAL.—Mr. D. J. O'Donaghue, M.P.P., for Ottawa, was in Montreal yesterday for the purpose of conferring with representatives of the different branches of labor on matters connected with the Canada Labor League.

GRAND CONCERT.—A grand concert takes place, in Gowan's Opera House, to-night, it being a complimentary benefit, by his friends, to Prof. Mills, organist of Christ's Church. The best vocal and instrumental talent of the city is promised for the occasion.

IRON MANUFACTURERS.—A meeting of all those interested in the Iron Manufacture will be held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Russell House, for a re-adjustment of the tariff, and to take such other steps as may be necessary to lay their case before the Legislature.

O. B. G. ARTILLERY.—A parade of this corps takes place in the drill shed this evening to select a Guard of Honor for the opening of the House on Thursday. Artillerymen stand to your guns, and let not the fair name of your corps be tarnished by a neglect to turn out in full force.

G. G. F. GUARDS.—The Concert of this favorite corps is going to be the great success of the season. Over one hundred reserved seats were taken yesterday. Dr. Newell, the celebrated vocalist of Ogdensburgh, will appear in his two great songs, 'The Wanderer,' and 'The White Squall.' We predict a bumper house.

PENNY READINGS.—The last entertainment of the season in connection with the Penny Readings will take place in the Temperance Hall, Rideau street, this (Tuesday) evening. A very attractive programme has been prepared, some of the best singers in the city will be present and assist in carrying it out. The Independent Cornet Band will be in attendance.

NEW REGISTRY OFFICE.—An arrangement has been come to between the Committees appointed by the Town and Counties' Council, that the Town of Brockville shall pay to the Counties' Council for the new Registry Office and improvements on the gaol, $2,500; for administration of justice, $1,100 a year. It has also been arranged that Prescott shall pay as her proportion one-third of the above amount.

GOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.—To-morrow night, Gowan's Opera House, will be a great centre of attraction, owing to the appearance there of James Taylor, the champion comique and a talented troupe of artists. The Taylor-Comique Opera Company has been travelling in the West, and is highly spoken of by the press in the different localities visited. All who wish to spend a pleasant evening let them patronize the performance of the Taylor-Comique Opera Company, in Gowan's Opera House, to-morrow night.

Y. M. C. A.—The subscriptions to the funds of this estimable and deserving association have reached the sum of $800. The association is one that ought to commend itself to every Christian denomination, and in order to make it truly effective should have at least $4,000 in funds. A conveniently located and commodious hall, with library, reading room, and lecture-room, and a paid secretary is urgently needed, and we hope to see the subscriptions reach the amount required. Subscriptions are coming in fast varying from $10 to $100 each.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL.—After the close of the services in the Court House on Sunday, several names were added to the membership roll of the Reformed Episcopal Church, and the subscription list largely increased. A Sunday School in connection with the same was opened in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Some seventy-five pupils and teachers were present, many of the latter being old teachers in the Church of England Sabbath Schools. Rev. M. Gallagher conducted the services, and Mr. Henry Alexander was chosen Superintendent.

FASHIONABLE TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT.—A visit to the fashionable tailoring establishment of Messrs. T. & G. Lawrence, just now, is well repaid, in examining their fine new stock of cloths, being recent importations from European markets. They comprise all the novelties to be found; in addition to cloths, they have also open to inspection an endless variety of haberdashery, consisting of shirts, collars, cuffs, ties, &c. If you desire a good suit of clothes, in the latest style and fashion, and a good fit, just call on T. Lawrence, No. 76, Sparks street. The place is easily distinguished by the tree laden with haberdashery in the window.

ANNIE DE MONTFORD.—This talented lady, who has for weeks past been drawing thousands to witness her great feats in Mesmerism, in Toronto and other cities in the West, purposes holding a series of entertainments in this city, commencing Thursday night, the 26th inst., in Gowan's Opera House. The following extract from the Toronto Globe will give our readers a faint idea of the extraordinary powers of this woman:—"Few students of the mysteries of mesmerism and electro-biology are so successful as Annie de Montford, an English lady, who is at present entertaining large audiences at St. Lawrence Hall. Last night the experiments were repeated, and the attended phenomena elicited no end of interest and fun. One of the subjects, a young man who was mesmerised, while standing in the audience in the rear part of the hall, was led to believe himself Sir John Macdonald. He at once proceeded to address the 'electors' on the political situation in a manner that caused great amusement. Amongst his utterances, the characteristic sentiments, "It's die dog or eat the hatchet—if this don't work we're gone up," spoken with profound earnestness, was received with extraordinary applause. The audience was highly respectable and intelligent."

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

JAMES CONNOLLY LOSES $60.

Johnny Phillips Accused of the Theft.

The Police Court was the scene of considerable excitement yesterday, owing to the arraignment of Johnny Phillips on the charge of robbing James Connolly, a noted sportsman of $60 in Mr. James Bourget's Saloon, Sapper's Bridge, on Friday last. It seems that Mr. Connolly had drawn in the early part of the day $240 in $20 bills, from the Bank of British North America, and afterwards cashed a cheque in $4 bills to the extent of $400 at Mr. Pennock's Exchange Office. He next proceeded to Bourget's Saloon, where he met several other well known sports, upon whom he called to have a drink. In paying for the drinks, he pulled a roll of bills out of his pocket, from which he took the amount necessary for that purpose. He afterwards put them in his pocket, when the prisoner desired to count them. He let the prisoner count the bills, after which he again returned the roll to his pocket. He then got a drink from Phillips that stupefied him. Phillips then thrust his hand into his breast pocket, and took the bills out again, and after abstracting three $20 bills, put them back in Connolly's pocket. Phillips next called for a cab and asked Connolly to go home. He went home accompanied by a young man named Preston. When he got home he found $60 of his money missing. Next morning he went back to Bourget's, and demanded the money from Phillips. The prisoner told him to leave, stating at the same time that no person there had his money.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Gibb, he stated that he had but taken two glasses. He stated that in addition to Messrs. Brown and Preston first in the bar, Messrs. Thos. Russell and Joseph Smith had come in. He remembered talking with Preston and Brown, and of saying to Phillips, while he held on to the bills, "Hold on Johnny, I'm able to take care of that." He did not discover that the money was lost until his wife and another young woman had counted it at the house. He then counted it himself and found three $20 bills missing.

The case was remanded till this morning to allow time for the summoning of other witnesses.

Young Men's Christian Association.

In accordance with the announcement made on Sunday in some of the city pulpits a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held in their rooms last night to hear an address from Mr. Claxton, President of the Y. M. C. A. of Montreal. The chair was occupied by Mr. Topley, President of the Ottawa Y. M. C. Association.

Amongst those present we observed the Rev. Messrs. Cameron, Pope, Sanderson and other of our leading citizens. The meeting was numerously attended by both ladies and gentlemen, notwithstanding that the Tract Society detracted much from the attendance.

The Rev. Mr. Cameron opened the proceedings with reading a passage of Scripture and prayer.

The chairman by way of introduction expressed his regret at not having had a better opportunity of giving a longer notice in order that a much larger audience would have greeted Mr. Claxton. He, however, was glad to welcome him, and trusted that in relating his experience, the young men of Ottawa would learn a lesson that would benefit them in the advancement of their own Association whose aim and objects were the same as the sister institution in Montreal. He then introduced Mr. Claxton to the audience.

Mr. Claxton on coming forward, offered an apology for not sooner letting his friends know of his intention to visit Ottawa; but he might say that on Friday night he had not the least intention of coming, and as soon as he found out on Saturday that he was coming, he telegraphed to that effect. He, however, was pleased with the meeting, as he enjoyed to a far greater extent small meetings, such as the present, better than large public meetings. He looked back with pleasure upon the inception of the Y. M. C. A. in the city of Montreal. He owed his position in life in many ways, even in a business point of view, to his connection with this Association. He spoke in warm terms of Mr. Radford, now of Ottawa, but formerly of the same Association in Montreal. They had lost in him an active member, but if so he trusted this would be to the young men of Ottawa a gain. He next adverted to the formation of the first Y. M. C. A. in Montreal, some twenty-three years ago. He stated that two or three had waited upon the different pastors of the city churches, and they had deputed two young men from their respective congregations, and these meeting together formed the first neucleus of a Y. M. C. A. in Montreal. He then went fully into a description of the new Association Hall in Montreal, gave an account of its management, and attributed much of their success to having a paid Secretary in their institution. He stated that they had a membership comprising the names of 1,500 young men. 300 volumes as a neucleus to a library intended to be increased to 3,000 volumes and a news room, not excelled by any other in Canada. He next detailed the duties of the Association, subdividing it into the different Committees with the respective duties assigned each, and spoke in exulting terms of the great work that they had accomplished. He next referred to the fact that such institutions, as was the case in everything else, required money for their proper sustenance and unless public sympathy in this direction could be enlisted they could not succeed. It cost them $2,500 per annum in the past to work their institution in Montreal, and he was of the opinion that a much larger sum would be necessary in the future. He thought Ottawa could afford at least $1,500 a year in support of such a worthy object, and he trusted the young men of Ottawa would bestir themselves and raise that amount for the present year. He concluded one of the most practical addresses we have ever heard, by again expressing his pleasure at being present, and hoped that if any of them ever visited the little village of Montreal that they would avail themselves of an invitation that he now extended them, to go and see the institution there. He trusted all would seek the aid of God's Holy Spirit to bless them in their exertions on behalf of the young men of this great Dominion of Canada. (Applause.)

A hymn was then sung, after which several gentlemen expressed their pleasure at listening to the excellent address of Mr. Claxton.

Acting on a suggestion thrown out by Mr. Radford the remainder of the evening was spent in pleasant conversation, and tea, coffee and cakes were handed around by the young men.

The Ottawa Tract Society.

A meeting in connection with the above Society, was held last evening at Knox Church. The attendance was not very large. The chair was occupied by Mr. J. Johnston, Assistant Commissioner of Customs; and we noticed on the platform the Rev Messrs. Gordon, Hunter, Gallagher, Mackenzie, Gavin, Young and [illegible] ron. After the singing of the hymn, the chairman said he regretted the attendance was so small, but this was to be attributed to the fact that another meeting, that of the Young Men's Association, which had very laudable objects in view, was being held elsewhere. He did not feel disposed to enter into a regular address, as the whole of the evening would barely suffice for other speakers. It was frequently urged in other public meetings, that these subjects had grown old and that nothing now remained to be said in their favor, but speakers had before them to-night a wide field, for the subject of the Ottawa Tract Society was broached, he might say, for the first time to-night.

Rev. Mr. Gavin then read the second annual report of the Society, which dealt with the number of tracts distributed, their mode of distribution, and the financial state of the Society.

The Rev. Mr. Gallagher then moved the adoption of the report, and that the following constitute the Society for the ensuing year, viz:—James Johnson, Esq., President; Messrs. May, Thorburn, Mutchmor, and Elliott, Vice-Presidents; J. McKinnon, Secretary; Mr. Jenkins, Treasurer; Mr. Henderson, Depositary, all the resident pastors, and some others subscribing to the society's funds, to be members of the committee. He told his audience that they had in the United States a society similar to this, and based on the same principles as the London Tract Society. He was glad to say that they could prove to the world that, although divided in names and denominations, they were all united in upholding and proclaiming the saving truths. He referred to the number of conversions which had been wrought by one book written long since in England by the Rev. Mr. Symons, a clergyman of the Church of England, to which church he himself had belonged for thirty years, and to a tract written by Bishop McIlvaine, who was the first President of the Tract Society in the States, to illustrate the amount of good which might be accomplished by the Society, which delivered tracts in Ottawa for three pence per pound. One of the staunchest friends of the Society was the Reformed Episcopal Church. The dam which had been erected around the Church of England would shortly be cut, and there would be but one great Protestant Church. The heads of the Church of England would do well to ponder over these words of the Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Tait) which constantly recurred to him: "Brethren, I am not making condescending concession in coming amongst you. I am but a fellow-laborer and a fellow-servant of the Gospel, and anything I can do to promote our common purpose I shall gladly attempt. Brethren, our love must be reciprocal. You, as non-conformists, must occupy, in common service, the pulpits of the Episcopal Church. You will be welcomed and honored for Christ's sake. I need say no more."

Rev. Mr. Gordon briefly seconded the motion. He did so in a formal manner, as they wanted to hear the speakers of the evening. He felt himself in perfect accord with the sentiments expressed by those who preceded him.

The Rev. Mr. Hunter next rose. He said that for some time past, he had been preaching five and six times a week and had not had sufficient time to prepare for the subject he undertook to treat this evening. He told an amusing anecdote of a young clergyman, who having lost the thread of his discourse, informed his audience that he would quote from a "living author," and who forthwith coolly produced the manuscript of his sermon, and read it. With their permission, he would beg leave to be allowed to read from his notes as occasion might require it. Job wished for the printing-press, or something of the sort when he said, "Oh that they were printed in a book, that they were graven with an iron pen and lead in the rock for ever." Those were the days of written manuscripts and tardy communications, when important thoughts only reached a few minds. Job had such a noble testimony to give, "I know that my Redeemer liveth," &c., that he wished it should be printed, in order that all succeeding generations might share in the glorious hope that animated him in the prospect of death. Prior to the invention of printing, written matter was costly and rare. Plato purchased three books at $1,200 of our money. Even the Oxford library at the close of the thirteenth century, consisted solely of tracts preserved in boxes; there being neither book case nor binding. In those days an order for works was given by the measure, thus "I want six feet of Theology, a similar quantity of Metaphysis, and a yard of old Civil Law." In our day a copy of the Word of God might be purchased for 25 cents, and the productions of the greatest authors were accessible to all. The printing press had laid before us the riches of literature, ancient and modern. In this age of steam, electricity and railroads, literature was studied more in the press, daily and weekly, than in any other form. The influence of the press for good or for evil, was the greatest in the world. As a rule, the press of the Dominion of Canada was high toned. There is not a paper in the Dominion which does not lie, or err sometimes in discussing questions of a political nature, but leaving out the vexed question of politics, it was sound. It was much to be regretted that in discussing the lines of great political men, one side could see nothing but venality and corruption in the other. This state of things prevented sensitive young men of intellect from entering the arena of politics. The man who can get a newspaper for two cents a day, or five dollars a year, and does not take it, commits a grievous wrong on his family, and has a small mean heart. When the editor of a paper, who preaches truth and honesty, admits a blunder or falsehood into the columns of his paper, he repeats the slander or falsehoods to tens of thousands of families. He knew of no class of men, except the minister of the gospel, who worked harder and received less remuneration than newspaper men. Many of them go unwept and unappreciated to premature graves, to have the proof-sheet of their lives corrected by Divine Mercy; glad at last to escape the perpetual annoyance of a fault-finding public, and the restless importunity for more copy. Our church liturgy, printed or verbal, should have a prayer added to it for all editorials and writers for newspapers and periodicals, which exercised over the community at large an influence which cannot be estimated. How shall we repay the debt of gratitude we owe to the martyrs, and others of the past. By imbibing their spirit and imitating their example, which is handed down to us by the printing press. It was the mind of Voltaire that caused all Europe with its infidelity, made the Americans tremble, and travelled all round the world by the medium of the press. What a harvest of damnation such a man would reap in the next world. They should not imagine that only the great authors leave their impress on men's minds. Such impress might be left by a tract handed casually in the street, and the man who worked out such a result was greater than he who had a conquering host.

After the singing of a hymn,

Rev. Mr. Mackenzie addressed the meeting; the topic assigned to him was rather undefined, and he prepared to speak of religious literature. A book had been defined as brains preserved in ink and preserved among men to bring good or evil. He alluded at length to the objects and operations of the Tract Society.

A collection was then taken up, after which the doxology was sung, and the blessing was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Cameron. The meeting then adjourned.

TORONTO.

Local Legislature.

TORONTO, March, 23.

The Speaker took the chair at 11.15.

Mr. McManus complained of the inaccuracy of the Mail's report of Saturday's proceedings, which attributed the motion of another member to him, and made him appear guilty of the inconsistency of voting against his own amendment.

The Attorney General in reference to the boundary question, moved that the House approve of the reference of the question of the Western Boundary of this Province to arbitration or the Privy Council, according as the Lieutenant Governor in Council may see fit, and approve of the adoption of a provisional line in the meantime on such terms as may be agreed upon between the Dominion Government and the Government of the Province—Carried.

The bill to provide for the better government of that portion of the Province in the vicinity of the Falls of Niagara, was amended in Committee, read a third time and passed.

The bill to amend the bill respecting the municipal institutions of the Province of Ontario was concurred in.

On motion for the third reading, Mr. Rykert moved in amendment that the Bill be sent back to committee, to introduce a clause providing for the establishment of a Board of Police Commissioners. Lost, yeas 7, nays 29. The Bill was read the third time and passed.

Several private Bills were read the third time and passed.

The House adjourned at 1:30.

AFTER RECESS.

The Speaker took the Chair at 2:45.

The Bill respecting Attachment of Wages of Mechanics and others, by Mr. Meredith, passed through Committee, and was read the third time and passed.

On motion to resume the debate, on Mr. Rykert's resolution, respecting the Municipal Loan Act of 1873, the Speaker moved that as the variations proposed by the resolution moved by Mr. Rykert, would be out of order if proposed in the Bill, they were out of order now.

The Bill respecting allowances to Sureties Executors and Administrators by Mr. Bell was passed through Committee, was read the third time and passed.

The Bill to prevent fraud and fraudulent practices upon or by hotel keepers, tavern keepers and others, by Mr. Meredith, was passed through committe; read the third time and passed.

Mr Laud r moved for all papers and documents connected with the drainage works.

The House then adjourned till 3 o'clock to morrow, then to be prorogued.

City News.

The Sun appears this evening enlarged to double its former size, under its new management. It is understood that it has been purchased by stock holders in the Northern Railway, who are opposed to the policy of Mr. Cumberland, the Managing Director.

After several vexatious delays caused by the factious conduct of the Opposition, the Local Legislature is at last closed. Prorogation takes place to-morrow at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Wallace late M. P. for South Norfolk, is in the city.

Work has been commenced on the new Custom House.

The number of Bills passed this Session is 92, the greater number being private.

Hon. Geo. Brown left to-day for Washington, for the purpose of negotiating removal of reciprocal trade relations with the United States.

QUEBEC.

Action of City Council—The Late Mail Sleigh Accident.

QUEBEC, March 21.

The City Council, after a long debate, decided to refuse permission to the Laval University to erect a lying-in-hospital on the battery.

Mr. Ancil, the mail conductor who was on the mail sleigh when the accident occurred on the ice a few days ago, makes the following statement:—"The accident occurred about two arpents (two acres) on the other side of the Levis toll bar, upon the road leading from Levis to the Grand Trunk; the carter was driving at a rapid pace in the direction opposite to the mail sleigh, when it came into collision with it. Poitras, who was driving the mail sleigh horses, seeing the carter approach so rapidly called out to him, but at the same moment the carter's horse struck one of the mail sleigh horses, knocking him down and breaking the harness. The carter then continued on his journey, without a moment's delay. Poitras, at the time, was driving his horses at an ordinary trot, and was on the right side of the road, and the unfortunate man who was wounded by this collision can only blame for it his own imprudence. It was impossible for us to give the man any assistance, in as much as he did not stop for a moment, but on the contrary, kept on his way at a rapid pace. Seeing him run away from us, I thought he was under the impression that he had committed damage, and called out to the toll bar-keeper to stop him." Davidson, the man injured, is reported a little better this morning, but not yet out of danger.

HALIFAX.

Burned to Death—Damage caused by High Tides.

HALIFAX, March 21.

Mr. Jones, a well known pedlar, was burned to death, with $1 500 worth of his goods.

People in this vicinity were a good deal frightened about the tides and storms predicted in this locality for yesterday; although the tide and wind in Halifax was nothing unusual, a very high tide visited the bay of Fundy, doing considerable damage to the dykes &c., about Kings and Hants counties, and carrying away a portion of the railway wharf at Windsor. The trains yesterday were delayed in consequence of damage to the track. Had the wind been in a different direction the damage would have been much greater.

The electric fire alarm telegraph recently constructed by Messrs. Gamewell & Co., of New York, was inaugurated in Halifax to-day.

In the House of Assembly yesterday afternoon a resolution was passed, requesting the Dominion Government to remove all doubt respecting the Nova Scotia subsidy by procuring the passage of an Act to place beyond all question the right of Nova Scotia to the extra $10,000 per annum.

Prohibitory League.

MERRICKVILLE, March 21.

A very successful and enthusiastic meeting was held here last evening for the purpose of organizing a local prohibitory league. The Rev. C. Forest, M. A., was called to the chair. Rev. E. McLaren, offered a prayer, after which Mr. H. S. Watson, explained the manner of organizing a league, after which forty names, including those of the leading men of the place, were enrolled as members. A constitution was adopted, and the following gentlemen were elected to act as officers of the league:—President, Mr. W. H. Magee, Secretary; Mr. Edward Pratt, Treasurer; Mr. Thos. Wood, Committee; Rev. W. Sheridan and H. S. McLaren, and Messrs. J. McEwan, J. Meikle, G. Belt, and W. McDonnell.

ENGLAND.

The Fenian Prisoners—Ovation—Expenses of the War—Sailing Tracks—Failure—Soft Sawder.

LONDON, March 21.—Mr. Disraeli, today, refused to receive a deputation which came to ask for the release of the incarcerated Fenians.

General Woleselay reached this city this city this afternoon. Upon alighting from the train at the Waterloo station he was met with a perfect ovation from the dense mass of people.

In the House of Commons to-day the Bill appropriating four million dollars for expenses of the Ashantee expedition was passed.

Mr. Anderson gave notice that on Monday next he would ask Government whether it was willing to co-operate with the Government of the United States in fixing sailing tracks for vessels crossing the Atlantic between the two countries.

A special to the Standard from Santander says the first movement of the Government troops for the relief of Bilboa was a failure, as it was found impossible to effect a landing, and the expedition returned to Santana.

On Saturday seventy journalists went on an excursion in the American palace cars, and the papers this morning, contain flattering comments on the American institutions.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers

POND'S EXTRACT

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now.' H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes —"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, ENLARGEment of the Glands of the Neck, Eruptions of the Skin, Spinal Disease, Torpid Liver with constipation and head aches, Irritation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Nervous Prostration and General Debility, all depend upon depraved nutrition and impoverished blood arising from indigestion. Dr Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya immediately reaches the primary cause of these diseases, Dyspepsia, and enables the stomach to completely digest and assimilate a sufficient quantity of nourishment to build up the tissues.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

ST AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS,

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuiness, purity, and uniform strength re ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption, its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brwn Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 10 cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE

PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here, and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent People in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for subscription to these the LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order, F. BRAUN, Secretary.

NOTICE

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT, Ottawa, 5th March, 1874.

Notice is hereby given that His Excellency, the Governor General, by an Order in Council, bearing date the 2nd instant, and under the authority vested in him by the 4th Section of the Customs Act 31st Victoria, Cap. 6, to approve of the following interpretations in relation to the admission of "Seine Twine" and "Boot felt," viz:

"Fish hooks, net and seines, lines and twines, shall from that date be taken to mean fish hooks, fishing nets and seines, and fishing lines and twines and no other, and that it will be competent for the Collector at any Port of Entry at which such goods are imported, to call upon the importer to make oath to the fact that such nets, seines, lines and twines are so imported for fishing purposes only before passing a free entry of such goods.

"Felt for Hats and Boots:"

The exemption under this head of the Tariff—Schedule C., is considered to extend, and shall hereafter extend, to an article called "Patent felt," imported for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

By Command, R. S. M. BOUCHETTE, Commissioner of Customs.

CLARKE'S

WORLD FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE

Trade Mark—"BLOOD MIXTURE."

The Great Blood Purifier and Restorer

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases and sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It cures old sores,
Cures ulcerated sores on the neck,
Cures ulcerated sore legs,
Cures blackheads, or pimples on the face,
Cures scurvy sores,
Cures cancerous ulcers,
Cures blood and skin diseases,
Cures glandular swellings,
Clears the blood from all impure matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of testimonials from all parts.

Sold in bottles 2s 3d each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases, by all chemists and patent medicine vendors throughout the world.

Insurance Company.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

CAPITAL . . . £2,000,000 Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this to its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life Insurance, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who may wish to insure for the benefit of their families for a large amount, but whose present income, though amply sufficient to maintain their position, will not admit of the payment of high premiums, are enabled to secure a policy, and cannot afford premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same premium as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus. Tables and all other information can be had at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

Odds and Ends.

An observant old lady says that 'no other living thing can go slow as a boy on an errand.'

A Southern editor offers to name his first baby after the person who pays the longest subscription in advance.

'Oh, George, your sister is a nice girl, but she does dress head up so.' 'Yes,' said George, 'but it is the fashion; there's nothing in it, you know.'

Many a man thinks it's virtue that keeps him from turning a rascal when it's only a full stomach. One should be careful, and not underlake potatoes for principles.

Douglas Jerrold, describing a very dangerous illness from which he had just recovered, said—'Ay, sir, it was a runaway knock at Death's door, I can assure you.'

Mr. Jones carries his money in his hat, and the other day when he saw the entire supply going off on the winds of heaven, he bitterly remarked, 'That's what you get with your infernal inflation.'

Several Irishmen were disputing one day upon their own best points, when one said in an aggressive manner, 'Faith, and I'm a brick.' 'And, indade,' said another, 'I'm a bricklayer,' and felled the first speaker to the ground.

John Prentice, the grave-digger at Carnwath, had a pleasant soliloquy, which he frequently used on hearing of the death of any person. 'Hech how, man!' he would say, 'a poor——dead! Dear me, I would rather it had been ony ither twa.'

'Don't prevaricate, sir,' thundered a Columbian Judge to a witness from the mines—'don't prevaricate, sir!' 'Can't help it, judge,' answered the miner. 'Ever since I got a kick from a mule, that knocked my teeth out, I prevaricate a good deal.'

A tutor of a college, lecturing a young man on his irregular conduct, added with great pathos, 'The report of your vices will bring your father's grey hairs with sorrow to the grave.' 'I beg your pardon, sir,' replied the pupil, 'my father wears a wig.'

'I see,' said the young lady, 'that some printers advertise blank declarations for sale; I wish I could get one.' 'Why?' asked the mother. 'Because, ma, Mr. G—— is too modest to ask me to marry him; and, perhaps, if I should fill up a blank declaration, he would sign it.'

'Hi! where did yez get them trousers?' asked an Irishman of a man who happened to be passing with a pair of remarkably short trousers on. 'I got them where they grew,' was the indignant reply. 'Then, by my conscience,' said Paddy, 'you've pulled them a year too soon!'

A New York gentleman, who had tarried late at a wine supper, found his wife for him in a high state of nervousness. Said she, 'Here I've been waiting and rocking in the chair till my head spins round like a top!' 'Jes so, wife, I've been,' responded he; 'its in the atmosphere?'

We once heard a traveller at a hotel, who rose from his bed at night to examine the weather; but, instead of looking out on the sky, thrust his head through the glass window on a cupboard. 'Bless me,' he muttered, 'this is very singular weather. The night is as dark as pitch, and smells of cheese.'

Hint to an M. P.—When Sir George Sinclair was chosen Member of Parliament for his native county, a man came up to him and said:—'Noo, Maister George, I'll give ye some advice. They've made ye a Parliament man, and my advice to ye is, be ye aye tak takin' what ye can get, and aye seekin' until ye get mair.'

Ole Bull was once seeing the rights at Donnybrook Fair, when he was attracted by the sound of a very loud violin in a tent. He entered and said to the player:—'My good friend, do you play by note?' 'The deuce a note, Sur.' 'Do you play by ear then?' 'Niver an ear, yer honor.' 'How do you play then?' 'Be main strength, be jabers.'

A very efficient and serviceable arrangement for removing organic or other impurities from drinking water is that devised by Prof. G. Bischof, of Glasgow, which consists essentially in filtering the water through spongy iron and pounded limestone. The iron is placed in the upper chamber of an earthenware filter, and powdered limestone is arranged in a separate layer below. Thirty cents will purchase enough of the material to filter ten gallons a day for two hundred days.

SCIENTIFIC AND MECHANICAL.

Steel bars, which produce a very pure, distinct and melodious sound, are in some measure supplanting church bells in Germany.

Seth Green, the great fish culturist and New York State Commissioner for stocking streams, now proposes frog culture for food.

The combustion of one pound of coal in one minute is productive of a force equal to the work of three hundred horses during the same time.

The Dudley Mining Institute, England, offer a prize of £100 for the best model of a hand coal cutting machine submitted to the Council next June.

The eucalyptus, or Australian fever tree, is already extensively planted in California for timber and fuel. As a shade tree, it is entirely free from insects, and the leaves are a thorough protection from moths.

A new flooring cloth has been invented in England. It is composed of pure vegetable oil prepared by a patent process, mixed with ground cork, and rolled on a strong backing of water-proof canvas. The new cloth is said to be warm, soft, damp proof, and elastic.

In a French industrial establishment, employing 630 men, chiefly vegetarians, the sick fund was constantly in debt. By the introduction of meat into the food of the men, the average loss of time per man, on account of illness or fatigue, was reduced from 15 to 3 days per annum.

NEW HOUSES.—The coincidence of a man's moving into a new house, and dying soon after, has frequently been a subject of remark, and there is an avoidable cause—the house is moved into, before the walls and plaster and the wood are sufficiently dried. Sometimes the cause of death, says Hall's Journal of Health, is the poisonous character of the water conveyed through new lead pipes. No water for drinking or cooking purposes should be used in a building supplied with new lead pipes, in whole or in part, for at least one month after the water has been used daily; this gives time for a protecting coating to form on the inner surface of the pipes, when their chemical change from contact with water generally ceases. But the damp materials of the house have the most decided effect, especially on persons over fifty years old or of frail constitutions; whereas if the person were in full vigor of life and health, not even an inconvenience would be experienced. In building a new house, or on going to live in another locality where the water supply is not far from the house, it should be ascertained, with the utmost certainty that the spring or well is higher than the privies or barnyards. Insidious and fatal forms of decline and typhoid very often result from persons drinking water which is drained from the localities named. The safest plan, and the only safe plan, for furnishing dwellings with the most healthful and unobjectionable water, is to have a water-tight cistern, and let the water from the roof of the house, or barn, or other outhouses, be conveyed into it through a box of sand several yards long, this box to rest on a board, or cemented bottom and sides, so that no outside water could get into it.

The Ottawa Times

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1874.

Mr. J. D. Edgar, the Canadian Commissioner, has arrived in British Columbia.

Justice Galt, of Toronto, arrived in the city yesterday, and is staying at the Albion Hotel.

To-day being the festival of the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary, and a statutory holiday, the Public Departments will be closed.

A deputation waited upon the Premier yesterday, with a strong protest against the protective policy lately urged upon the Government.

The following members of Parliament arrived in the city yesterday:—The Hon A. DeCosmos, Hon, A. J. Macdonald Messrs. E. Dewdney, James Cunningham, T. J. Roscoe, S. F. Perry, John Costigan N. Pettes and P. White. Hon. J. Clarke, M. P. P., Manitoba, is also in town.

Hon. Mr. DeCosmos, accompanied by several other parliamentary representatives from the Pacific slope, reached town yesterday. Mr. DeCosmos is looking remarkably well on the strength, we presume, of his recent victory over the "ex-H. B. C." and the other Victoria conspirators. We are well pleased to see the senior member for Victoria once more amongst us.

HOME RULE MOVEMENT.

The Home Rule party in the British House of Commons were not long in bringing the question with which they have particularly identified themselves, before the Speaker. Mr. Butt judged the discussion of the address an opportune moment for stating his case and testing the feeling of the people's House in regard to it. The amendment he proposed was couched in general terms, its propositions not being directed specially against either of the great political parties, and therefore not of a character to give either serious offence. He asked for an acknowledgment of Irish dissatisfaction with the present system of Government, and a declaration that it was the duty of Parliament to consider speedily the means of removing such discontent. He went on to say that the Irish wished for the right of managing their local affairs, leaving to Parliament the control of supreme matters; and he supported this demand with the charge that the Government of Ireland was based on distrust. The succeeding statement attributed to Doctor Butt will surprise some people—namely, that the Irish people asked the new Prime Minister not for immediate home rule, but for a complete policy of reconciliation. There may have been some mistake made by the Press Reporter in summarising Dr. Butt's remarks, or by the telegraph people in transmitting the message, for there is an apparent inconsistency in the above sentence. The home rulers have held that a separate government would meet all Irish wants, and remove all causes of difference between Great Britain and Ireland; and, as to the time for this reform, many of them at least have advocated its immediate concession, as a boon of great value that could not come too soon. The strength of the party in Ireland may be judged not only from the fact of its large numerical representation in the House of Commons, but the social standing and influence of not a few of Dr Butt's followers. For instance, the Lord Mayor of Dublin supported the amendment, as did also Lord Montague, Sir George Bowyer and Mr. Johnston—we presume the Orange Leader, now of Belfast, and formerly of Ballykilbeg. If the latter be a separatist, as to local affairs, we have evidence of a surprising change in Irish Protestant opinion. This element has hitherto proved itself more English than the English themselves in all matters pertaining to the strengthening of British rule and institutions in Ireland. The word "Orangeism" has been a synonym for true blue loyalty to England under all circumstances, and no body of men could have manifested, hitherto, more hostility to the thought of even partial separation from British rule than the members of this order. Nothing could have been more odious to it than the idea of Irish nationality or even semi-independence. If Mr. Johnson is now an advocate of this policy, and therein represents the Orangemen, then a revolution in Protestant sentiment has certainly been effected, which removes all ground for surprise in the matter of the immense progress of home rule opinion in the Roman Catholic parts of the Island. There is room for satisfaction to all lovers of Ireland in the sight of Protestant and Roman Catholic agreeing even in matters theoretical, or speculative politics, under which category many persist in placing the subject of home rule. An idea of the average British politician's or statesman's views on this question can be formed from the objections of Mr. Gladstone and Sir Michael Beach. They opposed Butt's amendment with the argument that such a division of the legislative functions as proposed, was impracticable, and that there was no rule to determine what affairs were exclusivele Irish. Mr. Gladstone's difficulties seem partly begotten of modesty and a disposition to oppose the change on grounds apart from the intellectual labor it would involve; for who can suppose a man capable of settling the ticklish, complicated Irish Church and Land questions, unfit to devise a scheme of local government for Ireland, with all the aid of Canadian, United States and Swiss experience before his eyes. Surely the wits of British statesmen must be as keen as those of the Canadian, who successfully established Federal and Provincial Government in North America. British and Irish affairs may be more closely interwoven than those of Upper and Lower Canada were, though we are not prepared to speak hastily on the subject; but events have proved that this state of things has not produced a corresponding intimacy or union of feeling. Old traditions and aspirations, cherished especially on the Irish side of the Channel, still divide the races and combine with convictions as to self-interest, to stimulate such movements as that for home rule. In endeavouring to explain our impressions as to the facts of the case and the condition of the movement, we do not undertake to deal exhaustively with the merits of the reform in question, which would require more space than one article. Among the objections to an Irish Legislature, made by Englishmen and others, is the indefiniteness of the conception in many minds. Irishmen, themselves, it is contended, are not at one as to the amount of power this body should possess, and whether its creation on the pattern of Dr. Butt's, which would resemble a Canadian local Legislature, would be accepted as a finality. Of course Irishmen have differed and will differ on these points, which enhances the difficulties of the Home Rulers. For instance, a very large body of Roman Catholic clergymen issued a manifesto at Limerick, in 1867, demanding the recognition of Irish nationality pure and simple, with an independent legislature, and declaring nothing less would satisfy them and the Irish people. Home Rule comes far short of this, which naturally prompts the important question, would the Catholic clergy be content with Butt's mild Federalism, or would they or others, as radical, merely accept of it to use it for the obtainment of complete separation from England? Perhaps the clergy above referred to have come down in their demands, or the majority may never have sympathised with them. But the suspicion that Home Rule is a mere pretence, or means to a more serious end, namely complete separation from Britain, must for a time greatly impede, if not defeat the efforts of its advocates. Without discussing the scheme of Mr. Butt, at present, which, were it really a finality, would wear strong attractions to many lovers of both England and Ireland, we are of those who believe that the latter would be a heavy loser, commercially, socially and politically by total separation from Great Britain, to the founding of whose empire Irish brain, energy and courage have so materially contributed. What Irishman would like to be cut off from the substantial privilege and advantage of pushing his fortune on terms of equality with the Englishman and Scotchman, on any part of that magnificent stage? The limits of a small island are wholly inadequate to the genius and ambition of the Irish race. It has made its mark in England, Scotland, India, and all the colonies, and would naturally fret under any limitation of its opportunities. Ireland has far greater advantages in the union with England than were she separate and isolated; nor does it need the events of recent years to prove that no country in Europe has shown itself, within the last two generations, more worthy of Irish respect, alliance and friendship than that Britain which stands first in the arts of peace and war, in deeds of philanthropy, and triumphs of genuine civilization. Where is religion and morality more respected—where freedom of opinion better enjoyed? And, as regards Roman Catholic Irishmen, is it not the case that their faith enjoys greater liberty in the United Kingdom than in those Continental countries which have been its citadel and its pride even since the Reformation?

The forthcoming contest at the New Brunswick polls will turn mainly on the recent School Law. The party desirous of its repeal is chiefly Roman Catholic, and is led by the Freeman, Mr. Anglin's paper. The R. C. Bishops and clergy of course have been working strenuously for the establishment of Separate Schools, wherein religion can be taught after their own methods. The above journal declares the question at the elections will be Repeal, and the advocates of Separate Schools will be compelled to lend their aid to the Repealers. The Government Party, of which the St. John Telegraph and News are mouthpieces, strongly oppose Repeal, and will probably defend the new law, with all their strength, at the polls. The struggle will wear to some extent a religious character. The Ministerialists possess a great admiration for the present free common schools, which are open to all, and from whose course religious teaching is excluded. The Roman Catholics, discontent with the actual establishments, insist upon being in a position to make religion a part of the daily course of instruction. Meantime, it is said that efforts will be made by this body to secure the interference of the Dominion Legislature, with the object of relieving them from the obligation to contribute to the maintenance of the common schools. The result of such efforts will probably be, sooner or later, the extension to the minority of rights and immunities similar to those enjoyed by the Roman Catholics of Ontario. As the local government of New Brunswick evinces anything but a yielding mood on this question, while not free from the suspicion of a disagreeable humor in regard to other matters, it is possible that its friends would make a noise over any well meant suggestions or interference, from whatever quarter with a view to a compromise. Perhaps not, however, since extreme sensibility and fixity of purpose are sometimes serious mistakes whether individuals or communities be concerned. If a large portion of the population really believe themselves aggrieved by a law, which may be modified without injury to the rights or interests of the remainder, a strong case is made out for a respectful and generous consideration of the cry for repeal. With the example of Quebec and Ontario before the Maritime Provinces, is it fair, or, looking at it from lower ground, is it good policy to prolong a minority grievance in one Province from which the minorities in others are free? Questions of this kind should be dealt with in a spirit of justice and good sense, with the design of pleasing and benefitting as many of the community as possible.

The New Brunswick Legislature, it is said will close by the end of the month, when a dissolution and the general elections are expected to follow. The writs may be made returnable in June. Parties in that Province seem to be getting ready for the struggle at the polls. The opponents of the Government accuse it of the design to take the people by surprise.

We understand that the Department of Marine and Fisheries have received information from the light-house keeper at Point Pelee Island, in Lake Erie, that the first steamboat which has passed his station this spring, was on the 18th instant. He also states that there is some sheet ice floating about. He commenced lighting on the evening of the 18th instant.

The New Brunswick Assembly has been considering the advisability of abolishing the Legislative Council of that Province as an expensive piece of machinery which can very well be dispensed with. Should New Brunswick make up her mind to throw the "old ladies" overboard, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba might well follow the example. Another question of equal importance before the New Brunswick Legislature, is that of a Maritime Union.

The account of the entry of the British into Coomassie, with the attendant scenes and incidents will be found in to-day's issue, and read with interest. The New York Herald's correspondent may or not be good authority in matters military; but it is worthy of notice that he states, there is a feeling in the army and other quarters that the Expedition has not been quite so successful as was anticipated or desirable and that the fact will be generally apprehended when the present excitement of victory has passed away. The high character of the British troops is admiringly acknowledged by this American critic, the splendid performances of the Highlanders receiving especial praise.

Either the Provincial Legislature of New Brunswick has mistaken its functions or the Citizen is mistaken in its facts. Probably the latter, we think, since facts are things which of late it seems to have quite eschewed. The intelligence displayed in the lines we are about to quote is on a par with the honesty of purpose that prompted our contemporary some days ago to reproduce in parallel columns what we said and what we did not say relative to Riel's right to amnesty, if amnesty was promised and acted upon in good faith. However, let the thing speak for itself,—here it is:—

Our telegraphic correspondent informs us that the Opposition in the Legislature of New Brunswick, attempted to defeat the Revenue Bill, but notwithstanding their most strenuous efforts, the bill passed after a protracted sitting of two days. The duty on spirits and wine is largely increased; there is a great reduction on tea; sheep are admitted free; to encourage ship building, the Government offer a bounty of two dollars per ton on all ships built. The policy of the Government is generally to aid home industries.

Canada Pacific Railway.

To the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, Premier of Canada.

SIR,—At present there seems to be a dead calm in the Canada Pacific Railway enterprise, principally owing, no doubt to the enormous cost of such an extensive undertaking, but as one of the principal items of cost in constructing this line of Railway is involved in the article of iron, I would here submit for your consideration a proposition by which steel rails for the whole line of Railway can be produced at a cost comparatively trifling, and of a quality superior to that which is imported from England, or from any other country where charcoal is not used in its manufacture.

I purpose to present to the Government, as a free gift a mine of vast extent, composed of red hematite iron ore of a very high percentage and of the best quality. I do so, not only from a desire to facilitate the construction of this great Railway, but upon the condition that the smelting works and rolling mills be constructed and carried on within the Corporation of Arnprior. I will further guarantee that sufficient land for building purposes, and for yard room, will be deeded over free of charge. Arnprior holds a central position between the Maritime and Western Provinces of Canada, and is in the very track of the proposed Canada Pacific Railway. Already it possesses large manufacturing establishments driven by the immense water power of the Madawaska River, which here joins the Ottawa on the northern boundaries of the Corporation. It has at present three direct lines of communication by rail and steamer, with the river St Lawrence and the Lower Provinces, while it is otherwise specially well adapted for the establishment of such works. It matters not on which side of Lake Nipissing the road may be located, it must pass through the Valley of the Ottawa River, and by this course the only possible route, must intersect the Municipality of Arnprior.

You will have no doubt observed the very large demand there exists at present for this class of iron both in England and France, and in such other countries as are without charcoal for smelting purposes. Since the advent of "Steel Rail," the article of iron manufactured from hematite ore by the charcoal process stands far in advance of any other, both in price and quality, while for railway purposes it has no equal.

At your request, I shall be happy to furnish full details, as to the cost of shifting the ore and other material required for the works and of the manufacturing of charcoal, by the use of kilns, with such other information as you may desire.

I have the honour to be
Sir, your obedient servant,
JAMES BELL,
Mineralist.

ARNPRIOR, 21st March, 1874.

THE HAMILTON FISHERY QUESTION.

We copy from the Hamilton Times a letter written by the direction of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to the Mayors of Hamilton and Dundas, in answer to petitions praying that nets and spears be prohibited in Burlington Bay and Dundas Marsh, and that these waters be open only to fishing with hook and line.

The Minister's ruling possesses more than a local interest, as it embodies the principle of equitable dealing between diverse claims in such instances. We, therefore transfer the correspondence to our columns:—

DEPARTMENT OF MARINE AND FISHERIES }
OTTAWA, 13th March, 1874 }

GENTLEMEN,—The Minister has given to the subject of your memorial most careful consideration; and I have the honour, by his direction, to communicate the result.

It is scarcely necessary to remind you that this Department has for many years past directed special attention to protecting fish in Burlington Bay. Neither is it requisite at this date to recall attention to the obvious principle on which measures for local protection were founded. Suffice it to mention that neither the interest of anglers nor of netters or spearers could be altogether adopted as a basis of action. The Department felt itself bound, while duly considering both parties, to recognize the paramount wants of the whole community. In the present instance it may be the case that those persons who consider that the limited amount of fishing in Burlington Bay and Dundas Marsh can be made more serviceable to the neighbourhood by being reserved exclusively for purposes of recreation and amusement, exceed in numbers and influence the fishermen who desire to exercise a common privilege of netting and spearing for local market supply and home consumption. The two very respectable and numerously signed petitions from the city of Hamilton and the town of Dundas, now under notice, would certainly attract serious attention towards the former view. But this department, in an earnest endeavor to do practical justice as between both of these conflicting preferences, cannot ignore the probability that a considerable portion of the inhabitants of the respective neighborhoods unrepresented on either side, would be found indirectly interested in the latter view, because of its effect on the market supply of fresh fish. This inference is fairly deducible from the disparity in numbers between about 500 petitioners and 30,000 inhabitants. There is also to be considered this point: if, after all the protection afforded, fish have not sufficiently increased in those waters to afford occupation for a reasonable quantity of nets, and at the same time to make fish plentiful enough for sporting purposes, there must be either an incapacity for breeding and feeding any considerable numbers of fish in the locality, or else the protective system proves inefficient. But the local Fishery Overseer reports that the waters of Burlington Bay and its tributaries abound with all kinds of fish; and that not only would moderate netting for certain kinds of coarse fish (such as pike and suckers) inflict no serious injury, and could not materially diminish angling, but that it would be an act of justice towards the fishermen to allow such a practice under proper restrictions as to time, place and extent of netting. The Minister would certainly have felt much gratified in complying with the request of the petitioners and restricting fishing in Burlington Bay and Dundas Marsh to angling, could the same have been done with proper consideration towards everybody concerned; and as it is, he feels confident that all persons interested in these two petitions will fairly appreciate the partial compliance with their request which it has been decided to adopt.

In future and until otherwise directed, the Department will issue about fifteen gill-net licenses for pike to be fished not later than the 1st day of May, and to be restricted to about one-seventh part (at the south-easterly portion) of Burlington Bay, within a line extending from the division line between Grant's and Harvey's farms, in Barton, to Martin's wharf, in Saltfleet. Spearing will be entirely discontinued.

A few small seining grounds, formerly occupied inside the beach, southward of the canal and near Grant's pond are represented by the local Fishery Officer as not at all injurious to the fishing. The Minister will make further enquiries on this point; and should it be found, as is alleged, that damage is inflicted by destroying great numbers of young fry and disturbing the breding fish, steps may be taken to correct any such abuse of the privilege.

I am to express the hope that netters and anglers alike will bear in mind the necessity of co-operating with those who are charged with enforcing measures designed especially for their own benefit and that of the public generally, and thus reciprocate the attention bestowed by this Department on the fisheries of Burlington Bay and its tributary waters.

I have the honour to be,
Gentlemen,
Your obed't servant,
W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries

Book Notice.

LA CREME DE LA CREME, a collection of music for advanced players, is published monthly by J. L. Peters, the well-known music publisher, 599 Broadway, New York, price $4 per year. The musical selections are the latest compositions and of a very high order of merit.

NORTHERN COLONIZATION.—Mr. Legge, Chief Engineer of the Northern Colonization Railway arrived in this city on Monday night, after making an exploration of the projected line on the north side of the Ottawa River. We understand that at the mouth of the Mattawan, where the Ottawa is remarkably narrow, he finds that it can be bridged, being about three hundred feet wide. He then followed the line to the south of Lake Nipissing within about six miles of the mouth of French River. He reports a very practicable and favorable line capable of being constructed at a cost of about $30,000 per mile. While at French River he met the engineering staff sent out by the Dominion Government to examine the capacity of French River harbor. The ice was just breaking up at the time, and the party found it very difficult to take soundings. He returned by the same route, and was accompanied part of the way by Mr. J. Poupore, M. P. P.

CITY AND VICINITY

PENSIONERS.—Pensioners residing in the Ottawa District will draw their quarterly pay in Ottawa on Wednesday, the first day of April next.

GOOD APPOINTMENT.—W. H. Walker, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, of the firm of "Walker & Pennock," has been appointed Solicitor to the Board of Water Works Commissioners.

HARRY LINDLEY.—It is the intention of Harry Lindley to revisit the capital shortly with a fine troupe of artistes. He has with his usual enterprise determined to give our citizens a good treat, having secured the services of T. C. King, the great English actor.

GUARD'S CONCERT.—We beg to remind our readers of the concert to be given this evening in the Rink Music Hall, which bids fair to be a decided success.

"Men of Haerlech march to glory,
Victory is hovering o'er ye,
Bright eyed lassies stand before ye
Hear ye not their call."

PRIZE CATTLE.—Messrs. Satchell Bros have now at their farm two of the heaviest steers ever raised in Canada. They weigh 6,070 pounds, and have won $600 in prizes. They were bred and fed by Messrs. Thompson Bros., of Mayfield farm, Whitby, and will be killed for Easter. 2525-3i

BAZAAR.—The ladies of the Congregation Church, City Hall Square, intend opening their bazaar on Monday, the 30th March, at 11 o'clock a m., in Robinson's new block, Sparks street, and will continue it during the two following days. Luncheon will be served each day from 12 o'clock to two, and refreshments at all hours. Musical and other entertainments each evening. 2525-5i

CONCERT IN GRENVILLE.—A concert held at Grenville on the 17th inst., in aid of the Roman Catholic Church Building Fund, was a perfect success both financially and otherwise. The Hall was literally jammed, and all seemed to enjoy the rich entertainment provided for them. Much credit is due to T. Brophy, Esq., for the excellent arrangements for the occasion, and the pleasant manner in which the proceedings passed off.

KNOX CHURCH.—The annual report of the temporalities committee of Knox Church shows that the building, including price of land, cost $45,042 56. The original contract cost was only $28,501.00, but the building expense was increased 50 per cent. by the action of the Trades' Union. For the current year $6,000 are required to defray all expenses connected with the Church. Among the subscriptions to the building fund we notice the following:—J. McLaren & Co., $2,300; J. W. Russell, $1,586.34; George Hay, $1,500; Robert Blackburn, $1,500; Henry McCormick, $1,000, and Alex. Hutchmor, $1,500. The report is very complete.

Meeting of Iron Manufacturers.

A meeting of persons interested in the protection of the Canadian Industry of Iron Manufacture, was held in the Reading Room of the Russell House, yesterday afternoon, at three o'clock. Amongst those present were H. P. Savigny, of Toronto, interested in the Snowdon and Thunder Bay Iron Mines; Messrs. Haycock, in the Hull and Templeton Mines; Messrs. Pennock, interested in the Grenville Mines; James Bell, of Arnprior, in the McNab Mines of the County of Lanark; C. Fitzgerald, interested on the behalf of English Capitalists as well as several other gentlemen. They represented on behalf of those interested in the trade, an aggregate capital of over $3,000,000 now being negotiated for in the English Money Market, towards the manufacture of Iron in Canada.

On motion of Mr. A. H. Baldwin, seconded by Mr. R. H. Haycock, H. P. Savigny, Esq., of Toronto, was called to the Chair, and Mr. Fitzgerald requested to act as Secretary.

The Chairman briefly explained the object of the meeting, to be the protection of the Iron Trade in Canada. He thought by a due system of protection, the manufacture of iron could be made one of the staple industries of the Dominion.

The Secretary then read a letter from Wm. McDougall, M.P., for Three Rivers; expressing his sympathy with the object of the meeting, and regretting his inability to be in Ottawa before the 26th inst.

Mr R. H. Haycock, moved, seconded by Mr. A. H. Baldwin, a resolution affirming the necessity, in revising the Tariff, of so adjusting the duties imposed as to afford adequate protection to Home Industries, and encourage the investment of capital in new enterprises.

Mr. Fitzgerald stated that English Capitalists were anxiously enquiring what prospect there was for protection in the iron trade and other manufactures, for until they were assured of some legislation in this direction, they did not feel disposed to invest their capital in Canadian Manufactures.

The resolution was carried.

Mr. James Bell then moved, seconded by Mr. S. Haycock, That a duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem be imposed on the importation of pig iron. Carried.

Moved by Mr. A H. Baldwin, seconded by Mr. J. Bell, That railway bars be admitted free as hitherto, until such time as the Government shall be satisfied that machinery is really in existence of sufficient capacity for manufacturing 20,000 tons per annum. Carried.

Moved by Mr. R. H. Haycock, seconded by Mr. S. Haycock, That the present duty of 5 per cent. on certain classes of iron be raised to 15 per cent. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Bell, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, That a Committee consisting of Messrs. Wm. McDougall, M.P., James Bell, A. H. Baldwin, H. P. Savigny, R. H. Haycock, Wm. Pennock and C. Fitzgerald, be named to draft a petition embodying these resolutions, and that the same be a deputation to wait on the Premier and Ministers of Finance and Customs, in furtherance of the object of this meeting. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

Huron and Ottawa Railway.

A fine chart is posted up in the Russell House, shewing upon a large scale the location of the proposed railway between this city and Parry Sound. This road to which we referred some time ago has had its designation changed from the 'Ottawa and Parry Sound Railway,' originally proposed, to that of the 'Huron and Ottawa Railway,' the latter being doubtless considered more appropriate, from the fact that it will link by an iron band the waters of the River Ottawa and Lake Huron. This road will pass through the free grant lands set apart by the Ontario Government, and if vigorously prosecuted will do more to develope those uninhabited sections of this Province than anything else we know of. Mr Hubertus is very active as far as he is personally concerned, and he purposes at once appealing for assistance to the various municipalities to prosecute without delay a survey of the route. The proposed line as shown on this map effects a junction with the Canada Central at Carleton Place. It passes westerly through the counties of Lanark and Renfrew, after which it coasts along the northern limits of the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, then through the Free Grant Districts of Muskoka and Parry Sound. The distance from Ottawa to Parry Sound is 218 miles.

THE BALL TO THE GOVERNOR.—To the Ladies of Ottawa.—Thos. E. Moore, of 72 Sparks street, with respectable compliments and sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage, solicits an early call to inspect the elegant assortment of ornaments in steel, pearl jet, and Tortoiseshell, which he has just received, and which he will sell at as low prices as possible, consistent with fair business principles. Fresh importations of all the new goods monthly at the Burlington Hair-Cutting Rooms. 2514.

Police Court.

Before M. O'Gara, P. M.

TUESDAY, March 20.

Antoine Savaria, was charged with being drunk on the public streets. Fined $2 and costs, or two days in goal.

Richard Dolan was charged with using insulting language to Mr, J. B. Mackenzie. Fined $2 and $3 costs.

Thomas Costello was charged with assaulting a man named Liberte. Fined $2 and $3 costs.

Joseph Parque, a dusky son of the forest, was charged with assaulting Peter McDonald. Fined $5 and costs.

Thomas Robbin, charged with vagrancy, was reported of unsound mind, and went down to goal for two weeks.

The larceny case was resumed. Lawrence Preston being sworn said: Was at Bourget's saloon on Friday afternoon last, and saw prisoner and Mr. Connolly there; saw Connolly with money, and paid for a drink, Phillips put bills in Mr. Connolly's pocket once; saw some $20 bills; Connolly was sitting on the sofa when Phillips took the money; Joseph Smith was in the bar; Do not know of Connolly losing any money there.

To Mr. Gibb,—I think Mr. Connolly could take care of himself; I don't think he is in the habit of getting drunk; I have never seen him drunk before; I did not hear Connolly make any bet about horse racing.

Mr. Bower, sworn,—Said he saw Connolly leaving Bourget's. After he left I went with Mr. Smith and Mr. Phillips to the St. Lawrence Hotel; Phillips invited us down to have supper with him; he had $20 bills; he gave me a $20 bill to go and get some oysters; I never looked at the bill, until I gave it two Mr. Baldwin to pay for the oysters; I got $19 change, which I gave to Mr. Phillips; the $20 bill was produced and identified by witness; in the evening we went down the street together; we stopped at a house; we remained until 10 o'clock the next morning; Thomas Russell was with us; I did not see Phillips with another $20 bill there; the woman who keeps the house is now in court.

Mr. Daniels was the next witness called—saw Mr. Phillips on Friday evening in drug store; he asked for drugs which we were out of; he then asked me to change him a $20 bill; it was a bill of the Bank of British North America.

Mr. John Corniss, being sworn, said—Am agent for a wholesale oyster dealer of New York; Mr. Brown bought oysters from me on Friday evening; he gave me the $20 bill produced; I marked it, and gave it to Detective Hamilton.

Some further evidence, of a less important nature, was heard, after which Phillips was committed to stand his trial at the Assizes. Bail was refused.

Spring Assizes.

The Spring Assizes opened yesterday at 1 o'clock, p. m. in the Court House; His Lordship Justice Galt presiding.

There was a large attendance of the Bar; amongst whom we observed the Hon. J. Hilyard Cameron, Q. C., Hon. J. O'Connor, Q. C., Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C., Crown Prosecutor, G. B. L. Fellowes, Q. C., Jas. O'Reilly, Q. C., R. Lees, County Attorney, M. O. Gara, W. H. Walker, W. A. Ross, A. Gibb, W. McKay Wright, C. H. Pinhey, J. J. Gemmell, D. Wade, A. Christie, P. Pennock, Geo. Taillion, R. Cassells, R. A. Bradley, T. F. Nellis, F. C. Clemow, Wm. Mosgrove, N. Sparks, McLeod Stewart and R. Hick.

Joseph Jellie, larceny; Richard McMullen, indecent assault; Henry Birch, larceny, and two persons out on bail for indecent assault.

The Clerk then proceeded with the swearing in of the Grand Jury as follows:

James Blackburn, Foreman.

Francis Abbott,
P. C. Auclair,
Forrest Caldwell,
A. J. Eastman,
Wm. Gourlay,
Robt. Kerr,
John Pearson,
Samuel Stephenson,
Henry Seabrook,
John Vaughan,
John Woodman,
Thos. G. Anderson,
John Durie,
George Dunbar,
Wm. Fenton,
John M. Garland,
Andrew MacKay,
James Ritchie,
Wm. Storey,
Thos. Pennant,
Abraham Wardle,
William Walsh.

His Honor Judge Galt in opening the business of the Court said he had to congratulate them upon the fact that their duties would be very light this term, as there were but few cases upon the calendar, there might be others out on bail, but these he had nothing to do with until they came before him. He then briefly explained the law as to larceny and the charge of indecent assault. It will also be your duty to report on any public matters that may be brought under your notice. He then permitted the jury to retire.

His Lordship next announced his intention of proceeding at once with the civil cases upon the docket. The following cases were accordingly called and disposed of as follows:

Gildersleeve vs Bailiff.—R. A. Bradley and R. Cassells for plaintiff. Lees and Gemmell for defendant. Verdict for plaintiff for $1,278 75.

Merchant's Bank vs Mulligan, et al.—F. C. Clemow Attorney for plaintiff. R. Hick for defendant. Verdict for plaintiff for $1,215.50.

Cassidy vs. Favreau, et al.—Lees and Gemmell for plaintiff. H. P. Hill, Atty. for defendants. Verdict for plaintiff for $146 40.

Morgan et al vs. McKinnon.—W. H. Walker, Atty. for plaintiffs. Jos. E. McDougall, Atty. for defendant. Verdict for plaintiffs, $482.58.

Gildersleeve vs. Bailiff.—R. A. Bradley and R. Cassels for plaintiff. Wm. A. Ross for defendant.

This case was the first defended case, and was adjourned for further evidence till this morning.

The Court adjourned till this morning at 9 30 o'clock.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.

The concert in compliment to Mr. F. W. Mills, in Gowan's Hall, last night, was a musical and a business success. The gentleman for whose benefit it was given well deserved this mark of appreciation, both on account of his great professional talent, and his readiness to assist all [illegible] of deserving enterprises with his skilful musical services. The programme was gone through in a manner creditable not only to Mr. Mills' able management, but to the orchestra and the amateurs who kindly took part in the entertainment. Miss Brokovski's singing captivated the audience, as was evident by the various encores she received, and to which she effectively responded. Messrs. McLean and Dunlevie also sang well, deserving the applause bestowed. Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard, too, merit mention in this connection. The choir of Christ Church acquitted itself most creditably, its performance affording ample proof that Ottawa possesses amateurs of which it may well be proud. Mr. Mills and friends have good reason for satisfaction at the result of this [illegible] compliment.

Banquet to the Hon Amor DeCosmos.

(Victoria Standard, March 4)

Last evening upwards of 150 of the leading and most influential citizens and residents of Victoria and vicinity assembled at the Alhambra Hall to tender a complimentary banquet to the Hon. Amor DeCosmos, in recognition of his valued services and ability as a politician, and his many good qualities as a private citizen. Never since the celebrated and well remembered banquet to the late Hon. W. H. Seward, has it been the great privilege of any gentleman in this Province to meet with such a hearty welcome, and such overwhelming congratulations as were accorded the late Premier last evening, and rarely, if ever, has such a marked demonstration of the appreciation of talent been evinced as was that displayed on the festive occasion of which we write. The Chair was taken at seven o'clock precisely by His Worship the Mayor, (W Dalby, Esq.,) who was supported on his right by the Hon. the Premier, the Hon. the Provincial Secretary, Chas. Semlin, Esq., M. P. P., Hy. Holbrook, Esq., M. P. P., and James E. McMillan, Esq.; while on his left were seated the guests of the evening: The Hon. Mr. Armstrong, Minister of Finance and Agriculture, J. P. [illegible], Esq., J. Rolland Hett, Esq., Governor's Secretary, J. G. Barnston, Esq., M. P. P., and others. The vice chairs were occupied respectively by James S. Drummond and R. P. Rithet, Esq., who in turn were supported by William Wilson, Esq., J. Farwell, Esq., Chas. Hayward, Esq., Hon. Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, Chas. Hughes, Esq., M. P. P., J. P. Booth, Esq., M. P. P., A. McLean, Esq., W. [illegible], Esq., M. P. P., etc., etc. Amongst the company present also were Messrs. C. Gowen, Mitchell, Jones, Leith, S. S. Melvin, Kriemler, Watson, S. P. Moody, J. Wilson, J. Wilson, J. Davies, R. Lewis, J. Fell, J. B. Robinson, Turgoose, J. Campbell, R. H. Austen, F. H. Richards, [illegible]well, McK. Smith, Peat, R. Holloway, McKenzie, A. Rose, Gilmore, Gogan, M. P. P., Wilby, Nicholson, Thos. Earle, Hayward, and many others.

The dinner, was provided by Mr. Andrew Astrico, of the Telegraph Hotel, was of the most sumptuous character, embracing all the delicacies of the season, and doing infinite justice to the caterer, who in this particular is especially well known and favorably regarded. The festive board fairly groaned under the weight of all that could be desired for the 'inner man,' and nothing was omitted which would tend at once to render the banquet elaborate and of a most recherche character. After the company had partaken, to their hearts content, of the many substantials provided, the cloth was removed and the chairman, amidst loud applause, proceeded to propose the health of Her Majesty the Queen which was drank with the most enthusiastic loyalty. This was followed with the health of the Prince of Wales and the Royal Family, the health of the Governor General of Canada. The latter was received with warm applause and drank in a bumper with three times three. Immediately the excitement which followed the last toast had subsided, his Worship the Mayor rose to propose the toast of the evening—that of "Our Guest"—and scarcely had the words fallen from his lips when the company rising from their seats accorded the honorable gentleman whose health they were about to drink such a perfect ovation, and sent up such a hurricane of applause, and tumult of cheering, that the chairman resumed his seat without expatiating on the good qualities of the subject of the toast. Mr. DeCosmos' health was then drunk in the most enthusiastic manner and amid loud and prolonged cheering the honorable gentleman rose to respond.

Mr. DeCosmos dwelt at great length on the political questions of the day, entering into the details respecting the Dry Dock Capitalisation Scheme, the Million of Dollars Loan, the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Mackenzie's Policy, that of the Local Government, and the Cry of Relaxation of the Terms of Union. He thanked the company most sincerely for the kind and warm manner in which they had received his name, and occupied their undivided and patient attention for upwards of two hours, during which time he was frequently interrupted with most enthusiastic and prolonged applause; and at its expiration resumed his seat amidst great cheering. The length of the hon. gentleman's speech prevents our doing full justice to it this morning owing to the lateness of the hour at which he concluded; we shall, therefore, reserve its publication in extenso until our issue of to-morrow.

The remaining speeches we also lay over until next issue.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphities, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy.

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.

TORONTO.

Local Legislature.—Prorogation.

TORONTO, March 24.

The Local Legislature was brought to a conclusion to-day at 3 o'clock, at which hour His Honour the Lieutenant Governor arrived. A detachment from the Grand Trunk Brigade formed a guard of honour, and several judges, clergymen, consuls, and a sprinkling of ladies were on the floor of the House.

The Clerk of the Crown in Chancery having read the titles of the bills, and the Clerk of the House having assented to them in the Lieutenant Governor's name, His Honour delivered the following speech:—

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

In releasing you from the labour of the session, it is my agreeable duty to thank you for the manner in which you have fulfilled the assurances, which at the opening of the session you gave to me of your readiness to carefully consider the legislation that might be offered to you, and to express my satisfaction at noticing that all measures which I recommended I have had much pleasure in assenting to, and also the other bills of public utility which you have passed. I congratulate you on having devised and adopted important measures for preventing frauds, and correcting errors in the electoral lists, for securing the rights of voters, and freedom, and purity in the exercise of their rights, and for extending the franchise to important classes not heretofore possessing that privilege. You have done a good service to every part of the Province by your revision, improvement, and consolidation of the laws which had for many years been accumulating for the regulation and management of our public and high schools, on the efficiency of which the future condition of our Province so essentially depends. I have perceived with satisfaction that you have provided a uniform plan for the future distribution of the public money, which is annually voted in aid of charitable institutions, that should rely chiefly on other sources of supply. I notice that you have made further provision for the due administration of Justice by a much needed addition to the Judicial Staff, and by adopting such reforms in the machinery of litigation as experience had asserted to be desirable. I am pleased that you have passed various measures for the benefit of settlers in the yet sparsely occupied portions of our territory. I am glad that you have approved of the various railway appropriations recommended for your concurrence, and I trust that they will afford important help towards advancing the material interest and the development of the country. I thank you for the supplies which you have granted for the public service, they shall be expended with economy and with due regard to your wishes. I congratulate you on having been able, while providing for all the necessary expenditure, to diminish at the same time the public burden, by abandoning sources of revenue which tear heavily on many of those persons from whom such revenue was derived.

The Hon. Mr. McKellar then said:—Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly—It is His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor's will and pleasure that this Legislative Assembly be prorogued until Monday the 4th day of May next, to be then here holden, and this Provincial Legislative Assembly is accordingly prorogued until Monday the 4th day of May next.

Suicide by a Barrister—A Curious Epistle—City News.

The prorogation passed off to-day without anything remarkable having occurred. The guard of honor that accompanied the Lieutenant Governor was furnished by the Grand Trunk Railway Brigade.

The attendance on the floor of the House was very small, but the galleries were well filled.

A very sad suicide occurred some time between Saturday night and Monday morning, which has created quite a sensation. J. W. Winstanley, brother of Dr. Winstanley, of this city, a barrister, on Saturday afternoon obtained the keys of Reeve & Platt's office, he being intimate with those gentlemen, ostensibly to write letters. Upon entering he locked the door and took oil of almonds. The verdict rendered by the Coroner's Jury was "That the deceased came to his death through taking a quantity of Oil of Almonds, knowing the same to be poison." Winstanley leaves a wife and eight children in very destitute circumstances. Before his death he wrote the following extraordinary letter:

TORONTO, March 21, 1874.

MY DEAR REEVE,—I have often expressed to you my opinion that as soon as it became a burden to himself and of no use to anyone belonging to him, a man had a perfect moral right to divest himself of that life which has been bestowed upon him without his consent or concurrence. My life is to me like a gift of a white elephant—I cannot keep it, and if I could I do not know what to do with it—consequently, whether it offends the (unknown) King or not, I am about to dispose of it. I must beg for your forgiveness for having fixed upon your office as the place in which to draw my last breath; I have fixed upon it as being the most convenient, inasmuch as after you have left for the evening, I shall not be likely to be interrupted.

Having some hours left before the time which I have appointed for carrying out my intentions, I shall devote them to the consideration of my feeling on approaching what is facetiously called "The King of Terrors," and shall place them on record here. I have fully made up my mind on the matter, and I now tell you what I have often told you before, that I have not the slightest fear for the consequence hereafter. Of course my first thought is, am I right or wrong in making away my life while I have a wife and family whom I ought to support? My answer is, that not having been able to assist them for a long time, and seeing that there is no prospect of my being able to do so in the future, I shall be doing them no wrong by putting an end to my life. If I could get an opportunity of making a living for myself, I should be then only in a position which would not satisfy me at all, and as to getting anything more than that, I have for a long time despaired of doing anything of the kind. Speaking of my wife and family you will remember that I a short time ago drew up my will, and that is in your safe. The reason that I drew up a fresh will was that it might be possible that a relation of mine in England, might drop off the hooks before I did, leaving some money, of which a share would go to me; it is possible that she is now dead, and if so, by my will, the money would go to my wife, but if she does not die before me, I imagine that my share would go to my children, and would be of very little benefit to them (i. e., it would go to them on the death of this relation.) I request that you will as soon (after you receive this) as convenient, enclose the will to "Mrs. G. L. Maddison, 5 Caer Howell street, Toronto," my only sister and my best beloved. I should like to give some message in this to various members of my family, but they would take up too much space. There are many circumstances in my life and acts which I have done which I have regretted, and still do regret; it may be that I am wrong, but I cannot help thinking that circumstances have been almost continuously against me for the last twenty-two or twenty-three years.

I suppose, by my act I shall put the country to that (in my mind in this case) useless expense of a coroner's inquest, and most probably you will be a witness; if so, do not, if you can help it, let the jury bring in that absurd verdict, 'temporary insanity.' If I am insane I have been so for years, having for at least twenty-five years been of the same idea or opinion as I am now with reference to a man's right to cast off a burdensome life. The conversation which you and I had together last night respecting the immortality of what is called the soul, leaves me as it found me, in a state of doubt; but still inclined to think that so far as the man is concerned it dies with the body; but "nous verrons." The thing, perhaps, which troubles me most is the curiosity (which I suppose will remain unsatisfied after my death) as to what people will say of me then. Whether they will tell the same lies of me which they have done while living, or acting on the principle of the maxim "De mortuis nil nisi bonum," their lies will be of an opposite character. If the order of things permits the soul, or the mind, or whatever else it may be called, to know after it has quitted the animal (if it does quit it) what is said or done, I expect to find very few moist eyes and still fewer regrets. I am satisfied that no one can say truthfully other wise than that it will be for the best. I am inclined to think that perhaps, you will be the one to miss my daily visits more then any one else will miss me at all. I have long had this step in contemplation, and should have taken it before only I was wanting in pluck to ask for poison, and I think that for a fellow to cut his throat is low, ungentlemanly way of making his exit, in addition to which, from attempts which I read of in the papers as having failed, it seems to me that it is not everybody who knows how to go about it scientifically. With my best wishes for your success in your profession and otherwise, I now bid you farewell.

L. N. WINSTANLEY.

COOMASSIE, CAPITAL OF ASHANTEE, February 5, 1874.

The 31st of January began this interesting chapter with the battle of Amaoful, of which I have already given you an account.

We made our quarters the night of the 31st ult, within the town of Amaoful, which might have contained a population in peaceful times of 5,000 souls. The next day, at one p.m., a force consisting of 1,000 Europeans, composed of the Forty-second Highlanders, a company of the Twenty-third Royal Welsh Fusileers, and the Naval Brigade, besides Major Russel's regiment of native allies, the whole under the command of Sir Archibald Allison nominally, but really under Col. McLeod, who took the most active part, moved upon the large and important town of Bekwan, which lay a mile to our left from the main road. The advance of this force were the Apoboes and Houssas, who crept into the outskirts of the village with a silence as of death, and suddenly opened upon the unguarded people with a tremendous fusillade, which they maintained without intermission for over half an hour, two companies of the Naval Brigade in close support of them. The natives soon began to recover from their astonishment, and, as usual, crept into the bushes, whence they began to fire in return with a will which threatened to intimidate the native allies, the British, until Colonel McLeod ordered the sailors to charge on the village, over the prostrate Houssas and Apoboes. The jolly blue jackets answered the command of the Colonel of the Forty-second with a rousing cheer, and bound along the road into the village, from which they drove the people flying into its furthest end. While they were running along the main street of the village the sailors ran after them, maintaining a most withering fire, which slaughtered great numbers of the fugitives.

The next day, at the usual hour, the entire army resumed its march towards Coomassie, leaving Colonel Webber, with 82 of the Second West Indies as a garrison for Amoaful.

The army was preceded by Gifford's scouts, Russell's regiment of native allies and Rait's artillery, the Rifle Brigade following with its special stock of ammunition and baggage and hammocks; then the General and staff, followed by the Twenty-third Fusileers and the Forty-second Highlanders, who formed the rear guard on this march.

ON THE MARCH—A BATTLE.

By this time it was quarter past seven a. m., and the staff was about to rise to follow, when a discharge of musketry, a mile or so in front, announced that the battle of the Ordasu had begun. Louder and more deafening, the firing increased rapidly, until one might have sworn two European armies of considerable magnitude were in conflict. Still the column was progressing, the files of men of either rank looking with keen and quickened eyes into the bush on both side. One man pressed another closely, and still the column prolonged itself like a lengthy serpent along the bends and curves of the bush road, and for an hour longer the army was uncoiling itself across the bridge of the Ordasu, while the noise of battle grew more and more distinct the near we advanced to the scene of the singular conflict thus in progress.

The anxiety we felt and the suspense we underwent were harder to bear than actual conflict. You could tell such was the feeling uppermost in most soldiers' minds, though they continued, of course, to appear perfectly indifferent. The troops had been commanded not to fire until they were fired at, and as the firing was alarmingly close, and seemed to run through the woods like feu de joie one fancied that the next step would reveal the hidden enemy and precipitate the armed files which acted as convoy to ourselves into the fury of the battle.

By half-past nine a. m., we had scarcely advanced more than half a mile, for the battle was raging within the compass of a few acres, between the entrance to the village and the short distance that lay between the Rifle Brigade and the advancing column. Now and then the battle line extended itself with the speed of lightning along both sides of the road, until it even approached within a few yards of the staff, and at such moments Sir Garnet had the greatest possible difficulty to restrain the soldiers nearest to him from firing at random into the woods.

At a quarter to ten a. m., when we had approached to within a quarter of a mile to the village, Sir Garnet ordered the column to halt, and the ammunition, the hammocks for the wounded, the provisions and regimental baggage to push forward into the centre of the now captured village. This was a bold move, but, as it afterwards turned out, a most clever and well devised piece of strategy. When all the carriers had borne their loads past us, the staff and the Forty-second and Naval Brigade pressed on, close after them, into the village.

Within a very short time we were in full view of the singular battle field, and were traversing a veritable valley of the shadow of death, with the insignificant village of Ordasu beyond but a few hundred yards, on the crest of a gentle eminence, which had been denuded long ago of its primeval forest by the settlers of Ordasu, when they planned it as the village site. The road leading through this valley was perhaps five feet wide, banked by lofty, umbrageous cottonwoods, under whose sombrous shades thrived the thickest bush tangle. Deep in the bosom of the woods on their left was seen a plantain grove. On our right this bush thickened as it receded from the road, and presented nothing but impervious leafage wherever the Ashantees, lying flat, fired into the road.

It was uncomfortable work running this gauntlet, pelted at from both sides with showers of iron slug, bullets and leaden balls; and the British wounded lying on the road testified to what it tended. Some of the native allies had been shot to death, and Lieutenant Eyre, son of Sir William Eyre, attache of Colonel Wood's regiment, was among the dying Europeans, which proved that Ashantee slugs were deadly things.

The dead Ashantees which littered this portion of the road in front of the village, numbering about twenty, showed hideous wounds, through which the terrible Snyder rifle had shot its fatal missils, and no better evidence could be obtained, if any were needed to prove the perfection of the Boxer cartridge. The charge of powder in these cartridges is very large, and a wound made by a Snyder bullet is always hopeless cure, if it is in a vital part.

A FEEBLE ENEMY.

But the British force fortunately had no such enemy to cope with. The enemy was bold enough in the bush fangle; plucky enough, too, considering that they knew little or nothing of the art of war after the manner of Europeans. They could be sufficiently stubborn to stay hours in the bush fighting, but they had no spirit to make an advance against such withering fusilades as were directed against them from over 1,500 Snyders. The difference that lies between 10,000 flint musket shots and 1,500 breech-loading Snyders was immeasurable. By the volleys that were fired from either side one felt inclined to believe that 1,500 Apobes or Bonny natives armed with Snyders were more than a match for 10,000 Ashantees armed with flintlock muskets and muzzle loading Enfields. Of course the battle would have lasted much longer if natives were arrayed against natives, Africans against Africans; both parties would have been well content to have fired at each other for entire days from the bush, as was the case at the siege of Abracampa, about which British correspondents wrote so much when they were hard up for news items. But it is the resolute advance of a firing body of Europeans which soonest unsettles the equanimity of such foes as the Ashantees.

At half-past ten a. m. we were enabled to perceive what tact Sir Garnet had shown in pushing his baggage before him into Ordasu. The Ashantees had retired from the front gradually along the right flank, and were precipitating themselves on our rear—harassed continually by far-penetrating leaden cones ejecting from Snyders. We felt inclined to chuckle quietly over the baffled enemy, as, plunging into the road lately travelled by the convoys, they found the road emptied of passengers and goods. We felt inclined to laugh when they boisterously shouted their defiances, or yelled out the intention in chorus by note of war horns. The ammunition carried by the faint hearted carriers was safe in the village, environed by hundreds of volleying Snyders, and there was nothing left for the disappointed enemy but to proceed as his fighting humour impelled him.

The interchange of musketry in our rear lasted until a quarter to two p. m, when Sir Garnet ordered the Forty-second Highlanders to advance along the road to Coomassie. Sir Archibald Allison was, of course, the Brigadier commanding the advance; but Colonel McLeod, of the Forty-second, was the officer in the immediate command of the regiment. Sir Archibald was more of a looker on upon the exciting scene of the advance. The conduct of the on many fields has been considerably belauded, but mere laudation is not enough for the gallantry which has distinguished this regiment when in action. Its bearing has been beyond praise as a model regiment, exceedingly well disciplined, and individually nothing could surpass the standing and gallantry which distinguished each member of the Forty-second or the Black Watch.

They proceeded along the well ambushed road as if on parade by twos.

"The Forty-second will fire by companies, front rank to the right, rear rank to the left," shouted Colonel McLeod. "A Company, front rank fire! rear rank fire!" and so on, and thus vomiting out two score of bullets to the right and two score to the left, the companies volleyed and thundered as they marched past the ambuscades, the paypipes playing, the cheers rising from the throats of the lusty Scots until the forest rang again with the discordant medley of musketry, bagpipe music and vocal sounds.

Rait's artillery now and then gave tongue with its usual deep roar and crash, and with an emphasis and result which must have recalled to the minds of the Ashantees memories of the bloody field of Amaoful, where Captain Rait and his subalterns, Knox and Saunders, signalized themselves conspicuously.

BRAVERY OF THE HIGHLANDERS

But it was the audacious spirit and true military bearing on the part of the Highlanders, as they moved down the road toward Coomassie, which challenged admiration this day. Very many were borne back frightfully disfigured and seriously wounded, but the regiment never halted nor wavered; on it went, until the Ashantees, perceiving it useless to fight against men who would advance heedless of ambuscades, rose from their converts and fled panic-stricken towards Coomassie, being perfarated with balls wherever they showed themselves to the hawk-eyed Scots. Indeed, I only wish I had enough time given me to frame in fit words the unqualified admiration which the conduct of the Forty-second kindled in all who saw or heard of it.

TOM ADAMS.

One man exhibited himself eminently, brave among brave men. His name was Thomas Adams. It is said that he led the way to Coomassie, and kept himself about ten yards of his regiment, the target for many hundred guns; but that, despite the annoying noise of iron and leaden slugs, the man bounded on the road like a well trained hound on a hot scent. This example, together with the cool, calm commands of Colonel McLeod, had a marvellous effect on the highland battalion; so much so that the conduct of all other white regiments engaged on this day pale before that of the Forty-second.

Frequently during the hot and rapid march into Coomassie the Highlanders saw emerging from the bushes several score of fugitives, who found their movements accelerated by the volleys they received on such occasions. Village after village along the road heard the disastrous tidings which the fugitives conveyed, and, long before the Highlanders approached the place where the King had remained during the battle, the King had decamped because of these reports.

DETERMINED TO BE IN COOMASSIE THAT NIGHT.

At twenty minutes to 6 p m. we were on the edge of the Loubin marsh which insulates Coomassie, and the smell which greated us was that of a vast charnel house. The crossing happened to be at the place selected for the reception of the dead, a statement which the sight of floating skulls confirmed. At ten minutes to six we had crossed the marsh, and at six p.m. precisely the General and his staff were entering upon a broad street, about fifty yards wide lined with the curiously embelished houses which I have described were seen at Formannah, the capital of the Adansi Kingdom.

Entering Coomassie street grass grew in the middle of the street, but the greatest part of it indicated considerable traffic. The houses—architecturally fine, considering that their builders were Ashantees—stood a few feet apart from each other, with the same mode of building prevailing in each though the plaster designs over the fascades differed very much.

As the regiments advanced up the street the Ashantees crowded from the back dwellings to gaze on the many white faces which had dispersed their armies during the last five days and had so disturbed the soul of their King. So many of them appeared in the streets armed with guns, though manifesting no hostility, that instinctively the officers proceed to disarm them—a proceeding which Sir Garnet seemed to sanction at first; but when he saw the numbers of natives in the streets he ordered that they be left alone.

Turning to the left we passed up to the main street, which was also about fifty yards wide and about half a mile long, where the Forty-second Highlanders were drawn up in line a marvel to the hundreds of Ashantees, who gazed on them most curiously.

The inoffensive demeanour of the conquerors pleased the natives greatly, and several came voluntarily forward to proffer light services and to greet them.

The troops continued to pour in, with carriers by the thousand, ranging themselves along the main street as fast as they arrived, and it was noticed that as it grew darker the Ashantees were retiring with arms in their hands.

Toward eight p.m. the regiments were assigned to quarters along the main street, and each soldier made himself as comfortable as circumstances permitted.

Later on a messenger came from the King to learn of Sir Garnet what terms were now demanded of him, to which was commanded to give an answer by Sir Garnet:

BRACKENBURY, MILITARY SECRETARY,

Brackenbury gave the messenger to understand that the Governor wished to treat the King in a manner befitting his royal rank; that he had posted sentries all round his palace to prevent his men despoiling it, and to keep it ready for him when he would consider it convenient for him to come: that he hoped sincerely the King would come to see the Governor; that the English and Ashantees might be friends; that a proper treaty of peace might be signed between them; that he hoped the King would see the necessity of sending proper hostages to the Governor, not as prisoners, but as pledges of his good faith, and that a suitable, but not over heavy indemnity to the Assuis would be paid by him for the injuries they had sustained during the invasion of their country. The Governor, by coming to Coomassie was only obeying the instructions of the Queen of England; he had said he would come and he had kept his word. If the King would not make a peace treaty it would be the Governor's disagreeable duty to burn Coomassie as a reminder in future of what was to be expected from the English should he incur their displeasure again.

CONFLAGRATIONS IN THE CAPITAL.

Before midnight the sleeping army was awakened out of the rest it sorely needed, by fires springing up in the different parts of the city; but I did not see the staff disturbed themselves were much about the conflagrations, though the prisoners were ordered by Major Hunn to do what they could to save the town from burning. As number of plunderers were roaming about with lighted torches, it was supposed that these fires were lighted by accident; but, as it was afterwards conclusively shown that the houses were fired by the retreating Ashantees, who, having been permitted to load themselves with everything that was valuable, had used the torch out of sheer spite. Even this conduct did not seem to strike Sir Garnet as being peculiar, nor any member of his diplomatic staff.

The morning of the 6th of February, about twelve hours after they had entered Coomassie, the wounded, numbering about eighty Europeans and native allies, were sent out of Coomassie under a strong convoy on their way to the sea, and it was rumoured that if the King did not come to see Sir Garnet the entire army would commence its return march homeward. About ten a.m. however, Sir Garnet was informed by messengers from the King that His Majesty King Koffe would surely arrive that afternoon.

THE KING.

Meanwhile everybody strolled about the streets and searched every house to discover the vast 'loot' that was reported to be in Coomassie. The King's palace and some of the great chief's residences contained valuable plunder, but there was not much care taken to guard it against the conscienceless rascals who always accompany the invading army. It is observed too that there were very few Ashantees in the city compared to the thousands who had furtively eyed us on our first arrival the previous evening. There were not many guns, nor was there much gunpowder. I believe about twenty kegs comprised the entire quantity discovered. Evidently there was some misunderstanding or bad management somewhere, but it was not until the afternoon, that the General or his staff seemed to waken to the fact that all was not as it ought to be.

THE PLACE BLOWN UP.

The morning of the 6th the city was fired and the palace blown up, and the troops marched out of Coomassie on the road home. After a march of thirteen and a quarter miles we have arrived tonight, (the 6th,) when I concluded my letter, as it is to be conveyed early tomorrow morning by special messenger, the Hon F. Wood, aide-de-camp to Sir Garnet, to the sea coast, whence he will embark immediately for England.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the vast conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and venality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially elucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

[illegible] AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Lundington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent, on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, LL.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers"

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber, Shingles, etc. which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuiness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its Early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium of advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at [illegible] cents per box.

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANCREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicine. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
DR. J. WALKER'S
[illegible]

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent readers in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for a subscription to these LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

LINE OF TRANSPORTATION FOR PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, will be received at this office up to the 20th April next, for working the line of transportation leading from Thunder Bay to Fort Garry, during the ensuing season of navigation.

The line is in two Sections, viz:—the Eastern Section, extending from Prince Arthur's Landing to the North West Angle of the Lake of the Woods—and the Western Section, from the North West Angle to Fort Garry.

Tenders may be for the whole line, or separately for either of these two Sections.

The Plant and Buildings now on the route will be turned over for the time being, for the use of the line, to the party or parties to whom the contract for this Service may be awarded.

All additional outfit required must be provided by the Contractors.

The means of transportation to be maintained on a scale sufficient to ensure the conveyance of passengers and freight over the route without delay.

The rates for freight and passengers, and bonus for the season, to be specified in the Tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

Further information can be obtained at this Office, and at the above-mentioned Offices

By order,

F. BRAUN, Secretary.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order, F. BRAUN, Secretary.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of its shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in its Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system, by this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

NEW RAILWAYS IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

The Freeman presents the following information and remarks on the above interesting subject:

"The Bill of the Local Government offers a subsidy of $5,000 per mile to a railroad along the shore from St. John to St. Stephen, a railroad from Fredericton to Nelson, Miramichi, a railroad from Fredericton by the head of the Grand Lake and to a junction with the E. & N. A. Railroad, a railroad from Wassis' Station to the mouth of the Oromocto River, a railroad from Gagetown to Western Extension, a railroad from Quebec through Upham to the railroad at or near Hampton, a railroad from Cape Tormentine to the Intercolonial, a railroad from Petitcodiac Station to Elgin Corner, Albert Co., a railroad from Caraquet to the Intercolonial, a railroad from Tobique Village to the American boundary, and a bonus of $10,000 for a bridge across the Maduxnakik, and a branch from Dalhousie to the Intercolonial—the roads to be of such gauge and character, with such grades, &c, as the Lieut.-Governor in Council may determine. The subsidy may be paid" in money or in debentures bearing six per cent interest. Right of the way through Government land is given. To entitle any company to the benefit of the Act it must make a survey, and enter into a contract within five years, and commence operations within six years after the passing of this act. Whenever 300 miles of the proposed roads shall have been contracted for, any proposal for the construction of any other road or portion of the proposed roads shall before its acceptance be submitted to the House of Assembly.

The scheme is at least comprehensive enough, giving fatal hopes of additional railway accommodation to every county in the Province except Madawaska, we believe, but as the very cheapest railway cannot be built for less than $12,000 to $15,000 a mile it will be well for the districts to which the bait is now held out to enquire what means they have of raising the rest of the money necessary for the construction of such works. Some do talk seriously of getting help from parties in the United States to build the shore road from St. John to St. Stephen.

Your Age.

There is a good deal of amusement in the following magical table of figures. It will enable you to tell how old the young ladies are. Just hand this table to a young lady, and request her to tell you in which column or columns her age is contained; add together the figures at the top of the columns in which her age is found, and you have the great secret. Thus, suppose her age to be seventeen, you will find that number on the first and fifth columns; add the first figures of those two columns, here is the magic table:

THE LATE DUCHESS-DOWAGER OF ARGYLL.—The Duchess Dowager of Argyll, who died on Wednesday at her residence at Rutland-gate, Hyde Park, was by birth Miss Anne Colhoun Cunnighame, eldest daughter of the late Mr. John Cunnighame of Craigends, Renfrewshire. She was born in 1801, and in 1831 she was married, as his third wife, John Douglas Edward Henry, seventh Duke of Argyll, but left his widow without issue, in 1847. For the last few years of her life Her Grace had been a convert to the Roman Catholic faith, and as such she showed herself a most liberal supporter of the various charitable institutions of the Roman Catholic Church in the metropolis and elsewhere. The Duchess was step-mother to the present Duke of Argyll, and step grandmother to the Marquis of Lorne, the husband of the Princess Louise.

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil!—Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.Q., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents.

THE CANADIAN CANALS.

The process by which some men arrive at particular conclusions ranks among the mysteries of psychology. Ordinary people, accustomed to argue from analogy, or to generalize from appearances, are not seldom puzzled by the conclusions arrived at by men who affect extraordinary sagacity and skill in profound reasoning. These marvellously clever observers and thinkers seem not at all abashed by the general dissent from their conclusions, which they superciliously attribute to ignorance or inferiority of mental power on the part of the "common herd." The more improbable looking the said inferences may seem to the average reasoner, the more deserving of respect will they appear to their authors, whose giant faculties are not to be confined within the narrow range of those logical rules prescribed for the governance of the less gifted. We are forced to consider as among the erratic, unrestrained geniuses in question, some of the critics at present displeased with the Government, for causing the issue of the circular with regard to the Canals, from the office of the Chief Engineer of Public Works. This paper calls for information from the owners and captains of Lake and River craft, as also from Forwarders and Merchants, on the subject of the cost of transportation by our inland water routes, their condition, and other matters affecting the question of the propriety of their improvement. The ordinary reader, no matter how desirous of the enlargement of the Canals, or the reconstruction of other public works, could have had no cause of offence in this circular which, certainly, did anything but justify the apprehension that Ministers felt lukewarm in the matter, and designed to evade the responsibility of prosecuting enterprises long called for by a large and influential portion of the community, and in whose behalf the faith of the country is pledged. To the mind of the sensible man there can be nothing unwise or improper in efforts to obtain the largest possible amount of information respecting any subject of public interest or importance. Indeed, few will dispute the position that duty to the country, whose representatives and guardians Ministers are, demands all legitimate exertions at their hands to qualify them to discharge well and faithfully their duties as administrators of the public funds. Whatever indulgence might, in wealthy countries, be deemed due to well-meaning Ministers, on a rare occasion of a hasty or imprudent obligation, seriously affecting the national revenue, there is no great likelihood of its being extended to the authorities in Canada, which has ample work for all her revenue, and sufficient blunders of the past to point to as warning for the present and the future. Nor can it be fairly contended that the Government has at hand a superabundance of information with respect to the St. Lawrence Canals and related subjects, or that the trade, generally, are agreed as to the facts and deductions to be drawn from them. How often have not the public been enlightened by one set of theorists, only to be perplexed by another shortly after, each having fortified its position by imposing arrays of so-called facts and figures? The whole question of the state of our canals and the proper policy in relation to them is involved in mist and uncertainty of no trifling difficulty. For instance, some authorities assert that the Canadian canals, the St. Lawrence included, are capable of doing twice to thrice the business demanded of them, while there is no doubt, whatever, of their great superiority to the Erie in dimensions. Yet the latter passes a vastly greater volume of produce through to the East and West than the Canadian. Much as the Canadian Canals have been depreciated, their locks are works of large capacity, being 200 feet in length by 45 in breadth, with nine feet of water on the sills. Vessels of 600 tons can pass through, and, with different styles of boats, larger freights still could be carried. This is anything but a petty or sadly defective canal system. Indeed it is one of which Canada has good reason to be proud, and of which much greater advantage might have been taken by the American and Canadian carrying trade. For example, the Erie Canal has been gorged with traffic for years, while our larger and deeper channels have been comparatively idle. Of course they have been better employed the last few seasons, than formerly, but not to near their capacity. Last summer, though the St. Lawrence, both above and below Cornwall, continued higher than usual up to the end of September, the rainy season, the writer used to experience a feeling of surprise at its comparatively deserted appearance. During June, July, August and September few craft, indeed, if we accept the large passenger steamers, appeared to break the monotony of lonely river and quiet shores. Enormous quantities of merchandise might have been borne up and down without the slightest inconvenience to the trade actually accommodated. In giving this, the other side of a picture of "inadequate public works," so frequently drawn, we have no desire to discourage any improvements for which a good case can be shown. Only let us have all the information accessible, and try to ascertain the reason of the but partial use of already existing facilities. The fact of considerable doubt and conflict of statement on this subject is the best justification of the course taken by the Government. The answers to the questions despatched should contain much useful matter. It is just possible that some light may be cast upon the American reasons for preferring the Erie Canal to those of Canada, affording as the latter do, much cheaper transit—a fact which even the last assailant of the Government, in the Mail is forced to admit. Is this preference connected with the advantages of return freights to the West, greater banking and commercial facilities than could be obtained in Canada, old habits of trade, national feeling and kindred circumstances? Do all or any of these conditions operate, and to what extent, and what is the best way of counteracting them? Is it not worth our while, before embarking upon an additional expenditure of ten millions, to thoroughly acquaint ourselves with all the facts as to the canals as they stand, the causes of their partial failure, and to learn whether the contemplated improvements would pay, along with another very interesting fact—namely, the best means of making the most of these works pending the completion of such extensions as may be decided upon.

It is understood that Mr. Moss, member for West Toronto, will move the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

A large number of members of the Commons and Senate arrived yesterday, and this morning the arrivals will doubtless complete the full quota.

Mr. Thompson, the Member for Cariboo, in the last Parliament, stated before meetings of its electors that he would support the present Government if it kept faith with British Columbia, or did it justice. Provided the railway were commenced, and pushed vigorously, he would not complain of the delay of a year or two in its completion. He seemed to make a good impression on his former constituents.

The Mainland Guardian states that the agricultural element of British Columbia is constantly growing in importance, and will make itself more and more felt in the circle of public life hereafter. It is asserted that the fallacy as to a limited quantity of good land in that Province is exploded, and that larger quantities of farm produce than were dreamt of some time ago are now raised. In fact the complaint is as to the smallness of the market for it, the American market not being available, while that of British Columbia is open to the United States traders on easy conditions. The Province had been visited with snow-storms and gales before the mail just received here, left, with the usual result of injury to the roads. Great things, however, were hoped of the expenditure of the road money expected from the Dominion.

The Nouveau Monde professes to have received a private despatch from Ottawa, informing it that the Government have decided to name a Royal Commission for the purpose of making a thorough enquiry into the circumstances connected with Manitoba's entrance into the Union. The object which our contemporary assigns to this decision is the discovery of whether promises of amnesty have been made, as also the precise agreements on other subjects with the delegates from the North West some time ago.

L'Evenement also learns that Dr. Baillargeon will be named Senator for Stadacona Division in room of Hon. Mr. Chauveau, and that Mr. Eugene Panet will succeed Mr. Louis Panet, who has resigned. We understand that these appointments were completed yesterday.

The Nova Scotia Financial returns for 1873, show an expenditure of $681,275, of which $215,416 was spent on the roads of the different counties. Income, $672 551, which, increased by the balance of $38,916, made a total of $711,468. Of the revenue $481,106 was Dominion subsidy; Mines yielded $17,350; Hospital for Insane, $28,683; royalty on coal $83,507; emigration, $10 000; interest on bank deposit, 14,502. It will thus be seen the Province is living up to its means under all the advantages of better terms. Were the cost of the maintenance of the roads thrown upon the municipalities themselves, as in Quebec and Ontario, the Government might soon accumulate a respectable surplus. As it is, the people of Nova Scotia must be among the lightest taxed in the world.

The following Members of Parliament arrived in the City yesterday:—John Walker, London; Wm. McGregor, Windsor; James Norris, St. Catherines; E. Irving, Hamilton; L. Masson, Terrebonne; Geo. S. Orton, Fergus; Geo. Casey, Fingal; John Gillies, North Bruce; Mr. Desjardins, Montreal; Hon. Mr. Alexander, Woodstock; John Lorn McDougall, Renfrew; Hon. Mr. Kaulback Lunenburg; Hon. A. L. Palmer, St. John's; D Davies, P. E. Island; Hon. T. Robitaille, Quebec; G. Baby, Joliette; Mr. Laurier, Arthabaska; Hon. L. H Holton, Montreal; W. Gibson, Morrisburgh; Hon. W. A. Chaffers, S. B. Appleby, Woodstock, N B.; Hon. A. R. McLelan Nova Scotia; Chas. Burpee, New Brunswick; John Ferris, Victoria, N. B.; John Gillies Paisley; L. McCallum, Monck; Walter Ross, Picton; Lewis Ross, Port Hope; and David Mills, Chatham.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK SCHOOL QUESTION.

The following despatch from Earl Kimberley, is the reply to that of Earl Dufferin, of 27th May last, enclosing the Costigan Resolution, carried in the Federal Legislature, urging the disallowance of the New Brunswick School Acts, and which letter gives satisfaction to the Local Government party in that Province:

DOWNING STREET, 30th June, 1873.

The Earl of Kimberley to the Earl of Dufferin:—

MY LORD,—I referred to the law officers of the Crown your Lordship's despatch, with its enclosures, of the 27th May last, No. 137, in which you requested instructions as to the course you should take with regard to the resolution of the Canadian House of Commons, urging the disallowance of certain Acts passed by the New Brunswick Legislature with the view of legalizing a series of assessments made under the Common Schools Act of 1871, and in amendment of that Act.

2. I am advised, 1st, that these Acts of the New Brunswick Legislature are, like the Acts of 1871, within the powers of that Legislature. 2nd. That the Canadian House of Commons cannot constitutionally interfere with their operation by passing a resolution such as that of 14th of May last. If such a resolution were allowed to have effect, it would amount to a virtual repeal of the section of the British North America Act of 1867, which gives the exclusive right of legislation in these matters to the Provincial Legislatures. 3rd. That this is a matter in which you must act on your own individual discretion, and on which you cannot be guided by the advice of your responsible ministers of the Dominion. And 4th, That these Acts of the New Brunswick Legislature being merely Acts for better carrying out the Act of 1871, and for getting rid of technical objections to the assessments thereunder, it would be in accordance with the Imperial Act, and with the general spirit of the Constitution of the Dominion, as established by that Act, for you to allow these Acts to remain in force.

I have, &c.,
(Signed), KIMBERLEY.

BETTER TERMS AGAIN.

Some of the Halifax papers, including the organs of the Local Government, have been arguing the right of the Province to $10 000 a year more, by virtue of the recent Dominion Act, relieving Ontario and Quebec of their surplus debt, and making corresponding augmentations of the subsidy of the other Provinces. The re-adjustment as regards Nova Scotia was based upon the eight millions with which it was allowed to enter the Union in 1867, while it is contended it should have been made upon the $9,200,000 resulting to that Province from "better terms," and which removed its grievance. The inclusion of this addition of over a million would yield the $10 000 claimed, which the Local Legislature have decided to apply for. The Halifax Chronicle thus deals with New Brunswick's claim in the matter of the recent re-arrangement:—

New Brunswick has no such claims on the Dominion. The allowance of debt of that Province was, by the B. N. A. Act, fixed at seven millions. It has never been changed. It is still seven millions, and consequently seven millions was the only sum which could be made the basis of the calculation to fix the sum payable to New Brunswick under the new arrangement. But Mr. Wedderburn says—and the leaders of the New Brunswick Government endorse his remarks:

"The proportional increase granted to New Brunswick should be based on the capitalized amount by which the grant in lieu of port duty actually exceeds the revenue heretofore derived from the impost on American lumber."

This is a strange confession. New Brunswick's debt allowance, the only thing that can be regarded as the basis of an argument for compensation under the late arrangement, has not been altered. The Province receives, in addition to the subsidy under the B. N. A. Act, $150,000 a year as compensation for having given up the right to impose an export duty on American lumber—a source of revenue that was relinquished by the Province under the Treaty of Washington. Mr. Wedderburn now coolly tells the Dominion that the $150,000 is more than the export duty amounted to, and that the excess should be capitalized and regarded as an allowance of Provincial debt! A delegation of New Brunswickerers, if we remember correctly, went to Ottawa to present New Brunswick's claim for compensation for the relinquishment of the export duty. They fixed upon $150,000 as a fair compensation, and the Parliament of the Dominion agreed to pay that sum. If the amount was, as Mr Wedderburn now says it was, more than a compensation for the export duty, the New Brunswickers who demand it committed a gross fraud on the Dominion. This is strong language, but it is not too strong. The Dominion Government and Parliament regarded $150,000 as a fair compensation and granted the money for no other purpose, as may be seen by reference to the Act, Chapter 41 of 1873, page 125.

There is evidence at hand to show that the New Brunswick Government regarded the money as compensation for the export duty, and as nothing else. In the Lieut. Governor's speech at the opening of the session of the New Brunswick Legislature the following passage occurred:

"Since the last session of the Legislature, arrangements have been made with the Government of the Dominion, and with Parliamentary sanction, by which the Government of New Brunswick is to receive from the Government of Canada, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars per annum, and without limitation of time, as an equivalent for the surrender of the export duty authorized to be collected on lumber shipped from the Province. This arrangement was proposed by the Government of this Province to the Government of Canada at the time when the Treaty of Washington was under consideration by the Parliament of Canada. I trust you will consider this a liberal, but at the same time, only an equitable compensation for the authority thus surrendered."

But the Government in their speech went further. They not only treated the $150,000 as an equivalent for the export duty, but they spoke of the amount coming to them under the re-adjustment of debt, and accepted it without a word of murmur. Here are Governor Tilley's words:—

"On the 23rd of May last His Excellency the Governor General gave his assent to an Act of Parliament authorizing the Dominion Government to assume the surplus debt of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. This Act also provides that the debts of the other Provinces authorized by the British North America Act are to be increased in like proportion. This arrangement will add to the income of New Brunswick upwards of fifty-eight thousand dollars a year."

In the face of all these facts the claim now put forward by Mr Wedderburn, and endorsed by the leaders of the Government can only be regarded as a dishonorable attempt to give trouble to the Government of Mr. Mackenzie.

The St. John Freeman thus replies to the above:

"The Halifax Chronicle is disturbed because the New Brunswick Government have evinced a disposition to demand like treatment for this Province if Nova Scotia's share in the re-adjustment of the debt is to be calculated upon the principle which the Nova Scotia Government say is the correct principle. Surely New Brunswick is entitled to fair play, and even-handed justice. Because New Brunswick's seven millions were not increased as were Nova Scotia's eight millions, the Chronicle thinks we are entitled to nothing, thus making one wrong the justification of another."

Close of the British Columbia Legislature.

This body was closed on 3rd inst after transacting a considerable amount of important business, with the following speech from the Lieutenant Governor:—

SPEECH.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I thank you for the attention which you have given to your duties during a protracted and not uneventful session.

The policy of preparing our Province for settlement, by the building of colonization roads and trails, the construction of important public works, and the extension of surveys upon a scale not hitherto attempted, meets with my hearty approval.

This policy is the true basis of a successful immigration scheme in the future. Its advantages are not even confined to success in this quarter. It will stimulate trade. It will improve the condition and increase the prosperity of our farmers, by affording them easy access to new, and, at present, inaccessible markets for the sale of their produce. It will insure profitable employment to our mechanics. It will develop our mineral wealth. It will materially assist our pastoral interests, and thus retain for expenditures in the Province, partially, if not wholly, large sums of money which have hitherto been paid by us to foreign markets. I have, therefore, cheerfully assented to the appropriations which you have, with prudent liberality, made for these objects, as beneficial results of a permanent character are sure to flow from legislation so directed.

I shall not hesitate to avail myself of the powers placed at my disposal to obtain the funds necessary to carry out this policy, either, as expediency may direct, through the medium of the Act to amend Articles 2 and 12 of the Terms of Union, or by means of the provisions of the Loan Act, being fully satisfied that the former Act cannot invalidate, or serve as a pretext for any alteration in the railway clause, which forms the main bond of our alliance with Canada. In this matter of paramount importance to the Province, I shall act in the future, as I have acted in the past—steadfastly objecting to any relaxation of its condition—strongly protesting against its non-fulfilment—and strenuously renewing my efforts to secure its faithful performance. Following the course which I pursued on the 25th of July and 24th November last, I have, in compliance with your recent address, again entered a strong protest against the continued breach of the agreement referred to.

I regard with satisfaction, the liberal provisions of the bill amending the law relating to the acquisition of our Crown Lands.

The simple and inexpensive mode of Registration by Voters, under the Act to which I have just given my assent, will be found satisfactory when carried into practice.

I thank you in the name of Her Majesty for the Supplies which you have voted.

Before relieving you, I may add that the interest and importance of the questions which you have decided will mark this as a memorable session in our history, and I feel confident that its results will eminently promote the welfare of our Province.

Political relations between Corea and and Japan have of late years undergone an unpleasant change, in consequence of the former refusing to pay tribute to the latter. Matters have now assume a serious aspect. Already disturbances have occurred in one district of Japan, and Iwakura, who, while heading the Embassy to Europe, held the second post in the Government, has resigned the Premiership. His resignation, however, has been refused.

The St. John, N. B., Telegraph says:—

'There are strong rumors in Fredericton of a serious misunderstanding between the Government and the Riviere du Loup Railway Company. On the other hand, the fact alleged seems improbable. The Government, in the case of persons of such influence as the members of the company, are likely to be desirous of meeting their views as far as possible; while the high character of the members of the company seems to exclude the idea of their asking anything to which they are not entitled. Besides, the arrangement between the Government and the company must be defined by documents. Surely, then, there can be no disagreement, such as the foes of the Government would like to hear of.'

The Imperial Law Officers and that Resolution.

It is gratifying to note how strong and clear is the opinion elicited last June from the Imperial Law officers respecting the proceedings of the Canadian Parliament in regard to certain Acts passed by our Legislature last Spring. The views we have enunciated from time to time in respect to those proceedings are completely sustained by that opinion. All the more importance is to be attached to this decision because it must have accorded with the sentiments of Lord High Chancellor Selborne, one of the profoundest and most conscientious of living lawyers. It may be peculiarly pleasing to the Local Government to observe how thoroughly the position taken up in the remonstrance presented at Ottawa to the Governor General by some of its members against the arrogant, and unconstitutional action of Parliament, is sustained by the English Crown Law Officers.—St. John News.

The Latest.

We learn that Hon. James McDonald is about to be the recipient of a present from his admirers in this County, and collectors are said to be scouring the country collecting money to form such testimonial fund. Subscriptions are being taken from twenty-five cents and upward. In Bailey's Brook section 3 collectors have the matter in hand. We understand money has been contributed to this proposed fund in Westville and some other places. Some think the "present" idea is simply a blind; that the fund is really to enable Mr. Doull to prosecute his protest against Messrs. Carmichael and Dawson, which the leading men of the Conservative Party in Pictou and New Glasgow have repudiated, and which finds no favor in the eyes of Hon. James McDonald himself.—East Chronicle

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—A soiree will be held in the basement of St. Andrew's Church to-morrow (Thursday) evening, under the Ladies' Aid Society of the congregation. Refreshments served at 7:30; chair to be taken at 8.15. Addresses by several city clergymen and members of Parliament. Music by the choir, under the direction of Mr. Baxter, organist of the Church. Tickets 25 cents. 25 26

CITY AND VICINITY

PERSONAL.—The Hon. C. F. Fraser has returned to Brockville, after his Legislative duties in Toronto.

GRAND TRUNK.—The attention of our readers is directed to the new spring arrangements upon the Grand Trunk Railway in another column.

THOSE CROWS.—Throughout the city yesterday, a number of crows might be seen hovering over it, doubtless the true harbingers of an early spring.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Richardson of the Globe, Mr. Brokowski of the Gazette, Winnipeg; Mr. Gordon of the Mercury, Quebec, and Mr. Dansereau of the Minerve, arrived in the city yesterday.

DIVISION COURT.—The Division Court will open to-morrow, before His Honor, Judge Armstrong, at 10 o'clock, a. m. All interested had better take a note of this, and govern themselves accordingly.

LITERARY.—The adjourned lecture under the auspices of the "Ottawa Literary and Scientific Society," will be delivered to-night (Thursday) the 26th inst., by Edward Miall, jr., in the rooms of the Society. Subject: 'What is the Legitimate Sphere of the Government.'

STEAM FIRE ENGINE.—Mr. Murphy was out airing his fine team of iron greys yesterday, with the new steam fire engine. He drove through the principal streets of the city; and the horses, notwithstanding all that has been said, walked right away with the engine.

SOCIAL.—All those desirous of spending a pleasant evening, should go to the Soiree in St. Andrew's Church, Wellington street, to-night. A good time is expected, as the Ladies' Aid Society are using their utmost endeavours to make the affair a success. The admission fee is only 25 cents.

MESMERISM.—Those interested and desirous of enjoying a good night's sport should visit Gowan's Opera House to witness the Mesmeric performances of Miss Annie de Montford. They are likely to prove the most amusing seances that the citizens of Ottawa have had the pleasure of enjoying for some time past.

SUGAR LOAF.—All those desirous of procuring the finest brand of wines, recommended by the Physicians of the City, let them go to "Slocombe & Stevens," on the corner of Cumberland and Rideau streets, and ask for "Quetton and St. George's Wines." A fine assortment of Groceries and General Provisions also on hand.

THE LATE BISHOP GUIGUES.—This morning, at St. John Baptiste Church, Chaudiere, there will be service said for the late Bishop Guigues. The Right Rev. Father Dandurand, Administor of the Diocese will officiate. The Rev. Mr. Alleau, curate of St. Anne, will pronounce an obituary oration. Seats will be reserved for members of Parliament.

THE VICE REGAL BALL.—The subscriptions in aid of the proposed citizen's ball to His Excellency and the Countess of Dufferin, have already reached the sum of $3000, and will yet be considerably increased. An endeavour is being made to secure the Senate Chamber for the purpose of holding the ball, a project which we trust will be attended with success.

FIELD BATTERY.—The Ottawa Field Battery will parade to day at 1 p m., sharp, at the Drill Shed, from which the battery will proceed with four guns, under the command of Captain Stewart, to Parliament Square, where the usual salutes of 17 guns each will be fired in honor of the opening of the first Session of a new Parliament.

BAZAAR.—The ladies of the Congregation Church, City Hall Square, intend opening their bazaar on Monday, the 30th March, at 11 o'clock a m., in Robinson's new block, Sparks street, and will continue it during the two following days. Luncheon will be served each day from 12 o'clock to two, and refreshments at all hours. Musical and other entertainments each evening. 2525-5i

GUARD OF HONOR.—The Ottawa Brigade Garrison Artillery will detail one field officer, one captain, two subalterns, four sergeants, one bugler and 100 rank and file, together with the regimental band, to form a Guard of Honor this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, to His Excellency the Governor General. Major Eggleson will be field officer, and the detachment will be under the command of Captain Graham, having as subalterns Lieutenants Evans and Grant. The corps will move from the drill shell at 2:40 p m., sharp, to Parliament Square, to be in time to receive His Excellency at 3 o'clock.

SALE OF LUMBERING PROPERTY.—The lumbering property of the insolvent firm of E W. Wheeler & Co., at Musquodoboit Harbor, consisting of 14,000 acres of land, with mills, privileges, &c., was sold at auction by Mr. Nash, on Wednesday, to Rumsey, Ruel & Co, of Halifax, for $4,100. About seven thousand logs in the river, estimated at a million and a half feet of lumber, were purchased by the same parties for $50. The property originally cost $65,000, but was mortgaged for $12,000.

IN MEMORIAM.—The turtle which walked into Ottawa lately, will be walked into by Ottawa, at the Queen's to-day. In addition to the polite return of a compliment, this famous Floridian will illustrate, if not establish the old Hindoo theory that the world rests on a turtle's back. Our political world has often had a far less agreeable and substantial support. Without offence to any denomination it claimed to be a hard-shell Baptist, with a preference for displaying the Irish colours near the 17th of March. "The dear departed" resigned life cheerfully in the hope of striking a blow at all such culinary shams as mock turtle, which is thought unworthy to appear on any bill of fare during Parliamentary sessions. We have no doubt all Opposition to this feast will be effectually swamped.

Spring Assizes.

SECOND DAY.

The Court of Assize met again yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock; His Lordship Justice Galt presiding.

CIVIL CASES.

The case of Gildersleeve vs. Bailiff. et al., was resumed. R. A. Bradley and R. Cassels for plaintiff. W. A. Ross, Attorney for defendant. Verdict for plaintiff for $1259 23.

TRUE BILLS.

The Grand Jury brought in the following true bills:—

Frank Rivers, for larceny.
Joseph Jellie, for larceny; two bills.
Susan Colton, for larceny.
Henry Burch, for shop-lifting and larceny therein.
Thos. Burke, for larceny; no bill.

Another case was called from the civil docket, but a discussion having arisen as to jurisdiction, it was deemed advisable to postpone its consideration till this morning.

The Court accordingly adjourned till 9:30 o'clock this morning.

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S FOOT GUARDS.

Concert.

A grand vocal and instrumental concert in aid of the Reading Room and Library Fund, under the immediate patronage of His Excellency the Governor General and Countess Dufferin, took place last evening in the Rink Music Hall, which presented as gay an appearance as a profuse display of bunting, and pleasing sword and bayonet devices could give it. The attendance which would no doubt have been larger but for counter attractions, was very select. The concert commenced with an overture which was well executed by the Band of the Regiment. The next feature on the programme deserving of special notice was the rendering of Brindley Richards' Cambrian war song "The March of the Men of Harlech." This was vigorously given by some fifty stalwart men of the Regiment, which although its history may be new, and it may have no record of past achievement on its colors, or indeed as yet possess any colors whatever, contains within its ranks a manly physique, an intelligence and patriotism of which we may well feel proud. The chorus so completely aroused the feelings of the audience that it had to be repeated. 'The Stirrup Cup' was next very nicely sung by Mr. Major, who appears amongst us for the first time in public. This gentleman has an excellent voice and will be a very pleasing singer when he shall have acquired a little more confidence. Miss Brokovski next appeared and sang in her usual splendid style, and was honored with an encore. Later on in the evening she sang again with the same success. Mr. Shepherd sang in good style, as did also Miss Poetter; and Dr. J. T. Newell, an amateur new to the Ottawa public sang Schubert's song 'The Wanderer,' and in response to an encore, gave 'The Monks of Old.' Dr. Newell reappeared later in the evening, and was, as on the first occasion loudly applauded. After an overture by the band, the 'Soldier's Chorus' from Faust, was rendered very successfully by the men of the regiment, and Miss Poetter, Mrs. Percival Sheppard, Mr. McLean and Mr. Sinclair, sang the songs allotted to them with taste and judgment, and well merited the applause bestowed on them. The performance ended with the National Anthem. The arrangements, including the reception of the ladies, and seating of the audience, were admirable, and reflected credit on the energetic captain of No. 2. Company, Captain Macpherson, to whom the success which attended the entertainment is mainly due.

Taylor's Comic Opera.

Gowan's Opera House was visited by a large audience last night, the source of attraction being the performance of Taylor's Comic Opera Troupe. As we predicted in a former issue, the entertainment proved to be a success, in every sense of the term. An overture, by Mr. Chas. Archer, on the piano, introduced the programme. Miss Ada Alexandra followed in a beautiful ballad and being encored sang 'Beloved Star,' in fine voice, for which she was rapturously applauded. Mr. Taylor himself next followed with "Yorkshire Sam," in a way, well calculated to illustrate his powers as an imitator of dialect; but his grimaces were what most captivated the house with laughter. He followed with "The Mournful Swain," the personification of which character kept the house fairly convulsed with side-splitting laughter. The next man who came upon the scene was Mr. Thomas Adams, a great delineator of the German character, and in which, we think he cannot be excelled. His stump speech has not been equalled in negro minstrelsy, even by the great "Cool Burgess" himself, while his clog dancing won the plaudits of the audience. Taylor, however, exhibited his wonderful powers, as a comedian, in "Sarah Walker," an eccentric Old Maid, and "Simple Simon." The acting of Miss Alexandra and Mr. Taylor in "Life in Lancashire and 'The Stage Struck Domestic," was deservedly applauded. The whole entertainment from first to last was the best that has been in Ottawa for some time, and we are pleased to learn that Mr. Taylor purposes returning to this city in a couple of weeks, to spend a short season in the capital.

OTTAWA MARKETS.

TIMES OFFICE, March 25.

Sleighing having nearly broken up, the markets are dull. There is, however, not much change in prices. Hay is brought in on waggons in great abundance which has had the effect of giving it a downward tendency. Wood is firm owing to its scarcity. Cereals and dairy products are on demand, but scarce owing to the bad roads. The fish market is active and will probably be so for another week. The following are to-day's quotations:—

BIRTH.

At Papineauville, Quebec, on the 21st instant, Mrs. F. Samuel McKay, Notary and Mayor of Papineauville, of a daughter.

HAVING SUFFERED FOR SEVERAL Years from Dyspepsia resulting in great nervous prostration and general debility, impoverished blood, Eruption of the Skin, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Restlessness, want of sleep and extreme lassitude, I was recommended to take Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya. Having persisted in its use for several weeks I recovered perfect health. My wife and children also have taken it, for Tonic purposes to invigorate and strengthen the system and promote the formation of pure blood, with permanent benefit. It effectually sustains the vital force in a remarkable manner.

BY TELEGRAPH

TORONTO.

TORONTO, March 25th

Some hitch has occurred in the arrangements for the production of the Canada First organ the Nation, and it will not appear until to-morrow week.

Several members of Parliament passed through the city to-day on their way to Ottawa.

Mr Cumberland, M.P.P., for Algoma, announces his intention of resigning his end of the present Parliament, or at an seat on account of the press of railway business at the earlier date if his constituency so desires.

There was a largely attended meeting of the Mason's to-night, at which preliminary steps were taken for the formation of a Masonic Mutual Insurance Company.

A curious scene occurred at the Assize Court this morning. No cases were ready, and Judge Hagerty announced his intention of striking one case off the docket every quarter of an hour, till he considered that a few days business was done. He had not removed many cases before some one was ready.

QUEBEC.

Personal—Sudden Death—Contested Elections—Local Legislature—Weather.

QUEBEC, March 24.

Several Senators and members of the House of Commons left town this evening for Ottawa to attend the opening of the Dominion Parliament.

A bookseller, named Jean Marcotte, aged 37 years, died suddenly while returning from market to his residence. The Coroner held an inquest, and returned a verdict of "Death from the visitation of God."

The Election Court, composed of Chief Justice Meredith and Justices Stuart and Tessier, met yesterday morning. Application was made in the cases touching the elections of the Counties of Megantic, Arthabaska, Charlevoix, and L'Islet, by the sitting members, respondents, to have all proceedings stayed until after the close of the present session of Parliament, on the ground that their attendance was required at Ottawa. Cause was shown by the petitioners against this application, and it was taken en délibéré. Mr. Alleyn, for the petitioners, replied to-day, and judgment is expected on Saturday.

It is said that Mr. P. V. Valin, candidate for the representation of Quebec East in the Local House, will retire in favor of the Hon. Mr. Chauveau, who would be the Government candidate in opposition to Mr. L. B. Caron.

Weather intensely cold. Thermometer this morning 12° below zero.

HALIFAX.

Marine—Weather—Ice Field—Accident.

HALIFAX, March 24.

Str. 'Canadian' arrived from Baltimore last night, and sailed for England at noon to-day.

Str. 'Newfoundland' sailed for St John's, Newfoundland, this evening.

Weather clear and cold, and light snow squalls during the day. The ice is clearing out of the Cape Breton harbour.

Immense field of Bay ice is floating to the southward of the island.

The other day a lad named Katchford, a driver in the Lingan mines, C. B., by the horse attached to the tub starting suddenly, had the end of a shaft driven into his mouth and through his cheek, taking two teeth with it and injuring the jaw.

BUCKINGHAM.

Trotting Races.

BUCKINGHAM, March 25.

The races took place on the ice, a mile heat from Smith's Point to the Landing. First race, four entries; Labouglie's mare, Campeau's mare Bernadin's horse, and Julien's blood. Labouglie's mare reached the winning post about 200 feet ahead of Campeau's mare; both making very nice running. The other two broke badly and came in a long distance behind.

Second race—Entries, Hewston's 'Fannie,' Labouglie's mare, Campeau's mare, and Bernadin's horse. Hewston's 'Fannie' took the race, by 30 feet in advance of Campeau's mare; Labouglie's mare hard by; Bernadin's horse breaking badly again.

HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, March 24.

At 11 o'clock to day the Hamilton Presbytery met in the Central Church for the purpose of considering the call from Knox Church of this city to the Rev. W. H. Renelson. That gentlemen was present, and upon the call being handed to him by the Presbytery, he in due course accepted, Tuesday, the 14th of April was fixed for the ordination. The Presbytery appointed the Rev. J. G Murray to preside, Rev. Mr. Dawson to preach, Rev. Mr. McLeod to address the congregation, and the Rev. Mr Black to address the Minister at the ordination services.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, March 24.

The Election Court sat this morning. Judges Torrance and Beaudry decided that its composition was constitutional, Judge Mondelet dissenting; the Court adjourned until the 7th proximo, when it is understood that the Two Mountains case will be considered.

Dr. Schultz is in town.

At a meeting just held of the City Council on the subject of a new railway station in the heart of the city, a letter from Mr. Brydges informed them that it would cost $500,000 to build the extension from the present depot to the Champ de Mars, without taking into account the damage to property along the proposed route. By a letter from the Minister of Justice, which was read, it appears that the Government is willing to give up the Champ de Mars for the proposed station. The Council, by a majority of one, decided to obtain estimates of the cost of the scheme from the City Surveyor. It was said that the scheme would require the making of an elevated line from the present station to the Champ de Mars, made as in London, England, which would cost no less than $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, March 24.

The primary and final examinations in medicine in connection with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons closed last evening, the following gentlemen passing the "final":—Messrs. K. N. Fenwick, A. M. Gibson and S. C. MacLean, without an "oral," also W. Claxton, J. Jones and H. D. Ford. Primary Messrs. Betts, Carscallen, "oral." Also Masson, Dingman, Preston, Deynard, and G. Dowsley.

The ferry boat's trips across to Cape Vincent are stopped by the ice jammed against Wolf Island shore being from tight.

ST. CATHARINES.

ST. CATHARINES, March, 24.

The preparations made for the arrival of Archbishop Lynch and the Carmelite Brothers were in style and elegance, a princely affair. He was diven from the station in a large carriage drawn by four grey horses, making a splendid appearance. On arriving at the Church he was presented with addresses of welcome from the different societies, which he replied to by a papal benediction.

Division Court.

LONDON, March 24.

A case of some interest came up at the Division Court to-day. A man named Taylor who had bet that Carling would have 150 majority, refused to sanction the payment of the bet, and he now sues the stakeholder to recover the amount of the bet $50. After hearing the evidence, a verdict was given by consent for the defendant, the legal point to be argued before the County Judge on Thursday.

GODERICH.

Railway Bonus.

GODERICH, March 24.

Mr. Fowler, the promoter of the Huron and Quebec Railroad, visited this place yesterday in the interest of the road. A special meeting of the Town Council was held last night when a by-law to grant a bonus of $100,000 passed its first reading without opposition. It will be read a second time on Friday, after which it will be published, and submitted to the people.

ENGLAND.

Review.

LONDON, March 24.—The Queen will review the soldiers of the Ashantee expedition at Windsor next Monday.

Deputation.

Mr. Disraeli has consented to receive a deputation of 70 Irish members of Parliament who come to urge the release of the Fenian convicts. Dr. Butt, and Messrs. Martin, Ronayne, Sullivan and others will address the Premier on the occasion. The members of the deputation are very hopeful of receiving a favorable reply.

New Lord Rector.

It is reported that Ralph Waldo Emerson will receive the nomination for Lord Rector of the University of Glasgow, to succeed the Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli.

Marine.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 24.—The steamer 'Silesia,' which put in here leaking, has repaired damages and sailed.

FRANCE.

Adjournment.

PARIS, March 24.—The Assembly has resolved to adjourn from the 28th of March until the 2nd of May.

Restoration of Monarchy.

A deputation of Royalists will soon visit Count de Chambord, and make the last effort to effect the restoration of Monarchy.

Siege of Bilboa.

BAYONNE, March 24.—The Carlists are throwing incendiary shells into Bilboa with terrible effect—whole streets are reported to be in flames. The recent engagement before the city, resulted in the occupation by the besiegers of Albia, a suburb on the left bank of Merhion.

UNITED STATES.

Losses.

WORCESTER, O., March 24.—Among the losses by yesterday's fire were: Rowlens & Co., $5,000; Barrett & Ogden, $10,000 stock and $10 000 on building; Arcadian building, $15,000. Some wholly and others partially insured in Eastern and Western Companies.

More Fires.

NORWALK, Ct., March 24.—Loss by fire here to-day, $30,000; Peck's drug store and adjoining building destroyed.

The Ship Yard Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—Total loss by the fire at Cramp's ship yard, $175,000. Burning brands carried across the river set fire to Mondeson's mill and other property on Pette's Island; destroyed property valued at $50,000; insured for $6,000.

Fire from Engine Sparks.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Sparks from a locomotive on a South Side Railroad, Long Island, yesterday, fired the underbrush near Breslou, which spread over three miles of territory within three hours, burning a great quantity of standing timber, wood fences, hay, &c. One farmer lost 17 cows. Loss about $150,000.

Terrible Tragedy.

Two buildings were burned at 42nd street, New Haven, last night. In one tenement house Mrs. Burns and three children were burned to death. Burns jumped on to an adjoining building, with one child, and was unable to return to rescue his wife and three other children. The scene among the poor tenants was of the most appalling character. It is believed these four were the only victims. But few particulars can so far be ascertained. None of the bodies have yet been found. A number of poor families lost everything, even their clothing.

Fire.

Fell & Bryant's hat factory, Shamrock Hall, and other buildings were burned at Orange, N.J., last night. Loss, $22,000; partly insured.

Naval Operations.

NEW YORK, March 24.—A Key West despatch states that a naval armed force of 2000 men made a landing yesterday under cover of a heavy fire from gunboats. After the landing and skirmish, a dress parade and review by Admiral Case followed. A large crowd was present. The Juniata goes to Havana to-morrow. The filibuster steamer 'Gen. Sherman' has been turned over to the courts.

$50,000 Fire.

A fire in Newark avenue, Jersey City, this a.m., destroyed the stores of D. T. Smith, hardware; Armstrong, boots and shoes; Christy, hay and feed, with several horses; Riley, crockery; also a brush store and saloon; total loss, $50,000.

PROTECTION.

Meeting of Montreal Merchants.

Yesterday afternoon a large meeting of merchants to consider the subject of protection of home manufactures was held at the Mechanics' Hall.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Benjamin Lyman, and Mr. J. J. Maclaren acted as Secretary.

The Chairman said the object they had in view was one over which he had often pondered, and lately he had the honor of attending a large meeting on the question in Toronto, the result of which the deputation to Ottawa, which had a very satisfactory interview with the Finance Minister and the Minister of Customs as well as with the Premier, who avowed himself a free trader, and he would do everything for the interests of the country, and if protection was shown to be beneficial to the country's welfare, he would not oppose it. The Finance Minister stated he was a protectionist, and hoped to see Kingston a centre of the iron trade. These expressions of opinion were encouraging, and he (the chairman) hoped the meeting would receive with approbation the resolutions to be submitted.

Mr. Rodden then moved the first resolution:

That the Council of the Montreal Industrial Association should co-operate with the Ontario Association in urging upon the Government and Parliament such a policy as is required to further industrial prosperity and properly adjust the trade relations of this country; and that we recommend the formation of a Provincial or Central Canada Industrial Association, composed of the existing Montreal Association and of such other similar ones as may be formed in this Province or vicinity, and that immediate steps be taken to carry the same into active operation.

He asserted that a non protective policy drew the resources of the country off, and that a great change was observable after the imposts of 1858-9. The reorganization of the old protective Association was strongly urged, as he said the Americans intended to make a war upon the industries of Canada—to make this country their sacrifice market and to keep their people and industries at home.

Mr. A. W. Ogilvie seconded the resolution, which was supported by Mr. W. S. Macdonald, and on being put to the meeting was carried unanimously.

Mr. Boivin moved the second resolution.

That in the opinion of this meeting the Customs Tariff should be so adjusted as to afford scope for the development of all industries which can be carried on advantageously in the country, thereby promoting the increase of population and the wealth of the community.

Messrs. Jette, M.P., L.O., David and M. Ryan, M.P., supported the resolution, which was carried.

Mr. Thomas White, Jr., moved the third resolution seconded by Mr. E. K. Greene:

That in the opinion of this meeting, the present Customs Tariff is not such as to meet the requirements of the country, and a wise and equitable adjustment of the Customs duties, which will secure more thoroughly industrial protection to home industry, cannot be injurious to other interests, but will substantially promote and improve the agricultural, commercial and industrial prosperity of Canada.

Ald. McGauvran and Mr. McCulloch, of Brockville, spoke in support of the motion, which was unanimously agreed to.

Mr. Clendinning moved, seconded by Mr. Henry Lyman,

That in the opinion of this meeting the principle which should obtain in any fair scheme of customs duties in the relative amount of labour and cost expended upon the raw material in the various articles prepared for consumption. Carried.

The Chairman then called upon the gentlemen present to give in their names as members of the new association, the subscription to which was nominally fixed at $5, and announced that a mass meeting would be held at an early date.

The meeting then terminated.—Herald, 25th.

Senator Montgomery.

We clip the following from the Patriot:—In anticipation of his leaving for Ottawa in a few days resigned his presidency of the Legislative Council on Tuesday. On Wednesday evening Hon. Senator Haythorne on behalf of his brother Councillors and at their request, presented Mr. Montgomery with a complimentary address, signed by all the members of the Upper House, together with a splendid gold watch, as a small token of their respect and kind regard for their late President. Mr. Haythorne prefaced the reading of the address with some very appropriate and flattering observations. Mr. Montgomery, with considerable emotion, acknowledged the honor so unexpectedly done him on the occasion, and cordially thanked the donors for their valuable gift. It had always been his aim to do justice in the chair, and if he erred at any time, it was not because he wished to do so. He would carry the watch near his heart, and every time he looked at its dial face, it would remind him of his friends in the Legislative Council of P. E. Island, and of the many happy hours he had spent among them. The following is the address, and the honorable gentleman's reply:—

ADDRESS.

To the Hon. Donald Montgomery, Senator, Member and late President of the Legislative Council:

DEAR SIR,—The undersigned members of the Legislative Council, on the occasion of your retirement from the important and responsible position of their President, desire to express to you their high sense of the ability and impartiality which have ever characterized your conduct in the chair, as well as your urbanity and liberal hospitality in the President's room; and while they rejoice that your talents are now to be exercised in the larger and more important sphere afforded by the Senate Chamber of Canada, they cannot avoid feeling that your departure deprives them for a time of a warm and genial friend, and also entails on the Local Legislature the loss of a valued and experienced member.

In token of the feelings of friendship and esteem they so sincerely entertain towards you, they request the acceptance of the accompanying case containing a gold watch and key, together with their best wishes for your present and future happiness.

REPLY.

To the Honourable Herbert Bell, President, and the Members of the Legislative Council:

GENTLEMEN: Accept my warmest thanks for the sentiments contained in the address presented me on the occasion of my retirement from the Presidency of your Honourable Body.

During the twelve successive years that by the unanimous consent of the Legislative Council, I have occupied the exalted position of its President, I have enjoyed the most cordial relations with its members.

For your very handsome present, I return you my grateful acknowledgments, and whilst it marks the time that rolls away, it will recall to my mind the many happy hours that we have spent together, both in legislating for the good of our country, and in social intercourse one with another.

DONALD MONTGOMERY.

The Hon. Robt. Bell, the portly member for Cascumpec, has been chosen President in Senator Montgomery's place. We congratulate him upon his promotion, and we are sure he will fill the chair well.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. Strong, seconded by Mr. Balderston, and unanimously carried:

Resolved—That the Legislative Council cannot permit the Honorable Donald Montgomery to retire from the office of President of this Branch of the Legislature without giving expression to their high sense of the zeal, fidelity, impartiality and ability with which he has always performed the duties of that important office since this Council became elective, and the Council assures Mr. Montgomery that he carries with him the best wishes of every member thereof, and we also beg to congratulate His Honor on account of his advancement to a seat in the Senate of the Dominion of Canada.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers 251

Dr. Livingston's son believes that his father is dead, because Chuma, the Tassick boy who brought the news to Unyanyembe, was one of the Doctor's most faithful attendants, and he and Sassa were they whom Stanley found holding with him through thick and thin. They were with Dr. Livingstone ever since he entered Africa in 1865.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Times promptly responding to Mr. Disraeli's hint as to the disposal of the surplus, has already begun to plead the claims and necessities of Bengal. In his latest telegram, he states that the famine will cost not less than £5,000,000, and that the expenditure of a sum quite as large will be made in connection with the extraordinary public works.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for the Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the ever-changing phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all tha proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine Anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fairly contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $500 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to actual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of Dr. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by AILEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Loominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

PROSPECTUS.

On or about the 30th SEPTEMBER, 1873, published, price $3.00,

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;
each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell, Montreal.

Enamellene

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, many Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at 10 cents per box.

Caution.

GENUINE PANCREATINE PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

The Original and only Manufacturer Chemists to the Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, H.I.M. Napoleon the Third, His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, &c.,

143 NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

LINE OF TRANSPORTATION FOR PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, will be received at this office up to the 20th April next, for working the line of transportation leading from Thunder Bay to Fort Garry, during the ensuing season of navigation.

The line is in two Sections, viz:—the Eastern Section, extending from Prince Arthurs Landing to the North West Angle of the Lake of the Woods—and the Western Section, from the North West Angle to Fort Garry.

Tenders may be for the whole line, or separately for either of these two Sections.

The Plant and Buildings now on the route will be turned over for the time being, for the use of the line, to the party or parties to whom the contract for this Service may be awarded.

Schedules of Plans and Buildings can be seen at this Office and at the following Offices, viz:—Public Works, Toronto; Alan Macdougall, Esq., C. E., Collingwood; Inland Revenue Office, Sarnia; and Office of Lake of the Woods Road, Fort Garry.

All additional outfit required must be provided by the Contractors.

The means of transportation to be maintained on a scale sufficient to ensure the conveyance of passengers and freight over the route without delay.

The rates for freight and passengers, and bonus for the season, to be specified in the Tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

Further information can be obtained at this Office, and at the above-mentioned Offices

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Post Office, Ottawa," will be received at this office until Saturday, the 28th day of MARCH next, at noon, for the finishing and completion of the above buildings.

Plans, specifications, &c., can be seen at the office of Walter Chesterton, Esq., architect, Ottawa, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 11th inst., where forms of Tender, &c., and all necessary information can be obtained.

Contractors are notified that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signature and the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to an amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract.

To the Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TIMES will not be held responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

The Law of Storms.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—It is not my present purpose to discuss this well-worn, but still unfathomed subject, at the hands of British and American Scientific men, but merely to draw attention to the fact, that practical Meteorologists, outside the Scientific circle, are disgusted at the large amount of money expended for so small an amount of practical knowledge obtained as to the form of Cyclones or hurricanes, as an instance of which I quote the following from "Symon's Magazine" for last month, published in London:—

"Nothing more startling (and both as regards human life and property, more serious) has occurred for many years, than the discussion now in progress, as to the 'Form of Cyclones.' We do not feel justified in expressing even the faintest opinion whether the form of a cyclone is that hitherto assumed of winds blowing round a centre, or that assumed by Mr. Meldrum (of Mauritius) that they are of the incurving form. We presume no opinion whatever on the question; but as it has been raised, we have a few very serious remarks to offer. Meteorology cannot perhaps show a very glittering array of benefits conferred mankind, but one of its gems has certainly been the rules whereby captains would know the bearing of the centre of violent storms, and how to avoid them, thereby saving innumerable lives and untold millions of property. All at once, however, we are told these rules are incorrect, that by obeying them a captain may actually steer into destruction; and in fact, that our supposed gem is but an imitation! We have in this country a Meteorological Office, with a princely, if not regal income, and a Department of it under a like naval man. It is possible to imagine any better applications of the entire strength and resources of that office, than to the immediate and thorough investigation of the rival theories and the prompt and authoritative announcement of the result? It appears to us that, in the interests of both humanity and science, it is the bounden duty of the authorities to put aside all other work, and concentrate their strength on this question. Delay may mean destruction; and there is no necessity for delay, because ample materials exist, and it is merely necessary to examine with which theory the facts most frequently harmonise. Moreover, it is to be done quickly; for few things can do more to discredit meteorological work, than for naval men to find even the leaders of meteorological research in doubt on so vital a point."

Thoroughly endorsing the suggestions of the writer of the above, and recommending them to the careful consideration of those at the head of the Signal Service Department of America and Canada, I close the present communication with an extract from DeMorgan's "Budget of Paradoxes," as shewing the inferior scientific position in which Meteorology was held by the Astronomer Royal, of England, in 1867:—

"In the report of the Greenwich Board of visitors for 1867, Mr. Airy, speaking of the increase of Meteorological observations, remarks: 'Whether the effect of this movement will be that millions of useless observations will be added to the millions that already exist, or whether something may be expected to result which will lead to a Meteorological theory, I cannot hazard a conjecture.' This is a conjecture," proceeded DeMorgan, "and and a very obvious one, if Mr. Airy would have given 2½d. for the chance of a Meteorological theory found by masses of observations, he would never have said what I have quoted."

I am Sir
Yours respectfully,
M. J. [illegible]

Life Really Worth Something—Steam Lanes Across the Atlantic.

It will be seen from our news columns this morning that an initial step has been taken in the British House of Commons in the matter of ocean routes for the Atlantic steamships. Mr. Anderson, one of the members for Glasgow, gave notice on Saturday that he would on Monday ask the Government whether it was willing to co-operate with the Government of the United States in fixing tracks for vessels crossing the Atlantic between the two countries. This is a step in the right direction, and we earnestly hope that the matter will be heartily taken up by both governments. Navigation has been reduced to such an exact science that ocean highways can be accurately marked, and under favorable conditions, almost unerringly followed. Steam renders the heaviest seas and most destructive gales powerless to deflect the passenger craft of to-day from an undeviating track if a specified course be adopted by the navigator. We are glad to see, therefore, that the appalling disasters which have occurred during the past year on the North Atlantic have induced several of the companies to lay down lines to be pursued by their steamships. This idea, long urged by us, was first acted upon by the Cunard line, the management of which is always judiciously eager to guard the safety of the lives submitted to its care. Its example was well followed by the Inman line. We observe that the Inman line announces that its course, as laid down and already followed for several years, passes two hundred and fifty miles to the southward of Cape Race, claiming "much greater freedom from fogs and floating ice and the danger of navigation consequent thereon;" while the French line between New York and Havre announces the most southerly course of all. The Cunard steamers going out do not pass to northward of the latitude of forty-two, and returning to New York keep south of forty-three. These different courses are admirably laid down, and they should be furnished to every sailing vessel doing trade on the North Atlantic, and charts having these steam lines boldly defined be gratuitously distributed. If it be understood in the commercial world that certain highways belong to the passenger vessels, and should be kept clear in the interests of human life, we think that they would not be trespassed upon. In the interests of international communication, the Governments of England, Germany, France and the United States may some day be brought to agree upon a general treaty, by which each nation shall require of the ships that carry its flag that they respect these limits so far as in any way possible. This would be a great practical step.—N. Y. Herald.

The celebrated Santa Cruz, who has made so unenviable a reputation in the present Carlist rising, has been arrested by the French officials on the frontier. He is a treasure in himself, and it is to be hoped the French authorities will take every precaution for his safe keeping.

Toleration, political or religious, to be looked for in a country like Mexico, inhabited by a mongrel race, for the most part steeped in ignorance. The news of an attack on a Protestant place of worship and the stoning of the minister can scarcely be regarded with surprise. Though the mob went no further than breaking some windows and pelting the minister with stones, it is an ugly indication of religious intolerance. Fortunately the number of unbelievers in Mexico is very small, and they are generally in such situations that they can be protected by government troops.—N. Y. Herald.

The Ottawa Times
FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1874.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Members of Parliament, and others, who desire it, can obtain the Daily Ottawa Times, during the Session, for $1.50, payable in advance, delivered in wrappers ready for mailing.

We cannot but commend the intention of Ministers to push on with the work of the session without delay. This being their object, there will be no adjournment during Easter week.

The decision of the majority of the Montreal Election Court, as to its constitutionality, is now endorsed by the Judges in Quebec City, sitting for the trial of election petitions. Chief Justice Meredith and Judges Stewart and Tessier, were the Court in the latter case. They intimated they would proceed regularly in all the contested election cases before them

ELECTION OF SPEAKER.

The election of the Hon. T. W. Anglin to the Speakership of the Commons was anticipated as an act every way appropriate and fraught with promise of advantage to the public business. The language of compliment in which the Premier moved his nomination did not exceed the bounds of good taste or justice. On the contrary, it was fit and well-chosen. The eulogy pronounced by the seconder, Hon. Mr. Dorion, was also becoming, and could not fail to gratify the gentleman in whose behalf it was uttered. Mr. Anglin is fully deserving of the honourable position to which he has been raised, on the ground of mental as well as moral qualifications. His talents and parliamentary experience can not be gainsaid, while his known fairness and liberality must be admitted by all candid observers. He will no doubt perform the duties of the Chair with ability and impartiality, and maintain the order and dignity of the House to the satisfaction of all parties. His election, unanimously agreed to furnishes another example of time's revenges and personal reparations. Only a few months ago a majority, comprising Mr. Anglin's political enemies, whose hostility to him reached the point of persecution, passed a vote of censure upon an article in his paper, intended, as was generally admitted, as a condemnation of himself, the supposed writer. The mover, Mr. James Macdonald, of Pictou, met his fate at the recent elections, the people having censured him and many others of that majority in a manner to relieve the House of their valuable presence. Mr. Anglin can now contemplate with pardonable satisfaction the result of the last turn of fortune's wheel. Some of his former upbraiders are now compelled to join in the strain of compliment evoked by his elevation. What a bitter pill would it not have been to men of Mr. James Macdonald's mind to have to address as Mr. Speaker the gentleman whose rising to speak himself, a few months ago, was the signal for their discourteous rush from the House. It was no less distinguished a gentleman than Mr. Langevin who seemed to decline even to answer questions put in the usual Parliamentary way by Mr. Anglin. But the Providence that was just to the members for Gloucester was merciful to Messrs. Macdonald and Langevin, having by defeat at the polls spared them the mortification they must have experienced were they to-day in the House.

THE OPPOSITION LEADERSHIP.

The good advice which some of Sir John Macdonald's friends thought proper to give him, after the McMullen revelations, and the fall of his Administration in consequence of them has, it appears, at length been deemed worthy of acceptance. At that time it was prompted by reasons of prudence and sound policy, notwithstanding which the ex-Premier could not bring himself to the thought of taking a subordinate place in his party. We are now told, however that, for reasons connected with his health, he has considered it best to relinquish the cares and responsibilities of Leader of the Opposition. This surrender of an enviable and, heretofore, cherished position will, on account of the temperament of the ex-Premier, and the unfortunate position in which some of the closing acts of his official career have placed him, entail a sacrifice of feeling of no ordinary description. His admirers, and they are not few, will continue to regret he could not have resumed a modest place among the rank and file of his party under circumstances more favourable to his reputation and agreeable to their own private feelings. But with regard to his last decision—for we care not to dwell upon the painful incidents of his recent ministerial course—we believe it is well taken on purely party grounds. His leadership could not easily have been dissociated from his late conduct in office, so far as the appreciation of the public is concerned, so that his party, already punished for his and colleagues' offences, would have continued to suffer from their reflection and stigma. People naturally argue that a leader who could defend the Pacific Railway scandal, or see nothing dangerous or blameworthy in it, might reasonably be expected to lapse into similar conduct should the temptation or supposed necessity recur. The party will be relieved to a considerable extent, if not wholly, of this suspicion, by the retirement of Sir John, and the selection of a successor. Good taste and consideration for the interests of his party should have dictated to him the propriety of this change some time ago. Perhaps they did. If not—if he has been superseded—his party deserve credit for a submission to the judgment of the people, and a tribute of respect to political morality highly becoming, and calculated to encourage the hope of its usefulness in the time to come. We need a good Opposition, and should regret to see the present one afflicted or paralyzed by bad leadership. The services of Sir John may still be available to his party, which we hope will be reorganised in a manner to do the State valuable service. We hope that his health may soon be restored, and that hereafter both himself and party may find worthy employment for his great talents and energies.

HOME RULE AND FENIAN AMNESTY.

Do what they will it seems impossible for British statesmen to get rid of the Irish question. The leaders of one or the other party may make concessions of a certain kind to-day, or refuse a ministerial favour to-morrow, on the ground of its probable abuse, but they can neither satisfy nor daunt the representatives of the popular feeling, whether it be manifested in Home Rule or still more radical demands. Mr. Gladstone vainly thought to bury the last Irish grievance by his wholesale reforms, affecting the Irish Protestant Church, the land and the electoral machinery. The ghost of discontent still walks abroad, occasioning as much uneasiness and apprehension to the British mind as ever. Nor is the present cry a new one, something just casually discovered in the hunt for causes of complaint, or in a capricious humour for creating disturbance. The Home Rule cry is repeal in a milder, more limited form, and it proceeds from the same notions, aspirations and prejudices, even, which nourished and long sustained the great Agitation that culminated in the Young Ireland uprising of 1848. The spirit of nationality still burns in the Irish breast, and even its partial gratification, under the restrictions of home rule, would at first, at any rate, prove a welcome change to the majority of the people. They love the sensation of power—a trait or weakness in which they are not singular—and its manifestation, whether in Parliamentary, hustings or military displays affords them great satisfaction. Royal or national spectacles in Dublin would meet a craving not to be denied or laughed down, while the substantial institution of a Local Legislature, capable of transacting speedily the domestic business of the country, would constitute a boon of no trifling character. The dry, practical element of the population, which at present suffers seriously from the expense and delay attending local legislation in London, would certainly appreciate a reform dispensing with these material drawbacks, while the sentimental element, which lives much in visions of the past, and in dreams of the future, would have its heart gratified by the realization of patriotic longings that but strengthen with time. Some of the leading London papers, that appeared to be much impressed with the spread of home rule opinion in Ireland, stated, not long ago, that if the majority of the people pronounced in its favor, it would be necessary to seriously consider whether some such change of the legislative machinery of the United Kingdom should not be decided upon. The recent elections have proved the fact of a large majority on the side of Butt and colleagues, which would seem to embrace a portion if not the bulk of the Protestant inhabitants. But this new and striking development of popular feeling has impressed neither Mr. Gladstone nor Mr. Disraeli with a sense of the propriety of reconsidering the constitutional relations of England and Ireland. Both have repelled the idea, the present Premier having even refused to meet a home rule deputation. Dr. Butt being an able man and an experienced politician, must have seen good reason for the temper and patience with which he received this rebuff. It will be remarked that his advocacy of the reform upon which he has set his heart has generally, if not invariably been characterized by a manner in which calmness and moderation are all conspicuous. This is one of the explanations of the success of the movement. The ranting, wild declamation and fierce invective so prominent in previous crusades are wanting to this, which has concerned itself with practicable-looking aims, and appeals to the good sense of men of all classes and creeds. To us in the colonies, the argument that a nation, of five millions, has a right to manage its local affairs, comes with great, if not irresistible force, in view of our concession of self-government to Provinces whose whole population could be put in the suburbs of the Irish capital without appreciably raising the rents. As we said before, the uncertainty as to the extent of the Irish demands, or their final satisfaction with Home Rule, is a serious obstacle to the reformers. It is difficult to see how local self-government on the plan known to Canada could or should be resisted, were the majority of the Irish people to continue to demand it. Were there more candour and confidence between the two Islands, there need be little fear of any long delay of a re-arrangement mutually satisfactory. With regard to reforms short of the radical type, and the removal of such restrictions as military law, or coercion acts insure, Mr. Disraeli is likely to prove anything but impracticable. He has already denounced these severe restrictions, and charged their necessity, whether rightly or wrongly, to the Irish measures of the late Government. He is, therefore, bound to undo the punitive work of his predecessor, aside from the good policy of the course. He stated, frequently, during the general elections, that Ireland was kept tranquil, not by wise or conciliatory legislation, but by coercion; to which the late Government had to resort, despite all their "revolutionary" Irish legislation. It would be too much to expect a Conservative Government, which so lately made capital out of the above cry, and the charge that the Liberals had unsettled the institutions, and imperilled the interests of the country, to contemplate thus early the prospect of "dismemberment," a word of terrible import to the Tories. But other concessions to Irish wishes are likely to be made, so we are not surprised to see the decision of the Premier to receive the seventy members, who desire to urge the release of the Fenian convicts. There is no doubt a great deal of sympathy is felt for them, no matter what may be said as to the folly of their enterprise. But the British Government has demonstrated its power to crush all such movements, and has already inflicted severe chastisement upon the offenders. It would be a graceful and conciliatory act to discharge such of them as are unstained by moral crime; it could not fail to make a good impression upon the Irish people. Such an act of clemency would form a prelude of good omen for the Disraeli Cabinet, in the view of the Irish people and, coupled with a temperate, liberal administration of the law, would obviate the necessity for coercive acts or stringent police regulations. Other things being equal, even the Liberal members from Ireland, pledged to home rule could not well refuse to give Conservatives their support in ordinary party struggles in Parliament.

FINANCE AND CURRENCY IN THE STATES.

The battle of currency and finance continues to be fought in the United States Legislature and press. The House on Monday passed a bill authorizing the issue of an amount of legal tenders, which would raise the volume to $400,000,000. Already the issue is about $380,000,000, the Government having taken upon itself the responsibility of exceeding the limit prescribed by Congress, namely, $356,000,000. The mercantile community of the Eastern and Central States has been protesting vigorously against any further inflation of the currency, which it is ably argued is already too voluminous. A large meeting of merchants, the other night, in New York, condemned the bill, and strong efforts are being made, with the Senate to secure its defeat there. The Republic unquestionably is in a bad state on account of its irredeemable currency, which is depreciated to an extent productive of great loss to the people and inconvenience to trade, by reason of the immense amount in circulation. The advocates of contraction advance powerful arguments, justified by sound principles of finance, and the experience of all old countries. Nevertheless, the friends of further expansion, from the West and South, where money is scarce and times are hard, imagine that more greenbacks would bring back prosperity, aided by that free banking coupled with the present bill. A New York merchant, at the meeting a few nights ago, drew an instructive picture of the state of trade in the States, in connection with the present deplorable condition of the national currency. Mr. Crittenden said:

Three months of the new year have passed, and what now? Disappointment, distrust, and perplexity are visible on all sides, and in all our streets, save in the highways of Jay Gould and his followers. I know of no other than Wall street business which has been prosperous this year. We have either to re-establish the fictitious values, to support the wild ventures and reinforce the scandalous spirit of gambling, which raged at its climax last year by a new inflation of our currency, or we have to lay new foundations and call upon the people of this country to go to work that we may earn more than we spend, and save something for capital. For every twenty shillings earned we have, for years past, spent at least twenty-one, and that is always ruin. It is not merchants and railroads only who have done this, but the farmers have done the same. We boast of our great crops, but to a great extent of late years, these have cost the producers more than has been realised for them. The bankers assured their foreign correspondents last July and August that all was well, because we had magnificent crops. The gamblers in Northwest corners paid one per cent. per day for money to carry their stocks to the highest, because we had splendid crops. Merchants pushed their goods off more incautiously than usual on the same theory, none stopping to inquire what the crops had cost. Unless I am very much mistaken, a large proportion of our wheat-growers, cotton growers, and tobacco-growers have, for two years past, sold their crops for less than cost; and it is a fallacy and a shame to speak of such crops as signs of national prosperity and strength. They help railroads and the exchanges, but weaken and impoverish the masses. What then, is the remedy for our shattered prosperity? It is simply a question of returning to honest work and economy. I oppose inflation in every shape and form as a frightful scourge and a disgraceful fraud under existing circumstances. Who are the men that demand inflation now? They are the notorious men of Wall street, who have already advanced the foot-ball stocks of decayed and decaying railroads more than $44,000,000 in in the aggregate, on the bold assumption that they can force Congress to re-issue an equal amount of legal tender notes once retired by law (or give the Treasury discretionary power to issue them, which would be worse still), in spite of the earnest and almost unanimous protest of every influential Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce in the land. I am aware that a so-called merchants' petition (concocted in Wall street) has been circulated lately, asking for the re-issue of the $44,000,000, and that the paper has been signed by respectable firms. But the petition is mixed with popular free banking, and that bait has misled the careless and inconsiderate. With one-fourth less business we have just as much currency without the $44,000,000—as we had last year; and though the remark may surprise you, I think it easy to demonstrate that there was plenty of money last year for all the honest business of the country. For example. A pet firm of brokers who went down in the crash were found to be in debt nearly $15,000,000. That firm had reorganized for business only a month or two before with a capital of $200,000 or $300,000; but it was able to borrow of banks and others, on stocks held only for speculations, say $14,000,000. About the same time a commercial firm of more than ten year's standing, and having more than $500,000 of capital, applied to one of the largest national banks for the discount of $24,000 of business paper having less than thirty days to run, and were politely put off with one half the amount asked for. The broker, for gamblers, got $14 000 000; the merchant, for honest business, got $12,000 or less than a thousand for a million. That's a true paper money picture for you. True to life! And now, I ask, what are we to think of men who, for their own personal ends, still demand inflation. We may think of them kindly, and with charity; but we tell them in tones of thunder that it is no more possible to restore the commerce of this country by a further issue of legal tender than it is possible to bring Abrahan Lincoln back to the White House by an Act of Congress.

Dominion Parliament,

First Session Third Parliament.

OPENING

The people of Ottawa manifested fully as much interest as usual in the opening of the present session of Parliament. A large number of strangers from all parts of Canada were present to witness the ceremony, as well as the military demonstration and other interesting proceedings, with which it is accompanied.

The weather though mild, was soft and wet, the snow which fell in the forenoon, and later, melting as it reached the pedestrian or the street.

A guard of honour from the Ottawa Brigade of Garrison Artillery in their summer uniforms, preceded by the fine band of the Brigade, marched from the drill-shed to the front of the two Houses of Parliament, and there awaited the arrival of His Excellency the Governor General.

Major Egleson, Captain Graham, and Lieutenants Evans and Grant were the officers on duty. It was within a few minutes to three o clock when His Excellency who was accompanied by Colonel Fletcher, his Military Secretary, and attended by Lieutenants Hamilton and Ward, Aides-de-Camp, arrived at the main entrance to the House of Parliament, the Battery of Field Artillery, commanded by Captain Stewart, firing the customary salute. Captain Sparks' troop of Cavalry escorted the carriage of His Excellency from Rideau Hall, and looked exceedingly well. On his way to the Parliament buildings His Excellency was repeatedly and most enthusiastically cheered, and, indeed, he met with the same mark of respect on his return from the Senate Chamber.

After the Guard of Honour had presented arms and the band had played the National Anthem, the men composing the Guard were distributed along the vestibule and passages, forming a double line, faced inwards, through which His Excellency passed to the Senate Chamber. The Dominion Police, in their grey uniforms, under the command of Superintendant O'Neil, were stationed at various points along the corridors of the Upper House.

THE SENATE.

The galleries were fairly filled with ladies and gentlemen intent upon seeing the opening ceremonies. The floor was occupied by Senators, high officials, and ladies, the desks having been removed to afford better accommodation.

At about 2.20 p. m. the Senate met, and after prayer by the Chaplain, the Rev. Mr. Johnson, the Clerk, read the Commission appointing the Hon. Mr. Christie to the position of Speaker.

NEW SENATORS.

The Speaker took the chair and announced that Senators were waiting to be introduced. The Hon. Mr. Letellier de St. Just and the Hon. Mr. Wilmot then escorted the Hon. R. W. Scott to the Clerk's table, where the oath was administered to him. The Hon. Mr. Penny was then introduced by the Hon. Mr. Letellier and the Hon. Mr. Wilson. He also took the necessary oath, after which the Speaker left the chair, and the old members came forward to exchange congratulations with the Speaker and the new Senators on their appointments.

At three o'clock the guns of the Field Battery announced the arrival of the Governor General, who soon made his way, accompanied by his Staff already mentioned, and a number of officers of the Militia, viz:—Cols. Aumond, Wiley, Macpherson, Powell, T. Ross, Jackson, B. M., Captain and Adjutant Walsh, Captain G. M. Patrick, Lieutenant Harris, Patrick O'Meara, and Dr. Malloch, to the throne. His Excellency, who wore the Windsor uniform, took his seat after the usual salutation and announcement by the Speaker, the Hon. Mr. Christie. The Commons having been summoned to the bar, the Speaker of the Senate declared that His Excellency would state the reasons for the summoning of Parliament when the Commons elected a Speaker. The members of the Lower House then retired. His Excellency then took his departure, and the assemblage dispersed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

OTTAWA, March 26, 1874.

The House met at three o'clock, p.m.

The Clerk, Alfred Patrick, Esq., called the members to order, and immediately afterwards the Sergeant-at-arms announced a Message from His Excellency the Governor-General.

The Clerk—Admit the messenger.

The Usher of the Black Rod being admitted, bowed and gave His Excellency's Message, requiring the attendance of the House of Commons at the Bar of the Senate.

Headed by the Clerk, with his cocked hat on, the House at once proceeded to the Senate Chamber.

His Excellency was seated on the Throne, surrounded by a brilliant staff. The galleries were promiscuously filled with ladies and gentlemen, but there were few ladies on the floor of the Chamber.

The Speaker of the Senate, Honorable Mr. Christie, in a clear and distinct voice, said,

Gentlemen of the House of Commons: His Excellency the Governor-General commands me to say that he does not see fit to declare the measures which he shall recommend for your consideration until after you have selected a Speaker, and that he will meet you again to do so, to-morrow at three o'clock.

Black Rod, who was in quite a new dress,—a court suit of blue and gold—bowed to His Excellency, who rose from the Throne and left the Chamber, when the Commons returned to their House.

As soon as all got there, Mr. Clerk rang his bell, and order being obtained,

The Hon. Mr. Mackenzie rose and said that he felt it to be his duty to propose to the House the name of a gentleman for its presiding officer, whom every one would admit was eminently qualified to fill it. He needed not to enlarge upon the qualifications of the gentleman whom he intended to propose, as they were well known and he felt sure would be acknowledged by gentlemen on both sides of the House. He had the honour to propose.—

The Honourable Timothy Warren Anglin as the Speaker of this House.

Hon. Mr. DORION most cordially seconded the proposition. He felt sure that Mr. Anglin's conduct in the chair would be marked by the strictest impartiality, and that he would secure for himself the respect of the whole House

The motion was carried unanimously.

The Honourable Mr. Anglin was escorted to the chair by the Prime Minister on his right, and the Honourable Mr. Dorion, Minister of Justice, on his left. (Great Cheering.)

Mr. SPEAKER—Gentlemen, I return you my most sincere thanks for the honour you have done me, and I can only assure you that I shall endeavour to prove myself worthy of the honour which your kindness has conferred upon me. In my rulings, and in all my acts I trust that I shall be actuated by the strictest impartiality and be altogether guided by the Rules of Parliament. Differences may arise, but if they do, I shall look with confidence to men of larger parliamentary experience on both sides of the House to assist me in maintaining that dignity and decorum which should characterize our proceedings. I again thank you for the honour which you have done me.

The Right hon. Sir J. A MACDONALD offered his congratulations to the honorable gentleman who had been unanimously placed in the Speaker's chair, but he confessed that he had hoped that his honorable friend the member for Chateauguay would have been named for that position. His long parliamentary experience, his extensive knowledge of parliamentary usage, and his urbanity of manner he (Sir John) thought would have suggested him as being peculiarly well fitted to fill the position. Still he was quite satisfied with the selection that had been made, and he had no reason to doubt that his (Mr. Anglin's) occupancy of the chair would be marked by a close adherence to the Rules and Usages of Parliament. (Cheers.)

Hon. Mr. HOLTON—In reference to what had fallen from the Right honorable and gallant Knight would only say that he thanked him very much for the compliment, which he had paid him, but would simply state that he had not desired the office, and preferred to remain in the position of a private member, and he congratulated the hon. member for Gloucester on his elevation to the position of presiding officer of the House. After having been steadfastly opposed to the Right hon gentleman for many years, it was gratifying to him (Mr. Holton) to have listened to the kind observations which had been made by him. Had the position been tendered to him, he would not have accepted it, and he had good reason to be satisfied with the choice that had been made. He had been a close observer of Mr. Speaker's parliamentary career, and was deeply sensible of the care and attention which he had bestowed on his public duties, and he believed that he would discharge the duties of the Speakership with equal fidelity.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE was glad that the allusion had been made to the honorable member for Chateauguay, a gentleman for whom he always had entertained the highest feelings of respect and after reiterating the merits of the newly elected Speaker,

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE, seconded by the hon. Mr. DORION, moved that the House do now adjourn.

The House adjourned at half-past three.

Meeting of the Parliamentary Reporters.

Immediately after the adjournment of the House of Commons, a meeting of the Reporters took place in the Transcription Room, yesterday, when Thos. White, Esq., of the Montreal Gazette, was elected Chairman; David Wylie, Esq., of the Brockville Recorder, Vice Chairman; and Jno. Morris, Esq., of the Montreal Herald, Secretary. A committee of three were also appointed to aid these gentlemen in framing rules for the government of the body and to attend to the interests of the Reportorial Corps generally. The Chair was occupied until the election of these officers by A. H. Dymond, Esq., M. P., formerly one of the occupants of the gallery, and on his relinquishing that position, which was assumed by the Chairman-elect, Mr. White, a motion of congratulation was unanimously carried, expressing the gratification felt by the representatives of the press at the elevation of the Hon. Edward Goff Penny to the Senate, and the election of A. H. Dymond, Esq., to the House of Commons.

A copy of the motion is to be conveyed to these gentlemen in writing.

Mr Dymond, who was present, most happily returned thanks.

CITY AND VICINITY

LADIES' COLLEGE.—A musical and literary soiree is arrange to take place at the Ladies' College this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. A good programme has been issued, and those interested who may go, have a rich musical treat in store for their entertainment.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—A temperance meeting will be held in the Temperance Hall, to-night, in furtherance of the prohibition movement. E. V. Bodwell, Esq., M.P., will preside on the occasion. Addresses will be delivered by Messrs. G. W Ross, M. P., E. S. Parrott, Grand Lecturer, and other gentlemen.

NEW IMPORTATION.—In another column will be found a new advertisement of Messrs. Campbell and Almas, containing the various brands of the best imported wines. Now that the festive season has begun, we would ask those who are interested in procuring a really first class article to pay a visit to the fine grocery and liquor store above referred to.

RIOPELLE'S SALE.—Mr. W. H. Falls conducted a very successful sale of the effects of the late Andrew Riopelle, on Tuesday and Wednesday of the present week. The The following stock was disposed of:—'Membrino Paymaster,' the celebrated trotting stallion, for $1,010, purchased by Mr. C. Bison. 'Terry,' the trotting gelding, $250, 'Black Jack,' a good horse, $125. Seven other horses brought from $80 to $100 each. The total sum realized from the sale was $4,000.

CURLING.—The last draw in curling for the Mull was between Geordie Hutchinson and Henry Inglis. They played the match yesterday, which, after a pretty close contest resulted as follows: Hutchinson, 21 points; Inglis, 13 points; leaving the former champion curler of the Ottawa Club for this season.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.—Mr. Alexander, contractor for the new Collegiate Institute, has been obliged to relinquish his contract. The trustees are going to hold the securities, Messrs. Crain & McDougal, for the due fulfilment of the contract. Mr. Crain, being a contractor of some experience himself, will, doubtless, make some arrangement whereby he will assume the responsibility of finishing the work.

THE BALL TO THE GOVERNOR.—To the Ladies of Ottawa.—Thos. E. Moore, of 72 Sparks street, with respectable compliments and sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage, solicits an early call to inspect the elegant assortment of ornaments in steel, pearl jet, and Tortoiseshell, which he has just received, and which he will sell at as low prices as possible, consistent with fair business principles. Fresh importations of all the new goods monthly at the Burlington Hair-Cutting Rooms. 2514.

ENGLISH MAIL.—The English mail closes in the city post office this morning, at 11 05 o'clock, destined for the steamship "Austrian" which sails from Portland for Liverpool to-morrow. A supplementary bag will close at 12 25, noon, for the same destination.

PRIZE CATTLE.—Messrs. Satchell Bros have now at their farm two of the heaviest steers ever raised in Canada. They weigh 6,070 pounds, and have won $600 in prizes. They were bred and fed by Messrs. Thompson Bros, of Mayfield farm, Whitby, and will be killed for Easter. 2525-3i

BAZAAR.—The ladies of the Congregation Church, City Hall Square, intend opening their bazaar on Monday, the 30th March, at 11 o'clock a m., in Robinson's new block, Sparks street, and will continue it during the two following days. Luncheon will be served each day from 12 o'clock to two, and refreshments at all hours. Musical and other entertainments each evening. 2525-5i

THAT TALKING MACHINE.—There has been a great ado for some days past anent the talking machine of Professor and Madame Fabre. It will afford considerable satisfaction to those who have not yet seen or heard this wonderful piece of ingenuity in mechanism to know that Miss Annie De Montford has secured the services of Professor and Madame Fabre to illustrate its powers, for two evenings, to-night and to-morrow night, in Gowan's Opera House. This, in addition to her own very entertaining performance, will add much to the attraction of the two evenings in question.

ST. PATRICK'S ORPHAN ASYLUM.—The Ladies' Association of the Asylum acknowledge with much pleasure, in connection with the recent drawing of prizes, the following contributions made, through Mrs. H. J. Friel, the President, in aid of the institution, viz: A Gilmour, Esq. $50; A Christie, Esq. $20; Hon J Hamilton, $10; Hon T Ryan, $10; Hon D A McDonald, $10; Hon Mr Letellier, $10; Hon Mr Christie, $10; Hon Mr Fournier, $10; Hon Mr Blake, $10; Hon Mr Burpee, $10; Thos Reynolds, Esq, $10; H V Noel, Esq $10; the late J B Lewis, Esq, $10; Hon Mr Mackenzie, $8; Thos McKay, Esq, $6; Right Hon Sir J A McDonald, $5; Sir Edward Kenney, $5; Hon Mr Cartwright, $5; M P Ryan, Esq, M P, $5; A McDonald, Esq, $5; P Power, Esq, M P, $5; Hon Mr Ross, $5; Hon Jas Skead, $4; Ira Morgan, Esq, $4; Ed Griffin, Esq, $4, T Trudeau, Esq, $2.

ST. PATRICK'S ORPHAN ASYLUM.—Mr. Richard Devlin, Secretary of the Institution, will accept a copy of the annual report of this really worthy institution, for the year 1873. We are glad to notice from it the energetic efforts made by the Council of this charitable society, to keep it in a satisfactory condition, to clear off the debts incurred during the last year in consequence of the usual annual bazaar not having been held. It has been determined to hold a bazaar this year, and the ladies who take such a praiseworthy part in this institution, were informed to this effect in January last, and have already taken initiatory steps to make it a success. These good ladies we are sure will exhibit the same energy and good will in regard to the contemplated bazaar that they have done in the past. There need be no fear of the result, inasmuch as it is said that the Rev. Dr. O'Connor will guide their efforts in this direction.

TEMPERANCE SOIREE.—A social re-union in the nature of a tea meeting took place in the Temperance Hall, last night, under the auspices of the "Cameron Temple," of I. O. G. T. After those present had partaken of the good things provided by the kind ladies of the Temple, Mr. H. S Watson was moved into the chair. Dr. Gallagher addressed a few remarks principally directed to the young ladies and gentlemen. He admonished them as to the keeping of good company, and as to the way in which they educated themselves. He reminded them of the advantages they enjoyed in their excellent Parliamentary Library, which excelled anything upon this continent, even the great library at Washington. Songs and recitations followed, making altogether a very agreeable entertainment. The Independent Cornet Band did much throughout the evening to enliven the proceedings, by the playing of some very fine selections of music.

St. Andrew's Church Soiree.

A very successful Soiree was held last night in the basement of St. Andrew's Church. Notwithstanding the fact of a very stormy night and the excitement consequent upon the opening of Parliament, operating somewhat unfavourably for a very large attendance. The chair was occupied by E. McGillivray, Esq. Associated with him on the platform we observed, Senator Skead, the Rev. Messrs. Moore, Hunter, and Gordon, pastor of the Church. The tables were laden with the good things provided by the Ladies' Aid Association of the Church, and the tea and coffee were excellent; all of which were participated in very heartily by all who were present. The rev. gentlemen above referred to and Senator Skead, delivered short but happy addresses, replete with anecdotes, that seemed to take well with the audience. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Baxter, organist of the Church, interspersed the speeches with some very choice musical selections, such anthems as "O Make a Joyful Noise," "Judge Me O Thou Great Jehovah," "O That my Load of Sin were Gone," and other pieces, elicited rounds of applause from the audience. The Doxology and Benediction brought a pleasant and social re-union to a close.

Miss Annie DeMontford at Gowan's Hall.

One of the largest audiences that [illegible] ever assembled within the walls of Gowan's Hall was that which met last evening to witness the experiments of the remarkable electro biologist, Miss Annie DeMontford. Miss DeMontford explained before commencing her operations, that as a rule only one out of every four or five could be subjected to the influence of [illegible] male or female. She consequently requested at least thirty of her audience to come forward on the stage; but [illegible] successful in inducing only [illegible] present themselves. The [illegible] she subjected to mesmeric [illegible] having closed their eyes, [illegible] to open them until allowed by her. [illegible] half dozen of these were then [illegible] upon in a manner to create intense amusement. They were made to slap their hands, laugh in a most hearty [illegible] manner, and dance, if not in a graceful, at least a most lively way. She subsequently mesmerized from the stage several of the audience seated at a distance from her. Two young men were then made to imagine themselves the leaders of the Government and the Opposition respectively, and both having carefully adjusted their garments and cleared their throats delivered themselves on the current political questions of the day. [illegible] John being particularly fluent; her subjects next went through a variety of movements to kill rats in their clothes and extinguish fire on their persons, and their grotesque gestures and expressions fairly convulsed the audience. In addition to Miss DeMontford's exhibition of mesmeric skill, Professor Faber will give to-night his celebrated talking [illegible]

Death of Dean Bullock.

Halifax has lost one of its oldest and most prominent citizens and clergymen in the death of the Rev. Wm. Bullock, Dean of St. Luke's Cathedral, which occurred on Saturday. The rev. gentleman had been in failing health for some time, and to his most intimate friends his death was not wholly unexpected, but to the community generally the announcement was sudden, and it created universal regret, for no man was better known, or more generally respected than Dean Bullock. He had completed the 78th year of his life and the 41st of his Ministry.—Halifax Chronicle.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.—Dear Sir,—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and, having [illegible] many other instances marked [illegible] beneficial results from its use, I [illegible] regard its discovery as a matter of deep thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself [illegible] at intervals during several years past, [illegible] it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections in arresting incipient consumption, and lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy.

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.
NEWPORT, N. S.

HAVING SUFFERED FOR [illegible] Years from Dyspepsia resulting in great nervous prostration and general debility, impoverished blood, Eruption of the Skin, [illegible] and Neuralgic Pains, Restlessness, want of sleep and extreme lassitude, I was recommended to take Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya. Having persisted in its use for several weeks I recovered perfect health. My wife and children also, have taken it as a Tonic purpose to invigorate and strengthen the system and promote the formation of pure blood with permanent benefit. It strengthens and sustains the vital force in a remarkable manner.

TORONTO.

Toronto, March 26.

The Whitby scandal case of Campbell vs. Campbell was opened in the Assize Court this morning, and continued all day. The action is brought by Mrs. Campbell against her brother-in-law, John Campbell, for slander, he at last Assizes having accused her of having had criminal connection with George Gordon. Much of the evidence is unfit for publication. All parties are in good society in Whitby.

There is a High Church dispute in progress in St. Matthew's Church. Some half of the congregation want the cross on the Reredos and the other threaten if this is done they will leave the church.

Jeremiah Merrick, about whom so many rumors are afloat, positively denies that he has been given the Inspectorship of Ports or any other appointment from the Dominion Government.

A large number of spurious half dollar pieces are in circulation.

Joseph Dain who was recently shot in Yorkville is now considered out of danger.

ST. JOHN'S.

St. John's Newfoundland, March 23.

There has been a great struggle in the House of Assembly between the Government and the Opposition, and the Government has triumphed. The revenue bill, after two days' continuous sitting of the House and the most ingenious of factious filibustering by the Opposition, has been carried through. The bill increases the duties on spirits and wine—duties that have been very low—and makes a large reduction in the duty on tea. Sheep are to be admitted free. A bounty of $2 a ton is provided for all vessels built in the Province. The general financial policy of the new Government is the encouragement of all kind of home industry, agricultural and manufacturing, so that the people may not continue to be almost entirely dependent upon the fisheries for a livelihood, and it is believed that the policy will commend itself to the people. Parties are so evenly balanced that a dissolution may occur at any time.

The prospects for extensive sealing this season are very promising. Preparations are actively progressing, and the tone of those whose capital is embarked in the business is hopeful.

Mid-Night Despatches.

ENGLAND

National Steeple Chase.

London, March 26.—At the Liverpool Spring Meeting to-day, the Grand National Steeple Chase was won by 'Reugney,' 6 years old; 'Chimney Sweep' came in second, and 'Merling' third. Twenty horses ran. The final betting was 2 to 1 against 'Reugney'; 25 to 1 against 'Chimney Sweep'; and 50 to 1 against 'Merling'.

FRANCE.

Specie in the Bank of France has increased 220,095,000 francs during the past week.

UNITED STATES

Dredging the Mississippi.

Washington, March 25.—A Bill has passed in the United States Senate appropriating $30,000 for dredging the mouth of the Mississippi.

Strike Among Railway Employees.

New York, March 26.—A despatch from the Susquehanna, Pa., Depot states that 900 men, employed in the Erie Railway machine shops, struck for their pay for February yesterday. The turning table was crippled and rendered useless. The engines in the shop and yard had pins taken out, rendering them useless; and all the arriving trains are so crippled that they cannot go on. None but the mail trains are allowed to proceed.

Cremation.

A meeting was held last night to arrange for a mass meeting in favor of burning bodies instead of burrying them.

Redemption and Re-Issue of U. S. Notes.

Washington, March, 26—The bill providing for the redemption and re-issue of United States notes, and for free banking was taken up. After some discussion it was agreed to take the vote on the bill at four o'clock, after which hour speeches on each amendment would be confined to ten minutes for each Senator desiring to speak. The question being on the amendment of Senator Schurz, to strike out eighty-two, and insert fifty-six, so that the maximum limit of United States notes should be $355,000,000 instead of $382,000,000, as reported by Committee, was lost, 18 yeas, 40 nays, with ten members paired.

Senator Wright moved to strike out the whole of the first section of the bill after enacting clause, and insert that the amount of United States notes for circulation is hereby fixed at $400,000,000.

Mr. Morill, Vermont, moved in amendment to substitute the clause by inserting after the words 'dollars' as follows:—'At which amount it shall remain until reduced as hereinafter provided.'

Mr. Morill's amendment to Mr. Wright's amendment disagreed to 26 and to 31.

Mr. Sherman moved to strike out the words 'for circulation' in Mr. Wright's amendment, and insert before the word 'amount' the word 'maximum,' so that it would read maximum. The amount of United States notes is hereby fixed at $400,000,000.

Mr. Wright modified his amendment to read in that manner.

Mr. Wright's amendment as modified was then adopted. Yeas 31; nays 26.

Mr. Merrimon moved as a substitute for the whole bill the following Section 1, that the maximum limit of United States notes for circulation is hereby fixed at $400,000,000, at which sum it shall remain; Sec. 2. That $46,000,000 in notes for circulation in addition to the circulation now allowed by law shall be issued to the National Banking Associations now organized or may be hereafter organized, and such increased circulation shall be distributed among several States as provided in Sec 1, of the Act entitled "An Act to provide for the redemption of the three per cent Loan Certificate, and for an increase of National Bank notes," approved July 12, 1870.

A number of other amendments were offered, but without action of the Senate; and at four o'clock adjourned.

Vicksburg, March 26—Thomas Calkin, an ex-policeman, was attacked by J. A. Lovins, local editor of the 'Vicksburger,' cutting him in the neck with a knife. Lovins then shot Calkin twice, killing him instantly.

Newsboy's Home.

New York, March 26. The Newsboy's Home, corner of Duane, William, and New Chambers streets, erected at a cost of $100,000, of which $30,000 was contributed by the State, was formally opened to-night.

Cuban Difficulty—The Spaniards Loss Heavy.

New York, March 26.—A despatch received by the boat from Havana says that it is reported there that the Spaniards lost very heavily in the battle near Puerto Principe. The Cubans remained in possession of the field all night, and the killed and wounded fell into their hands.

Senor Ramon, a prominent Cuban lawyer, who has resided some time in Mexico, returned home on the last steamer from Vera Cruz. Immediately on landing he was arrested and he is now confined in Fort Cubanas.

Havana, March 26th.—Banks refuse to discount any commercial paper thinking that the refusal will make money tight, and break down high rates of exchange. The effect shows that an action of banks does not amount to anything, as there is too much currency afloat, and all shipments of sugar and molasses can be drawn against, financial crisis continues every hour increasing premium on gold, and exchange merchants all believe that the currency will continue to depreciate, and that a gold basis must be inaugurated. The Gazette publishes a decree, making stamped paper payable in gold, and government telegraph messengers carrying in fee in silver, or its equivalent in currency after 1st May.

ENGLAND

Steamship from the Gold Coast.

London, March 26. — The steamship 'Himalaya' arrived at Portsmouth from the Gold Coast with the Royal Marines and Rifle Brigade.

SPAIN.

Great Battle—A Drawn Engagement Great Loss to the National Troops.

Madrid, March 26.—A desparate engagement was fought yesterday before Bilboa. The Republican army under Serrano attacked the Carlists at six o'clock p.m. They met with a stubborn resistance. The battle was kept up all day and only stopped by night, when the Republicans encamped on the positions they captured from the Royalists. The loss of the National Troops was 470 men.

General Loma commanded the centre, and General Rivera the right. It is probable that the battle will be renewed to-day.

UNITED STATES.

Washington,—Noon—March 25.—Probabilities: For Middle States, falling temperature, but slight change of weather and falling barometer. Freezing temperately. Cloudy weather followed by light snow or rain.

Greek Art in India.

Last evening Dr. Leitner delivered a lecture before the Society for the encourment of the Fine Arts on his 'Recent Discovery of Greco Buddhistic Sculptures in Yusufzai, on the Punjab Frontier.' After graphically describing the Punjab frontier districts were the excavations were made, Dr. Leitner proceeded to show the powerful influence of Greek art among the Buddhists, and how far that influence really extended. These discoveries are invaluable, as they open up a new era in Art history, and supply the missing link that Mr. Fergus in his recent work on Buddhistic Architecture intimated remains unexplained. Several of the actual sculptures, as well as numerous photographs, were circulated among the appreciative and distinguished audience. A hearty vote of thanks concluded the proceedings.

The Fredericton Express regrets to learn "that there is a serious misunderstanding between the Government and the New Brunswick Railway Company, which may lead to the stoppage of the work of constructing the line," and hopes that the dispute may be amicably adjusted.

Mr. McCready has filed a petition against Mr. Domville's return, and Mr. Domville, it is said, has filed a petition against Mr. McCready. Mr. McAdam, we believe, has also filed a petition against Mr. Gilmour. As a matter of course, these petitions charge the members elect with having done themselves, or through their authorized agents what the Act of Parliament says they should not have done, on pain of having their election annulled, and themselves declared incapable of being elected or of sitting or voting in the present Parliament.—St. John Freeman.

Important to all Concerned in Shipping.

Next Friday, March 27th, two new Acts each destined probably to exercise an important influence on the development of our shipping interests, will come into operation. They were passed by the Parliament of Canada last Spring, reserved for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure on the 23rd of May, assented to by Her Majesty in Council at Balmoral on the 20th of November following, proclaimed by the Governor-General in the Canada Gazette on the 17th inst., and will, as we have said, take effect on and after Friday next. One of these is intitled "An Act relating to Shipping, and for the registration, inspection and classification thereof." It is divided into four parts. Parts I. deals with the measurement and registration of Ships, and has some provisions referring to unseaworthy ships; Part II. provides for the licensing of small ships and other vessels. Part III. treats of questions connected with security for advances on ships in course of construction; and Part IV. refers to the inspection and classification of ships. The last named part is quite grief, and has been much referred to in press discussions, and reads as follows:—

"The Governor in Council may make such rules and regulations as he may consider necessary for the inspection and classification of vessels built or registered within the Dominion of Canada, and may from time to time alter and amend the same, and may from time to time appoint such officers as may be necessary to carry out this part of this Act, and prescribe the duties of the said officers; and the said officers under the control of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

"The Governor in Council shall by such rules and regulations, have power to establish a table of fees to be paid for such inspection and classification, and from time to time alter and amend the same, and shall have power thereby to authorize the granting of certificates of classification in such manner as may be therein prescribed.

"All rules and regulations made under this part of this Act shall be published in the Canada Gazette."

No rules or regulations for the purpose named have as yet been published; but it is understood that if not fully made they have been the subject of much consideration at Ottawa. The probability is that they will be published at an early day.

The other Law is entitled, "An Act respecting the Shipping of Seamen." This is quite a comprehensive enactment. Four chapters of the Consolidated Statutes of Canada or Lower Canada, some Nova Scotia and British Columbian Legislation, two Acts of the Dominion Parliament, and chapters eighty-six and eighty-seven of the Revised Statutes of the Province, and a New Brunswick enactment of 1866, are repealed by this Act.

It contains elaborate provisions relative to shipping offices, apprenticeships, engagement of seamen, allotment of wages, discharge and payment of wages, legal rights to wages, mode of recovering wages, wages and effects of deceased seamen, leaving seamen abroad, provisions, health and accommodation, power of making complaints, protection of seamen from imposition, discipline enticing to desert and harboring deserters, punishment of stowaways, change of master, crimes committed on the high seas or abroad, log books, legal procedure, and foreign ships.

It seems to behove everybody among us in any way connected with shipping to render themselves familiar with the provisions of these important Acts.

We may also remark in closing that it behoves Mr. Secretary Scott to look sharper after his Gazette proof readers. We notice two very serious mistakes in the proclamation referring to the Shipping Inspection and Classification Act. One of these asserts that the bill is chartered one hundred and eight, whereas it is chaptered 128; another states that it was enacted in the said bill that it shall not take effect later than the first day of January, 1874, whereas earlier is the word that should have been used.—St. John, N. B., News.

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil!—Worth Ten Times in Weight in Gold.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes "send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful." William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We find it to take well.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers 251

Dr. Livingston's son believes that his father is dead, because Chuma, the Tassick boy who brought the news to Unyanyembe, was one of the Doctor's most faithful attendants, and he and Susa were they whom Stanley found holding with him through thick and thin. They were with Dr. Livingstone ever since he entered Africa in 1865.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Times promptly responding to Mr. Disraeli's hint as to the disposal of the surplus, has already begun to plead the claims and necessities of Bengal. In his latest telegram, he states that the famine will cost not less than £5,000,000, and that the expenditure of a sum quite as large will be made in connection with the extraordinary public works.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named, and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Rooms every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for the Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all tha proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $30 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable feature and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 800,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength re ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of DR. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of DR. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it to be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article' and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION
CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY.
Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 10 cents per box.

AND
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

"SAVORY & MOORE,"

The Original and only Manufacturer Chemists to the Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, H.I.M. Napoleon the Third, His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, &c.,
143 NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

LINE OF TRANSPORTATION FOR PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, will be received at this office up to the 20th April next, for working the line of transportation leading from Thunder Bay to Fort Garry, during the ensuing season of navigation.

The line is in two Sections, viz:—the Eastern Section, extending from Prince Arthurs Landing to the North West Angle of the Lake of the Woods—and the Western Section, from the North West Angle to Fort Garry.

Tenders may be for the whole line, or separately for either of these two Sections.

The Plant and Buildings now on the route will be turned over for the time being, for the use of the line, to the party or parties to whom the contract for this Service may be awarded.

Schedules of Plans and Buildings can be seen at this Office and at the following Offices, viz:—Public Works, Toronto; Alan Macdougall, Esq., C. E., Collingwood; Inland Revenue Office, Sarnia; and Office of Lake of the Woods Road, Fort Garry.

All additional outfit required must be provided by the Contractors.

The means of transportation to be maintained on a scale sufficient to ensure the conveyance of passengers and freight over the route without delay.

The rates for freight and passengers, and bonus for the season, to be specified in the Tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

Further information can be obtained at this Office, and at the above-mentioned Offices.

By order,

F. BRAUN, Secretary.

Dominion Parliament,

First Session Third Parliament.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE,

Yesterday the weather was more favorable for the ceremonies attendant upon the State visits of His Excellency the Governor General to Parliament. Notice had been given that His Excellency would state his reasons for calling Parliament together at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and an immense concourse of people had assembled on the Parliament Square, while the galleries of the Senate Chamber were crammed with people hours before the time appointed for His Excellency's arrival. As the hour approached the Field Battery of Artillery, commanded by Captain Stewart, trotted into the Square, and took up position near the western block, and facing the eastern block of buildings. Then the sounds of martial music were heard in the distance, and one hundred rank and file of that fine corps, the Governor General's Foot Guards, preceded by their richly dressed and excellent band, were shortly afterwards visibly approaching the two Houses of Parliament. They speedily took up position in front of the main entrance, and precisely at three the guns of the Artillery boomed forth the fact that His Excellency in a carriage and four, accompanied by his staff, and his domestic servants in gorgeous liveries, escorted by the splendidly equipped troop of cavalry, commanded by Captain Sparks, had arrived. Off went the people's hats, the air was rent with cheers, and His Excellency and attendant officers stepping from the State carriage, entered the buildings, which was lined with the Foot Guards, much in the same manner as it had been by the Artillery on the preceding day.

THE SENATE.

FRIDAY, March 27th.

At three o'clock the gallery and floor of the House presented an animated appearance, the former crowded with ladies and gentlemen, and the latter occupied by Senators, leading citizens, and officials, with rows of ladies, on the platforms on each side, devoted to honorable members during session. The desks and chairs had been removed from their places, and such arrangements made as secured the most space, and contributed best to the effect of the spectacle, than which nothing could have been finer or more brilliant. The elite of Ottawa and vicinity was well represented, the beauty of many of the ladies, and the richness and splendour of not a few of the toilettes, commanding general admiration.

Lady Dufferin arrived shortly before three, and was escorted to a seat on the left of the Throne, contiguous to that occupied by the Leader of the Opposition. Among the other ladies present on the floor, were the following:—

Miss Cameron, Mrs. H. A. Wickstead, Mrs. Wicksteed and the Misses Wickstead, Mrs. Dewe, Mrs. Slater and two Misses Slater, Mrs. Noel, Miss Coutlee, Miss O'Dell, Mrs. Macfarlane, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. and Miss Bell, Mrs. Tupper and two Miss Bell's, Mrs. Maclennan, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Amelius Irving, Mrs. and Misses Kingsford, Mrs. and Miss MacNutt, Miss Pigott, Mrs. Judge Armstrong and daughter, Mrs. Featherston, Mrs. and Misses Himsworth, Mrs. Drummond and two daughters, Mrs. Carruthers and two daughters, Miss Hughes, Miss Vidal, Mrs. Chisholm, Mrs. Hartney and two Misses Frechette, Miss Thompson, Miss Wright, Miss Ferris, Mrs. and two Miss Dennis', Mrs. Tollar and two friends, Mrs. A. Guan, Mrs. A. and Miss Russell, Mrs. Macpherson, Miss Osborn, Mrs. and the Misses Faran, Mrs. W. H. Walker, Mrs. Rev. W. Hall, Mrs. Blain and two Misses, Mrs. Poetter and two Misses Poetter, Mrs Cowper Cox, Mrs. Pennock, Mrs. Fox, Miss Phelps, Mrs. Buckingham, Mrs. Chapleau, Mrs. Mason Gallagher, Mrs. H. Alexander, Mrs. J. H. McTavish, Mrs. A. J. Russell and two Misses Russell, Mrs. B. H. Teakles, Mrs. Palmer and two daughters, Mrs. Kidd, Mrs. Clifford Stanley Sims, Mrs. R. W. Scott, Mrs. Burpee, Miss Letellier.

The Honorable the SPEAKER of the Senate by command of His Excellency, requested the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod to desire the attendance of the Commons at the Bar, and the Commons having appeared, after the usual ceremonies, His Excellency read the following

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE:

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I have convoked Parliament with the least possible delay consistent with the delay entailed by the recent dissolution.

Your attention will be invited during the present session to measures having reference to the representation of the people in Parliament, embracing the system now prevailing in Great Britain and most other countries enjoying Constitutional Government, of taking votes by ballot, and to the establishment of a General Court of Appeal.

Measures will also be submitted to you for the amendment of the laws relating to controverted elections, the Militia and Insolvency.

The enactment of 1872 respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway, having failed to secure the prosecution of that great enterprise, you will be called upon to consider what plan will best and most speedily provide the means of trans-continental communication with British Columbia. A report of the Chief Engineer will be laid before you, shewing what progress was made during the past year in the surveys connected with the proposed line. The destruction of the Railway Offices by fire involved a serious loss of maps, plans and papers, the possession of which would have made the report more complete.

The Canal and Harbor improvements are being vigorously prosecuted with a view to ensure adequate accommodation for the rapidly growing trade of the country.

The report of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Public Works on the proposed canal between the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy will be submitted for your consideration.

With the progress already made in the construction of the Intercolonial Railway, another year will be required to complete it.

A report indicating its actual condition will be laid before Parliament, and a measure will be introduced to vest in the Department of Public Works the powers now exercised by the Board of Railway Commissioners.

The question of compensation due to the Dominion for the privileges to the United States by the Treaty of Washington, has given rise to a renewal of negotiations tending to widen reciprocal trade relations with that country. At the instance of my Government, the Imperial authorities have given directions to the British Minister to discuss the whole subject with the Administration at Washington and have associated with him for this purpose a Canadian Commissioner.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the last financial year, will be laid before you, as well as a statement of the receipts and expenditure of the present year to the latest practicable period.

I regret to state that the receipts of the current year will not be sufficient to meet the expenditure. It will therefore be necessary for you to consider the best means to be adopted for making good the anticipated deficiency.

The estimates for the ensuing year will be laid before you. They have been prepared with as much regard for economy as is consistent with the efficiency of the Public Service.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate,
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The combined efforts of the Dominion and Provincial Governments to promote Immigration have met with a reasonable measure of success, thus adding a considerable number of desirable persons from other countries to our industrial population.

Notwithstanding the commercial depression which, through exceptional causes, prevailed to some extent during the past year, it is satisfactory to know that the general prosperity was not thereby seriously affected. I do not doubt but that as the great natural resources of the Dominion become more widely appreciated, the results will be a healthy stimulus to the enterprise and energy of our people, and a still larger accession to our numbers.

I trust that your deliberations may be directed by wisdom and aided by Divine Providence.

The great bulk of the spectators now retired, and the floor having been left to the members of the Senate, the Speaker, Hon. Mr. CHRISTIE, took the chair.

After some routine business,

Hon. Mr. LETELLIER introduced a bill for the incorporation of a company. He next moved, seconded by Hon. Mr. Scott, that the House adjourn till Monday, mentioning as the reason for this delay in the consideration of the Speech from the Throne, the arrangements for the levee in that Chamber in the evening.

The motion was agreed to, when the House adjourned till the day in question.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

OTTAWA, March 27, 1874.

The SPEAKER took the chair precisely at three o'clock, p. m.

A Message from His Excellency the Governor General.

The gentleman Usher of the Black Rod was admitted and intimated the desire of His Excellency that the House should attend at the Bar of the Senate Chamber.

Preceded by the Mace, Mr. Speaker and the House left for the Senate Chamber, and having appeared there,

Mr. SPEAKER on being recognized by His Excellency the Governor General said:—

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:—

I humbly submit myself to your Excellency's command. It is now my duty, on behalf of the Commons of this Dominion, to lay claim to their undoubted rights and privileges. I humbly petition your Excellency that you will be graciously pleased to allow freedom of speech in debate, freedom from arrest for our persons and servants, and above all freedom of access to your Excellency's person whenever occasion may require, and that the best construction may be put upon all our proceedings. For myself, I desire that the most favorable construction may be put upon my acts, and that whatever I may do in error may be attributed to myself alone and not to Her Majesty's Faithful Commons.

The SPEAKER of the Senate replied:—

Mr. Anglin, I have it further in command to inform you that His Excellency does most readily confer all the rights and privileges which have ever been granted, and conferred upon the Commons of the Dominion, having freedom of access to his person at all seasonable times. With respect to yourself, though His Excellency is sensible you stand in no need of such assurance, His Excellency will ever put the most favorable construction upon your words and actions.

The Commons returned to their chamber, and

Mr. SPEAKER reported what he had done and stated His Excellency's reply.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE moved for leave to bring in a bill respecting the Administration of Oaths of Office, seconded by Hon. Mr. Dorion.—Carried.

The first reading of the bill was also carried.

Mr. SPEAKER reported that His Excellency had made a Speech to both Houses in the Senate Chamber, of which to prevent mistakes, he had obtained a copy. Was it the pleasure of the House that that Speech should be now read?

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE, seconded by Hon. Mr. Dorion, moved—

That the Speech of His Excellency the Governor General should be taken into consideration on Monday next.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE, seconded by Hon. Mr. Dorion, moved—

That the Votes and Proceedings of this House should be first perused by the Speaker, and that nobody should presume to print the same.

The usual Select Standing Committees—On Petitions and Elections, and Expiring Laws, Standing Orders, Printing, Public Accounts, &c., were moved for by Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE, seconded by Hon. Mr. Dorion.—Carried.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE moved the usual contested election resolutions, requiring members whose elections were contested to withdraw from the House during the debate, added to which was the ordinary denunciation of bribery and corruption.

The Report of the Librarian was submitted.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE moved, seconded by Mr. Dorion, that the House do now adjourn.

At ten minutes to four o'clock the House adjourned till Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers 251

POND'S EXTRACT has stood the test of time. Merit, not advertising has given it a reputation. Try it! 2525

The Mining Committee of the N. B. Legislature have reported that they are of opinion that the mining interests of the Province are second to none, and that it is the duty of the Executive to foster and encourage a branch of the industrial resources of the country that must soon become of paramount importance, and holding these views, they recommend to the favorable consideration of the Government the propriety of employing a provincial metallurgist and chemist, whose salary would probably be paid by private individuals, as already offered, and they beg leave, further, to recommend that in a supplementary estimate a grant of four thousand dollars be made for the encouragement of mining operations generally throughout the Province.

The Ottawa Times

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1874.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Members of Parliament, and others, who desire it, can obtain the Daily Ottawa TIMES, during the Session, for $1.50, payable in advance, delivered in wrappers ready for mailing.

Dr. Brillairgeon and Col. Panet were yesterday gazetted to the Senate.

Hon. Christopher F. Fraser, Provincial Secretary of Ontario, has been in town on official business for the past two days.

The death of Mr. Thomas Sanders, M.P.P. for Huntingdon in the Quebec Assembly, is announced. Mr. Sanders had represented Huntingdon since the last general election.

Mr. Marshall Wood at present in England, will arrive in this city in the early part of May, bringing with him a full sized model for the construction of the works upon the Parliament grounds.

It is believed that Sir Robert Hodgson, the present Administrator of the Government of Prince Edward Island, has been offered the Lieutenant Governorship of that Province, and will shortly be gazetted thereto.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

The general expectation that this deliverance would be both sensible and practical has been fully realized. It evinces no laboured attempts at fine writing or deceptive scene-painting, being equally free from glittering theories and political platitudes. The Speech is a plain, business statement, impossible of mis-construction, being purposely clear and concise, so that "he who runs may read." We have here set forth a complete list of the measures which the Government think fit to submit for the consideration and action of Parliament, as also a correct description of the state of some of our principal public works, and, what is of more importance, still, of the condition of the revenue for the current financial year. To pursue the order of the subjects now submitted to the attention of the Legislature, however, we find the Representation of the People and the Ballot mentioned first. All looked for measures on this question, which has been before Parliament for some time, and in regard to action upon which both parties stand pledged. The late Government was forced to promise legislation by the vigorous, persistent pressure of the Opposition. It is every way fitting, then, that the men who originated the promised reforms, should have the opportunity of carrying them out. We doubt not they will do so in a fashion satisfactory to all lovers of progress. We have the further announcement that the Government will propose measures for the establishment of a Court of Appeal and the amendment of the laws relating to controverted elections the Militia and Insolvency. It is understood the present method of trying election petitions—namely, by Judges of the Superior Courts, is but temporary, many holding the opinion that the Supreme Court or Federal Court of Appeal, to be set up, would be the proper tribunal. This will be one of the matters involved in the forthcoming Controverted Elections' Act. It is too early to pronounce upon the merits or probable efficiency of the actual Courts. They may or may not give satisfaction; but there can be no disputing the fact that the country will be content with nothing less than a tribunal of easy, expeditious, and economical operation, able and disposed to do justice to all suitors, of whatever political complexion. The Court of Appeal is recommended by the necessity for reform in other directions also. All are agreed as to the importance of a tribunal which should be the proper complement and crown of our whole legal system, and obviate the expense and difficulties attending appeals to England. With regard to the Milita, there is, as we have remarked on more than one occasion of late, much room for improvement. We need a force of at least 40,000 men, possessed of a liking for the service, fairly trained and reliable in the event of danger. We don't want a militia of the tadpole species, all head and no body. There has been too much money spent on staff already, and too little on other elements, demanding encouragement, and promising a respectable return for it. The militia as it stands is, to a large extent, a costly failure, and Ministers who should keep on spending on it a million and a half a year, would deserve the condemnation of Parliament. We believe the present will obtain better value for the money hereafter to be voted for this service. The question of Insolvency, we are glad to see, is also to be taken up. It has puzzled the wits of members for a long time, and is still capable of evoking warm discussion. A Ministry undertaking to deal with it, evinces some courage, and will be entitled to no little praise should it reconcile opposing views and, at the same time, effect any genuine reforms. Parliament will be granted a full opportunity of reconsidering the Pacific Railway question. It will be called upon to consider what plan "will best and most speedily provide the means of transcontinental communication with British Columbia." Could anything be fairer or wiser under the circumstances? Government does not seek any arbitrary power or discretion in this all-important matter; or desire to act independently of Parliament. The representatives of the people who have to pay for the great work, and whose convenience, comfort and prosperity must be affected by it for many a decade, will have the amplest opportunity of discussing the scheme, and taking every precaution against failure, or injury to the country in connection with it. If Ministers have erred in their treatment of this question hitherto, their opponents will now have a chance to prove the fact, and exact the fitting punishment. All their present proposals, moreover, will be open to scrutiny and the severest criticism. Could the Dominion ask for better guarantees of good faith on the part of the Government, or stronger evidence of a desire to avoid mistakes and perilous responsibilities? It has assumed an unassailable position on this question, and one which no honest man could construe into a policy of evasion as regards the creation of the transcontinental connection with British Columbia, to which Canada is pledged. As a proper preliminary to action, the Engineers reports, with all the information as to the route, the regions to be traversed, their climates, resources, and so forth, now at command, will be laid before the House. Members can then speak and act intelligently, and with advantage to the public. It is gratifying to know the work on the canals and harbours, undertaken at the general expense, is proceeding favourably, and that we shall soon have the means of judging of the merits of the Bay Verte Canal project. The Intercolonial Railway will require another year for completion. It is true, its backwardness has occasioned disappointment in many quarters, but an important explanation is to be found in the unexpected difficulty of portions of the work, including the bridges over the Miramichi and other rivers. The experience with this railway of only 500 miles, now nearly seven years in course of construction, should be a warning to us in the matter of rash promises concerning other gigantic enterprises. All will rejoice at the negotiation reported, with the view to a larger trade between Canada and the States. The time seemed to have come for a further effort in this direction; a better feeling exists between the Republic on the one hand, and Canada and Britain on the other, than formerly, and the discussions of the National Board of Trade, coupled with the economic lessons taught our neighbors, by the events of the last few years, have prepared the ground for a fresh attempt to secure a larger mutual trade. We must all hope it will prove successful. It is unpleasant to notice the report of a deficit, which, will not, however, be very large. The Finance Minister of the late Government was warned by Mr Cartwright and other members of the then Opposition, last Spring, against basing his expenditures upon the expectation of a large or growing revenue. The usual reaction, after a prosperous period was foretold, and counsel given to cut down expenditures, and avoid new outlays, as much as possible. Mr. Tilley thought differently, but time has undeceived him. It is right to add that the year has been an exceptional one, Canada having suffered to some extent from the panic in the States and the dullness of trade experienced in other countries.

The duty of our Government will be retrenchment, wherever practicable, and a policy of caution in regard to new public works. The reference to the fair success of the immigration policy, and the tolerably prosperous condition of the country, will be welcomed as pleasant truths by all who care for Canada, and as evidences of her cheerful spirit, and encouraging prospects.

COMFORT IN PROPHECY.

The Citizen dislikes our remarks on Sir John Macdonald's actual or contemplated retirement from the post of Opposition leader, and prophecies all sorts of dire misfortunes to a party that could use such language, or do things hurtful to its friends. We are pretty well accustomed to these predictions, having had a surfeit of them during the last four months. The noticeable point is, however, that they have all been falsified. The foretold calamities to the Liberal party have not yet been sent by the angry gods, nor is there any likelihood of their infliction. Let our contemporary prophecy on for our amusement, for any other effect is out of the question. It would be a pity to deprive the organs of the ex-Premier of the melancholy pleasure belonging to the contemplation of the punishments the Liberals are to receive in the future. This is some little set off to present successes and enjoyments. But modern no less than ancient wise men tell people to make the most of the present, and not fret about the future, an advice the more appropriate in this case, in view of the antecedents and character of the Opposition. Their triumph is likely to be in a future very distant indeed.

Amongst other press representatives now in town, are Mr. Thomas White, chief editor of the Montreal Gazette, whom we are glad to see re-elected President of the Gallery Press Association. Mr. Charles Belford, chief editor of the Toronto Mail, Mr. Hector Fabre, chief editor of L'Evenement. Mr. C A. Dansereau, chief editor of the Minerve, and Mr. David Wyllie, the veteran journalist of Brockville. Prescott occupy seats in the Reporter's Gallery. On the floor of either House there are other distinguished newspaper men in the persons of Hon. Messrs. Brown, Penny, DeCosmos, Cauchon, and Laird, and Messrs. Dymond, Desjardins, Young and Stephenson.

We learn from Mr. Morgan's "Parliamentary Companion" that the Honble. Timothy Warren Anglin, who has just been elected to preside over the Commons House of Parliament for the next five years, is a native of the Green Isle, which has been so prolific of great men. He came to St. John, N. B., in 1848, and there founded the Morning Freeman newspaper, of which he is still editor and proprietor. Mr. Anglin was first elected to Parliament in 1861, to represent the city of St. John in the New Brunswick Assembly, and was for a few months in 1866 a member and co-leader of Mr. A. J. Smith's anti Confederate Cabinet. At the general election of 1866, he was defeated, but in 1867 he was returned to the House of Commons for the County of Gloucester, which he has since continued to represent, being returned at the last general election by acclamation. The new Speaker is a Conservative in politics. He married some years since a daughter of Mr. McTavish, of St. John, a lady who by her many amiable qualities has endeared herself to all who have had the pleasure of meeting her in the Capital.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—As "Reform" is the order of the day, don't you think it would be well if we had a little "reformation" or supervision in the matter of distributing the tickets, both for the floor and gallery of the Senate Chamber at the opening of Parliament. The present distributor appears to act as though it was a private show of his own, and it was for him to determine who should and who should not receive tickets.

X,

CITY AND VICINITY

REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Services to-morrow in the Court House, Daly street, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The Rev. Mason Gallagher will officiate. 2528

SALOON IN THE COMMONS.—Mr. James Bourget has been awarded the management of the Saloon in the House of Commons, lately held by Mr. Kavanagh.

A CHANGE.—Our readers are directed to look on the first page hereafter for the Parliamentary Debates, and on the fourth page for the Traveller's Guide, Directory of Church Services and Commercial intelligence.

OBITUARY.—Our Brockville exchanges note the death of Adiel Sherwood, Esq., one of the oldest and most prominent men of that place. He had held many positions of public trust and his death has cast a gloom over the town. Mr. Sherwood will be buried with Masonic honors to-day at 3 o'clock.

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon as the Albion Hotel omnibus was being driven up Sparks street, en route for the Canada Central Station, a gentleman attempted to cross the street, but in doing so the shafts of the omnibus almost touched his shoulder. Had it not been for the manner in which the driver controlled the horses, we would probably have to chronicle a serious accident.

NEARLY DROWNED.—The Perth Courier says that on Saturday morning last a young lad, son of Mr. David Low, carpenter, Long Bridge, fell into the Tay at the foot of his father's property, and was carried down by the current some distance. The little fellow was rescued, after being long enough in the water to be rendered insensible, by a boy named Griffith; and, after the usual treatment, was restored to his wonted health and vigor, though his escape from a premature death was a narrow one.

NEW REFORM JOURNAL.—It is with pleasure we hail to our sanctum another new Reform journal, the Dundas County Herald. It is published by Mr. Arthur Brown, in the rising and prosperous town of Morrisburg, and it will do much from its political complexion, to foster a spirit of union among the Liberals of Dundas who fought so nobly on behalf of Mr. Gibson in the late elections. It is a weekly journal of 32 columns, ably edited, and has a good typographical appearance.

NEW WESLEYAN CHURCH.—Steps are now being taken towards the erection of a new Wesleyan Church in Ottawa. The Wesleyan Church is a large and influential body in this city, and as such should have a structure somewhat in keeping with the other fine church edifices of the city. A new site has already been purchased, and more active measures are now about to be taken to prosecute the undertaking. The old church will be used ad interim for service, and after the completion of the new, will be sold and the proceeds devoted in aid of the proposed Church Building Fund.

SHOCKING DEATH.—A few days ago, says a Perth exchange, a farmer living about five miles from Smith's Falls, in South Elmsley, named Thomas Findlay, was found dead in his stable, with his temple crushed in, and other bruises about the head and body. It is supposed that he was kicked to death by one of the horses whose sore leg he had evidently been examining. There were two or three colts running loose in the stable, which might have inflicted other of the bruises by trampling upon his prostrate body. Deceased formerly lived in the vicinity of Port Elmsley.

ACCIDENT.—A Perth paper says, that one day last week a young man named Tysick, living on the fourth line of Bathurst, met with an accident by the falling of a tree and narrowly escaped being killed on the spot. While engaged in falling timber with his brother and another companion, Thomas having nearly chopped a large tree through, stepped aside to assist his companions to fell their tree, and while thus engaged the tree number one unexpectedly came to the ground, the top and branches striking young Tysick to the ground in its fall. Fortunately the injuries received did not affect a vital part. One of his eyes was nearly gouged from its socket. Dr. Howden being summoned, attended to him, and from last accounts, we learn the young man is doing well.

DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT.—In front of the Parliament buildings last night a sort of altercation took place, between the Government Police and the carters. It seems that the police got instructions for the carriages to be driven in one direction and out another, but one of them, Mr. P. Buckley, somewhat stubborn, thought he could do as he pleased, but policeman Kane by an application of the baton to the horses, soon brought them to time. It was a pity however that the man did not get it instead of the horses. The conduct of Mr. Buckley, in his rude and vulgar language, while so many ladies and gentlemen, and for aught we know the Vice-Regal party were within the square, is altogether unpardonable. Such conduct is most reprehensible, and it would be well if the Corporation confiscated or withdrew his license, for acting in a manner calculated to detract, in the presence of so many strangers, from the fair name of our city.

Vice-Regal Drawing Room.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION IN THE SENATE.

THE LEVEE A GREAT SUCCESS.

Last night the Vice-Regal Levee in the Senate Chamber was attended by a large and fashionable assembly of the elite in and congregated in the capital of the Dominion. About nine o'clock, carriages in an endless stream began to come up to the facade of the Parliament House, and deliver at the respective entrances assigned them, the beautifully attired ladies and gentlemen, who were soon about to be ushered into the presence of the Earl and Countess of Dufferin. The Senate was brilliantly lit up, Mr. Kelly, having devoted much attention to his part of the arrangements. The Governor General's Foot Guards were drawn up in the vestibule off the main entrance, under the command of Capt. Lee and subalterns Mills and Aumond; and duly received their Excellencies upon arriving. The fine band of the regiment was stationed in the corridor of the Senate, and played some very fine selections during the evening. His Excellency took this place upon the throne having Lady Dufferin on his right. The Premier and Hon. Messrs. Smith, Cartwright, Huntingdon, Ross, Coffin and Burpee, occupied position immediately to the left of His Excellency; while the Hon. Messrs. LeTellier, Scott, Macdonald, Dorion, Fournier and Laird, stood to the right. The officers comprising the active and sedentary militia, and who officiated on a previous occasion during the day, formed two lines facing each other, the space between being left open between the throne and main entrance to the chamber. All those who were presented to their Excellencies entered by this door, walked quietly up the passage, and after giving their cards to Lieut. Hamilton, A. D. C., bowed gracefully to the Governor General and Lady Dufferin, a compliment which was reciprocated by their Excellencies. After presentation the parties retired to seats on either side of the Chamber or went out at the rear of the Throne, and promenaded in the lobbies until the ceremony ended. The Government Police under Superintendent O'Neil were placed around the buildings, and did good service in keeping the order and decorum so essential on such occasions. The brilliancy of the display was the subject of universal remark, and would have to be seen to be enjoyed, as it is utterly impossible to graphically describe it. The military uniforms of varied colors, the ladies' fine dresses of every shade, together with the rich appearance of the profusely adorned chamber with its marble pillars, statue of Her Majesty and other attractive features, presented a fine view to the beholder. A spectator could best realize the effect from the gallery of the Senate, in which were but a few privileged spectators, such as Members of Parliament and others who did not participate in the Drawing Room. His Excellency and the Countess of Dufferin retired at about 11 o'clock, the band playing the National Anthem; after which there was a general stampede for home. The following is a list of names of those who were presented at the Vice-Regal Levee last night:

OTTAWA LADIES COLLEGE.

Musical and Literary Soiree.

A musical and literary soiree took place last evening at the above admirably managed institution. The attendance, as on the last occasion, was too large to be accommodated with anything like convenience, and the pleasure which should have attended the entertainment was thereby interfered with. The programme commenced with the overture to 'Tancredi," which was very nicely rendered by the Misses Dowsley, Tisdell, B. and M. Christie, whose performances were the theme of general praise. These young ladies subsequently played the "Imitation a la Valse," by Weber. Two vocal quartettes were next well rendered by the Misses Story, Toms, Patterson and Dowsley. Time is all that is required to make the first-named young lady one of our leading singers. The next feature on the programme and one deserving of special mention was Miss Bella Christie's performance of some very difficult pieces, her execution being most brilliant, and her time and accentuation perfect. Miss Christie subsequently played with Professor Butler, two of Schubert's marches arranged as a duett. Miss Eva Tisdell next read with grace and ease, but in rather low tone of voice, the following very clever original composition:

"Music and Art of the Evening."

The fine Arts, in general, are those magic instrumentalities, by means of which man creates or reproduces and presents to the perception of others, the beautiful. Though different in their forms, yet they tend to this one grand object. They serve as a mirror of man's artistic nature, and their influence on the mind is ennobling, strengthening, and refining.

These two branches which we are now to consider bear no resemblance in themselves: but, both produce a similar effect upon the mind, this one through the ear, the other through the eyes; and when both are enjoyed at the same time, the effect of each is enhanced by the other. We can all enjoy a beautiful painting much more keenly if at the same time the soul is under the influence of music of a similar character.

But to our programme—An overture is an introductory symphony to an 'Oratorio' or an 'Opera' and generally consists of several movements; it is chiefly distinguished from the Sonata, by consisting of stronger lights and shades, and groupings of bolder masses of harmony.

It was during the carnival of 1813, that 'Rossini' composed our opening overture from 'Tancedi.' It opens with a broad majestic movement, working up the light crisp melody for which 'Rossini' was celebrated. The delightful opera of 'Tancredi' made the tour of Europe in the short space of four years. In the 'Don Juan' overture the all-romantic imagination of 'Mozart' appeared at its zenith, although it was written in a few hours, it fully displays his great genius. One can almost see the tired, sleepy composer seated at a table, his wife opposite, telling stories and mixing punch to keep him awake, as the opera was to be produced the following day. Past midnight and no overture written; but the good punch, together with the wonderful resources of Mozart conquered; and the music sheet still wet with ink was handed to the orchestra just in time.

In the vocal selections we find "The Venetian Boatman's Song." One can imagine himself floating in a gondola through beautiful Venice, listening to the lovely melody accompanied by the rich harmonies.

"The Chorus of Houris" is a selection from "The Paradise and Peri," by Robert Schumann, that boldest and most subtle of the modern German composers.

"Sing, Smile, Slumber" is a most beautiful serenade by Gounod, the famous composer of "Faust," full of poetry and musical ideas.

"Isolina or Arietta" by Stigetti is a sparkling Italian song, abounding in pretty and gay notions.

"O Rest in the Lord" by Mendelssohn, a sacred aria from the oratorio of "Elijah."

The three gems of "Dohler," and the grand fantasia on them from "Lucretia Borgia," by Archer, are pieces of the French romantic school. They are difficult and brilliant with great variety of light and shade.

R ff the great composer of the fantasia on the "Largo et Finale" to "La Traviata," was for a time Liszt's amanuensis; hence his music possesses more or less of the spirit of the great musician.

The grand fantasia, "A la Chapelle Sixtine, Miserere d'Allegri Ave verum corpus," from Mozart, arranged by Liszt, one can hear the grand orchestral effects produced on the piano, such as Liszt alone knows how to bring out. It opens with a deep, trembling bass, executed in slow time, and, then changes to an elevated and striking style of harmony, followed by a succession of runs with a crescindo and diminuendo making the effect highly expressive. It suddenly breaks into a more gentle ripple of notes in the bass, bringing in a beautifully varied theme. The whole piece bristles with technical difficulties. "La Fontaine," is a pretty descriptive piece of very sweet melody. Paul Privat best describes it in his Idyl.

> "Montrux, if I can ere again the woody hills,
> On which thy modest steeple is humbly rising;
> I want to refresh my sweetest thoughts,
> Go and sit at the foot of this rock;
> Out of which gushes, in murmuring under a dense foliage.
> The most charming brook that ever existed,
> And which the villagers in their simple language call by the beautiful name,
> 'Fountain of Love.'"

"Home Sweet Home!" What a thrill of emotion does that old, but much loved, melody send to the heart of every one who listens.

In this selection by Thalberg, song, harmony, and brilliant passages are united instead of being alternate. The whole key-board seem to speak at once, and the sweet melody is strongly accented in the midst of rapid arpaggio passages and very complicated forms of accompaniment. The whole piece is an example of precision, delicacy and finish of playing. The beautiful sound which which is drawn from the instrument, and the brilliant effects which it combines, cannot fail to excite and charm the enthusiastic mind. "The Lake" is one of a series of musical sketches by the most eminent of English composers. It consists of a soft, sweet melody, quite the opposite of the "Brilliant Galop di Bravura," by Wollenhaupt, a concert gallop of a higher order. The Chaconi is an old-fashioned dance, or an air borrowed from the Arabians; it is characterized by a marked ground bass consisting of four or eight measures of triple time of three quarter notes, with it repetition continually raised by melodies introduced in a kind of contrapuntal style, and three varied melodies passing and repassing from the major to the relative minor key, from the grave to the gay, from the tender to the lively—but without changing the inovation of the time—from those interesting contrasts which fetter the attention of the listeners. The Chacmi somewhat resembles the 'Saraband,' but is rather more grave, has the first and last quarter of every bar strongly accented, and was formerly used as an accompaniment to a certain slow and graceful dance. This production by Handel has been modernized by De Hans Von Bulon.

The "Fistspirl und Brautlied," by Franz Liszt is an arrangement from Wagner's Opera (Johenquin) and represented the great tournament scene and the bird's song of rejoicing after the victory of her champion knight. The grandeur of Wagner, his rich coloring of themes, and bold harmonies are brought out in a most expressive manner by Liszt. The "Invitation a la Valse," by G. M. Von Weber, this great composer of "Freischutz," "Euryanthe" and "Oberon" is a graceful and poetic protection containing strains of this most tender yet magnificent, harmonious and novel effects.

If all the fine arts; music is the most natural to man, no art is more closely connected with his inner life; at an education and refiner of taste.

A musical composition of an intellectual character, if the work of a master, never fails to touch the feelings; it influences the mind and binds the thoughts to nobler and loftier aspirations.

The painter and musician aim at corresponding effects; the eye and ear being the chief physical agents of artistic delight. Melody and harmony united from the art of music and picturesque forms, made tender and striking by various shades of color, forms the art of painting. The latter art is properly called an imitative art, because the artist, though aiming at pleasing effects, is confined to a certain necessary degree of fidelity to his original.

The works exhibited this evening are the productions of very young artists. Still we hope that they bear evidences of real and rapid progress.

One of the paintings is particularly striking. It is a representative of the setting sun gilding a western river. In the fore-grounds is a tree with its lofty branches finely displayed by contrast of light and shade; in the midde distance, the river is clearly discerned; while the back-ground is closed by a vast ridge of mountains, rising into a beautiful golden sky. There is another, somewhat similar; but it is executed in colored crayon, which gives it a more brilliant effect. Among our works may be observed sketches in crayon that demand our special attention. There is one, which, though unfinished yet, imitates the dignity and grandeur of the original. Another represents a fisherman's wife selling her fish. She is waiting for a customer at her stand, as patiently as her husband waited for the fish themselves. Not far distant is a "Scene in Winter." How wild and free seem the deer, as if they understood and were proud of their freedom. The sketches in chalk on the black board are far less complicated, and represent far less time than those already described; yet to a hasty observer, the effect is perhaps even more striking than the best oil or crayon picture that we have.

This is compensated, however, by the reflection that these would not bear so close examination, and cannot, of course, contain the material for so much study.

Art is elevating in every sense, and she who studies art for art's sake, and labors dilligentry, becomes gradually purified in thought and action, and has a source of enjoyment within herself unknown to others, and besides this pleasure, it has a refining influence on the mind and character; for which reason it should be considered as a proper object of public encouragement in every community.

Miss Julia Toms next played nicely "The Lake" and "Galop di Bravura;" after which Miss Lizzie Hay sang with taste Mendlesshon's "O Rest in the Lord." Miss E. Bannerman next read with much spirit an extract from the "Pickwick Papers." Miss Burdett next sang twice: her last song "Isolina" being excellently rendered. Two very young ladies, Misses Lees and Ida Ault, performed Moliere's colloquy "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," very creditably indeed. Miss Maggie Dowsley played well three pieces: her last "Home Sweet Home (Thalberg's arrangement) being the best played. Miss Hattie Link next read an original essay on "Learning without Book," in which much debated questions were very logically treated. Miss Ella Lees followed with two piano solos very correctly and very well played, after which Miss Emma S. Bangs, another very young lady, read in a clear and distinct voice, and in very creditable style, an anonymous composition entitled "Which Shall it Be?" The entertainment concluded with the National Anthem.

LAWRENCE, Kansas, March 26.—At Jacksonville, on Tuesday last, an old man named Ames was killed by his son-in-law, named Pierce. It was the result of family troubles. Pierce was arrested and confined in Calaboose until yesterday morning, when a mob took him out and hung him.

Loyal Orange Institution.

The fine new lodge—hotel we might rather call it—which has been erected for the use of the different lodges of this excellent institution, was duly inaugurated last night. The meeting hall in which the grand concert was held, is by no means a small one, and yet it was filled to its utmost capacity. We squeezed in, and stood gasping and perspiring in the crowded passage for some time before procuring a seat. But music arose with its voluptuous swell, and the strains of 'Rise Sons of William,' dropped overwhelmingly upon the ear. The magnificently dressed and most efficient band of the Guards were in the orchestra; and Colonel Mackenzie Bowell, Grand Master of the Dominion and M. P. for the North Riding of Hastings, was in the Chair, with the Grand Master for New Brunswick and East Ontario and some local celebrities on the right and left of him. Colonel Bowell made an excellent speech, declaring himself to be a Conservative, with an alternative but, while the Grand Master of East Ontario believed that in certain matters now, or rather lately, before the Ontario Legislature, the motto of the order should still be 'No Surrender.' The Grand Master of New Brunswick was more than ordinary witty and a great friend of the ladies, who never for an instant severed from the truth, kindly advising all the young ladies to take young gentlemen home with them and keep them there.

The singing was admirable. Mr. MacLean's 'Cameron Men,' elicited, and justly so, an encore. Mr. Adam's 'Bay of Biscay,' was admirably rendered, and he was consequently encored; but the gems of the evening were indisputably the songs by Mrs. Parsons and Miss McCarthy. They fairly brought down the house. We cannot say more our space will not permit us.

OBITUARY.—We have to record the death, on Sunday morning last, in the 80th year of his age, of the Rev. Dr. Clark, of Amherst. Dr. Clark came to Nova Scotia about fifty years since; the first three or four years he resided at Goose River, after which he removed to Amherst, where he continued to reside till his death, having charge of the Presbyterian Church there. As an orator, a scholar, and a theologian, Dr. Clarke had few superiors, while his kind manners secured him the friendship of those around him. Dr. Clarke has been failing in health for some time, and his death, at his ripe old age, was not unlooked for.—Chignecto Post.

THE BALL TO THE GOVERNOR.—To the Ladies of Ottawa.—Thos. E. Moore, of 73 Sparks street, with respectable compliments and sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage, solicits an early call to inspect the elegant assortment of ornaments in steel, pearl jet, and Tortoiseshell, which he has just received, and which he will sell at as low prices as possible, consistent with fair business principles. Fresh importations of all the new goods monthly at the Burlington Hair-Cutting Rooms. 2514.

MARRIED.

On the 26th of March, at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. W. Sheninck, Rector of Cobourg, Joseph Dickinson, Esq., C. E., of Ottawa City and Banbridge, County Down, to Isabella 3rd daughter of Angus Crawford, Esq., of Spring Vale Place, near Cobourg, and formerly of Ballievey, County Down.

DIED.

On the 27th March, William P. Brown, son of Thomas and Eliza Jane Brown, of this city aged 22 years, deeply lamented by all that knew him.

The funeral will leave his father's residence, William Street, on Sunday, 29th instant, at two o'clock. Friends will please accept this invitation without further notice.

HAVING SUFFERED FOR SEVERAL Years from Dyspepsia resulting in great nervous prostration and general debility, impoverished blood, Eruption of the Skin, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Restlessness, want of sleep and extreme lassitude, I was recommended to take Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya. Having persisted in its use for several weeks I recovered perfect health. My wife and children also, have taken it, for Tonic purposes to invigorate and strengthen the system and promote the formation of pure blood, with permanent benefit. It energizes and sustains the vital force in a remarkable manner.

Campbell vs Campbell – Political – Confidence Operators.

TORONTO, March 27 h

The case of Campbell vs Campbell closed this evening, and the speech of Mr. Cameron for the plaintiff was very eloquent and reduced three of the jurymen and several of the spectators to tears. The jury have been out from three o'clock till the present, with no possible chance of their agreeing.

Judge Hagarty's charge was a model of impartiality.

Thos. Moss, M. P., for West Toronto leaves this city to-morrow evening for the Capital.

There is a movement in aquatic circles, and arrangements are being made for the Spring races.

The report of Sir John Macdonald's resignation of the Leadership of the Opposition does not take people here by surprise, as it is looked upon as a necessary accompaniment of a thorough demoralization of the Conservative party.

Two confidence operators named Quinn and Boardman who were arrested a few days ago were before the Police Magistrate this morning. They asked for a remand until they could get money from the States to fee counsel.

MONTREAL.

Post Office Investigation—Indecent Exposure Case—Rape—Libel Suit—Lecture by Mr. O'Donoghue, M.P.P.—Stocks.

MONTREAL, March 27.

The Post Office investigation was resumed this morning, evidence of Mr. Ewing, Assistant Postmaster being continued. He gave a general statement of the clerks in the Delivery Department, which was very favourable to them. He spoke of the manner of appointments, and said that influential parties caused the appointment of incompetent persons, instancing that in the past fifteen months four carriers had been appointed, one of whom had been in the Penitentiary for stealing 197 letters, one was a confirmed drunkard, and had been for years before his appointment, and another did not know the alphabet.

An investigation into the Pope-Macdonald letter mis-delivery was made, and Mr. Ewing in substance testified that he did not suspect any of the clerks in the office. Mr. Harding, the clerk who swore he saw the letter in the general delivery frame, had not a very good memory. He had since then declared that he had seen another letter in the general delivery frame which it was afterwards proved had never been in the general delivery department at all, but had slipped down at the back of Captain Lamothe's box to whom it was addressed. He could not recognize the address on the envelope enclosing the letter to the Hon. John Young, as in the hand-writing of any clerk in the department, but he had seen two letters since passing through the office both posted here, which appeared to him and to Mr. King, P O Inspector, to very closely resemble the address on the envelope to the Hon John Young. One of these two letters was addressed to Hon. John Young. The other to some place out of town. He was not very sure where.

Several cases of indecent exposure have occurred of late and one very aggravated case where a lady was knocked down is reported. The ruffians escaped with detection.

Two slight fires occurred last night, but no serious damage done.

The argument before the Court of Queen's Bench in the Brydges' manslaughter case, has been postponed until the 22nd of June. The grand jury, this morning, returned a true bill against Joseph Daize for rape on a little girl twelve years of age, named Archambeault. He will be tried on Monday.

The Tabb Fenton libel suit was closed before the magistrate to-day. Fenton was committed for trial at the Queen's Bench now sitting.

Mr. O'Donoghue, M.P.P., of Ottawa, lectured to a fair assemblage of workingmen, in Perry's Hall, to-night. His object is to form a Montreal Branch of the Labor League.

ST. CATHARINES

Burglar Captured—Attempted Smuggling—Suicide.

ST. CATHARINES, March 26.

Last night a burglar effected an entrance into the residence of the Rev. Mr McLeod of Chippawa. An alarm being given by a dog, the burglar was arrested before he could leave the premises. He gave his name as John Stewart. He was committed to gaol for trial.

On Tuesday last Mr. Fleming, of the Customs, captured 900 yards of black silk at the Suspension Bridge, which property was being smuggled by a man and two women from the other side of the river.

A new lodge of the I. O. O. F. under the name of Orient, No. 136 was duly installed at Welland on Wednesday.

A woman named Mrs. James Anderson, aged eighty-four, committed suicide on Tuesday, at Drummondville, by throwing herself into a well. No cause is assigned for the act.

HALIFAX.

Protectionist Meeting—Temperance Petitions—New City Hall—Cargo of Shingles.

HALIFAX, March 26.

A manufacturers' meeting, called in the interest of protection, was held to-day. About one hundred persons were present. Many were not manufacturers, and many others attended out of curiosity, having no sympathy with the movement. The leaders talked the meeting out of patience, and when the resolution came to be put, only a score of persons were present. The resolution expressed in general terms the necessity of encouragement being given to our manufacturers.

The House of Assembly is being flooded with temperance petitions, asking for the restriction of the liquor traffic.

An Act to build a new city hall, to cost $100,000, passed the City Council last evening, and has been sent to the Legislature for concurrence.

The brigantine 'Ringdove,' of Calais, Maine, has arrived at St. Marquet's Bay with 180,000 shingles, the first cargo of the kind ever entered at the Custom house. They were brought in lieu of ballast.

South Western Railway.

WINDSOR, March 26.

A meeting of the provisional directors of the South Western Railway, designed to be constructed from the towns of Windsor and Sandwich to the harbour of Two Creeks, in the County of Kent, on Lake Erie, was held to-day in the County Council Chamber at Sandwich, when the following gentlemen were elected to the Board: Mr. Sheriff Mercer of Chatham, President; Mr. B. D. D. Rorison, of Windsor, Vice-President; and Mr. George Rankin, of Sandwich, Managing Director. The company have secured offices at Sandwich, and immediate and vigorous action is to be taken to place the enterprise upon a tangible footing. An earnest desire for the building of the road is expressed on all sides.

ALMONTE.

Robbing a Ticket Office.

ALMONTE, March 26.

The ticket office of the B. & O. Railway was robbed yesterday morning of 700 tickets for various stations. It was the intention of the burglars to blow open the safe and decamp with what money they could get, but they did not carry out their intention. They have been arrested in Brockville and will be tried this morning. Good evidence as to their guilt has been given by a boy to whom one of the burglars presented twenty-eight of the stolen tickets. There was no money in the building. There is a warrant out for their arrest on another charge of stealing $50 in gold from an hotel here.

The Boat Race—The Betting.

LONDON, March 27—The race between the Oxford and Cambridge crews will take place at forty-five minutes past ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

The rowing of the Oxford crew to-day showed continued improvement and their chances of success have brightened considerably.

The betting this evening is about even.

Colors of the Crews.

Light blue and dark blue rosettes are the respective colors of the Cambridge and Oxford crews, and have been selling rapidly all day; and now that there is a chance of the Oxford winning the excitement is intense.

The Fenian Prisoners not to be Released.

In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Anderson asked how many Fenian convicts were still undergoing sentences, where imprisoned, and whether Government was or was not of opinion that the time had come for their release.

Hon. Mr Cross, Home Minister, replied that the total number of these prisoners were sixteen. Two are now undergoing sentence for the Manchester murder, but none for the Clerkenwell outrage, two others were under sentence and imprisonment for fifteen years, one for seven years, and eleven who had been soldiers, were sentenced for life having been convicted of supplying arms to and otherwise assisting the insurgents. They were distributed as follows:—Three in England; eight in one part of Australia, and two in another and three in Ireland. Mr. Cross concluded by declaring that the Government had no intention of interfering with the execution of their sentences. This announcement was received by the House with cheers.

FRANCE.

A Plebiscite urged in the Assembly.

PARIS, March 27—In the Assembly to day M Dahriel, a monarchist, moved that the Assembly take a vote on the first day of July to decide the future form of Government of France. He urged that it was impossible to make a constitution without first settling the question whether France was to be monarchy or Republic.

The motion caused great excitement in the Chamber, and a heated debate ensued.

Rejected by a mejotriy of only 74 Votes.

M DeKerdrel and the Duc DeBroglie, spoke against the motion, and it was rejected by a vote of 330 against 256.

ITALY.

Extermination of Brigands.

ROME, March 27.—The bands of brigands in Calabria have been completely exterminated.

SPAIN.

Serrano's Loss at Bilboa—Holds his Position—Will not attack Pedro.

MADRID, March 27.—Marshall Serrano in a despatch to the war office, says his losses in the engagement yesterday, were 188 men killed and wounded.

His troops maintain all positions they captured from the Carlists, insurgents having massed, he relinquished his intention of carrying the town of Pedro Alonto, till the movement now being performed by his right wing is completed.

BAYONNE, March 27. Despatches from the Carlist forces, dated Durango, yesterday, claim successes for the insurgents in two days fighting with Marshal Serrano.

UNITED STATES

Sad Case of Drowning.

DETROIT, March 27.—Mrs. Fisk and daughter were drowned yesterday on the St Clair River, by the upsetting of a sail boat.

An American Nile.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A letter from the Mississippi river states, that it has overflowed the leves and spread itself fifty miles wide, from the Cairo to its mouth.

Election of Senator.

BOSTON, March 27. The fourth joint ballot for Senator at noon to-day resulted as follows: Dawes 95 Hoar 78 Curtis 74, Adams 15, Banks 7, ex-Mayor Pierce 2 Washburn and Whittier 1 each.

Bodies Found.

MEMPHIS, March 27.—The bodies of Mrs Orstrander, Mr. Munday and a boy about 14 years of age were found near the wreck of the Crescent City.

Explosion of Gas.

BALTIMORE, March 27.—An explosion of gas occurred in the street sewer this morning, by which Cornelius Cobourn, fatally, and 3 other men were seriously injured.

Illness of Bishop Cummins.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The health of Bishop Cummins, of the Reform Episcopal Church, is so much impaired that he is compelled to abandon his work, and leave the city.

Japan Seeks Civilization.

Mayor Haveymer received a communication from the Municipal Directory, Yokohama, Japan, asking for a code of the municipal regulations and by-laws of New York, and a copy of the articles of incorporation from the State.

An Absconding Bank Teller Caught.

BRADFORD, Vt., March 27.—C. P. Wright the absconding teller of the Bradford Savings Bank, has been overhauled at Potsdam, N. Y.

Debate in the Senate Resumed.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill to provide for the redemption and re-issue of United States notes and for free banking. The pending question being on the amendment of Mr. Morril of Vermont, to the first section of prohibiting the use of any portion of the $400,000,000 authorized by that section as amended by Mr. Wright, for the purchase of bonds of the United States above par, or for current expenses of the Government. After a short debate, Mr Morril withdrew his amendment saying he would see what kind of bill the majority would get up.

New Banking Scheme.

WASHINGTON, March 27. In the Senate to-day Mr Sherman said the amendment of Senator Hogan presented the simple question, whether the Senate was in favor that free banking should be established. Banking capital would all concentrate within one hundred miles of New York city and West and South would be more dissatisfied than ever.

The Strike Continued.

PORT JARVIS, N. Y. 27.—The strike of the Erie employes at Susquehanna Depot, is still maintained, and through travel is suspended, or nearly so.

Great Fire in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, March 27.—The extensive Chemical Works of Chappel Bros., on Cross street, near Covington street, was burned to-night. The loss is estimated at $50,000. Insurance, $20,000.

NEW YORK, March 27—Arrived: S.S 'Java,' from Liverpool.

Strike Ended in Susquehanna—Work to be resumed.

The freight hands of the Erie Railway, now on strike, held a meeting to-night, and resolved to accept the terms offered by the Company.

They will resume work to-morrow.

Another Fire.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A fire at Port Henry, New York, destroyed the greater portion of the business part of the town. Loss, $70,000; insured for about half. Several persons were injured. The village had no fire apparatus, and no water.

Yesterday's Despatches.

ENGLAND.

Bismarck Dying—His great Prostration—Battle at Bilboa—Livingstone's Remains—The Body Identified—Emperor of Austria Visits Italy.

LONDON, March 27.—A despatch to the Standard from Berlin says, reports in regard to Prince Bismarck's illness are discouraging.

The patient is in a state of great prostration.

The Times special despatches from Madrid state, that Marshall Serrano renewed the attack on the Carlists before Bilboa, at five o'clock yesterday morning. At one in the afternoon the Marshall telegraphed to Madrid that the combatants were obstinate on both sides, but that the advantages were with his troops.

The Daily Telegraph announces that the remains of Livingstone were embarked on the steamer at Aden on the 3rd inst., and are now on the way to England.

An investigation at Aden, resulted in the complete indentification of the body.

A Vienna telegram reports, that the Emperor Francis Joseph will visit Napier, where he will meet the King of Italy, and accompany him to Italy.

There is every prospect of a good day to-morrow for the University Race on the Thames. The rowing of the Oxford Crew has greatly improved since its first appearance on the river for practice. In betting now, the odds are 6 to 4 in favour of Cambridge.

SPAIN.

Fighting at Bilboa—Carlists Defeated.

MADRID, March 27.—The fighting before Bilboa between the Republicans and Carlists which was renewed early yesterday morning continued all day and closed at night with decided advantages for the National forces.

Marshal Serano telegraphs to the Minister of War that his troops have advanced and driven back the Carlists lines, capturing at the point of the bayonet several villages and a number of positions which were occupied by the Insurgents on wednesday. Several of the Carlist batteries have been silenced.

UNITED STATES.

Another Large Elevator.

NEW YORK, March 25.—A mammoth grain elevator will shortly be built by the New York Central Railroad on the North River side between 60th and 68th streets, to be 500 x 200 feet.

Strike at Susquehanna.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A despatch from the Susquehanna Depot at midnight last night says, that forty-nine engines in a yard there were crippled, and the yard is full of loaded freight trains. Mail trains only are allowed to pass either way.

Saloons Closed.

All the saloons are closed.

Attempt at Compromise.

The men are sober and orderly, and at the meeting last night a proposition from the Company promising to pay the back wages of the men if they would go to work to-day was declined, and the written proposition returned to the representatives of the Company, with the statement, that they would go to work when they received their pay, and not till then; as they had been so often heretofore deceived by promises. The men have the sympathy of the travelling public and press along the line.

A $100,000,000 Fire.

PITTSBURG, March 26.—A large woollen factory and the warehouse of Goodnull & Adener, and the residence of Wm. Pollock, at Kittanning, Pa., was burned this morning. Loss, $100,000,000.

Tannery Burned, Loss $25,000.

LOWELL, March 26.—Cooks' tannery here was burned to-night. Loss, $75,000. The building and machinery, which were models of their kind, were a total loss.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy.

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.
NEWPORT, N. S.

Church and State in Germany.

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—The semi-official Correspondence of this evening publishes an article in which it gives as the reason why Bishop Raess so unexpectedly and quickly broke off the alliance with the French party the fact that the interests and tactics of the Centre (Catholic) party in the Parliament were absolutely sufficient to decide his course of action. The most important point, as far as Germany's interest is concerned, is that a large majority of the representatives sent to the Parliament have already acknowledged and proclaimed that their labors can only be successful if based upon facts and a recognition of them as accomplished.

The Provincial Correspondence contains an article upon the latest synodal letter of the Prussian Bishops, and points out that they therein evade the point which they formerly clearly recognized, but can now no longer openly maintain. The article refers to the dangers proclaimed beforehand by the German Bishops themselves upon the occasion of the Vatican Council, and the suppliant requests addressed by them to the Pope to desist from the auspicious enterprise of summoning the Council. It points out at that time that Bishops were still free in their Catholic conviction, and that consequently the danger by which the Church is now threatened have simply been brought about by the absolute subjection of the Bishops' consciences to the dominion of Rome.

Both Houses of the Prussian Diet have adjourned until the 13th of April.

AUTHORIZED discount on American Invoices until further notice: 11 per cent.
R. S. M. BOUCHETTE,
Commissioner of Customs.

The sons of Chang and Eng are indignant over the recent autopsy, as will be seen by their statement to a Herald correspondent in Philadelphia yesterday.

A correspondent of the Bombay Gazette writes that Captain Lee Hunt, commander of Her Majesty's ship 'Thetis,' is awaiting his trial at Aden on a serious and extraordinary charge. It is, that having captured several fishing vessels under the mistaken idea that they were slavers, he landed their crews numbering several hundreds, on a desert Island, and left them to starve. A passing vessel relieved them but not till a few of their number had died.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgements he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named and necessary arrangements made for sale. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future. Sales at Auction Room every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for the Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture, Pianos, and other Goods sent in for sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses, Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

GOLD IN NEW YORK 13¼.

FINANCIAL.

MONTREAL, March 27.

The action of the House of Representatives early in the week, in voting in favor of the $4,000,000 standard for the legal tender circulation, seems to have had an immediate effect upon the New York stock market, causing a gradual advance each day, extending pretty well over the entire list of stocks. Of course it remains for the Senate to take final action on the subject, and until that is done, this long-deferred decision will continue in abeyance. The general opinion is, so far as can be ascertained from Washington despatches, that the Senate will confirm the vote of the House, thereby sanctioning the principle of inflation. The Gold Board opened to day at 112½, and advanced to 113¾ at the close. Interest rules lower at 1½ per cent to carry. Sterling Exchange remains steady at $4 85¼.

In the local money market a fair degree of business prevails. Loans on stocks range from about 5 to 8 per cent.; best commercial paper is discounted freely at 6 to 7 per cent per annum at the Banks. The minimum rate of discount at the Band of England is 3½ per cent. In Sterling Exchange—Bank 60-day drafts on London are selling on the street at 109 to 109¼, the rate at the banks being nominal at 109 3.16. The quotation for best private bills is 107¾; documentory and produce bills are at 108¾ to 108¼, with few offering. Bank demand-drafts on gold-drafts on New York are at par to ¼ premium.

The local stock market has been characterized by considerable buoyancy and strength during the week, while prices have advanced almost daily, with an unusually large number of transactions on the Board.

The following is a list of to-days transactions:

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all tha proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the real conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Landington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annualy. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School; Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. . . . They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 900,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense, and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of Dr. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of DR. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of DR. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its nature and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and Intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

GENUINE PANCREATINE
PANREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the publi against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, oitments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labell on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

Enamellene

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at 10 cents per box.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE
PURELY
DR. WALKER'S
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

The Leonard Scott Publishing Co.
140 FULTON ST., NEW YORK.

By arrangement with the English Publishers, who receive a liberal compensation.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here, and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent readers in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for a subscription to these the LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Insurance Company.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

CAPITAL - - £2,000,000 Stg.

SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.

This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of the shareholders.

Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit-system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.

BONUS.

Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.

Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TIMES will not be held responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

A False Rumour.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—In your paper of Tuesday last I observed a report of Dr. Gallagher's speech at the Tract Society's meeting. The peroration of it is founded on a singular error, which I will venture to correct, at the risk of spoiling a very pleasing illusion which recurs so constantly to Dr. Gallagher's mind.

The Doctor has read an account of a speech supposed to be delivered by the Archbishop of Canterbury, in which that prelate is made to "assist" at the opening of a Nonconformist Chapel which Dr. Parker is now building near the Holborn Viaduct in London; and he is reported as announcing that Nonconformists are henceforth to occupy, as occasion serves, the pulpits of the Episcopal Church.

Such a circumstance would be of a most remarkable character, and I cannot wonder that it should make a strong impression on those who have received it as a fact. And there need be no surprise that many have done so, for the fiction has been commonly reported as though it were the truth.

The explanation is this:—Dr Parker, a very eloquent Nonconformist preacher, whom I have heard on several occasions, is moving his chapel in order to rebuild it on a larger scale. He edits a publication called the "Christian Shield," in a recent number of which there occurs a paper entitled "As it Should Be." This paper consists of a visionary sketch of Dr. Tait as seizing the opportunity of the reopening of this chapel to fraternize with Dissent, and give utterance to the remarkable sentiments which have so charmed Dr. Gallagher.

The present Archbishop of Canterbury is anything but a High Churchman, though rather more cautious in his conduct than his Dean; but he cannot, I am sure, forget that he sits in the Chair of St. Augustine, and he will never fulfil the dream. At least, if he does, I will give a hundred dollars to Dr. Gallagher's new church, and I enclose my name and address if he cares to book the offer.

As a churchman of the "advanced school," allow me to say, in reference to recent correspondence, that I admire the candour which prompts those who dont accept the plain doctrines of the Church of England, to leave her; the people who really act a dishonest part are those who disbelieve these doctrines, and remain in. When the non-conformists went out in 1662, they did so because they were honest men who saw that the Church was not Protestant, and that they must seek Protestantism, if at all, outside. I have very little quarrel with Bishop Cummins's new sect; but to those who hold his views, and do not join him, let me say that either the early dissenters, with whose descendants they would fraternize in a religious way, were fools for leaving a Church whose corner-stone was our common Protestantism, or else they themselves might, to come out and avoid touching what they must consider the "unclean thing." Let them choose which horn of the dilemma they will, both are sharp.

To Dr. Gallagher let me apologize for dispelling a vision which has caused him so much hopeful exultation.

I am, sir,
Yours obediently,
VIGILANS.

Ottawa, March 28 1874.

THE S. R. B. B.

A Suggestion for the Priest of St. Alban's.

To the Editor of the TIMES.

SIR,—Dressing hurriedly the other evening to attend the reception of their excellencies, a diminutive article became suddenly and unexpectedly detached from my nether habiliments and rolled into the corner of the apartment—need I say it was a Button! The nature of the injury was such as to require immediate reparation, and as a junior member of the Civil Service, it is scarcely necessary to say that I cannot afford to keep more than one pair at a time of 'what d'ye call ems,' so I had perforced to seek needle and thread, and repair damages myself.

My meditations, interspersed by frequent plaintive howls and fervent ejaculations, as the point of the needle became diverted from its legitimate destination, ran in this wise. Why is this thus? Why should I be compelled to lacerate my tender digits and peril my immortal soul by consequent blasphemy when there are dozens of tender maidens skilled in domestic arts who would esteem it a privilege to sew on my buttons, if only they could do so with propriety, it is true I am not yet in a position to marry, but should that debar me from the kindly ministrations of the fair sex! I reply emphatically, no.

There exists already in connection with the Church of St. Alban's, a "Ladies' Guild" whose mission it is to construct under garments of linen and calico for young bachelors. I will make this the neucleus of a society which I will found. I will see Dr. Jones on the subject. I will incorporate it. I will call it the "Society for the Restoration of Bachelors' Buttons." It shall consist of an equal number of young maidens and sage matrons, who shall in pairs visit the apartments of young bachelors and renovate their damaged wardrobes. While the maiden sits by in discreet silence plying the busy needle, the matron shall inculcate lessons of morality and discourse upon the joys of wedlock. What sweet associations will arise therefrom! what innocent intrigues will be set on foot by the young bachelor to secure the attendance of his special affinity, or by the maiden to ensure the privilege of looking after the buttons of the bachelor of her choice.

No doubt things will be a little mixed at first, perhaps to Jones' favourite maiden may be alotted the care of Smith's wardrobe, or Smith's maiden may be detailed to look after Robinson's buttons, but all these matters cannot fail to adjust themselves in course of time. Then with what justifiable pride will the fair members add the magic letters to their names. Miss Araminta Maloney, M. S. R. B. B., or Mrs. Major Buster, President S. R. B. B. Of course they will have a badge, all societies have badges now a days, from the Charitable Corks down to the Consolidated Cobblers. A thimble argent, surmounted by two crossed needles or with the motto "rem acu tetegisti," would look sweetly pretty if got up neatly in enamel in the form of a brooch or locket. Here my meditations were brought to a premature close by my needle entering about an inch and a half into the ball of my thumb. I trust, however, that my esteemed friend, Dr. Jones, will take up the suggestion, and that my idea will culminate in the establishment of a Society which cannot fail to be a blessing to bachelors.

Yours truly,
A MISERABLE BACHELOR.

Ottawa, 29th March, 1874.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

SIR,—That portion of Upper Town lying to the north of Biddy and South Maria Streets, in rear of the new St. Patrick's Church will very soon be all built up, and as the summer is fast approaching we hope that the Corporation will take the first opportunity and have those streets in the aforesaid locality opened out. If I am not mistaken the Council voted some money for those streets early last summer, and there has been nothing done since. It is very necessary that Frank Street in particular should be formed out and graded with a sidewalk to the market. It is to be hoped that the Corporation will take the circumstances of our case into their kind consideration, and do justice to this rising and important part of the city.

Yours respectfully,
A TAXPAYER.

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers 251

POND'S EXTRACT has stood the test of time. Merit, not advertising has given it a reputation. Try it! 2525

The Mining Committee of the N. B. Legislature have reported that they are of opinion that the mining interests of the Province are second to none, and that it is the duty of the Executive to foster and encourage a branch of the industrial resources of the country that must soon become of paramount importance, and holding these views, they recommend to the favorable consideration of the Government the propriety of employing a provincial metallurgist and chemist, whose salary would probably be paid by private individuals, as already offered, and they beg leave, further, to recommend that in a supplementary estimate a grant of four thousand dollars be made for the encouragement of mining operations generally throughout the Province.

The Ottawa Times

MONDAY, MARCH 30th, 1874.

We learn that the Hon. Peter Mitchell refused to go the Opposition Caucus, and that he evinces a disposition to have nothing to do with them.

We regret having this morning to chronicle the death of another of our Canadian public men, in the person of Mr. Hamilton H. Killaly. He at one time was a very active politician, but retired some years ago, devoting his energies as an engineer in the furtherance of the public works of the country. He was member of Parliament for London for the first Parliament of Canada after the Union in 1840. He was chairman of the Board of Public Works from 1841 to 1856, and Assistant Commissioner of Public Works from 1851 to 1859. He also held a position for some time on the Board of Railway Commissioners. He was a man highly respected; and the country in his death sustains a great public loss. He died in Picton on Saturday Morning, and his remains have been taken to Toronto for interment.

THE UNIVERSITY RACE.

The sporting event of the season, the University boat-race, has once more resulted in a victory to Cambridge. This intelligence will not have taken many by surprise, considering the run of luck that Cambridge has enjoyed, and the generally acknowledged superiority of her crew since the beginning of the serious practice. So marked, indeed, was this difference between the rivals that, at first the odds were largely against Oxford, two to one being offered a short time ago. Latterly, however, an improvement was exhibited in the form and style of the Oxford men, who appeared to be fast catching up to their adversaries as the trial-day approached. The popular judgment was manifested, as usual, in the betting, which became more equal. A few days ago it stood at six to four, and the cable informs us that the day before the race, Oxford had improved so much as to warrant even betting. Great efforts must have been made, and with material of no ordinary quality, to so rapidly raise the public confidence in a venture considered hopeless a short time ago. The prospects of Oxford were at the last moment spoken of in language not discouraging, her "chance" of victory being conceded, as a matter of course, this uncertainty as to the event aroused the popular excitement to the highest pitch, producing scenes only to be witnessed in England on such occasion, and which almost defy description. Immense sums will have changed hands, and no little sympathy will be felt for the unfortunate oarsmen. If they did not win they deserved victory; they have no reason to be ashamed of their performances. Two boats' length will not represent more than 100 feet and three or four seconds' rowing. We believe the Universities are now even, Cambridge having had a defeat to retrieve, which will heighten, if possible, the interest in the contest for the championship for the new era.

FRANCE.

It will be seen that the French Assembly is anything but desirous of a reopening of the constitutional question at present. Mr. Dahriel, no doubt gave voice to the wishes of many of his countrymen, in moving for a vote on the first of the approaching July, to decide the future form of government. It is not surprising that the motion caused great excitement and a heated debate. Party feeling runs high in the Legislature, and French disputants are not mealy-mouthed, on the contrary all parties are ardent and out-spoken, and easily thrown into excitement. Besides, there has been, latterly, a Bonapartist revival, or an attempt to effect one, which has disturbed the other parties, if not excited their grave apprehensions. An effort is being made at this time, also, to bring the Count de Chambord once more to the front, and it is regarded as furnishing the last hope of success for the Legitimists. There is no great chance of the Count, who was recently described as ill, evincing a more practicable spirit than formerly, while it is vain to look for such popular concessions from France, to-day, as would bring the two parties to any agreement. In presence of the machinations and struggles of the rival aspirants to the throne, the Assembly prefers to maintain a neutral attitude for the time. The actual regime secures at least order and peace, while definitively settling nothing, and leaving all parties scope for such propagation of their doctrines as comes short of endangering the public tranquillity. The President is personally liked, while his rule is appreciated as a useful compromise, pending a final settlement. It is no wonder the majority of the Chamber shrinks from another revolution, with all its turmoil and perils. The parties representing Republicanism on the one hand, and the principle of monarchy on the other, being almost equal in the Legislature, a struggle for the control of the State would be no trifling matter. Prudence, no less than patriotism, might well dictate to both the prolongation of the existing truce. The country is recovering fast from the losses of the late War, and peace, internal as well as external, is essential to the continuance of this desirable process. Such thoughts, no doubt, influenced the Government Party and its allies in their opposition to the motion. The Duc de Broglie the Leader of the Ministry, was one of the orators hostile to it, and he may have been aided by moderate members of the Left. On any other hypothesis it is not easy to see how he could have obtained so large a majority as 74 against the motion. Neither Left nor Right may be ready for the revolutionary fray at present, which would lead spectators to expect their union against any scheme for a premature explosion.

THE TICHBORNE CSAE.

Whether the "Claimant" be Roger Tichborne or not, his counsel, Dr. Kenealy, is a man not to be despised, or put down without resistance. His letter to the London Tory papers, replying to their attacks, and resisting the efforts making for his professional ruin, comprises a stout defence of his own course, and an effective criticism of that of his assailants. He charges the Queen's Bench with exercising despotic power, and muzzling all England for ten months, and instances the indulgent treatment of the Times, on occasions of offence, as presenting a striking contrast to that of the Cheltenham Chronicle whose owner is a poor and powerless gentleman. In answer to the charge of treating the Bench with contempt, Dr. Kenealy very pertinently asks—"why did it not punish me at the time?" He replies, because it couldn't prove contempt, but now seeks to obtain his punishment at the hands of others, including the Benchers. As to the accusation of using violent language, he demonstrates the inconsistency of its authors, Mr. Hawkins, included, who denounced most respectable witnesses for the claimant as guilty of forgery, perjury and corruption, and himself, the Doctor, as knowingly supporting a lie. He denies some of the acts attributed to him, and cites facts and arguments to show that the Court exhibited an animus against the Claimant, throughout, amounting to strong prejudice, and remitting in unfairness. The Doctor certainly shows that the ermine is not a protection against human weakness or partiality, and helps to explain that feeling of sympathy created for the Claimant, among the people, who instinctly hate anything savouring of class bitterness or injustice. The closing passage of the Doctor's letter is about as severe a hit at the Chief Justice as could have been made. It runs thus:—

"I went into that Court with the hope that I should see unsullied justice administered. When Lord Rivers retained me as leading counsel for the defence, he informed me that arrangements had been made to present petitions to Parliament, signed by thousands of people from all parts of England, praying that the Chief Justice of England should not preside at the Tichborne trial. I told Lord Rivers that if these petitions were presented I should withdraw from the case and hand him back his retainer—five hundred guineas. I told him I could never be a party to such a vote of censure on a judge. I said—'It is impossible that in a case like this the Chief Justice will be led away by bias, or prejudice, or preconceived convictions. He aspires to an honourable place in judicial history. He seeks to rank with Holt. I will stake my life upon his integrity. He will set a grand and shining example to the world, and all future times, of the most serene and perfect impartiality. It is the last great case that he will probably try, and he will be glad to retire with unsullied glory from the bench where he has sat so long. If he has committed himself to any opinion here or there, think nothing of it—that very fact will make him more scrupulously careful, more jealous of his fame. The eyes of the world will be upon him, and he will behave like the very impersonation of justice herself; and from the first moment of the trial till its end you will see such a spirit of honour, equity, and fairness as will exalt his name for ever.' I do not know whether my hearer was convinced, but no petition was presented. The result we see—I have the honour to be, Sir, yours, EDWARD VAUGHAN KENEALY."

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH DIFFICULTY.

A writer in the Ingersoll Chronicle, who seems to have given intelligent attention to this subject, and the manifestations in Ottawa which have been much debated of late says:—

"THE OTTAWA TIMES has for the past few weeks been engaged in making known to the outside world the developments of a quarrel in the bosom of the Anglican Church, in the Canadian Capital. I am fully aware of the reticence with which a matter of this nature should be treated. At the same time, as the quarrel has become so embittered as to cause to leap from its dusty scabbard the rusty weapon of excommunication, the issue rises out of its local sphere into the general sphere of Canadian interest. The question, in its moral aspect, not in its varying theological phases, it is well that the public should understand. And here it may be in place to say that the breeze which has arisen in the local atmosphere of Ottawa is akin to the storm which, for the past few years has, throughout England, shaken the Anglican Church from base to battlements. I mean the agitation known as Ritualism.

Every Protestant can respect the conscientious Roman Catholic. But can every Protestant respect the men who, under the roof-trees of the Church of England, teach a faith which is not her faith, and yet dare to call themselves by her name? There is no consistency in such conduct. If these gentlemen, who call down canonical fire and brimstone upon the seceding Episcopalians of Ottawa, were men one faith and one church, they might plead religious zeal, although this plea would be useless against the counter plea of want of Christian charity. But these gentlemen are men of two faiths, and one church, and have no claim to the excuse which is sometimes urged for the excesses of people possessed of but one idea.

The present movement in the Episcopal Church in Ottawa is important in this, that it is an attempt to oppose innovation, backed by authority, the right of private judgment. The movement threatens to spread to Montreal, and before long it may reach Toronto. There is no danger in it, if those to whom the Church of England is dear are determined to abide by the spirit, and not the letter of the prayer book, remembering that in a far higher sense than Ritualism ever dreamt of, "it is the letter that killeth." I am not of those who stand aghast at the multiplication of what is ignorantly and offensively styled, by the advocates of authority, "sects." The idea of a universal church, or a universal form of civil government, is the tyrannical idea of the Roman Empire, in the days when it sought, by reducing everything in the life of men and nations to a dead level of uniformity, to maintain its decaying authority. The Teutonic or Germanic idea is that of diversity, individuality and liberty to change. And so the revolt against Ritualism is, when read aright, the outcome of race, as much as the result of impatience with undesired ceremonial. The more numerous the streams, the less chance of the great reservoir becoming stagnant. Therefore, the last new Protestant denomination, "The Reformed Episcopal Church of Canada," may prove a means of purification, and of active beneficence. There is room and abundant work for the new Denomination. While it retains the unsurpassable liturgy of the Anglican Church, while it comes forth with a revised Book of Common Prayer; while it upholds the great primitive truth that, in the view of Heaven, there is no difference of hierarch and layman, but that all have been made "Kings and Priests;" while the Reformed Episcopal Church of Canada holds and practices these verities, it may go forth boldly into the future, sure to succeed, sure to perform a great mission and to achieve a great triumph.

Belleville Deaf and Dumb Institution.

We have been favored with a copy of the third Annual Report of the Deaf and Dumb Institution of Belleville, from the Principal, Mr. W. J. Palmer. We are pleased to find this excellent institution doing a good work in its noble mission, and that it fully meets with the confidence of the public. During the year 1873, the number of male pupils admitted were 130, and female 63, making a total of 193. Of this number 68 were supported by parents or friends, 11 were supported by the Ontario Government as orphans, and 114 supported by the respective municipalities from which they were sent; our own County last year supporting 7 of that number. Each year since its establishment in 1870, shows a marked progress; and thus far for the current year, 194 pupils have been admitted. By the Census Returns of 1872 it would seem that there are in the Province of Ontario 1,412 deaf and dumb persons of all ages. If this be a fact it will be seen that there is a great work in store for such an institution as the above. Another very important feature of the institution is its Reading Room, to which many magazines periodicals and newspapers are gratuitously contributed. The teachers are all energetic, their hearts being earnestly devoted to the work, and to this in a great measure may be attributed its great success.

CITY AND VICINITY

Visitors to the Protestant Hospital this week are.—Directors, Messrs. H. V. Noel, and T. C. Bramley. Clergy, C. J. Kaapke, and R. M. Pope. Physician, Drs. J. Sweetland, and P. A. McDougal.

CARTER'S FUNERAL.—The remains of the late William Brown, carter, were interred in Beechwood Cemetery yesterday. His obsequies were attended by a large number of his late comrades. Some 60 carriages of the Carter's Union following the hearse to the grave. The hearse was drawn by four black horses, and driven by Mr. L. Geaulin. He was buried by the Union of which he was a much respected member. They had a wreath of immortelles placed upon the coffin.

OMMISSION.—In our report of the reception in the Senate Chamber, the name of Mr. Henry F. Perley, was omitted.

ENTERTAINMENT.—We are glad to announce that Professor Andrews will give a reading in the Temperance Hall, on Saturday next. Those who have once heard Professor Andrews, are sure to embrace the opportunity of listening to his 'eloquent music' again, to those who have never heard him we can safely promise a rare treat. Mr. Andrews need not dread comparison with any elocutionist who has visited Ottawa. We understand he will read an original sketch written expressly to bring out his unequalled powers in the delenition of various dialects.

CONGREGATIONAL BAZAAR.—The Bazaar under the auspices of the Ladies of the Congregational Church will open this morning, at 11 o'clock, in the shop recently occupied by Mr. Millard, in Robinson's new block, Sparks street. It will continue for three days, when the ladies will dispose of a great variety of fancy and useful articles. Lunch will be provided between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, while refreshments can be had at all hours. Vocal and instrumental musical talent have been secured, which will tend greatly to enliven the proceedings during each evening. We commend to strangers, as well as citizens, this undertaking, and as the object is a praiseworthy one, it is to be hoped they will accord it their generous patronage.

ST. GEORGE IN PEMBROKE.—An unsuccessful attempt was made in the town of Pembroke last week to form a St. George's Society. It would seem that the doctrines of the "Canada First" party are making an impression among certain classes in that locality; otherwise so uncharitable a feeling for "Dear old England" could not exist. Nothing links together so closely the connection between the mother country and Canada as the existence of national societies. There existence does not imperil the fate of the new Dominion; therefore it is to be regretted that degenerate sons of a noble sire, permit the blood coursing through their veins to chill, towards the land of their forefathers.

ANOTHER REFORM ASSOCIATION.—South Renfrew following in the wake of other places in Central Canada, has formed a Reform Association. The following is a list of the office-bearers:—President, Wm. Jamieson, of Horton; Vice Presidents, W. Burton, of Horton; Donald Stewart of McNab; Geo. Brown, jr., of Admaston; Wm. Russell, of Arnprior; D. Taylor, of Bagot; J. Maloney, of Brougham; G. J. McKain, of Griffith; James Kiernan, of Grattan; and John Smith, of Renfrew Village. The Executive Committee is composed of: James Bonfield, of Grattan; James Stewart, of Renfrew; E. Derenzy, of Sand Point; and A. A. Wright, of Renfrew. Mr. James Bromley was chosen Secretary and Mr. Robert McLaren, Treasurer of the Association.

BOATING CLUB.—It is somewhat singular that amid all the excitement attendant upon aquatic sports in other cities, that a 'Rowing Club' cannot be organized in the Capital. On Saturday last almost the entire populace of the English metropolis turned out to witness the boat race between the two great rival universities of England, Oxford and Cambridge. The exercise is one of great recreation, and a Regatta at least once a year, would in a great measure relieve the monotony and quiet that reigns in a city which ere now should have taken a first place, in cultivating a desire for the exercise of the manly and invigorating pastimes of the age. The noble Ottawa River offers every facility for the successful operation of a good boating club.

THE PAKENHAM POSTMASTER.—It is rumoured that Mr. Francis Shaw, late postmaster of the Village of Pakenham, has turned up all right. It will be remembered that some time ago it was thought that Mr. Shaw had committed suicide by drowning himself in the Missisippi, but it now seems by a letter recently received, that the missing gentleman is somewhere in the domains of 'Uncle Sam,' alive and well. It is presumed therefore, that ere many days a successful clue will be had, which will solve the much talked of mystery.

ANNIE DE MONTFORD.—Any person visiting Gowan's Opera House on Saturday night, must have been forcibly struck with the wonderful powers displayed by Miss De Montford as a Mesmerist. The large audience was kept convulsed with laughter during the entire time of her first seance. Her power in making her subjects take to work at their various trades or other avocations commanded the admiration of those present, while the power displaced in making them personify different characters such as "The Prince of Wales," "Cool Burgess," "Dan Rice," &c., created intense merriment. The wonderful talking machine of Prof. Fabre was the subject of considerable remark, and no little astonishment was manifested at its extraordinary powers of articulation. Miss De Montford will hold another seance this evening and each evening throughout the week, when doubtless crowds will visit her very interesting entertainments. The eccentric character of these mesmeric performances, are noteworthy, and all should embrace the opportunity now afforded of visiting one of the most accomplished psychologists of the age.

PALM SUNDAY.—Yesterday was Palm Sunday, and as such was duly observed in the various Roman Catholic Churches of the city. The usual custom of carrying palms in the hands was indulged in again yesterday. This was the inaugural service of Passion Week, and will be followed throughout the week by daily religious services in both the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches. Next Sunday being Easter, will terminate the Lenten Season.

Grand Fancy Fair.

A meeting of ladies connected with the several Roman Catholic congregations of the city was held yesterday afternoon at the Convent of the ladies of the congregation, and it was resolved thereat to hold a grand Bazaar during the latter part of May, the proceeds of which are to be applied to assist in defraying the cost of the new wing of the Convent now in course of construction. The meeting was a very large and harmonious one, the ladies being determined to eclipse all their former exertions in making the bazaar a success. The Rev. Messrs. Collins and Stetson, of St Patrick's Church, were also present. It is expected, of course, that donations or contributions to help the Bazaar will pour in from all quarters. These may be sent to the Convent, or to any of the ladies of the Committee. Particulars will be duly announced.

Fell Through the Ice.

On Saturday as Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside were driving down to the city from their place of residence, at the head of the Deep Cut of the Rideau Canal, they met with what might have proved a very melancholy accident. It seems that all winter, persons having to come to town from that direction, always took the ice on the canal, it being a better road than the land route; and this is what Mr. Whiteside resolved to do on Saturday last. He, however, had only got down as far as Maria street bridge, when the ice gave way, and the horse, cutter and its two occupants, were precipitated into the canal. Fortunately they were only in a depth of five feet of water. Some men on shore having observed their unfortunate position immediately came to the rescue, and succeeded in landing Mr and Mrs. Whiteside safely on terra firma, none the worse of their mishap, save, perhaps, the disagreeable sensation consequent upon a thorough ducking. The next difficulty, however, that presented itself was the extricating of the horse from his perilous position, he being mired in the blue clay at the bottom of the canal some seven feet in depth. The horse was after a time safely rescued, so that all lives were spared the experience of a watery grave. Mr. Whiteside has probably taken the last use possible out of a good black suit of clothes, that, he had taken with him in the cutter on that day with a few to going to a funeral, beyond this, however, there was no other serious damage sustained. This accident occurred through letting the water out of the canal; Mr. Whiteside observed as they came down the ice that it sank considerably from its former level, but was not much alarmed. It is much to be regretted that some sort of official notice is not given, when the canal authorities purpose drawing the water off in this manner. This road has been and was, up till Saturday extensively travelled by the public and the only wonder is that we have not had to chronicle some very lamentable catastrophe.

Temperance Meeting.

The usual Sunday afternoon temperance meeting was held in the Temperance Hall yesterday afternoon, the president of the Temperance Society, Mr. J. Johnston in the chair. On the platform were the Rev. Messrs. W. J. Hunter, A. A. Cameron, G. W. Ross, M. P., Messrs. Parrot, Hannum, Porter and other gentlemen.

The Rev. Mr. Hunter opened proceedings with the usual devotional exercises.

The chairman in opening did not desire to make any remarks as there were several gentlemen likely to address them.

Mr. H. S. Watson desired to make a few remarks relative to a matter that has agitated the public mind for the past week, he meant the excitement, in regard to the saloon in connection with the House of Commons. He believed it was a curse to the land and a disgrace to the Legislature, and it should be removed at all hazards.

The Rev. Mr. Cameron stated that he understood that the new Lessee had received instructions to not take any spirituous liquors into the saloon. He would like to ask if such were the case, for if so, there was no need for further action. Having received no satisfactory reply, he then said it was time to take decisive measures to suppress the saloon in the House of Commons. He thought some means should be taken to abolish it, there should be no delay. Petitions should be at once circulated to suppress the evil. (Applause.)

The chairman would like to have some practical way of testing the feeling of the meeting.

Moved by H. S. Watson, seconded by the Rev. A. A. Cameron, that in the opinion of this meeting, a meeting of the ladies of Ottawa should be at once held, say on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to take such steps as to them might be found necessary to abolish the saloon in the House of Commons.

Dr. Beatty thought the meeting should not be exclusively left to women as some assistance to them might be necessary in such a meeting.

The Chairman stated that some gentlemen would be present to assist them in that direction.

The resolution was then declared carried, and a committee appointed to prepare a notice to that effect for the various church pulpits in the evening.

The Rev. W. J. Hunter was next called upon; but decided not to address them himself upon the occasion, but would read them extracts from a sermon delivered on the previous Sabbath by Dr. Talmage in the Brooklyn Tabernacle on 'Woman's Crusade against the bottle.' His extracts were well received pourtraying as they did in a graphical way the evils of intemperance, and justifying the crusade in Ohio that was so much sneered at. He concluded by saying that when such sounds as that went forth from the pulpits of the Continent, as went forth to 5,000 spectators in Dr. Talmage's congregation, it must exercise an influence that would eventually succeed in suppressing the liquor traffic. (Applause.)

Mr. Parrott, of Napanee, followed in one of the most eloquent addresses delivered for some time in the Temperance Hall, and we are only sorry that space will not even permit us giving a synopsis of his excellent address. The speaker resumed his seat amid applause.

A collection was then taken up, after which the Benediction was pronounced and the meeting brought to a close.

Practical Remarks about the Newspaper Business.

(From the American Scottish Journal.)

To make a successful newspaper * * is perhaps the very hardest thing in the whole range of business activity. It is only necessary to look around us, or to glance back for a few years, to be convinced of this. When we cast our eyes upon the history of journalism in this city during the last twenty years, it seems as though we were walking through the graveyard of some plague-stricken city, where only a few survivors, happily gifted with sound constitutions and superabundant vitality, remain to tell the tales of those who lies beneath the sod. Or, again, to change the figure of speech, when we look out upon the ocean of editorial experience, we see it strewn all over with melancholy wrecks, while only here and there some staunchly built ship is able to weather the storm, catch the favoring gale, and ride upon the waves. There is hardly a month within our memory, in which newspapers have not been started here, and yet we do not believe that one in a hundred of them remains to this day, or that one in fifty of them lasted beyond the few weeks or months necessary to ensure premature decay. Some of them had a hopeful look when born; some seemed to have fire in their eyes; some had plenty of money at their back; some seemed to be needed to fill a vacant place; some were welcomed by small crowds of admirers; some were supposed to represent special classes, strong interests, or important ideas; some announced themselves to be advocates of religion, or organs of literature, or "champions of Ireland," and supposed they would be supported by religious people, or the literary class, or the "friends of Ireland," but the whole multitude of them except here and there, one, have gone under ground, leaving not even a tombstone to keep their memories alive. The history of newspapers in New York is a history of blasted hopes and irrevocable ruin.

The fact is that a successful newspaper involved a great deal besides money and ambition. Before starting a paper, you must be quite sure it is really needed by a very considerable class of people. You must have some reason for believing that it will be taken and paid for by those who need it. You must know to a certainty that its place is not already filled; for it is exceedingly hard to supplant an old occupant of the ground. You must be pretty well assured that it will be self-supporting; for otherwise it will consume an amount of capital not easily furnished, and leave you nothing to show for your loss. After all this you must be prepared for struggles and discouragements, harder to bear than those which are met with in any other practical pursuit of life. You will probably find that your pecuniary losses are the least of your troubles. You will suffer from the absence of that influence or power you had expected to wield; from the negligence of presumed friends; from the waste of force, depressing, constant, ominous. You will find that you require an amount of endurance out of all proportion to any results you can look for. These are not mere notions, but truths borne out by the experience of countless failures.

Then, again, a successful newspaper implies public confidence, and "confidence is a plant of slow growth." People have learned to be doubtful about new papers, they have been too often taken in by promises to be easily deceived by them. It is only after a paper has for many long years pursued a sensible course, that any great number of men acquire confidence in it. Readers of a paper get acquainted with it, just as men do with each other. They become attached to it as a friend. They understand its position and character. They become habituated to its mode of treating things, to its views of public questions; and feel that it is a safe and true guide to them in the formation of their opinions. This confidence is really the most important part of the capital of a newspaper, just as a man's good faith, good name, and sound sense may be the most important part of his capital. There is nothing so hard as to take away this confidence from a paper which has acquired it by deserving it, and which strives to keep it in the same way. It is not possible for readers to blot out the memories which have extended for years; and he who would to nullity or impair them would find that his efforts only resulted in giving them greater strength. A new paper must be an old one before it can gain the confidence of which we are speaking, and which is the highest element of power, and the best basis of permanent existence. With a new acquaintance, we cannot have the same kind of relations that we have with an old friend. This seems to be a hard thing for the projectors of new papers to understand; and they hardly ever find it out till they have paid for it the price of their own ruin.

Since the British Government acquired possession of the telegraphs various information has been attainable with reference to their operations that was not possible under the old system. The amount thus far paid by the Post Office to telegraphs in the United Kingdom for the purchase of their interests is $39,236,735. The total number of offices opened at the end of the year 1872 was 5 400. The number of ordinary messages in the same year was 14,858,900, showing an increase of 3,000,000, or about twenty-five per cent. over the previous year. The press messages showed a greater increase, having contained 28,000,000 words, being an increase of 7,000,000, or more than thirty-three per cent. During a single night, when important Ministerial statements were made in Parliament, upward of 20,000 words, or about 100 columns of the Times newspaper, were transmitted from the central station in London for publication in the provincial papers. The autumnal manoeuvres, occurring, as the last of them did, in a district which is only served by minor telegraph offices, called for special arrangements of no ordinary character. Often the work had to be performed under curiously devised arrangements. At one place, a shed in the postmaster's back yard was used as an office; and on more than one occasion 500 ordinary messages and 50,000 words of news were there dealt with in a single day. At another place the instruments were fitted up temporarily in a barber's shop, to the no slight discomfiture of the rustic customers when they learnt that they could not get shaved until the manoeuvres were over. On the 5th of November, a leading London newspaper had to telegraph a column and a half of news from Lewes, where it appears that this anniversary is kept as a kind of fete. A special telegrapher, then engaged at Brighton, was sent over for the occasion, but had considerable difficulty in doing his work; for the crowd outside pelted him with squibs and other fire-works through the Post Office window, so that his attention was divided between getting off his news and quenching the fires caused by the mob. On the occasion of the chess tournament at the Crystal Palace, the telegraphic wires communicating with Glasgow, Hull, Nottingham, Birmingham and Bristol were carried into the building, and the operation of telegraphing the different moves was conducted in a railed inclosure in full view of a large number of interested spectators. The new telegraph carriage, or "office on wheels" as it is commonly called, has fully answered its purpose, and has proved an object of general interest. It was employed at the autumnal manoeuvres, at the Oxford and Cambridge boat race, the Henley regatta, the Oxford and Cambridge and Eton and Harrow cricket matches, and the Smithfied Club Cattle Show.

DEATH OF REV. DR. KING.—Rev. Andrew King, D.D, for many years Professor of Theology in the Presbyterian College in this city, died in Scotland on the 24th of last month. Dr. King was about 80 years of age. He retired from the active duties of his Professorship three years ago, and returned to Scotland, his native country. Dr. King is spoken of as a very learned and profound theologian, of the most orthodox type. His students were always deeply attached to him, and continued to regard him with the affection of children for a father. He will be deeply regretted throughout the Presbyterian Church, where his memory will be long and lovingly cherished.—Halifax Colonist.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Members of Parliament, and others, who desire it, can obtain the Daily Ottawa TIMES, during the Session, for $1.50, payable in advance, delivered in wrappers ready for mailing.

HAVING SUFFERED FOR SEVERAL Years from Dyspepsia resulting in great nervous prostration and general debility, impoverished blood, Eruption of the Skin, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Restlessness, want of sleep and extreme lassitude, I was recommended to take Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya. Having persisted in its use for several weeks I recovered perfect health. My wife and children also, have taken it, for Tonic purposes to invigorate and strengthen the system and promote the formation of pure blood, with permanent benefit. It energizes and sustains the vital force in a remarkable manner.

West Durham Election—Death of Mr. Killaly—Election Court, &c.

TORONTO, March 28.

The Hon. Edward Blake left this morning for Bowmanville, where he speaks on behalf of the Reform candidate for Durham.

Mr. Hamilton H. Killaly died this a. m at Picton. His remains will be brought to this city for interment.

This a. m. a sealed verdict was handed in by the Jury in the case of Campbell vs. Campbell, last night, after rising of the court, it was read. It gives $1000 to Mrs. Campbell. The verdict is regarded as a righteous vindication of Mrs. Campbell's character.

Mr. Thomas Moss left this city to-day for the Capital.

The rumour is again revived that an early dissolution of the Local House will take place.

The Election Court this morning refused to make void the petition against Dymond for North York. Petitioner H. Wood said his signature to the petition was obtained under false pretences, but the Court did not consider there was proof of this

MONTREAL.

The Post Office Investigation—Convocation of McGill College—Champ de Mars—Fire—The Warehousing Co. Difficulty—Police and Fire Brigade—Small-Pox Hospital—Stock Markets, &c.

MONTREAL, March 28.

The post office investigation was resumed yesterday, and Mr. E. Meyor's evidence continued. He finished his evidence with reference to the clerk in the despatch department. About 27,000 letters pass through the office daily, and an average of newspapers, periodicals, &c, from publication offices, besides about 4,000 a day not from the office of publication.

The accounts will be taken up next week, when some developements are expected.

The annual convocation of McGill College will take place to-morrow, when degrees in law and medicine will be conferred. The following gentlemen will receive the degree of B. C. L.—Messrs. J. B. Abbott, H. Archambault, G. H. Baynes, A. X. Choquette, M. F. Hackett, D. H. Hodges, B. A.; G. E. Jenkins, M. F. A. Labadie, Y. O. A. Labadie, J. La Riviere, E. A. Panet, F. E. Ponton, E. Labillard, J. J. R. Sponge, B. A. W. S. Walker.

The Elizabeth Torrence Gold Medal Faculty of Law has been awarded to D. W. R. Hodge, B. A.

The prize for the best Thesis was taken by M. F. Hackett, who will deliver a valedictory address to the law students.

The scheme for converting the Champ de Mars into a railway station may be considered as dead. The City Surveyor reports that the engineering difficulties in the way render it impracticable.

It is the intention of the police and fire committees to recommend that an increase of pay be granted to the members of the police force and fire brigade.

The ladies of the Hotel Dieu have offered to build a small-pox hospital, and guarantee to have it completed by this time next year, if the Corporation will grant them $30,000. The matter has been referred to the Health Committee. There is a feeling in favor of a cheap building, which could be pulled down in a few years.

A fire broke out at noon yesterday in the attic above the room of the Board of Arts and Manufactures, in St. James street. There was very little damage by fire, and that from water was slight, but only for the efforts of the salvage corps the loss must have been heavy. The cause of the fire is unknown. A number of pigeons in the attic were smothered by smoke.

The difficulty with the merchants and the Warehousing Company continues. One of the points is that although the storage is only 4c per month, if the original receiver keeps the flour over 10 days he has to pay 4c, while the buyer who retains it for a single day has to pay 3c, thus making 7c for 12 days storage. A minor form of the same grievance is that the original receiver has to pay 1c for the first 48 hours, and the buyer 4c more if he keeps it longer, thus making 5c instead of 4c for the month. It is probable that a meeting of the Corn Exchange will be held to decide on what action shall be taken in the matter, and some merchants speak of waiting on the G. T. R. authorities and requesting them to provide storage otherwise than by the Warehousing Co.

SATURDAY'S DESPATCHES.

ENGLAND

University Boat Race—Victory for Cambridge.

LONDON, March 28, 3 p.m.—The annual race between the Oxford and Cambridge boat crews came off this morning over the usual course on the Thames, from Putney to Mortlake, a distance of four miles and two furlongs, and, as has been the case in the past four years, resulted in victory for the Cambridge boat, which came in two lengths ahead of its rival. The weather was beautiful, and a more propitious day for the contest could not have been selected. The crowd that assembled to witness the race was unprecedented. On the Surrey side of the river, from Putney to Mortlake, there was one compact mass of people, 150 feet wide, and at the latter place carriages five deep stood in long rows. The Princess of Wales, and the Duchess of Edinburgh, who were expected to be among the spectators, were absent. Upon the toss for choice of positions Cambridge won, and selected the Middlesex or northern side. The Oxford crew rowed into the stream at one minute past eleven o'clock. Five minutes later the Cambridge boat appeared, and was received with immense cheers by its friends.

The betting at this time was 5 to 2 in favour of Cambridge. All things being in readiness, at fourteen minutes past eleven the signal for start was given, and the boats got away almost instantaneously. Cambridge had the advantage from the first, rowing at a rate of 37 strokes per minute, but both crews pulled steadily. After an exciting contest Cambridge reached the ship at Mortlake at 37 minutes and 35 seconds past 11 o'clock, winning the race in 23 minutes and 35 seconds.

The water (though not smooth) was fairly calm.

LONDON, 4:30 p.m.—The University race won by Cambridge by four lengths, not by two, as first announced.

Death of a Baron.

LONDON, March 28.—Baron Rossmere is dead.

Full Account of the Boat Race—The Crews Dine Together.

LONDON, March 28.—Immediately upon receiving the word to start both boats took the water together, but after a few pulls at their oars, the Cambridge was one quarter of a length in advance of the Oxford, and at Bishop's Creek, three furlongs from the Aqueduct Bridge, the starting point, were nearly clear of their opponents, here the steering of both boats was reckless and the time was bad between Craven Point and Hammersmith Bridge. The Coxswain of the Oxford boat steered wildly off the Crab Tree, seven furlongs from Bishop's Creek. Oxford decreased the lead of the Cambridge by a plucky spurt and at the Soap Works, about one mile and four furlongs from the Aqueduct Bridge was only one length behind. Cambridge ahead, two furlongs and a half from Soap Works, Cambridge lost half a length by bad steering, but off the Doves, two furlongs further on again went ahead fast. The dark blues made another spurt and drew up nearly level with Cambridge, and off Cheswick Church, succeeded in getting one quarter of a length in advance. The excitement then became intense, and cheer upon cheer rang out from both sides of the river. In Corney Reach, about two miles and a half from the acqueduct, the Cambridge took the lead again and passed Barnesbridge, about seven furlongs beyond Corney Reach, a length and a half ahead of the Oxford. Here the Oxford rowed wildly, and the Cambridge kept the lead to the end, reaching the stake boat at Mortlake four lengths in advance of their opponents, amid the deafening cheers of their friends on shore. Both crews were very much exhausted, when the race was terminated, but the Oxford appeared to be the most distressed.

This afternoon the visitors and their opponents dined together at the Criterion restaurant, the members of the Oxford crew having declined the invitation of Lord Mayor Lusk to both crews to a dinner in the Egyptian Hall of the Mansion House.

Fired by a Locomotive—Rain Checks it—Loss of Life.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Sparks from a locomotive last night ignited some brush near Farmingdale, Long Island, and in a remarkably short time, five hundred acres of timber land were in flames.

The rain this morning gave a decided check to the fire.

A number of cattle and a boy were burned.

The Farragut Prize Money—Admiral Porter Worse.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Farragut prize money over which there has been some controversy, will now be paid without further delay.

Admiral Porter is very much worse: his condition is such as to cause serious anxiety to his friends.

Great Distribution of Naval Prize Money—The Vessels Engaged and Men—Reason of Delay in Paying Prizes.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Secretary of the Navy to-day sent an order to the 4th auditor of the Treasury, requiring that officer to pay the amounts of prize and bounty money due for the capture of 'New Orleans,' and destruction of enemies ships, total amount of prize money proper, is $530,000, and $200,000 additional bounty for destruction of a rebel vessel.

The number of U. S. ships of war that took part in these engagements are 44, and the number of officers and men who will share in prize awards, is between $2,500 and $3,000 of entire amount of award, the Farragut estate will receive about $35,000.

The delay of this distribution was in consideration of the question as to what share Division commanders should have. There were three divisions in the fleet commanded respectively by Admirals. Bailey and Porter and fleet captain Bell, each of whom will be entitled to one-fifteenth of the award as Divisional Commanders. All other officers of fleet will receive their distributional shares in proportion to their respective rates of pay.

The Secretary of the Navy has endeavored to include names of all persons in his lists who were born on ships, or who were actually aboard ships doing duty under competent orders during the engagements preceding, and at the time of occupation of New Orleans by the United states forces. The lists include wounded sailors and detachment from other ships and are thought to be absolutely correct.

It will require from six weeks to two months for the fourth auditor to get up clerical lists for this distribution.

UNITED STATES.

Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The House Judiciary Committee held a meeting this afternoon on the subject of the distribution of the award of Geneva.

Insurance Companies not to Share.

By vote of a majority it was decided, after a long discussion, that no provision should be made for reimbursing any insurance companies in any losses sustained by them under policies insuring vessels which have been destroyed by rebel cruisers.

A portion of the majority are in favor of distributing out of the award, the amount paid by insurers, as was preliminary, but as this kind of terms were expressely excluded by the Geneva Tribunal in fixing the gross sum, it is considered very doubtful whether the Committee will recommend it to be paid by the United States. This question and others of importance connected with the general subject are, however, yet to be decided by the Committee.

Fire in a Coal Mine.

NEW YORK, March 29—The Herald correspondent writes that a fire in the Empire mine near Wilkesbarr, has cost the company $11,000, spent in endeavouring to quench the flames, and 400,000 in coal which but for the fire the miners would have taken from earth.

Troops being brought to Suppress the Strike—Men to be discharged—Meeting of Strikers—Arrival of Troops.

SASQUEHANNAH, PA., Sunday evening, March 29.—The strike on the Erie Railway continues. Vice-President Clark arrived this morning and held a conference with the committee of strikers, at which he submitted propositions for the purpose of avoiding a collision with the troops which are arriving here.

The paymaster is to pay off all the men for February and March beginning to-morrow. All men when paid off to be considered out of employ.

The company will employ all such men as they think are for their interest.

At a meeting just held by the employees, they have decided to allow passenger travel to be resumed at once, but refuse to allow freight to be moved. Vice-President Clark, in order to avoid bloodshed by enforcing his authority, concluded to run passenger trains only to day; awaiting acceptance or rejection of his propositions at a meeting to-morrow morning.

500 soldiers under command of General Osborne, with a section of light artillery, arrived here shortly before noon to-day, in pursuance of orders by Governor Hartraft to prevent acts of violence. This evening 75 additional arrived and more are on the way.

Drowned in the Hudson.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 29.—A wagon containing Martin McCue, wife and babe, backed off the ferry boat at this place to-day into the river. Mrs. McCue and babe were drowned, and Mr. McCue was badly injured.

Carpet Weavers' Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—The carpet manufacturers have resolved not to concede the advance asked for by the weavers.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphities, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.

I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.

I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.

In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy.

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilisation—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $300 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

FLINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to atual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annualy. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The Illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 800,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense, and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S Oil so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuiness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of DR. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of DR. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male) hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of DR. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption: its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Dr. Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and Intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferrable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and address of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell Montreal.

GENUINE PANCREATINE

PANCREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength. Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, ointments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the label on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

143 NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the Linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clear much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, and Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, at 20 cents per box.

VINEGAR BITTERS

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
EUREKA

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

REPRINTED BY

The Leonard Scott Publishing Co.,
140 FULTON ST., NEW YORK.

By arrangement with the English Publishers, who receive a liberal compensation.

These periodicals constitute a wonderful miscellany of modern thought, research, and criticism. The cream of all European books worth reviewing is found here and they treat of the leading events of the world in masterly articles written by men who have special knowledge of the matters treated. The American Publishers urge upon all intelligent readers in this country a liberal support of the Reprints which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for literary matter will yield so rich a return as that required for a subscription to these the LEADING PERIODICALS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.
CAPITAL . . £2,000,000 Stg.
SECURITY SHOULD BE THE PRIMARY CONSIDERATION.
This old and favorite Company offers this in its large Capital, and the unlimited liability of its shareholders.
Special attention is drawn to a new feature in Life business, just introduced by this Company,—that of insuring on the half-credit system. By this method, persons who wish to insure for their families an insurance for a large amount, but whose present income, though improving, will not admit of it, or persons in business who wish to utilize their funds to the fullest extent, and cannot therefore spare the necessary premiums for a large life policy, can insure $5,000 for the same amount of premiums as is required for $2,500, the remainder half-premium standing at 6 per cent. interest, as a debt on the policy until paid off.
BONUS.
Persons insuring now, or within the next few weeks, will obtain the benefit of one year's bonus.
Tables and all information will be given at the office of the Company, corner Sparks and Elgin streets.

Dominion Parliament,

First Session Third Parliament.

THE SENATE.

MONDAY, March 30.

The Speaker took the Chair at 3 o'clock.

Mr. PANET and Mr. BAILLERGEON, the most recently appointed members, were introduced with due formality, and they took the oaths and their seats.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS.

Mr. CAMPBELL gave notice of his intention to move for copies of all despatches between the Government and the Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba since November last, on the subject of the murders alleged to have been committed by American citizens in the Northwest Territories, and on the subject of the alleged establishment of trading ports by them within those territories.

Also, to ask when the present contract with Gulf Port Steamship Company expires, and whether it is proposed to renew the existing subsidy to that company.

Whether it is proposed to continue to subsidize two lines of steamers on Lakes Huron and Superior, or to effect a contract with one line only, either from Collingwood or Sarnia.

Hon. Mr. MACDONALL gave notice that on Thursday next he would enquire, "Do the Government intend to grant to the Province of British Columbia £50,000, or any less sum in lieu of the interests guaranteed for 10 years on £100,000, under clause 12 of the terms of Union, for the purposes of a dry dock, and if so, on what terms and conditions?"

Also, on the same day he will move "That an humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor General, praying that he may be pleased to furnish this House with a copy of the instructions given to Mr. Edgar, agent or commissioner, recently sent by the Dominion Government to the Province of British Columbia."

Also that he will, on Wednesday, the 8th of April, move "That an humble address be presented to His Excellency, the Governor General, praying that he may be pleased to cause returns to be laid before this House, showing the number of Engineers, surveyors, and other persons, specifying their different grades sent from the eastern portion of the Dominion to British Columbia in connection with the Pacific Railway during the year 1873, together with the cost of transportation each way."

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The first order of the day was to take into consideration the address from the throne, and the Hon. Mr. Letellier de St. Just, seconded by the Hon. Mr. Scott proposed, that the consideration of the Speech be now proceeded with.

The Hon. Mr. PENNY in proposing the address in answer to the Speech from the Throne, after asking pardon for any deficiencies arising from his inexperience, proceeded to say that the delay in calling together the two Houses of Parliament arose from circumstances which spoke for themselves—the accession of a new Ministry to the places vacated by the resignation of their predecessors. It would perhaps be natural for him to express some gratification at the change that had occurred, but this was rendered unnecessary by the loud and almost unanimous expression of that opinion, which had been recently given in response to the appeal to which all must defer. He proceeded to say that the necessity for the appeal to which that expression of almost unanimous judgment was an answer fully justified the few weeks of delay in calling Parliament together, especially as we see that no time had been lost in preparing the materials of a very important and comprehensive legislative programme. In the first rank of the measures to be brought before them, he mentioned the establishment of a Court of Appeals and of the Ballot. As to the first its necessity was recognized in the Act of Confederation, and had since been acknowledged by repeated promises made by the late Ministry, that it should be provided for. That it was still to be constituted notwithstanding these promises, might be supposed to be taken as a proof that many practical difficulties stood in the way, and perhaps should warn them against expecting a very early or very complete arrangement of this very important tribunal. That such a Court was essentially necessary for the working of our present system and the co-ordination of the powers of the Federal and Provincial Legislatures was he thought obvious, and he ventured to hope that all parties would give their best efforts to facilitate the perfection of the project. The ballot like the Court of Appeals had been widely demanded, and once at least promised. He believed it should be incorporated into our system. And yet, he might say, that he believed the desire for it was rather imported from another country than indigenous to our own. The great object of the ballot was to prevent intimidation of voters by employers or wealthy patrons. He thanked God that few of our voters were subject to such influences, and hence the protection of secrecy was here he thought of comparatively little consequence. While they have the ballot, he trusted they would take means to prevent the special abuses to which that method of voting was liable. He would say very little on the subject of the Militia laws. He was not himself of a very belligerent disposition, and knew almost as little of the brilliant decorations which were judged necessary to make up the pomp and circumstance of glorious war as he did of the manner of setting a squadron in the field. He would omit all mention of that subject, the more readily as he was to be followed by a gentleman of larger experience in the service. Reverting to civil life, he would express his hope, that while some amendments were to be proposed in the Insolvent law, and experience had shown that some amendments were requisite, the main structure of the present statute and the great principles which were embodied in it would be allowed to stand. He believed that he might claim some acquaintance with the opinions of mercantile men, and he ventured to say not only that the law was very generally approved of, but that the dislike of it which was at first felt is rapidly diminishing. At the same time he knew that there were in particular clauses provisions which were either flatly unjust, or else fails to carry out the wishes of the country and the Legislature.

They should, he was sure, cheerfully give their co-operation to any judicious plan for carrying forward the Canadian Pacific Railway. The original plan, as they all knew, was an entire failure—a failure, let him add, for financial and not for political reasons—a failure predicted from the first by the coolest and most capable financiers. What has already taken place should warn them against rash engagements, especially as to time. When they remember the many years which it would have taken to accomplish such a work as the Intercolonial, lying all along a series of harbors in a long, if not thickly settled, country, they shall see at once the folly of pledging their good faith to any hard and fast line as to the time of its completion. The late Government did bind itself to a given, and in his judgment far too short a period—both for beginning and ending—and it failed to keep its promise. But it is one of the understood rules of public treaties that the parties to them were only held to an endeavor in good faith to act up to their engagements, and were not bound to do what was impossible. They must act under that rule. On the one hand the act of an authorized Government is the act of a nation, and they were doubtless bound to-day by the undertakings, however rash, of the preceding Government. But, on the other hand, the failure of the late Administration established the propriety of refraining from additional obligations of the kind, which they could not carry out. Let them acknowledge their obligations to construct a great trans-continental highway as early as possible; but let them make haste slowly in order that each step might be perfect in itself, and an assured advance towards the great design. He acknowledged that he attached a great deal more importance to the speedy improvement of our canals and harbors than to the Pacific Railway, for the benefits of the canal and harbor improvements were immediate and were conferred at once on two or three millions of people, who would at once turn them to account for their own prosperity and that of the Treasury, whereas the gain from the railway was prospective, and was to be secured for people who had yet to be brought to settle in the great waste to the West of us. He was sure that the House would heartily support the promptest and most energetic measures for that end. Among this class of improvements he must especially notice that which was intended to connect the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, with those of the Bay of Fundy. Nothing could be more conducive to that West Indian trade and Southern trade to which our merchants and manufacturers were now turning their attention. They should all rejoice at the prospect of the opening of a larger field for commercial transactions with our immediate neighbours. He supposed it is yet too early to indulge in any exceptions as to the success which might be hoped for; and they were all aware of the obstacles which conflicting interests create. But it was pleasing to know that the American Executive had taken a liberal view of the matter, and had manifested a cordial desire for the reopening of negotiations He believed that these negotiations could not be in better hands than those of their colleague Mr. Brown, and that under his guidance there was little danger that the treaty, if treaty there should be, would be derogatory either to the honor or the interests of this country. He believed this House would generally re-echo the Governor General's expression of regret at the avowed deficiency in the revenue, for he (Mr Penny) thought few of them would believe it was an advantage to a country that its taxation should be augmented. This was not the time to inquire as to the causes of this condition of things; but he was quite satisfied that so far as our concurrence was necessary, they would cheerfully concur in any sacrifices which might be required to maintain the credit of the country. He knew nothing of the plans by which our able Finance Minister would endeavor to redress the balance between his expenditure and receipts. But if he (Mr. Penny) might make one suggestion to him from that place, it would be to allow himself to be guided solely by his own necessities as the guardian of the public Treasury and credit, and his obligation to procure the necessary revenue in the most economical and least burdensome manner He trusted that the Finance Minister will take for his guide the light of science not the rigmarole of quackery, and that he would not commit the absurd blunder of trying to ride two provincial horses under whatever name it might be disguised, that is to say, of seeking to augment his revenue from duties on importations, by imposing duties which must prohibit the importations from which the revenue is to be collected. And in this connection he could not but remark with pleasure the justice of the concluding paragraph of the the Speech from the Throne, in which his Excellency congratulates them upon the prosperity of the country, notwithstanding the depression which has prevailed elsewhere. They knew that that depression had been the cause in some places of intense suffering and though he was not disposed to impute such effects exclusively to one cause, he might, perhaps not unfairly, set up our own prosperity during the trying times which our neighbours had passed through, in opposition to those who would invite us to change our own wholesome fiscal system for that which had been coincident with if it had not produced the misery to which he had referred. The hon. gentleman concluded by moving the Address in reply to the speech.

Hon. Mr. PANET—That on him had devolved the position, always a difficult one to a new member, of seconding the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He regretted not having been endowed with the same eloquence and brilliant elocution of the hon. gentleman who had just spoken and who had done so well; nevertheless he felt proud of his position in having an opportunity as the junior member of the House of addressing them. He had listened with admiration to the eloquent and dignified speech of his hon. friend, and after the able manner in which he had treated the various questions mentioned in the Address, he would not tax their patience by a long speech. He would say that it would be unjust if they did not accept the reason for not calling Parliament together sooner, from the fact that the general elections took place at the usual time of their assembling. But they might entertain the hope that in future they would be called together about the month of February. If the general election has caused this delay, it has furnished them with several subjects for reflection, which will be useful in the legislation proposed in the Address. The simultaneousness of the elections advised by the Government have had a useful result, and the law which is promised to us in the speech will, I hope, sanction this principle, as well as efficacious measures to prevent the corruption, violence, and excesses which harrass the electoral body. It is with a lively satisfaction that we learn in this speech that the Government intend to encourage and improve our channels of communication, either by canals or railways, to place us in connection with all parts of the Canadian Confederation from the Atlantic to the Pacific, so as to secure to us the greatest facilities for the carriage of the products, and the encouragement of our trades and industries. Before taking up the last subject which I propose to submit to your consideration permit me to tell you that we should congratulate the present Government in having succeeded in re-opening negotiations with the Government of the United States, to obtain a treaty of commercial reciprocity, and should we only secure the provisions of the last treaty it would be an immense advantage which would entitle the Government to the confidence of the country. In conclusion, not being desirous of touching upon all the points of the speech for the reasons already mentioned. I shall terminate with a few remarks upon our militia system; commanding as I have for several years a battalion of militia, the slight experience I have acquired will permit me to speak of the existing law, or rather of the difficulties of putting it into practice The majority of those who have never had occasion to acquaint themselves of the difficulties of the situation, find the present law bad, the system inefficient, and with a dash of the pen would wipe the whole thing out. I would regret, for my part a determination to entirely set aside the present volunteer militia system. The present law is a wise one and its results could not but be happy for the country, if every one brought to its execution the moral and physical support which we had a right to expect from all good citizens. In the Province in which I have the honor to represent an electoral division, the services and practical results of the law have been almost null. Nevertheless, nobody will question the existence with us of all the elements necessary to the organization of a force sound in every respect. To what then must we attribute this deplorable state, although flowing from wise legislation which we desire partly to retain The want of success is due to two causes which seem to me to be the source of the evil. If the country wants a militia law everyone must contribute personally his share to the organization. The public outside of the ranks has not understood the moral and material support which it is incumbent upon it to lend to military organization, therefore the Government of the day had to struggle against a prejudice for which it was not responsible. In the second place the law should be administered strictly, impartially, and not as a political engine. In a word the governing and the governed should make it their duty. Now, these two essential causes have been lacking in the present organization every one did not do their duty, and the law was not executed strictly and impartially. If the thing be necessary I shall make it my duty, later on, to establish the correctness of my assertions. I have said that in the Province of Quebec that serious and practical results were almost null; it would not be right if I did not make honorable mention of the Garrison Batteries of the Dominion. I can only personally speak of B. Battery, whose school is in the Quebec citadel. I am happy to acknowledge, in its able commandant, the eminently practical and scientific qualities which would be a great assistance to the country if the sphere in which he exercises them were not so restricted. In Quebec as elsewhere we have weak battalions which owe their existence to pecuniary sacrifices, in the generality of cases excessively onerous upon their officers, whose services the country should recognize. It is to be hoped that by the enlargement of the Military Schools, every facility should be given for instruction in that career, whose practical science cannot be acquired in time of peace, except in well constructed schools. Moreover, to guide us, have we not the example of West Point, the American military training school, whose graduates spread all over the country, in a few days succeeded in improvizing an army of a million and a half of men, commanded by experienced officers. He thanked the House for the kind attention with which he had been honoured.

The Hon. Mr. CAMPBELL said he had no desire to occupy the time of the House, nor to take exception to what the hon. gentleman who had moved and seconded the adoption of the reply to the address had said, and he was quite sure he would get credit for his sincerity The hon. gentleman who had moved the address had taken occasion to deprecate the mode in which he was about to make the motion, but there was no necessity for that, as what was said was full of thoughtfulness and good sense which must commend the speech to every gentleman who had heard it. As he had said before, he did not rise to offer any objection to the resolution, but to define to what extent the views set forward differed from those of a considerable party in the House. Since the last Parliament a very considerable change had taken place in the other branch of the Legislature. The party to which he belonged had sustained a complete overthrow, and that would be one of the remarkable features in the history of the country. He did not allude to the subject but for the purpose of drawing attention to what would be the duty of hon. gentlemen in the Senate Chamber. The very remarkable expression of public opinion at the late elections put all civil on one side, and he thought the usefulness of the Senate would be to bring about the wishes of the people as brought forward by the other House. Although the Senate was independent of the popular voice, there was no such distinction between them and the other branch of the Legislature to justify them in taking up the exalted position which the House of Lords sometimes assumed. Experience had shown them that they ought to defer to the opinions of the people in all matters relating to their welfare, and the Ministry who had that experience, and had public opinion so unmistakeably pronounced in their favour had a great public duty to perform. Their majority was quite equal to the whole vote of the opposition, and so they were in a position, to give a full and favourable consideration to all matters connected with the leading questions of the day. For his own part, and he might say for other hon. gentlemen who belonged to his party, they would be anxious to receive with every consideration of fairness all measures which the Government might bring forward. (Hear, hear.) They would not meet with any factious opposition, or arising out of a spirit of warfare. They would be glad to assist the Government in perfecting those measures that might be submitted for the consideration of the Senate. He did not know what those measures might be, nor could he gather much from the speech. But from what had been said on former occasions, the party now in power had so frequently conveyed the impression that if the late Government were swept away, as they now were, there would be great and sweeping changes that would almost reconstruct the whole constitution of the country. Now as to the measures indicated in the speech, most of them were those brought forward by the late Government. There was nothing to indicate that there was to be any of those sweeping measures that were said to be of such great advantage to the country. The present Government with what he might call great humility had shadowed forth nothing, if excepted a very scanty allusion to one matter, but what had been before the late Government for the last two or three years. To him it was somewhat puzzling when the gentlemen who formed the party now in power were before their constituencies to know what was to be the policy of their Government It was hardly supposable that they would have been content with the measures which the late Administration proposed. The remarks which fell from the Hon. Minister of Justice differed very much from what was said by the Prime Minister in the Far West. He said they would pursue the same policy which had been pursued in opposition. One would have supposed that the present Ministry would have uprooted all that had been done since 1867, for the policy of that party when in opposition had led them to oppose every Government measure.

The SPEAKER—Order! order! there is a stranger in the House.

The person alluded to made his exit in very quick time, and

The Hon. Mr. CAMPBELL continued to say that it was supposable from their past conduct that every measure that had been introduced by the late Government, which comprised the entire constitution under which we live, would have been overturned, and they would take a fresh start. In fact it seemed that things which were considered settled were to be overturned, but he was glad to believe that the policy indicated by the Minister of Justice, in the Province of Quebec, was that which was to be followed. It then came to this: They found the party in power readily adopting measures which the late Government had indicated, and which would have been again brought forward by them. He was glad to see that the accession to power had made the present Ministry almost Conservative, or at all events that they were content to walk in the footsteps that the Conservatives had worked out for them during the past few years; and he hoped the advantages which would result to the country, would be that the same honorable gentlemen would be more reasonable in their opposition if they should again come to be in that position. (Laughter). They would now feel the responsibility of their position, and he hoped they would never again loose sight of that, whether in the Opposition or in the Government. The last clause had reference to the immigration policy which was adopted by the late Government, and he wished to ask the hon. gentleman opposite what was the nature of the appointment of the gentleman who was appointed Emigration Agent in England for Canada? Was he simply appointed as the Emigration Agent in England representing Canada, or had he a right to represent this country almost in the same way as an Ambassador from Portugal or Belgium. He thought it would only have been proper if any appointment of the kind was made that the Government should first have secured the sanction of Parliament; and if they were to take the gentleman's own words, and conduct he was far more than an Emigration Agent to this country. He (Mr. Campbell) found fault with the choice that had been made, and he thought he was justified by the conduct of the gentleman. It might be very right and proper to have somebody in England like an ambassador at St. James from Canada in the same way as there was an ambassador from the United States. It would be of advantage in a social point of view, and they would then have a representative to whom Canadians could appeal, who would be a sort of warranty that they would be able to get into official circles, or be able to obtain access to high officials. In other respects it would be very desirable to have such a representative, for it would be the means of maintaining a social relationship with the Imperial Government; but such a representative ought to be a man well acquainted with all the wants of Canada, and whose knowledge on all matters would be accurate. It would be very desirable to have some one who would command the confidence of the capitalists of England, and also the confidence of the Imperial Government, and from whom reliable information could be had. But such he did not consider the gentleman who was sent to England as Emigration Agent or whatever else he was, for he took it upon himself to lampoon in a very coarse sort of way the present Prime Minister of the mother country. He spoke of Mr. Disraeli as a "Penang lawyer," and on making enquiry he found that the expression meant a walking stick. This he considered was not the way in which their representative was to secure any advantage to this country. No doubt Mr. Jenkins was a man of culture, but he despaired of his being of any service to this country. He could not think that the present Government of England would think much of the person sent to represent this country in England. He would not detain the House longer, but merely add that he had great pleasure in listening to the remarks of the mover and seconder of the Address, which he trusted would be carried.

To be Continued.

EASTER BEEF.—Messrs. Satchell Bros., this Easter will have the finest display of meat upon the market. Amongst it will be the carcases of the two celebrated prize steers so much admired by the Governor General, who saw them at the Provincial Show when held in Hamilton. They weigh 6,070 lbs., and were bred and fed by Mr. Thompson of Mayfield Farm. Whitby having taken prizes to the amount of $500 since they were calves. Messrs. Satchell have three car loads of the choicest cattle the western market can produce, five head out of the number have taken prizes at Guelph and Elora Easter Fairs; they have also some prize sheep, lambs, and pigs of the finest breeds. All will be on exhibition throughout the whole of the week. The enterprise displayed by the Satchells is not only creditable to themselves, but to the city generally. 2530

Electricity! Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil! — Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold.
Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes 'send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful.' William Maguire, of Franklin, writes, 'I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly run out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well, and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed, Ulverton, P.Q., writes—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoyne, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.O., write—"Send us one gross Electric Oil. We [illegible] to take well.

Letter from Rev. John McMurray.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I have recently heard from an invalid of the great benefit derived from your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and, having in many other instances marked the most beneficial results from its use, I cannot but regard its discovery as a matter of devout thankfulness to a benign Providence.
I have used it considerably myself, and, at intervals during several years past, given it to some members of my family.
I have also recommended it to others, and invariably found it to be of essential benefit in those complaints for which it is especially recommended.
In bronchial and other chest affections, in arresting incipient consumption, and in lessening the distressing symptoms of this disease in its hopeless stages, as well as in cases of nervous debility, in giving tone to the system, it is undoubtedly a valuable remedy
I am, dear sir, yours truly.
JOHN McMURRAY, Methodist Minister.

Hide Bound Horses.
A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it was glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition, the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers 251

The Ottawa Times

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1874.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Members of Parliament, and others, who desire it, can obtain the Daily Ottawa Times, during the Session, for $1.50, payable in advance, delivered in wrappers ready for mailing.

It is believed that the officers for the additional force of mounted police to be sent to the Northwest, will be gazetted this week.

Mr. Jacob Carnell Gough, the leader of the Opposition in the New Brunswick Assembly, and Mr. P. S. Hamilton, of Halifax, one of the earliest writers in favor of a Federal Union of the B. N. A. Provinces, are at the Russell House.

We regret to learn that Mr. Attorney General Clarke is seriously ill at the Russell House. We understand that, acting on the advice of his medical attendant, the honourable gentleman will shortly proceed south, there to remain until his health is restored.

FRIVOLOUS CAVILLING.

The Speech of His Excellency delivered at the opening of Parliament the other day has proved singular in one respect,—it has excited but little adverse comment. By a few of our contemporaries it is criticised with a degree of mildness that can be accounted for only on the assumption that there was discovered really no substantial cause of fault-finding. Nothing like opposition has been drawn out, and the default with which it has been allowed to go by the newspaper press in the interest of the Opposition has proven fairly indicative of the nature of its reception in both Houses of Parliament. There are, however, a few points worthy of notice in the very extraordinary handling which the Montreal Gazette gives to the paragraph relative to the renewal of reciprocal trade relations with the States.

The announcement that the initiative has been taken in this matter of reciprocity by the Government of Canada has surprised, and, we doubt not, pained the Gazette. It has surprised the people generally in this respect that the Government have shown themselves fully alive to our interests in a direction that was not anticipated. Under the former regime it had come to be understood that nothing could be done to extend our trade relations with our neighbors. Yet, hardly are our Reform friends well in their seats on the treasury benches than we are informed that progress has been made with very good prospects of success. Nor do we discover any evidence of inconsistency in this action of the Liberal party. It is true that the people very generally urged that we should not importune the United States for a renewal of reciprocity. Our self-respect at this time demanded that we should yield nothing to what was at that time regarded as an attempt at coercion. The Reform party were especially desirous that the negotiation of enlarged trade relations should not fall into the hands of those who shewed by their pliancy in the matter of the Washington Treaty that they were prepared to concede everything. We know that the effort made by the Tory Party, some eight years ago, to effect a renewal of the Treaty, or its equivalent, signally failed; and the same party was not again in a position to renew negotiations until the Washington Treaty arrangement gave an opportunity. That opportunity was shamefully neglected, or what was worse, was abused to effect an easy conciliation, and, which has been the subject of scandal from that day to the present, promote the personal prospects of the Imperial Commissioner from Canada. We do not make the assertion, we simply repeat what was the subject of general public utterance, that Sir John Macdonald had expectations of Imperial preferment, founded if not upon his unqualified surrender of the rights of Canada, at least upon the share which he contributed towards a complaisant arrangement of international difficulties. And these hints as to what his expectations were, were current more amongst the honorable gentleman's supporters than on the other side. Considering then the failure of the attempt to procure renewed reciprocity; the readiness manifested by the Conservative leader and his party, in the matter of the Washington Treaty, to sacrifice the interests of this country, and the general distrust with which he and his more obsequious followers were regarded, it was most undesirable that he and they should be charged with the duty of such an important undertaking. Considered too, in the light of the fate, and its causes, that has overtaken Sir John Macdonald and his party, it is not surprising that the people of Canada should have been warned against taking the initiative at least until more opportune circumstances had arisen. It may be repeated that when the party who are now taking the initiative in the matter of dealing with the United States upon the subject of reciprocal trade, warned the country against seeking in an undignified and unmanly way what there seemed to be a determination not to grant, urged that it was not by shewing to Americans that we could not well do without reciprocity that we would be likely to get it, and counselled people that they could do well by self dependence. But they could not be understood, as the Gazette professes to have understood them, to have taken the ground that no attempt should be made under any circumstances, or that the time could never come when action could be taken in that behalf by our Government. It is a forged bill of indictment, against the Liberal party to say of them that "the tone of the party at present in power has always been against approaches on the part of Canada to the American Government on the subject of the renewal of reciprocal trade relations." And the proof with which the Gazette clinches that assertion shows how fatally one misstatement calls for another to support it. The proof is in these words:—

"Indeed Mr. Brown felt so strongly upon this point, that he actually left the Government and imperilled the success of Confederation, upon the ground that he was opposed to missions to Washington on the subject of reciprocity. It is true that the belief was very general at that time that his objection was not so much to the missions as to the missionaries, and that had he been selected by his colleagues for the work, his views of the question would be somewhat different. And the fact that he is to-day the Commissioner, leaves us no room to doubt that the popular belief at the time was tolerably accurate."

Thus it appears that Mr. Brown actually left the Government and imperilled Confederation rather than be a party to missions to Washington on the business of reciprocity. It further appears by the same authority that his objection was popularly believed to be not so much to the mission as to the missionaries. And still further it appears that the popular belief at the time was tolerably accurate. The English of this, if it means anything, is that Mr. Brown according to popular belief directed his objections less against the object of the Commission than the personnel of it, which is hardly consistent with the strong representations made that he and his party were against negotiation being initiated by our people.

The Gazette is rather hasty in its declaration that there is enough saved in the fishery indemnity to purchase reciprocity. It has not yet been ascertained what sum is likely to accrue from that source; and it may safely be asserted that the American Government have not the least thought of giving up any advantage over us for such monetary consideration as may possibly arise out of the Fishery Arbitration. It may, indeed, be that enough has been saved to procure reciprocity, but what does that prove? Does it prove that our rights have been saved, and our claims respected in the Washington Treaty? Not that we can discover. What has been saved, if saved anything has been, is the merest bagatelle compared with what has been weakly and foolishly relinquished and lost. The fact is, this, like all other questions at issue between the present parties in the House of Commons, is capable of no construction favourable to the party whose cause the Gazette continues to champion. At every point of contrast our contemporary only rouses a sleeping dog that had better be let lie.

PARLIAMENT.

The Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was the subject of consideration in the Senate and House of Commons yesterday. The speeches of the movers of the Address were admirable. Not unaccustomed to public speaking, Mr. Penny in the Senate and Mr. Moss in the Commons, spoke with fluency and ease, and obtained for themselves the confidence and the ear of their respective Houses. Nor were the gentlemen who seconded the Address less happy than the movers. Mr. Panet in the Senate and Mr. Laurier in the Commons, spoke most effectively. In the Commons considerable excitement was produced by the remarks of Mr. Masson on an alleged amnesty promised to Riel. Pardon rather than amnesty should have been the expression as the word amnesty can scarcely be applied to a covering up of the misdeeds of a single individual. According to Mr. Masson, Riel has been more sinned against than sinning, about which, of course, there is considerable difference of opinion. The attempt to visit upon the present Government the recognition of the Delegates from Manitoba, the promises to Father Richot, and a contemplated forgiveness to a person, against whom, it is alleged, there rests a charge of murder, is superlatively ridiculous. The blows of the member for Terrebonne, contrary to his intention, fell upon the leader of the Opposition. It was the Government of Sir John Macdonald, which employed Bishop Tache to soothe the enraged Metis of the Far-West, and it was the Lieut. Governor, appointed by the late Administration, who shook Riel by the hand, and sent complimentary letters concerning one who, although branded as an outlaw, consented to use his influence with the Metis to induce them to aid in repelling the Fenian invasion, with which, at one time, Manitoba was threatened. Riel is, it is said, in the city, and there is no little excitement among those who think him a hero and an ill-used man, and those who firmly believe that he is a person, charged with crime, and who has only succeeded in eluding justice. One thing is pretty certain now, and that is that his case will soon be disposed of. A motion has been made to ascertain as far as it can be done, the facts in Riel's case. The Attorney General of Manitoba is to be examined at the Bar of the House of Commons, and to state whether the person returned as the representative of Provencher is one and the same with a person named Louis Riel indicted for the murder of one Thomas Scott. The Government throw no obstacle in the way of the proposed investigation, but, on the contrary, seem anxious for it. The sooner the matter is ended the better.

REVISION OF THE STATUTE LAW.

The Legislature of the Dominion of Canada has now been making laws for seven years, and it is no reproach that in the course of that time the law on various subjects has been changed over and over again, changes being required by the alteration of circumstances, and amendments by the imperfections of all human institutions,—and that consequently the real "Statute Book," that is the accumulation of Acts in the custody of the Clerk of the Parliaments, which is an historical collection and not a code, is voluminous and contains an immense amount of matter now obsolete; but it is the fault of the Legislature that the seven volumes of the Statutes of Canada, as issued to the public by the Queen's Printer, contain, together, with the Statutes now in force, a vast number which are not; and, because there is no better edition, that the student is obliged to buy the dead matter with the living.

It may, indeed, be thought by some that the strict function of Parliament is only to make good laws, and that the publication of selections, abridgments, tables and indexes is the affair of the public yet, we think, no one will deny that, practically, it is most desirable to have a revised edition of the Statutes, with such authority as a Parliamentary or Royal Commission can give it. Such a course is practicable, and never more expedient than at the present time, when we are entering upon a new session, which will, doubtless, ere its close, find the whole of the British Possessions in North America represented in one Parliament and governed by the same laws.

We are drawn to the consideration of this subject, by the appearance, fresh from the press, of a work by Mr. R. J. Wicksteed, of this city.

By referring to his Table of the Statutes of the Dominion of Canada, &c., we ascertain what Statutes there still are (in Lord Bacon's words) "sleeping and not of use, but yet snaring and in force;"—as well as what Statutes there are which cannot be said on strict principles of construction to be repealed, though generally considered, and probably intended not to be in force; and what Statutes there are of which the meaning is uncertain.

It cannot be denied that the existence of any such cases is a reproach; and we recommend the immediate removal of such a reproach. Now the desired result may be effected by a Revision of the Statutes.

The operations which can properly be called a Revision of the Statute Law consist of the following:

1st. The ascertaining what enactments are now distinctly and in terms repealed or expired. There is no absolute necessity for any legislative action as to these; but as it would be very convenient to have an infallibly authentic list of them, a declaratory act on the subject would be of great practical benefit.

2ndly. The ascertaining what enactments, which have not been absolutely repealed, may properly be termed obsolete, in order that they may be forthwith repealed, and also the ascertaining what enactments are in a state in which it is doubtful whether they are in force or not, although there has been an apparent intention on the part of the Legislature to repeal them. These will require a declaratory Act.

3rdly. The ascertaining by critical examination and comparison, what enactments, not in terms repealed, are in reality no longer in force, by reason of their being inconsistent with, and therefore virtually repealed by subsequent laws on the same subject. As to these, like the Acts in the first-class, no legislative action is strictly necessary, but practically it is almost indispensable; because, though of course, in very truth every enactment must be either repealed or unrepealed. Yet, until there has been a legislative declaration about them, it would not, as to a considerable part of the enactments in question, be safe for any one to reject them altogether from consideration, nor to accept without actual examination, the conclusions of any editor or text-book writer concerning them.

When these operations have been completed, and the necessary repealing and declaratory statutes passed, all that can properly be termed a revision of the Statute Law will have been accomplished; that is, the whole statute law which is now in force, will have been extracted and ascertained.

The process of digesting and consolidating, and (in connection with it) simplifying and amending the law, is one quite distinct from that of revision, and in the natural course would follow it after its completion.

Members of Parliament and public men generally, will be glad to hear that a new edition of that valuable book of reference, the Canadian Parliamentary Companion, is now in press, and will be shortly given to the public. The Companion has now become one of the necessary "institutions" of the country. Established as long ago as 1862, it has year by year increased the amount of solid political information to be found in its pages, and become more and more popular with the public. We understand there will be several new attractions in the edition for 1874, in one of which the "platforms" of political parties, will be referred to with more than common interest.

Dominion Parliament.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

MONDAY, March 30.

The SPEAKER took the chair at three p. m.

The SPEAKER explained that a document had been sent to him on Saturday last respecting the seat of the member for Provencher, which the Returning Officer had declared to belong to Mr. Riel. Mr. Hamelin the other candidate for the representation of that county claimed the seat to which the Returning Officer had declared Mr. Riel elected. The document contained no prayer, and as the Act of '72 took such matters out of the hands of the House, Mr. Hamelin's objection to Mr. Riel's return on the ground that he is disqualified must be made before the Judges of the proper Courts. He (Mr. Speaker) had, therefore, decided not to submit the document to the House. Indirectly it had some bearing upon the privileges of the House; but after mature deliberation he had come to the decision that Mr. Riel ought to be permitted to take his seat.

A number of petitions were submitted.

Mr. CHISHOLM presented one in favor of protection to manufactures.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Montreal) of Charles Storey to establish the International Transportation Company, and one to enable the Grand Trunk Railway Company to found a system of insurance for their employes.

Mr. MOSS moved the adoption of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He was aware that special indulgence is always given to one who speaks for the first time in the House, and whose entire inexperience seems to be his chief recommendation. He would endeavor to say something about the past Parliament. The influence which had led to its dissolution had been fully discussed. It was well known that the House had been largely in favor of the right hon. gentleman, then at the head of the Government, and it promised to deal with subjects of the largest importance, neither theoretical nor fanciful. Some of the questions might have disintegrated this country, or have proved a blessing to it. There was one question of great importance to our national well-being; but which had to be left undone, and now this House was left to deal with these questions. He believed this House to be the result of the popular choice and that choice had been exercised wisely and well. But the questions which are coming before this House will largely tax its energies. He had heard it stated that the Government are not to favor with any active or vigorous opposition. This he thought would be a great misfortune. He thought that it would be a pity that they should not enjoy the criticism of the right honorable member for Kingston, and of the member for Cumberland and other places. He wanted criticism on the acts and measures of the Government. He did not think it necessary for the Government to ask for a fair and legitimate hearing, the tribunal of last resort had spoken on that subject. If the Ministry regulate their course with sagacity and shrewdness, they will be supported by the intelligence and patriotism of their fellow countrymen. The Premier took the people into his confidence in appealing to them at the hustings. He clearly explained to the people the details of the policy which he intended to pursue when in office. There was a sharp sting in the tail of the speech. It told us that there was a deficit, but there was no reason for their shrinking from the task of showing the true state of matters as the mischief did not lie at their doors. Since Confederation the increase of expenditure had been immense. There was only one way of meeting a deficit, and that was increased taxation. He hoped that the measures which would be introduced with this view, would neither lead to embarrassment nor misapprehension. He thought that the phrase of being as economical as possible, looking to the interests of the public service, was somewhat stereotyped, but he trusted that the Government would do what they said and truly economize, without being parsimonious. The address also stated that the Government would take measures to secure purity at elections. The people of this country were deeply exercised about this measure. It was agreed to introduce secret voting. He had never been enamoured by the ballot. He did not believe in it as an unmixed good. He wanted, however, the free and uncoerced expression of the popular will. An American writer has declared that freedom depends upon the free exercise of the franchise. To a great extent the principle of the ballot has been recognized in this country. In both New Brunswick and Ontario it has been recognized. The sentimental notion that it was sneaking or un-British was very silly. Nothing was un-British that secured the free expression of opinion. The chief thing to be aimed at was entire secrecy. This had not been obtained in the United States. The English Act on the contrary effectually secured secrecy. The English Ministry had called to their aid all the information it was possible to obtain on this subject—from its practice in Australia and elsewhere. He did not fancy that it would be a panacea for all the ills attendant upon elections, but it would certainly render bribery more difficult. Something was to be done in the way of improving the laws relative to controverted elections. There were doubts which had to be explained away. He thought it desirable that he who bribed, or consented to be bribed, should be stamped with something like criminality. Recently in the Ontario Parliament a new Court of Appeals had been decided upon and he hoped that the matter would be followed up here. Even under the old system, when the Judges in the Court of first resort sat in the Court of Appeals, there were wonderfully few errors made. It is not impossible that by the constitution of the Ontario Independent Court of Appeal some alteration may be necessary in the scheme of the Dominion Government. As for the militia question he trusted it would be treated in a broad and comprehensive manner. He held it to be the duty of the Government to encourage the volunteers. The pay was wretchedly small when the duties they were expected to perform was taken into consideration. It had been said that our neighbours were peaceably inclined, but it must be remembered that, nations might be covetous and grasping, and our best safeguard was being ready to take our own part. He hoped that there would be a national spirit evoked throughout the country, not a spirit of knownothingism, but one in which every dweller in the land would feel that he had a real interest in the country, a matter not incompatible with true and sterling loyalty to the mother country. As for an insolvency law he would only say it was a most difficult question to deal with. Lord Westbury had tried to do something on this law without effect. Indeed it was expected that a creditor would receive 100 cents on the dollar, and that a debtor would get off by paying 60 cents on the dollar. Dishonest debtors frequently become insolvent with the view of defrauding his creditors. If a debtor had the means or the power of paying his debts legislation should be so framed as to compel him to pay his debts. Now he would allude to the Pacific Railway Policy of the Government. The speech did not disclose this policy; but he felt assured that the House would deal with the measure in the highest spirit of liberality. It was only by means of our canals and lakes that our supremacy on this continent could be maintained; and he hoped that no necessary expense would be spared to maintain it. With regard to Reciprocity, he believed that the great statesman, whom the American people now lamented, was in favor of a Reciprocity Treaty, and, indeed, he believed that the American people generally were not opposed to it. But while desirous of having our commercial relations extended, he would not have them at the cost of our political relations. He had faith in his native land and did not contemplate a temporary independence and an ultimate absorption into the American Union. He hoped rather that we should advance side by side in the path of progress.

Mr. LAURIER had the honour to second the motion just made. He knew the progress that had been made since Confederation. All political parties were inclined to rally round the Constitution, and all amendments to laws were in support of the Constitution and aimed at the maintenance of the supremacy of Great Britain. At the late elections, the popular verdict had been unmistakeably pronounced in favour of the present Government. He himself was in favour moreover of complete social and political liberty. He regretted that the Supreme Court had not been established at the beginning—when Confederation took place.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Began by complimenting the speeches of the mover and seconder of the Address, particularly he was glad to hear the expression of loyalty to Britain which had fallen from the former; expressions which he was sure were felt by all the members of the House. With regard to the rumour that the mover had heard that there was to be no opposition, he would remark that the Opposition were ready and willing to do their duty. He characterized the action of the Government in announcing their policy just prior to dissolving the House, as unconstitutional, and for the reason that the people had not sufficient time to consider that policy. Referring to the deficit paragraph and the statement of his hon. friend the mover, that the present Government was not responsible for that deficit, he said he believed it would be shown when the expenditures made by the late Government came up for discussion in this House, that they could be defended. He still adhered to what he had before said in regard to the ballot, that it would not prevent rioting and the late elections in England were evidence of this, but at the same time he believed it would be adopted by this House. He thought, however, that it might do away with undue influence in voting. We owed a debt of gratitude to the Militia of this country, and he believed it was a very efficient force, and should emergency require it, such would be found to be the case. With respect to the Pacific, he, for one, would not anticipate in advance what might be the policy of the Government, it was a question which required a great deal of consideration, it was too grave a question to hold the Hon Premier to any utterances he had made in regard to it before his election. If the Government obtained reciprocity they would deserve praise; he hoped, however, that when the papers were brought down they would not shew any undue attempt on the part of this Government to secure reciprocity. Since he believed the first movement in that direction should be made by the United States. He hoped also that the Government would not hold itself bound to agree to any arrangement assented to by the Commissioner who had been sent over, since he would propably show too great a desire to gain the object for which he had been sent. He had no idea that we should obtain a reciprocity treaty to the same extent as before, if we did he should be agreeably disappointed. He did not intend to discuss at length the measures mentioned in the speech. He would give them fair consideration when brought up before the House, he would say that they were nearly all old measures which had been brought down by his Government. The member for Arthabaska had regretted that the Supreme Court had not been established when Confederation took place, he (Sir John) would have desired that himself if a perfect court could have been obtained at that time.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE said that the remarks of the right honorable gentlemen were characterized by candour and moderation; but they were not in truth so much so as they seemed on the surface. With regard to Reciprocity, he might say that the negotiations with Washington led him to expect such commercial relations as would lead to the honour and prosperity of the country. He certainly would not accept of any arrangement that would tend to humiliate the country. When he was on the opposite side; he took pains to enable the gentleman who was then about to go to Washington, to go there unencumbered with instructions of any kind from Parliament. The right honourable gentleman had offered to give him his aid on certain matters for which he was particularly thankful; but he disclaimed the paternity of the Election Bill, as belonging to the right honourable gentleman. It was rather the fruit of his labours, when in opposition to the Government of the right honorable gentleman; nevertheless he accepted the proposed aid. He had listened with great pleasure to the speeches of the honorable members for West Toronto and Arthabaska. He did not recollect any members having for the first time delivered themselves so well.

They had elicited praise from both sides of the House. The right honourable gentleman had made some remarks against the ballot and had alluded to certain riots in England which, however, were not consequent upon the ballot. The ballot would give at least greater freedom of election than had hitherto prevailed. In a thickly inhabited country the ballot was necessary to prevent undue pressure upon the electors. He was not bigotly in favor of the ballot. He did not think that in large counties it was of much consequence. He, however, thanked the right honorable gentleman for having promised to give the measure fair treatment when it came before the House. The right honorable gentleman had objections to his enunciation of his policy before the elections. If his memory served him he thought that it had been matter of complaint by the Opposition press, that the Government policy had not been more particularly defined. He thought that a new Government going before the people should distinctly and unequivocally announce their policy to the people. If they had not acted constitutionally, they had, at least, acted from a common sense point of view. He had never heard their announcement of policy objected to either at the hustings or elsewhere until the present moment.

Mr. MASSON was glad at the sentiments manifested towards the maintenance of the English constitution. Everything was tranquil at present, but he fancied that in time there would be quite a change in the social and political relaxations of the country. He extended his congratulations to the Prime Minister of the country on the speech from the throne. It was, however, more remarkable for what was not in it, than for what it contained. Subjects of the greatest importance which had been debated in this House had not been noted. They wanted a sea board on Hudson's Bay, and a delegation had been here, but we had not heard anything concerning them. It was said that there was quite a revolution in British Columbia, but we had not been told what had been done there. Indeed we had not heard what had been done to quieten the people. There was another matter which had agitated Lower Canada, viz:—The administration of justice. The Minister of Justice was almost the Champion of an improved administration of justice in Quebec, but we had heard nothing of it. He did not want to embarrass the country. Then there was the subject of protection to our industries, but not a word had been said about it, and the friends of protection could not count upon the support of the Government in this matter. There was a question which had agitated the country to an unparalleled extent, that was the School question of New Brunswick, and he thought the House had a right to expect something to have been said on this subject in the Speech from the Throne. That which had been done in this House or sanctioned by it had not been carried out and the Government had not told them the reason why. No doubt the Minister of Justice would tell us what had been done by the authorities in England on this subject. He had seen a despatch given by the press and not by the Government, stating that the Dominion Government could not interfere with laws made by the Local Governments; but he knew that laws made by the Dominion Parliament must be upheld, or that the responsible minister should say why they could not be so. The despatch alluded to was in direct contradiction to the Union Act. There was another matter to which he might allude. It was that of Riel. Peace and tranquility would not reign in Manitoba until the Riel difficulty was settled and we could send a population to inhabit the Great West. An amnesty had been promised to Riel.

Hon Mr DORION said that if an amnesty had been promised to Riel, that promise would have been kept.

It being six o'clock the House rose.

AFTER RECESS.

Mr. MASSON had stated before the recess that nothing in the speech from the Throne had been said respecting the amnesty. The Honorable Minister of Justice had explained that had the amnesty been promised, it would have been adhered to, his statement had been corrected. He had gathered from the newspapers, the organs of the Government, that it was the intention of the Government to appoint a Commission of enquiry. He could not see the use of a Commission unless it was to delay a question which had been before the country for a very long time. Either there was enough information already there was not. If the Government had a sufficient information, they ought immediately to carry out their policy if they had one. They had four months to consider what it should be. If the amnesty has been promised, the case is altered. He asked the Prime Minister whether he had or had not made enquiries of those who ought to know, whether the amnesty was promised or not. If it had been promised, then the Government would probably move in the matter. He thought the honour of the country was engaged in the matter and must be satisfied. If it could be established that the honour of the country was engaged, we were bound to act in the matter as much as if a promise had actually been made. He wanted to know if the Imperial authorities had been asked for an amnesty to all political offenders. He had not feared to express his opinions when the previous Government was in power. He considered that the troubles in Manitoba were caused by Canada, and that Canada was very much to blame. Before the Union, which they had never asked for, the people of Manitoba were content. The now Minister of Justice himself complained that the people of Manitoba had been compelled to accept of union by a transfer of their country without their consent; and Canada had actually taken possession of that country before it had been in reality transferred. An act of one of their employees had done much to produce the troubles. That unfortunate proclamation of his had done much to provoke the mischief. We had sown the wind and must reap the whirlwind. The Hon Minister of Public Works had raised the public opinion of Ontario against the member for Kingston for having received the Manitoba delegates, because they were the representatives, not of Manitoba, but of the Provisional Government of Manitoba. Those people were delegated as the representatives of the Provisional Government of the Territories of the Northwest. The reception of the delegates, the Minister of Public Works argued, was an acknowledgment of the Provisional Government. That was his opinion then. He thought that alone should work as an amnesty. It was one of the first elements in the law of nations that a Government could not ask for delegates and then refuse to wipe out all the acts that had happened before they were received, and of which the Government was cognizant. All this the Minister of Public Works knew, and it rests with him, now that he has the opportunity, to carry out what were his own views. When he (Mr. Masson) had accused the member for Kingston of having received Riel's delegates, he spoke in ignorance of the facts, and now apologized to him. What he met with in the newspapers led him to believe that something was intended to be done by the Government. It was only from the newspapers that he could glean what Ministers intended to do. He would quote from the Leader and the Mail, and the Gazette of Montreal. He read an extract from the Mail suggesting a full and complete amnesty to Riel from the Imperial Government for the sake of the peace and prosperity of the Dominion. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries was a very tolerant and benevolent man, and he would listen to what the Leader said in an article addressed to the hon. member for Kingston that an amnesty to Riel would conduce to the prosperity of the country. The Montreal Gazette thought the Imperial Government would act wisely by granting an amnesty, and so blot out all recollection of the Manitoba troubles. Riel acted with generosity towards Canada. He had resisted in order to hold high the flag of England, and resisted a great bribe in doing what he did. About the time of the Fenian invasion the authorities wanted the help of Riel to defend the Province; but he could not do so as his life was in danger. He had the authority of Father Richot to read certain papers which he held in his hand. He had seen Riel himself a few minutes ago who had said they were all true. Governor Archibald, after talking the matter over with Father Richot, thought that Riel, the outlaw, might be entrusted with a sword. Had he (Mr. Masson) been in the place of the Minister of Justice, he never would have accepted office until the amnesty had been granted. He read a correspondence between Father Richot and Governor Archibald relative to Mr. Riel's interference for his country's good, and the protection then guaranteed to him by Governor Archibald. Riel was asked to use his influence in the most complimentary terms, and did so. He appealed to British and French fairplay, if Riel, under the circumstances, were not entitled to an amnesty.

Hon. Mr. DORION—The honourable member for Terrebonne had gone over many subjects. He had gone over the troubles in British Columbia. Now the Government would not communicate for two or three days with that Province. There were all sorts of rumours that the Premier had been driven from the House, and that the members had also been driven into the streets. They had come to the conclusion that the Conservatives had cut the wires. However, then, affairs turned out to be of no account. The Premier had been elected by a large majority, and he (Mr. Dorion) could assure the House that we were at peace with all the world. (Laughter) Taxation was tantamount to protection, and protection seemed to be very much desired, especially by manufacturers. It was not usual to to give notice to the world a month before hand what commodities should be taxed. The member for Terrebonne seemed to be the co leader of the Opposition. With regard to the New Brunswick school question, in compliance with the wishes of a meeting of Bishops in Quebec, a large sum had been granted to bring the matter before the law offices of the Crown in England. That had been done and the attempt was now made to blame the Government for the doings of their predecessors. He did not deign to take up at great length, the time of the House. This question of amnesty had been much dwelt on. It was not this Government that sent the despatch to Bishop Tache at Rome, requesting him to come here in a great hurry. Who were the men that were in communication with Father Richot, Mr. Scott and Judge Black? If the gentlemen opposite promised an amnesty, let them say so? Let them say that they were in communication with the rebels, and that they had sent for the Bishop to obtain quietness in Manitoba at any price. He admitted that there was much in the documents submitted to their consideration by the honourable member for Terrebonne. But it was gross nonsense to say that after asking Riel to take part in the defence of the country so soon as that task was over he (Riel) was liable to be hanged on the first tree. That harangue of the honourable member for Terrebonne was given to the wrong men. It was intended for the gentlemen whose place the present Government now occupied. Would the co-leader of the member for Terrebonne tell what was then the state of the country when the complimentary letters were written about Riel, and when Governor Archibald shook hands with Mr. Riel. They had been told it was impossible to repel the invasion with which Manitoba was threatened, without the aid of Riel, and the influence he used with the half-breeds. A letter had been written on the 18th May, 1872, in which Father Richot insisted upon being put in possession, by Sir George Cartier and Sir John Macdonald, of an assurance of an intended application to the Imperial Government for an amnesty.

Mr. COSTIGAN considered that the course of the late Government, in the matter of the resolution in regard to the New Brunswick School Bill, was more consistent than that of the present Government, since the former had always contended that they could not disallow the Bill. He was not aware that the member for Terrebonne had received a telegram from the Quebec Bishops, stating that they were quite satisfied that the question should not be further pressed. He did not intend, at present, to discuss this matter further now, but he intended, at some future time, to bring up a resolution in regard to this matter. The majority of the late House had agreed that a great wrong existed, and he hoped the majority of this House would shew that that wrong had not been remedied, and that it should be remedied.

Mr. De COSMOS desired to make a few explanations in regard to the statements made by the hon. member for Terrebonne. That a tumult occurred in British Columbia. He would state facts and let the House draw the conclusion. When British Columbia came into the Union, it was agreed that the Railway should be commenced within two years, that commencement did not take place within the time and the British Columbia Government sent after twenty days had expired a protest to the Canadian Government for having broken faith. It might be said that the Government had done their best by chartering the Allan Company; but it must be remembered that the agreement was not with the Allan Company but with the Government. So great was the discontent in British Columbia, that he was sent as a delegate in the matter of Emigration and the Esquimaux Graving Dock, and the Government agreed to give a bonus to British Columbia of £45,000, and an advancement of a million of money; these terms were not a relaxation of the Pacific Railway terms. When the new Government came into power, he considered it his duty before starting for England to see the Minister of Justice, who confirmed the agreement made by the late Government. The cry was then started that there was a relaxation of the Railway clause of the Union, and meetings were held. Then there came the resolution passed at one of these meetings that they should present a certain resolution; but although the crowd that went to the House was large, he believed that the greater part of them went from mere curiosity. There was a row made in the galleries and the Speaker left the chair. The Provincial Government thought it well to swear in a few special constables, but the statement that a man-of-war had been asked was not true. The statement that he had been forced to retire was also untrue; the fact was simply that dual representation being abolished in 1873, he was obliged to choose between the Dominion Parliament and remaining a member of the Provincial Government and he choose the former, and the Government of which he was formerly a member had a large majority, and he himself had been returned at the head of the polls when he went back to his constituency for re-election.

Mr. BUNSTER said British Columbia felt aggrieved that the Canadian Government had not carried out their part of the agreement when union was entered into. British Columbia had done her part, and it was to be hoped for the good of the country that Canada would fulfil her part.

Mr. DEWDNEY believed that the late Government had done their best to carry out the terms with British Columbia, and he was surprised at the statement of the Hon. Premier of British Columbia. With regard to the crowd which took possession of the galleries they had done so in an orderly way and quiet would have been kept had it not been for the request of the hon. member for Victoria that the galleries be cleared. The speech of the Prime Minister at Sarnia had lead him to believe that no relaxation of the terms with British Columbia would be asked, but his address of [illegible] January gave him a contrary impression. He had it on the word of the senior officer of the navy that the gunboat had been sent for. Every gentleman returned by British Columbia was of the opinion that the late Premier of British Columbia did not represent the feelings of the Province.

Mr. DeCOSMOS denied that any [illegible] had been given by the Executive, of which he was a member, asking for the gunboat.

The first, second and third paragraphs of the Address were then passed.

On the fourth paragraph, Mr. Masson acknowledged having received a telegram from the Bishops but denied that there was anything in it about an appeal to the English Privy Council; nor was he aware that they were willing to wait until after that appeal. He had been asked to enter the late Administration, but he was not a man to sacrifice his opinions for personal considerations, and he [illegible] accused.

Hon. Sir JOHN MACDONALD desired to say that the member for Terrebonne had been offered a seat in his government, but the hon. gentleman had refused until the amnesty and the New Brunswick School Bill questions were settled, and he (Sir John) had refused to give him any such assurance.

The other paragraphs were then passed, and also the motion to appoint a Committee to prepare the necessary address in reply; also the various formal resolutions for the engrossing of the Address.

Hon. Mr. MACKENZIE moved that a Select Committee of seven members be appointed to prepare a list of members to act on the several committees of this House. Carried.

On the motion of Mr. MACKENZIE that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. BOWELL desired to speak on a question of privilege. It was well known that a member of this House whose presence would be obnoxious to certain members of this House had been returned as elected for Provencher. He hoped it would not be supposed that he was acting in concert with the member of Terrebonne. He moved, seconded by Dr. Schultz, that the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery do attend at the opening of this House to-morrow with the return of the last election for the Electoral District of Provencher, together with the Poll Books and all other papers, letters and documents which may have any reference to that election. Carried.

He also moved, seconded by Dr. Shultz, that the Hon. H. J. Clarke, Attorney General of the Province of Manitoba, be summoned to-morrow at the bar of the House, to answer such questions as may be put to him relative to the indictment made before the Grand Jury, and the true bill returned by said Grand Jury against Louis Riel, the member elect for the district of Provencher, in the Province of Manitoba, for the murder of one Thomas Scott.

Hon. Mr. CAUCHON thought before adopting this course, the House should not be in a hurry, but take time to consider what should best be done in the matter.

Hon. Mr. DORION saw no objection to bringing the persons named to the Bar.

Hon. Mr. HOLTON thought that if there were any precedents in the case, time ought to be allowed to find them out. Surely 24 hours might be allowed. The motion assumed certain facts of which the House was not seized.

Mr. BOWELL thought as the Government had consented to this motion, no objection should be made. The sooner a case of this kind was disposed of the better. The member for Provencher had been accused of a very great crime, and it was necessary that the House should take immediate action.

Hon. Mr. DORION did not want to offer any opposition. If Riel was proved not to be the man we want by the indictment the matter would fall to the ground.

Mr. BLAIN said that the motion was not in order. A motion should be first made that Riel should be expelled, and then the witnesses could be examined at the Bar o' the House to prove his guilt. (Laughter.)

Mr. BOWELL'S motion was carried.

A message was received from the Governor General appointing Commissioners for the internal economy of the House.

The House adjourned at a quarter to eleven p m

CITY AND VICINITY

ALARM OF FIRE.—An alarm of fire was sounded yesterday afternoon, at the Lower Town Fire Station. It however, seems to have been a false alarm. Rumor had it that a chimney was on fire in York street.

A NEW SAFE.—A new safe was taken into the St. Lawrence Hall yesterday. The handling of safes at all times is a somewhat difficult thing, and the delicacy with which express men handle them, not to speak of the blocking up of the street, is proverbial

HARRY LINDLEY.—Our readers will observe by an advertisement elsewhere that Harry Lindley opens for a short season to-night in the Rink Music Hall. He has secured the services of T. C. King, the great English tragedian, who will make his first appearance before an Ottawa audience this evening. He will doubtless be well received by our play-going citizens.

PERSONAL.—Hon. Edward Blake, and Mr Thomas Moss, Q. C., M.P., are staying with Mr. Thos. Hector of the Audit Office, Austin Terrace, Sally Street.

MISS DEMONTFORD.—This very talented lady was greeted last night by another good house. The subjects were good and most of them new. About fifteen volunteered to go on the stage to be experimented upon; and out of the fifteen she managed to get twelve under her mesmeric influence—certainly a very large per centage. Miss DeMontford put one of her subjects in a state of catalepsy, that is took from him all sense of feeling. She then placed his head on the back of a chair, and his feet on another, and whilst in this position he bore the weight of a young man on his body. This experiment clearly proved Miss DeMontford to be possessed of a really wonderful power. This performance was greeted with great applause. Other more laughable experiments were given which kept the audience in one continuous roar of laughter from the time the lady appeared until she quit. Last evening was the most satisfactory yet given.

Congregational Church Bazaar.

Last night we enjoyed a great deal of pleasure from a visit to the Bazaar opened yesterday in Robinson's Block, Sparks street, by the ladies of the Congregational Church. On entering the visitor is first impressed with the grandeur of the display of the handiwork of the ladies, embracing as it does nearly everything of a useful as well as fancy nature. The room is tastefully decorated with flags of all kinds, being neatly arranged throughout its entire extent. The attendance throughout the day was large, but in the evening was very large, doubtless attracted by the musical part of the programme, which was left for that time. On entering, the first table that meets the eye is that of Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Grand, on which we noticed a fine fern table, a cushion of exquisite finish and other very attractive articles which drew considerable attention. Misses Singleton and Ruthven, are worthy of mention as contributors of many articles of their own workmanship. The next table was presided over by Mrs. Sunderson, Mrs. Young and Mrs. Sift, and was laden with an endless variety of useful and fancy articles. On this table we also observed an ingenious but perfect model of the Congregational Church. It was greatly admired by all who saw it. A bureau on a small scale, but perfect in every particular, was also on exhibition in this section. In passing round, we approach another table presided over by Mrs Brown, Mrs A. Hatch and Mrs. H Hatch. Like the others there was no end to the number and variety of the articles to be disposed of We might just mention a beautifully attired wax doll, valued at $20, imported from Boston and presented to the Bazaar by Mr. Kearns, of the firm of Kearns & Ryan, Rideau street. A complete bus miniature bedroom set, manufactured by a relative, was on exhibition by Mrs Brown, also a most artistically worked fire screen, valued at $32 Mrs. Hatch had disposed of a very fine ottoman for the sum of $20. Cushions, watch pockets, portfolios, tea cosies, and other articles, the handiwork of Misses Thompson and Hughes, as well as other ladies, were very much admired Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Ogilvy and other ladies, also contributed liberally to the Bazaar, and were noted for their urbanity in exhibiting the articles We were almost forgetting what, after all, is the most important feature of all such gatherings, that is the refreshments. Mrs. Gallagher and Mrs. Jarvis were in attendance, on the next flat, with two well spread tables, oysters, tea, coffee, cakes, fruits, &c., in abundance. We had the pleasure of dining with our lady hostesses, and at the same table we had the worthy pastor of the congregation and his estimable lady. We, are therefore, in a position to speak with satisfaction as to this part of the programme; in fact the whole affair is well managed, and is well worth a visit from our citizens generally.

The Mining Committee of the N. B. Legislature have reported that they are of opinion that the mining interests of the Province are second to none, and that it is the duty of the Executive to foster and encourage a branch of the industrial resources of the country that must soon become of paramount importance, and holding these views, they recommend to the favorable consideration of the Government the propriety of employing a provincial metallurgist and chemist, whose salary would probably be paid by private individuals, as already offered, and they beg leave, further, to recommend that in a supplementary estimate a grant of four thousand dollars be made for the encouragement of mining operations generally throughout the Province.

The Riel Excitement—New Opera House.—[illegible]

TORONTO, March 30

Intense excitement is created in the city by the announcement that Riel has taken the oath and it is expected that the Orange Lodges will be summoned immediately to take the proper steps in consideration. The [illegible] publishes rather an inflammatory article, asking whether the opportunity has not arrived for avenging the blood of Thomas Scott.

Two Theatres and two Opera Houses are to be built in Toronto. The foundation for the Opera House, to be under the management of Mr. Morrison, has been already commenced. It is to be capable of seating over 1,500 persons, and will have all the modern arrangements and conveniences. It is expected to be finished by September.

At noon to-day nomination for vacant seats in St. Patrick's, St. Lawrence and St. Thomas' wards took place.

The Archbishop of Toronto last night gave the continuation of his lecture on his tour in Europe and visit to Rome. The Cathedral was filled to the doors.

There is an article in the Sun this evening commenting upon the management of the Northern Railroad, and taking Cumberland to task severely. It gives the history of the attempt to pass the Relief Bill, which was to wipe out the debt of $240,000, and anticipates that a stronger effort will be made this session to pass a bill to effect the same object.

After considerable discussion in St. Matthew's Church, it has been decided to affix a cross to the reredos.

MONTREAL.

Convocation of McGill College—Libels—Impediments to G. T. Railway—Stock and other Markets.

MONTREAL, March 30.

The annual convocation of McGill College took place to-day, 15 law and 31 medical students graduated, 18 of the latter were from Ontario, 11 Quebec, 1 Nova Scotia, and 1 United States.

It is said that the Herald case will be proceeded with on Thursday, the law officers laying an information, and the case being proceeded with at once without the intervention of the Grand Jury. It is likely that the Nationals and witnesses will also be proceeded against, as they have both copied the letter with comments. A prominent ex-Judge who had a little difficulty with Judge Ramsay some years ago, when their positions were reversed is popularly credited with the authorship of the objectionable letter.

As the train from Island Pond was coming in this morning a rail was discovered laid across the track with the evident intention of throwing the cars off. Fortunately the engineer saw it in time, and being on an up grade averted a very serious accident.

T. C. King, the eminent English tragedian closed, the most successful two weeks engagement ever played in this city. At the Theatre Royal, to-night, after the performance he was serenaded to the St. Lawrence Hall. He opens in Ottawa to-morrow night.

The stock market, this morning, was dull. Sales: Montreal at 198½ down to 198; closing at 198 to 198½. Maritime, 93; closing 92½ to 93½ Telegraph, 173 and closing at 178 to 178½. Royal Canadian at 102.

Bodies Found in Canal—Foul Play Suspected — Preparations for the Season Contracts.

ST. CATHARINES, March 28.

On drawing off the water from lock 24 on the canal, near Thorold, the body of a man was discovered, having the appearance of a contractor or a boss on the canal. His hands were bound behind his back. Strong suspicions of foul play are entertained.

On the level of lock 25 there was found the body of an infant not much decomposed, enclosed in a rough wooden box of pine.

Vessels in Port Colborne are preparing for the coming season.

Messrs. Hartwell, Helliwell, and Peterson have secured their contracts on the Welland Canal, the matter being closed yesterday.

The market this morning was very large the weather and roads being favorable for traffic. Prices ranged about as usual.

Stocks.

LONDON, March 31.—There is an unexplained panic by depression in domestic stocks, and prices for such securities have declined 3 per cent.

Grand Military Display — General Wolseley's promotion.

LONDON, March 30th.—The review at Windsor to-day was witnessed by immense crowds. The men bore evidences of a campaign, being bronzed and worn in appearance; but their condition was generally good, and their march past was unusually spirited. In presence of the entire force, Queen Victoria, assisted by the Princess of Wales and Duchess of Edinburgh, made Sir Gen. Wolseley Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath, and conferred on Lord Gifford the Victoria Cross.

The ceremony was most impressive, the troops repeatedly cheered for the Queen, the members of the Royal family and General Wolseley. In the House of Lords the Duke of Richmond, and in the House of Commons, Disraeli moved a vote of thanks to General Wolseley and officers and men of the expedition, supporting the motion with laudatory speeches.

The motion was unanimously adopted with cheers.

UNITED STATES

The National Bank.

NEW YORK, March 30—The Herald's Washington special says that the Merriman amendment to the Senate Finance bill, fixing the National Bank circulation at $400,000,000 will, in all probability be accepted by the Senate as a compromise for free banking. On the other hand the House will, by a vote of fully two-thirds, reject the Senate bill, and insist upon free banking without restriction.

In memory of President Fillmore.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Nearly every pane of glass within a mile of Fort Hamilton, on Long Island, has been smashed by concussions caused by firing huge Columbians in honor of Fillmore's memory.

SPRING CIRCULAR.

J. BERMINGHAM,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER AND REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Begs leave to return his best thanks to the people of Ottawa and adjacent Counties, as well as to Consignors at a distance, for the extensive patronage bestowed on him for the past six years. He can refer with pleasure to the many public acknowledgments he has received from those who placed property in his hands for disposal, and to remind all intending to sell, that quick sales, excellent prices, and immediate returns are his credentials. Sales at private residences will meet with best attention, and in the future as in the past, it will be his unceasing care to study the interests of his patrons. He would respectfully beg an early call from those about to sell out in order to have a convenient day named and necessary arrangements made. His thorough knowledge of the value of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, WORKS OF ART, MERCHANDISE, FARM STOCK, and REAL ESTATE is so well known and appreciated in this locality and elsewhere, that it is unnecessary to say anymore on the matter. He will merely add, that the same care and attention that has characterized his sales in the past will be given to those in the future Sales at Auction Room every THURSDAY during the Spring, commencing on THURSDAY the 19th inst, at eleven o'clock, and each THURSDAY at same hour. Persons having Second Hand Furniture to dispose of will do well to send it in at once for the Sale, and in time for each weekly Sale. Advances if required, will be made on Furniture Pianos, and other Goods sent in for Sale, or purchased in toto if required. Several Houses Buildings, and Building Lots in the City on hand for Sale.

GOLD IN NEW YORK 12¾.

FINANCIAL.

MONTREAL, March 30.

The quotations from Wall street to-day indicate a fairly steady market for stocks, Pacific Mail being about ⅛ per cent. higher, and Lake Shore ⅛ per cent. lower. Gold ruled at 113¾ to 113⅞. Interest was cheaper at 4 per cent. to carry. Sterling Exchange continues at $4.85¼.

The local money market is quiet, and without any special features of interest to notice. Funds for accommodation are in good supply, but business is inactive. Sterling Exchange is quoted at 109¼ to 109⅜ for bank 60-day bills.

There was not much done in the local stock market to-day, the principal transactions being in Bank of Montreal shares, which were disposed of to a considerable extent at from 199 down to 198¼, the closing rates being 198¼ for buyers and 198⅜ for sellers. Ontario changed hands at 109¾ and 109⅝, the latter being the present figure for purchasers, with 110 asked by holders. British remains at 150 for buyers. City was quiet at 102¼ to 103, and People's at 105 to 106. Merchants' was sold at 114 and 113¾ the former being now demanded, with 113½ offered. Toronto rules at 198¾ to 199 for buyers and sellers respectively. Royal Canadian is quotable at 101¼ to 102, and Commerce steady at 125½ to 126. Maritime seemed somewhat weaker at 92 to 93. Montreal Telegraph rules unchanged at 177½ to 178. Montreal Warehousing was stronger at 90 to 92½. City Passenger Railway seemed weaker at 180¾ to 184½. Other stocks and shares were for the most part nominally as quoted. The following is a list of to-day's sales:—

50 shares Bank of Montreal		at..198¾
20 " "		at...199
200 " "		at..198¼
137 " "		at..198⅜
35 "	Merchants'	at..114
65 " "		at..113¾

NEW YORK MARKETS.

The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemburg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, &c., under the headship of Prussia, into the triumphant and powerful empire of Germany; and the arming of Russia to re-assert her preponderance in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed but never relinquished designs on the great city founded by Constantine, and the vast but decaying and anarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the everchanging phases of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising a Divine Providence in all the proceeds and is, it looks hopefully to the vast conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and happier future for the toiling masses of mankind.

In our own country, a war upon corruption and rascality in office has been inaugurated in our city, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionised through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumscribed to any locality or any party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this beneficent and vitally needed reform, the Tribune will devote its best energies, regardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto honorably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people—the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of this liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them! Though not twenty years old, the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of Emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and humble from violence and oppression—to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilization—to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economising Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisans—such is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, the Tribune contributes its zealous, persistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially lucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who has $200 worth of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing else but what relates to his own calling and its rewards, we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as the Tribune. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our success of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1873. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

SAINT AND PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY LANDS.

THE ENTIRE LAND GRANT of this Company, unsold, consisting of about 30,000 acres, is offered for sale.

FARMING LAND

As good as any in the world are to be found in abundance, and will be sold on the most favourable terms to actual settlers. Some level and heavily timbered with Oak, Beech, Maple, etc. Some rolling with Beech, Maple, Rock Elm, etc. In fact, every variety of timber, soil and surface can be found.

The railroad is complete to Reed City (T. 17 N. R. 10 West), and there is only 48 miles to reach Ludington on Lake Michigan. This will be constructed as fast as the work can economically be done. Cheap land and railroad facilities are seldom offered together, and those who wish to secure homes will do well to apply early and take choice selections.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth down in all cases, and balance may be paid in three annual payments. Timber lands must be paid for before being cut. Farming Lands for actual settlement will be sold on payment of one-fourth in cash and the balance in five equal annual payments. Interest at the rate of seven per cent. on all unpaid balances, to be paid annually. All contracts and notes are made payable at Merchant's National Bank in East Saginaw.

THE ROYAL READERS.

A NEW SERIES OF ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH READING-BOOKS.

From Mr. M. Patterson, Rector of the Free Church Training School, Moray House, Edinburgh.

"Thanks for the Specimen of your new Reading Books and Sheets. They are admirable in every particular. Nothing, in my opinion, would more contribute to the improvement of Education than the wide circulation of these books, and the intelligent handling of them."

From A. Montgomerie, L.L.D., Principal of Ladies' College Glasgow.

"I have examined very carefully the 'Printing,' and Nos. I., II., and III. of the Royal Readers, and have no hesitation in saying that they are, in my opinion, incomparably the best English Reading-Books that have ever been published. The adaptation of the means to the end in view is perfect."

From T. Morrison, M.A., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, Glasgow.

"I have very carefully examined the Royal Readers. The plan is excellent, and the execution, if I may say so, even better. They are out of sight the best series of Reading-books published, and should very speedily be widely used. The illustrations constitutes an admirable features and add much to the value of the Readers

PINE LANDS.

OVER 300,000,000 FEET, well located, mainly on the rivers leading into Lake Michigan. The numerous streams and lakes surrounded with pine timber along the line west of Reed City, offer the best of locations for mills, where logs can be held safely free of expense, and free from the annoyance of Boom Companies. The railroad direct to East Saginaw and Toledo offers the best source of supplies, and never failing market for Lumber Shingles, etc., which may be delivered anywhere on the line.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL. The distinctive characteristics which have gained for Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL so much celebrity, the entire confidence of the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, and notwithstanding the active and unscrupulous opposition of many interested dealers, an unprecedented amount of public patronage may be thus concisely enumerated:—

I.—Its genuineness, purity, and uniform strength are ascertained and guaranteed.

II.—It contains all the active and essential principles that therapeutic experience has found to be the most effective in the operation of the remedy.

III.—It is palatable, easily taken, and creates no nausea.

IV.—It is borne with facility by the most delicate stomach and improves the functions of digestion and assimilation.

V.—Its medicinal properties and remedial action have been found to be immeasurably greater than those of any other kind of Cod Liver Oil.

VI.—From the unequalled rapidity of its curative effects, it is infinitely more economical than any which is offered, even at the lowest price.

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST.

The extraordinary virtues of DR. DE JONGH'S Light Brown Cod Liver Oil in Pulmonary Consumption may now be considered as fully established. No remedy so rapidly restores the exhausted strength, improves the nutritive functions or produces a more marked and favorable influence on the local malady.

The following high testimony to the efficacy of DR. DE JONGH'S COD LIVER OIL in Consumption is afforded by ALLEN G. CHATTAWAY, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., of Leominster:—

"Having for some years extensively used DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, both in public and private practice, I have no hesitation in stating its effects are very far superior to those of any other Cod Liver Oil. Nearly four years since, two cases of confirmed Consumption were placed under my care. In both, the lungs were a mass of tubercular deposit, and every possible sound to be heard in phthisis was present. The sole remedy employed was DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL; and now the patients are strong and fat; the diseased (abnormal) sounds nearly inaudible; and in the one case (male), hunting, fishing, and shooting, are freely indulged in, the patient expressing himself quite capable of undergoing as much fatigue as any of his fellow sportsmen."

GENERAL DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.

In cases of prostration and emaciation, where the vital forces are reduced, and where life appears to be even at its lowest ebb, the restorative powers of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL are remarkably manifested. By its administration the natural appetite is revived, and the functions of digestion and assimilation are improved, reanimated, and regulated; and, when its use has been steadily preserved in, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties have entirely restored health and strength to the most feeble and deteriorated constitutions.

The actual benefit derived is thus described by ROWLAND DALTON, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.S.A., District Medical Officer at Bury St. Edmunds:—

"In giving my opinion of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I have no hesitation in saying that I have not the slightest confidence in any other kind. The effects of DR. DE JONGH'S OIL are sure and most remarkable, especially in that broken down state of health and strength which usually precedes and favors tubercular deposit; and I never recommend any other sort. The Oil I have had from you was for my own use, and it has certainly been the only means of saving my life on two occasions, and even now, when I feel 'out of condition,' I take it, and like it, unmixed with anything, as being the most agreeable way. I could wish that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL would come into general use, and entirely supersede the Pale and other worthless preparations."

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir Henry Marsh, Bart., M.D., Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I consider Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil to be a very pure Oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

Dr. David Smith, F.R.S., Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light Brown Oil supplied by Dr. De Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the Oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness." (Extract from "Consumption, its early and Remediable Stages.")

Dr. Barlow, F.R.S., Sen. Physician to Guy's Hosp.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it be a very pure Oil, well fitted for those cases in in which the use that substance is indicated."

Dr. Lawrence, Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

I invariably prescribe Dr. De Jongh's Cod Liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

Sir Joseph Olliffe, M.D., Physician to the British Embassy at Paris.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and I have every reason to be satisfied with its beneficial and salutary effects."

Lankester, F.R.S., Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this Oil is secured in its preparation by the personal attention of so good a Chemist and intelligent a Physician as Dr. De Jongh, who has also written the best Medical Treatise on the Oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

Dr. Granville F.R.S., Author of the 'Spas of Germany.'

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Oil."

Edwin Canton, Esq., F.R.C.S., Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

McALPINE'S
DOMINION

CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Containing about 1000 pages.

At the solicitation of a number of merchants and others, the subscriber has decided to publish a Business Directory of the Dominion of Canada. This work will contain the names and addresses of every business man in

Ontario
Quebec,
Nova Scotia,
New Brunswick,
Prince Edward Island, and
Newfoundland;

each branch of business being alphabetically arranged.

The publisher has concluded to place the Directory at the low figure of $3.00 per copy, in order to ensure as large a circulation as possible, and so make it the very best medium for advertising.

Your advertising patronage is earnestly solicited, as the success of the present edition, and the continuation of the publication in the future, depend very largely upon the support received from advertisers.

A copy of the Directory will be included with each advertisement.

The printing will be executed by John Lovell Montreal.

Caution,

GENUINE PANCREATINE

PANCREATIC EMULSION.

The efficacy of these Medicines in the treatment of Indigestion, Bronchitis or Pulmonary Catarrh, Consumption, Wasting, &c., &c., depending entirely upon their purity and strength, Messrs SAVORY & MOORE caution the public against imitations of them which are set forth as possessing the remedial properties of the true preparations, but which are in reality either saponaceous compounds, ointments or pomades, without a trace of the Pancreatic principle and entirely unfit and useless as medicines. These imitations are calculated to produce serious disappointment and to injuriously affect the reputation which the Genuine Pancreatine and Pancreatic Emulsion have acquired. It is therefore highly important that purchasers examine the labels on the bottles for the names and Trade Mark

"SAVORY & MOORE"

The Original and only Manufacturer Chemists to the Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, H.I.M. Napoleon the Third, His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, &c.,

143 NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

Extract from an Analytical Report upon a Foreign Specimen of a so-called Preparation of Pancreatine.

"This compound resembled an Ointment or Pomade in appearance and consistency, and was flavored with Essence of Almond or Prussic Acid. It was strongly alkaline, indicating free alkali, which, acting upon the fat, produced the usual saponifying result; the whole forming a granular moist mass of fat, soap, glycerine and water. This ointment was physically and chemically different from the true Pancreatic Emulsion which I have also examined, and which, besides being rich in Pancreatic juice, has the delicate smooth appearance and consistency of fresh cream, is palatable and readily taken."

Enamellene

The most ordinary ironer is enabled to compete with the most skilful, giving the Linen the appearance it had when it came from the store,—new and beautiful. Goods done up with it keep clean much longer, thereby saving time and labor in washing. This is the most economical article that can be used, costing only about three cents to do the ironing of a large family. It gives the Linen such a smooth glossy surface that the dust and dirt will not adhere to it, so that it will keep clean much longer. It is very highly recommended by the Montreal Herald, La Minerve, Le National, and by all the leading American papers.

It is put up in boxes to last a family about three months, and can be had from all respectable Grocers, Druggists, many Dealers in House Furnishing Goods, 10 cents per box.

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
